PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

Nels Hokanson came down from Thief River Falls on Sunday last for a short visit with friends here.

Con Short is expected to return today from Alaska where he has spent the summer working his mines. This season has been an excellent one for getting out dirt but a poor one for cleaning up as rain has been practically an unknown quantity in the Klondike.

Ole Lee was among the number in from Garnes on Wednesday transacting business with Plummer's business men.

A. C. Mayfield and family drove in from their reservation home on Monday to do some shopping and visit with friends here.

Mrs. Con Short and Miss Maggie Short called on friends here Monday on their way home to Equality after a trip to Red Lake Falls.

S. A. Swanson was here yesterday from Red Lake Falls on business.

Dan Petterson was over from St. Hilaire Wednesday evening on business.

J. J. Alrick and wife came over from McIntosh on Saturday and remained until Monday visiting with his son, A. Alrick, and family.

Miss Annie Anderson arrived on Thursday from Grand Forks, where she has been working, to spend a few weeks at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Anderson.

Dan Shaw drove out with Ole Johnson Saturday evening from Red Lake Falls and called on friends here before going home to Thief River Falls. They had been taking part in a meeting of the county board.

Four cars loaded with steel were smashed up at Otter Tail on Thursday night and the damage resulting delayed all trains on the Soo line for seven or eight hours. One of the results was that Plummer got no mail yesterday until the arrival of the night train.

Miss Ida Tompson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson and Miss Selma Dahlstrom came up from Alexandria on Monday. Miss Tompson and Mr. Tompson are making improvements on their reservation claims and the entire party are enjoying some hunting and a visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Lanagar.

The board of county commissioners held a special meeting last Friday at which the Plummer ditch was ordered constructed and other routine business transacted. Some little opposition to the ditch was in evidence but did not amount to much. The advertising for bids will commence at once and it is expected that the contract will be let by October 1st.

As good cake can be made only with good eggs, so also a cake that is healthful as well as dainty must be raised with a pure and perfect baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable in the preparation of the highest quality of food. It imparts that peculiar lightness, sweetness and flavor noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, doughnuts, crusts, etc., and what is more important, renders the food wholesome and agreeable to young and old.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly, Thursday evening. Entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

A NEW FEATURE.

The Gazette comes to you this week enlarged to a twelve page paper, or more properly speaking contains a four page magazine supplement, which it has secured for use at a considerable expense.

The Gazette is bound to keep abreast of the times, and in presenting the extra four pages of reading matter at the same cost, we are giving more for the money than any weekly paper in the valley. But there is nothing too good for The Gazette's large family of readers, and unless we mistake the people greatly, the added features will be well received, and The Gazette given the continued patronage of the public.

Call the attention of your neighbor to the fact that The Gazette is a twelve-page paper, and furnishes the most for the money, and thereby confer a favor, not only upon the neighbor but upon your favorite paper as well.

The Courier, of this city, has discarded the all-home print plan, and last week appeared with patent sheets, printing four pages at home instead of eight.

The drainage ditches which have been put in the past few years have all more than paid for themselves this year. There is many a farmer who has opposed drainage in Red Lake county who is a sorry man today says the St. Hilaire Spectator.

Harry Ives sizes up the Crookston Journal's libel suit like this: "The Crookston Journal is being sued for libel by a Crookston land man. It is possible that they deserve it—not for what they have said, but for the sin of ommission."

Justice Lovely of the state supreme court has placed his resignation in the hands of Governor John Johnson to take effect Oct. 1. e Lovely's term expires Jan. 1. ontinuance in office till that time would mean his taking up his share of the work of hearing and deciding about two hundred cases on the October term calendar, and Jan. 1 would find the court in the middle of the work, where Justice Lovely could not complete it, nor could a new judge step in and be of much aid. It is understood that Governor Johnson will appoint District Judge Charles B. Elliott of Minneapolis, supreme court justice-elect, to succeed Justice Lovely for the last three months of the year, till Jan. 1, when Judge Elliott will take the place by right of election.

SIMONS FOR SENATOR.

The Bemidji Sentinel is authority for the statement that Representative L. C. Simons, of this city, will be a candidate for the state senate next year, and contains the following article in regard to his candidacy:

"It is given out now that Hon. L. C. Simons, of Red Lake Falls, will essay the task of breaking into the state senate next fall. Mr. Simons made good in the house, is ambitious, has money and knows the game. He would like the senatorial job—first rate—and then would like to go to congress; is not the worst fellow in the world and while he has some views on public questions that do not jibe he always wants to be right and always treats these questions honestly and fearlessly. An honest man wrong is a lot better than a dishonest man right for the reason that a dishonest man can be reached by anyone with the proper intent while an honest man can only be reached with logic and facts."

The Gazette does not presume to know whether or not Mr. Simons has any intention of seeking the senatorial plum, but it does know that if he was elected senator this district would have much better representation than it has had the past four years. The fact that Mr. Simons' "views on public questions do not jibe", as the Sentinel says, does not make him wrong, and his record in the legislature will show up as well as that of any member in the lot.

If Mr. Simons wants to be Senator, the people of this district can do no better than to elect him.

Red Lake County has been getting some heavy raises in the valuation line by the state board of equalization, in session at St. Paul the past week, nearly every article in the personal property schedule coming in for a raise. The complete table will be published and comments made when the board is through with their labors.

SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE PILING UP FAST

Say Mr. Advertiser! Have you any idea of the way Orange Judd Farmer is piling up its circulation? It's fairly humming and jumping along at a pace never before set by any Farm Journal. Think of it, we have added in the past five months

OVER 13,000 NEW SUBSCRIBERS

all paid in advance, and no chromos or premiums of any kind, just the hearty, vigorous sturdy farmers of the Central West, who want the best and are willing to pay for it, and we are going to continue "piling them up." How? Do you know that to-day we have in the field 45 of the best solicitors to be secured? We have them divided into 8 crews, working in eleven states and we will have covering the great States of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas and Missouri, the great Empire of the Central West.

90,000 SUBSCRIBERS, JANUARY FIRST, 1906

Do you want to introduce yourself and your goods to these well-to-do Farmers of the most prosperous farming section of the country? Remember, that when you place your advertisement in Orange Judd Farmer, you not only get your money's worth, but get more for your money all the time.

PROF. THOS. SHAW, NORTHWESTERN EDITOR

It is with great pleasure that we announce the addition of PROF. SHAW to the Editorial force of Orange Judd Farmer. His office will be in St. Paul and his special field the Northwestern States and Western Canada. Prof. Shaw needs no introduction either to the commercial Northwest or to our agricultural readers. He will now devote his entire time and his splendid abilities as an agricultural writer to the editorial columns of Orange Judd Farmer. In securing the exclusive services of Prof. Shaw, Orange Judd Farmer simply demonstrates again its policy of progressiveness in always securing the highest and best talent in the country, and it is this policy of broad and liberal management that has made Orange Judd Farmer the KING of all agricultural papers in the Central West, a paper in a class by itself.

Harry and His Auto..

Just A Story.

Friend Harry Ives, of the St. Hilaire Spectator, is wondering whether or not the Fates have conspired against him, or whether it was just a streak of ill luck that ever prompted him to buy a pesky automobile. In the estate of the late Nels Otterness was a light runabout, and when Harry heard that it was offered for sale, visions of moonlight jaunts with tender lassies, the pursuit of the evasive delinquent subscriber and many other pleasant ideas occured to him. and he straightway bought the "bubble." Harry's heretofore serene sailing and easy existence thereby immediately ceased, and troubles fast and thick came along at a rate sufficient to turn him grey headed. With a promise from the machine that it conduct itself creditably for at least an hour, Harry would smilingly invite some winsome lassie to take a bracing spin, when without warning the machine would refuse to work, and Harry and the aforesaid lassie would be obliged to "hoof it" several miles, until the genial Harry's popularity with the fair sex diminished rapidly whenever the automobile was in evidence. Undaunted by all these trials, Harry still swore by the machine, and when the assessor looked it over and wanted its value, Harry put it in at $100, what it cost him originally. But now the final and saddest chapter of them all. The state board of equalization in going over automobile values found Red Lake county way below some of the older counties, and straightway raised the "bubble" valuation 200 per cent. and as Harry's machine is the only one in the county, it was the "most unkindest cut of all." Just what effect of this will have on Harry is hard to estimate, but the Gazette has its ear to the ground and any unnatural rumbles from the St. Hilaire direction will be taken as evidence that Harry considers this the straw that broke the camels back, and is taking out his revenge on his innocent looking auto.

The Way to Do It.

A careful investigation shows us that it is not the advertising merchant who is continually growling about the competition of catalogue houses, but he who advertises not at all. The volume of business transacted by the judicious advertiser enables him to successfully compete with any catalogue house extant, but the non-advertiser's sales are so few and far between that it is impossible for him to do this. He must have greater profits in consequence of his lesser sales. This is where the catalogue house steps in. The catalogue house effects all its sales through advertising and the way to meet it is with its own weapon. Advertise judiciously and you will scarcely realize that a catalogue house exists.—Princeton Union.

We will take your money on deposit and pay 5 per cent. per annum if left with us 6 months or longer.

THE HABIT OF SAVING

Some have the idea that it takes a large amount to start a bank account. It doesn't. And for the convenience of some we take deposits as small as $1.00. It is the small amount deposited and added to regularly that makes you independent and ready for a rainy day.

Deposit your money with us and pay all your bills by check, the safest and simplest way, for when you give anyone your check, and they endorse it on the back, they give you the best kind of a receipt. Moreover a checking account with your home bank shows a good business principle.

We are as accomodating as the sound principles upon which we conduct our business will permit.

The Press wishes Mr. Kratka unlimited success.

The Great Northern passenger and freight were held in the cut north of the depot for over an hour Saturday evening, on account of a bad slide in the grade just north of the Bottineau avenue bridge. For about twenty feet, the embankment slid out entirely from under the rails and until it could be repaired sufficiently for the trains to pass they were obliged to wait in the cut. The grade at this place has given more trouble this year than it ever did before, this being the second bad slide in the same place this summer, and it is likely that a lot of piling will have to be driven along the sides to hold it in permanent position. A large crew of section men are kept busy here constantly, and the work of keeping the track in shape has cost the Great Northern a neat sum this year.

Representative L. C. Simons was a business caller at Crookston Tuesday. The following from the Times tells of the object of his visit: "One of the most important matters to come up before the commissioners was that of the claim of L. C. Simons of Red Lake Falls against Contractor Anderson who has charge of the ditch work work on 48 near Fosston and has the contract for the same. Simons was given an assignment of the balance due Antone Anderson from the county, to the extent of $800, for money advanced the contractor during the progress of the work. The fact now develops that there are a number of board bills and other individual accounts which some of the commissioners believe should be paid up and their endeavor to straighten up the matter is holding settlement up. there is coming to Anderson about $1,000 and the amount assigned Mr. Simons and if paid would not leave sufficient to pay the remainder of the bill held by individuals who have requested the county commissioners to protect them. Legally Co. Attorney Maybury informed the commissioners, there was nothing to do but pay the Simons assignment.

They tell us on the q. t. that there is one ambitious hunter in the city whose first experience with a patent shell ejecting shot gun proved rather trying on the nerves, and but for the explanation of the phenomenon that the aforesaid hunter might have "sworn-off" for good and all. It seems that he borrowed a gun from a friend, and after firing the first couple of shots broke the gun as usual when the empty shells flew out past his head with startling velocity. He surveyed the gun at long range with some surprise, but bravely tried it again with the same result. This was enough and he promptly deposited the shooting iron on the ground, and got far enough away to be out of danger and when his companion came up, anxiously asked; "Say, what kind of blamed shells did you give me, anyway, every time I open the gun to take them out they fly past my head like greased lightning and it must be that all the powder doesn't explode at once." From rolling on the ground in convulsive laughter due explanations were made by the companion, who was immediately pledged to secrecy but The Gazette will have to have a cigar before it can fully clear Si, of the josh.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichart.

New Towns in North Dakota.

The extensive railroad building now being done in North Dakota has brought tributary to railroad facilities an additional vast area of the rich agricultural sections of northern and western North Dakota. The Great Northern railway is building a number of new extensions from its main line northward notably that of the Sarles extension of the Edmore line, the Thorne extension running north from York, the Maxbass extension running northwestward from Towner, and a further extension of the Westhope line to Antler.

The building of these new lines has brought into being a number of new towns which are fully described in a pamphlet recently issued by the Great Northern railway. By application to Mr. F. I. Whitney, Passenger Traffic Manager, St. Paul, Minn., a copy of these pamphlets "New Extensions in North Dakota" or "New Towns in North Dakota" will be mailed to any address. 6w

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Saved Children from Possible Drowning.

Plummer Pioneer: Miss Maggie Short had an unpleasant adventure a few days ago near her home in Equality. There is a ferry across the Clearwater river there, a line being stretched over by which passengers in a boat are pulled across the stream. Miss Short was taking some children over and one of the little ones being in danger of falling overboard she let go of the line to catch the child. The boat was immediately swept down stream. The water was both deep and swift but Miss Short unhesitatingly jumped overboard shoulder deep in the water and pulled the boat and its load of children safely to shore. Her presence of mind and prompt action in all probability averted a serious accident as the little ones might readily have capsized the boat and been drowned.

ON A DIVERSIFIED FARM.

There Is a Greater Demand on the Farmer for Skill and Energy Than on Single Crop Farms.

The man that has to run a diversified farm has his "hands full," if we may use a slang expression that has almost ceased to be slang. The man that has to look after 20 different crops needs a mental development far above that of the man that has to look after one crop only. The man with many crops to look after has to acquire 20 times the information about crops that the man does that has to look after one crop only. On the other hand, he does not have to do so much worrying about the sale of his crop, as the community around any farm will largely absorb the crops of the farm where diversified farming is practiced.

On a diversified farm all the ground is kept in use, and sometimes several crops are grown on the same piece of ground in one summer. One crop may be dove-tailed into another crop, so that a new crop is being started before the old one is off the ground. The mixed farmer generally breaks the old Jewish commandment not to sow mixed seed in the field. He does not find that the growing of two, three or even four crops in the same field the same season damages his fields, provided his land is kept well manured and well supplied with humus.

On a diversified farm, declares the Farmers' Review, labor can be used to better advantage than on a farm devoted to the production of any one crop. On the diversified farm there is a demand for labor from one part of the season to another, and the owner is also enabled to utilize all of his own time. This is a great thing to the man that is running a small farm. In this day it is not possible to make money out of any establishment that is run on half time, even a farm.

A ROPE FIRE-LADDER.

Safety Device Which Every Farmer Should Have Handy in Case of Fire.

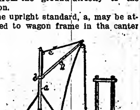
There is always danger of fire catching the roof of farmhouse or barn. Quick work will often save much loss. But if one happens to be alone, it is almost impossible to raise long, heavy ladders, especially the one needed to reach any place on the roof. A very convenient ladder to keep on hand is one made of light ropes, as shown in the cuts, suggests the Farm Journal. At one end are two hooks and a connecting cross-bar which any blacksmith can make in a few moments. To the center of the cross-bar is attached a long cord with a bit of weight fastened to its outer end. It is but an instant's work to throw this cord over the ridge-pole of a building, and having secured the weighted end upon the other side, to draw the ladder up over the roof until the hooks cross the ridge. Then pull the ladder back into place with the hooks biting into the wood of the saddle boards, and one can go anywhere upon the roof. This ladder should be long enough to reach the ground from any building. One person alone can raise a wooden ladder to the eaves, and with this rope roof ladder he has command of the situation. The "rounds" of the rope ladder need not extend to the ground, but the ropes should, that the ladder may be manipulated from the ground. It will be seen from Fig. 2 that a staple over the rope keeps the latter from slipping off the "rounds."

SHOCK CORN LOADER.

Device Which Will Save the Farmer the Back-Breaking Work of Hand Loading.

For the man who has loaded corn fodder from the field to the wagon with a fork all day until his back feels as though it had been pounded with a club, the arrangement shown in the picture will be much appreciated, says the Farm and Home. It is a device for elevating shocks or bundles of fodder from the ground directly to the wagon.

The upright standard, a, may be attached to wagon frame in the center or at the front or the hind end and braced in such a manner as will hold it rigid. The boom, h, is attached to a by an iron band or collar shown at d, so arranged that the boom may swing entirely around upright a, which may be secured to the bed of wagon by anchor chains or by setting into block as shown at c. The cable, e, is used to adjust the height of boom, elevating it to highest point in finishing out the load.



DETAILS OF CORN LOADER.

The farm telephone proves its worth in haying and harvest. It is quicker to telephone for repairs than to ride in and find they are not in stock.

ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

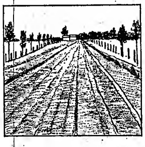
GOOD ROADS IN IOWA.

What That State Is Doing to Improve the Highways in Rural Districts.

The Iowa highway commission recently held at the Iowa state college an institute for the training of road officers in building and caring for the highways of the state, and the stimulus given to the interests of good roads will prove of lasting benefit to the state. Prof. W. H. Stevenson, in making report of the institute, says: "In Iowa there are approximately 100,000 miles of public roads for the maintenance of which the enormous sum of $4,456,000 in road taxes is raised each year, in addition to mulct tax moneys and the poll taxes. If this money were used by men trained in the science and practice of road building and skilled in business methods, as are the men intrusted with the affairs of great business concerns, it would be entirely possible to maintain every mile of roadway in the state in good condition and gradually to build hard surfaces along the main traveled roads without increasing the present road tax a single penny. Contrast the highways of Iowa of to-day with those which it is possible to have by earnest, thoughtful attention to this important subject. Without doubt there is a state-wide need for trained road builders and the good-roads school, within a few years, must prove a most potent factor in solving the good-roads problem.

ROAD BEFORE BEING TOUCHED BY GRADER.

"In the road demonstration work, three sections of earth roads were built, two with reversible graders and one with an elevating grader, all operated by experts. In addition, six kinds of road drags were exhibited and five were operated at the school. These included, besides the widely known King drag, the V drag, the Stevenson "ditch cleaner," the Russell road leveler and the Smith steel road drag. These drags were all shown and operated by the inventors, themselves, and it was made plainly apparent that all can do first-class work. So much interest was aroused in these road drags that the commission has decided to thoroughly test each kind on a section of earth road and to report the results in a bulletin.



SAME ROAD IN OPPOSITE DIRECTION SHOWING PROPER WIDTH AND CROWN.

"No feature of the many demonstrations in road construction attracted more attention than the building of a reenforced concrete culvert. At the present time many road experts in Iowa are carefully considering the advisability of displacing expensive and unsatisfactory wooden culverts with durable structures of concrete reenforced with steel. The commission has prepared standard plans and specifications of simple and inexpensive concrete culverts for distribution among Iowa road officers."

BREVITIES.

"No" is the shorter, but it seems easier to say "yes."

Land is a good thing to own, but the man "land poor" is to be pitied.

It is harder to get a crop in an overwet year than an unusually dry one.

Turnips make a good catch crop. Sheep will pasture them well in the fall.

A consolidated rural school means that the country boy and girl will have the same chance their city cousins now enjoy.

Rain barrels should be covered with mosquito netting or a little skum of kerosene to prevent their becoming a breeding place for the pests.

To Cure Clover Hay.

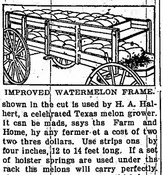
The way to cure clover hay, is to cut the grass in the morning as soon as the dew is off. At noon shake out the bunches, rake into windrows before evening dews get on it, and leave it lie until next day. Next day, shake out the hay as soon as the dew is off. You ought to be ready to haul, on a hot day by 11 o'clock or certainly after dinner. It spoils clover hay to get too dry. It should never be put in the barn when wet with rain or dew; but a little sap won't hurt it.

HORTICULTURE

RACK TO DRAW MELONS.

It Can Be Built by Any Farmer, and Will Prevent the Fruit from Becoming Bruised.

In drawing watermelons to market a rack which will carry them one tier deep will prevent many from bruising, which soon causes them to spoil and turn sour. A handy rack like that shown in the cut is used by H. A. Halbert, a celebrated Texas melon grower. It can be made, says the Farm and Home, by any farmer at a cost of two two three dollars. Use strips one by four inches, 12 to 14 feet long. If a set of bolster springs are used under the rack the melons will carry perfectly. If no springs are used put a thick layer of straw under the melons.



IMPROVED WATERMELON FRAME.

COOL THE FRUIT.

Successful Shipment of Fruit Demands That It Should Be Freed from Latent Heat.

Fruit should not be picked on a warm day and put immediately into cold storage or into cars for shipment. It should be put into some place where it will have a chance to cool off and permit the latent heat to work out, says the Farmers' Review. Putting fruit into close cars where no refrigeration is provided is a fruitful source of trouble in the shipping of fruit. The heat in the fruit causes rapid spoiling, especially with fruit that is of short keeping quality, like some of the apples that ripen in the summer. If the nights are cool, fruit can be cooled off by simply leaving it over night exposed to the air, but not to the dew. In other cases cellars are found deep enough to have a temperature of under 60 degrees. These can be used in such cases. In some parts of the territory over which this paper circulates storage pits have been dug into the side hills and these may be used as storage places.

THE PACKING SHED.

It Should Be Kept Free from Rubbish of All Kinds During the Fruit Season.

Did the thought ever occur to you that you probably allowed too much filth to accumulate about your packing-shed? People who eat fruit are just as exacting on points of cleanliness as are other food-eaters. No one would think of offering for sale a piece of meat with unwholesome looking stains on it such as spots of decay, mildew, red splotches, etc. Neither should a man with a crate of peaches bearing stains on the wood ask a customer to purchase. It is very wrong, declares the Midland Farmer, to offer unwholesome fruit for sale, and all unclean fruit is unwholesome. Germs of decay are germs of disease, and people are beginning to realize that it is not safe to eat that kind of fruit. Therefore never allow waste fruit to be heaped about near your packing-shed; have it carted away some distance. Piles of decaying fruit draw flies, insects and other unwholesomeness.

THE ORCHARD.

The wise orchardist will look carefully for tent caterpillars. When found, the quick use of a torch is an excellent remedy.

Cultivate the orchard every ten days, this month; thus conserving the moisture in the soil. Constant cultivation during a dry time is almost as good as irrigation.

Again we say: Be sure to muzzle the horses—yes, and the whiffletrees, too—when harrowing the orchard. Barked trees are as disagreeable on the farm as barking dogs.

The time to cut out blighted pear wood is to-day, to-morrow—any time 'tis seen. Watch for signs of this disease, and, when found, be sure to cut well below the affected part.

There is a temptation to make sauce of the early apples before they are really fit. Do not be in a hurry about it. Better wait a few days longer, than to run the risk of an attack of bowel trouble.

The pigs get hungry for something tart, as well as the rest of us. The apples which drop off are just the thing for them; but begin carefully. Not too many at a time. Pigs are quite likely to make hogs of themselves.—Farm Journal.

Care of Young Trees.

The young orchard needs looking after. If the trees were planted this summer, it is likely to need a little extra attention. The first summer is likely to test them severely. They are weak and need all their vitality to aid them in getting a good root system started. They should, of course, have had their tops severely cut back when they were set, but this may be done later if it were neglected at the proper time. Every useful branch is an extra tax on the tree that is so much waste.—Ohio Farmer.

FISH STORIES.

MR. BLACK.

White and I went out for trout about a week ago—
White's catch wasn't very heavy—mine was great, you know.
One I hooked—a fine two-pounder—nearly got away.
White was pretty sore, I reckon, at my streak of luck.
Said I was the luckiest fisher he had ever struck.
Guess I'll go again next week if I can spare the time;
Last week's trip was elegant—the weather was sublime.

MR. WHITE.

Black and I went out for trout about a week ago.
I was lucky from the jump; Black didn't stand a show.
Sixteen speckled beauties, sixteen! Isn't that a few?
Poor old Black, he tramped all day, and only landed two.
Here's a picture of a corker; two pounds flat he weighed.
Thought that I would lose him, though; a rattling fight he made.
Black and I went out for trout about a week ago.
I was lucky from the jump; Black didn't stand a show.

In the Nick of Time

By DUKE CUYLER

UPON the east branch of the Saco, away up under the shadow of Doublehead, Elias Towle built his cabin, and then commenced the work of clearing the forest about it.

His family consisted of a wife and two small children, a boy and a girl. The former was five and the latter three years of age.

Early and late the pioneer worked at his task, and one after another of the forest trees went thundering to the ground, letting in the golden sunlight where shadows had reigned before.

Thus through the summer he labored on unceasingly, only quitting his work long enough to care for the little patch of corn which he had planted in the springtime, and to keep themselves well supplied with game, with which the forest abounded, or with delicious speckled trout, which filled the waters of the river.

THE HUGE BRUTE PREPARED TO SPRING.

One sultry afternoon he quitted his work of felling the trees, and taking his fishing tackle he started off up the stream in pursuit of a mess of trout.

The boy begged hard to accompany him, but as he was going some distance, he decided that the tramp would be too much for him, and so bade him remain at home with his mother.

Promising to be home by sunset, he went down to the stream, and was soon engaged in taking the trout therefrom.

He nearly always had good luck in fishing, but now it was better than usual.

He thought that never before had he known them to bite so well. So he went on enjoying the sport, and filling up his string rapidly.

About half a mile above his clearing his attention was attracted by some footprints in the sand. Another glance told him that they were the tracks of a huge panther that had here crossed the stream. They had been recently made, perhaps not more than an hour before.

He could not resist gazing furtively around as though he half expected to see the animal peering down upon him from amid the foliage on the bank. But he saw nothing, and as he went onward the incident was soon forgotten.

The trout still continued to be taken readily; and so much engaged was he that he took little note of how fast the time was flying.

But at last, when the sun could no longer be seen in the gorge through which the stream ran, he suddenly bethought himself that it was time for him to be turning homeward.

So he hurried out of the stream, and doing up his fishing tackle, he started off for his cabin.

It was almost sunset now, and he knew he would not reach his home much before dark. But he would not be obliged to follow the stream down. It made several bends, which, by cutting across, he could shorten the distance.

He hurried along as fast as he was able, but the dusky shadows of evening began to gather around before he reached the edge of his clearing.

Once or twice he had thought that he heard some one calling, and now he recognized the voice of his wife. She was not at the cabin, but down by the edge of the clearing that lay nearest the river.

He gave a quick start when he heard the burden of her cry. She was calling for the children, and the tone of her voice told him that she was alarmed at their absence.

He hastened toward the cabin, calling to her as he went. With a glad cry she answered him, and in the deepening gloom he saw her hurrying in the same direction.

"What is it, Mary?" he cried, as she came nearer.

"The children are gone, and I cannot find them," she answered. "I have gone all about the clearing, but they are not here. I have called to them over and over again, but received no answer except the echoes until I heard your voice."

"Where can they have gone?"

"I know not, but I fear some harm has come to them."

"When did you see them last?"

"It must have been more than an hour ago. I was so busy at work that I did not miss them until a short time ago."

"What can have become of them?"

"I don't know, but I am almost afraid that they have tried to follow you."

He gave a great start at these words of his wife, for he suddenly remembered the tracks he had seen in the sand. What if they had wandered up along the stream, and the panther should discover them?

The thought sent a thrill of terror to his heart, and his limbs trembled from the agitation that shook his frame. But it lasted only for a moment, and then he recovered his self-possession.

Rushing into the cabin, he took down his rifle and was out again beside his wife in almost a moment's time. "Which way shall we go?" she said.

"Up the branch; they must have gone that way. Robert wanted to go with me when I started out."

"And he wanted to follow you some time after you had started. It must be that they have gone that way."

They hurried away toward the bank of the stream, where the darkness lay thick beneath the thick branches of the overhanging trees. There upon the sand they sought for the footprints of the missing ones, but the gloom was so great that they could distinguish nothing. In a little time, however, the moon would be shining brightly, for it was already rising above the tree tops.

They called aloud, but the echoes were the only answer that came back save the sound of the dashing water.

On they hurried along the rough, uneven way. At last they saw before them a patch of bright moonlight lying on the sand, where it came down through a rift in the foliage.

Here, alongside of his own, the father saw the footsteps of his children in the sand.

They were on the right trail then. Would Heaven save them from danger till they could clasp them in their arms?

Only a moment did they stop to examine the footprints, and then they hurried onward. Even now the panther might be watching them, catlike, or feasting off their flesh. The thought filled them with horror, and faster they went, clambering over huge bowlders or hurrying along the sand, seeking eagerly for the lost ones.

More than once they cast a troubled look toward some dark pool, as though they half expected they might be buried in its waters.

At last they were close upon the spot where he had seen the tracks of the panther.

Before them was a ledge of granite, which came down close to the water's edge. The moonlight lay along its face and rested at its foot, where was heaped a pile of dead forest trees.

Both the parents uttered a cry of joy, for here, nestled in each other's arms, they beheld their lost ones.

Calling them by name, the mother sprang forward, but suddenly arrested her steps, with a cry of terror upon her lips. The fierce growl of a panther fell upon their ears.

Glancing toward the summit of the cliff, they saw the huge brute prepared to spring upon the helpless children.

There was not an instant to lose. With the rapidity of thought Elias Towle brought his rifle to his shoulder and fired.

There was a wild shriek, and the panther sprang high in the air and fell at their feet. There was a fierce struggle for a moment, and then he lay outstretched—dead.

With a glad cry the mother sprang forward and clasped her children in her arms, with grateful thanks to Heaven that they were saved.

The panther was skinned and its hide stuffed, and ever kept after as an heirloom in the family.—N. Y. Weekly.

AUTOMOBILE PRIDE.

It Enables a Woman to Maintain Dignity in Her Ugly Garb.

Whether automobile dressing for women is beautiful or not is no longer regarded as important. It is now thought all but impossible, says the New York Sun, to make it becoming. At the same time there is satisfaction in its being so unmistakable.

"Wherever we go, whether it be to Manhattan beach or as far as Atlantic City," a woman said, "there is no mistaking the fact that we arrived in automobiles.

"Even if it be only a pair of goggles that a woman puts on the top of her hat when she gets out of the car, there is no doubt of the fact that she came in an auto.

"And with so many other women compelled to come in trains, trolleys or boats, there is a satisfaction to any woman in this superiority."

MUST GIVE CHECKS.

Local Grain Buyers Advised of New Law.

The local grain bnyers have received notice from Henry Feig, the enpervising inspector of conntry elevators, that they will be expected to live np to the letter of the law passed by the legislatnre of 1905, which necessitates that the grain bnyer mnst settle for each load of grain delivered at the elevator either hy check or storage receipt. This does not mean what is delivered each day, but each parcel or lot of grain marketed. Slips, memorandnms and dne bills won't go. You mnst have a check settling for the grain or a storege receipt as provided for in the law. The storage receipt states that the maximum charges for receiving, insuring, handling and storage fifteen days and delivering is two cents per bushel. After first fifteen days one half cent per bushel for each fifteen days or part thereof. for the first three months, after that one-half cent per hushel for each thirty days or part thereof. It also shows the name of the owner, the date the grain was received, the grade, gross weight, tare and net weight of each lot of grain mentioned in said receipt.

The law provides the same penalty and pnnishment for hoth bnyer and seller in case the law is not lived up to, namely, a fine not exceeding $100 or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding ninety days.

Bought Ponds.

If all years were as wet as this one, there is no nse to deny the fact that a large nnmher of the settlers who bought land on the Red Lake river, paid $4.00 and upwards per acre for water instead of land says the Sunbeam. River bottom land is liable to overflow at times but it goes away again soon and the land can be used, but this river has stayed over the bottom land all summer and made it ahsolutely worthless, either for pasture or meadow lands. A large nnmber of the farmers are of the opinion that if that six-mile log jam on this side of Thief River Falls was shortened up for ahout five miles it would allow the water to get out and the river would go down.

The prices paid for butter in 1905 was as follows: For Jannary, February and March, 27c per pound; for April, 26c; for May, June, July and August, 20c per pound. This creamery was built in the spring of 1902 and paid cash for by the shareholders and by donations from people in St. Hilaire. The creamery has heen doing a good bnsiness from the start and paid more for hutter than any other creamery in this part of the state. The creamery directors have showed their good jndgment by employing first class buttermakers like Joel G. Winkjer and G. L. Austin. Samples of the butter have been sent to different state fairs and credited with high scores. It shows that this part of the state is well adapted for dairying, and if all the vacant land was taken np for cultivation we wonld be making some wonderful showings.

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people yon meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.
If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liqnozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask abont Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.
We Paid $100,000
For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.
Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.
There lies the great valne of Liqnozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.
Germ Diseases.
These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and nncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

State Land Sale Here In October Promises To Be Attended By Many Homesteaders.

The Gazette has received a great many inquiries and requests for copies of papers containing the notice of the sale of school and other state lands here October 26, during the past week, and something like a hundred papers containing the notice have been sent out.

The sale is attracting a great many people to this section of the country next month, and indications are that most of the land will be bought by bona fide settlers.

The Gazette is the only paper in the county publishing the notice of the sale, and the demand for extra copies has been heavy.

ON SAD MISSION.

County Attorney Germo Goes Home To Attend Funeral of His Mother.

County Attorney Thomas Germo received a message Sunday announcing the death of his mother at Medo, Blue Earth county, and left the same evening via Dugdale and Crookston to attend the funeral, which was held Tuesday.

Mrs. Germo was past eighty years of age, and has always enjoyed good health, but when the decline came she failed rapidly owing to her age, and death came quite suddenly.

The loss of the friend and comforter through life from the cradle to man's estate, is hard to bear, and Mr. Germo will have the sincere sympathy of Red Lake county people in his loss.

SPECIAL COURT TERM.

Case of Buse vs. First State Bank Up For Trail.

His Honor Judge William Watts, accompanied by Court Stenographer Chas. M. Lohn, arrived here this morning and will hold a special term of court today to hear the evidence in the case of Ernest Buse vs. the First State Bank, of this city.

Attorneys Halvor Steenerson and Chas. M. Loring, of Crookston, will represent Buse in the action, and Attorneys Miller, of Crookston, and Boughton, of this city, will repre- the bank.

The case arises over the settlement of some old accounts between the bank and Buse, and it will likely take most of the day to finish it up.

PRAISES HANSON.

Crookston Times Gives New Banker Good Send-off.

Crookston Times: C. L. Hanson of this city who during the past six years has sold Watkins remedies from a wagon throughout Polk, Red Lake and Marshall counties has purchased an interest in the First State Bank at Red Lake Falls and will be assistant cashier of that institution. Mr. Hanson's entry into the work of finance in Northern Minnesota as stockholder in one of Red Lake counties biggest banks will be gratifying news to his many friends in this city. He has always been a hard working, preserving devotee to business and during his half dozen years of business life in this section has made hosts of warm friends.

Mr. Hanson last summer enjoyed a tour of Europe and visited at his old home in Denmark. He has disposed of his medical business in this section and is now at Red Lake Falls getting in touch with the banking affairs of the First State Bank, with which he is identified. Starting into the patent medicine business a poor young man Mr. Hanson has by dint of his energetic and persevering qualities pushed himself forward up the ladder and his present indication of thrift is but an evidence of the frugality and hard work which has characterized his life here during the past six years.

FIRST GAME SATURDAY

Local School Gridiron Warriors Will Clash With Husky Warren Team At Latter Place.

The members of the local high school foot ball team will leave tomorrow noon by team for Warren, where Saturday afternoon they will clash with the husky Warrenites in their first game of the season.

The boys have been getting down to active work in good shape during the last couple of weeks, and while loss of Fullback Marshall and Halfback Connaughty will leave the team a trifle weaker than last year, Coach Wyer and Prof. Chamberlain expect to see them make a creditable showing in their contests this fall.

A week from Saturday they will meet the heavy Grand Forks high school team, who last year was the only team that defeated our boys, and this contest can be expected to be one of their best and hardest games.

Games with other towns are being arranged for, and the team will play nearly every week for the next month and a half.

The team will line-up Saturday as follows:

NOLAN IS COMING.

Will "Speak a Piece" at the Metropolitan Tuesday Evening.

The Hon. W. I. Nolan, Minnesota's famous humorist and impersorator, will give an entertainment at the Metropolitan opera house next Tuesday evening, October 3rd, and the announcement of his visit here will be well received.

Mr. Nolan has appeared before Red Lake Falls audiences several times in the past couple of years, and his efforts to entertain have always been received with great enthusiasm and there is every reason to believe that the opera house will be packed next Tuesday night.

NEWSPAPER CHANGE.

Ed. H. Chase Out of the Firm of King & Chase.

The announcement was made the first of the week that Ed. H. Chase, who has been in charge of the Courier of this city, was out of the firm of King & Chase, and that a new man would arrive here this week in the person of Chas. B. Dean, late of Twin Brooks, South Dakota, to take his place.

The news of the change came as a surprise to the people here, as Mr. Chase had moved his family here and the impression was that he was to be a resident at least until Mr. King's term of office expired.

The Gazette does not know the reason for the change, but along with the people of Red Lake Falls sincerely regrets that Mr. Chase is to leave us, as during his residence here he has built up a very warm friendship among the business people. Ed. is a good business man, a fine fellow personally, a good band man, and both he and Mrs. Chase have proven desirable additions to the social circles, and the announcement that they will leave is by no means pleasing news.

Just what Mr. Chase will do is not announced but if it could be so arranged that this estimable family could remain residents of Red Lake Falls it would suit the people immensely.

L. W. Davis, a prosperous merchant of Randolph, this state, was here last week and made arrangements to open up a complete general store in this city about October 1st. Mr. Davis has rented the Groshoug & Blake building at the corner of Main and Second streets and will have the same fitted up in fine shape to accomodate his stock.

He intends carrying a general stock of dry goods, groceries, notions, etc., and will make a bid for a share of the trade. He is recommended as a first-class business man and good citizen, and will be welcomed to the business circles here with a wish for the best of success.

SHIPPING LOTS OF FLOUR.

Red Lake Falls Milling Company Dispose of Many Car Loads.

The Red Lake Falls Milling company shipped ten cars of flour from here last Thursday, consigned to to eastern and foreign markets, and every day send out from one to four more.

The demand for the popular "Mascot" is increasing all the time, and the company looks for a tremendous business during the coming fall and winter.

They are already receiving much new wheat and with the surplus from last year will have sufficient material to keep them running night and day all fall and winter. "Mascot" is a popular word the world over, and the increasing business of this progressive institution is gratifying to Red Lake Falls people.

OLD LINE ABANDONED.

Track From Wylie to Junction Being Tore Up After 23 Years of Service.

Crookston Times: Crews of Great Northern workmen and work trains are at work at the present time tearing up the track between Shirley Junction and Wylie. The rails will be used in siding operation on other sections of the road and the ties will be burned. Trains will be backed down to Wylie from St. Hilaire every day and will carry a coach for the accomodation of passengers. The work will put an end to the controversy being waged between Red Lake Falls and Thief River papers as to whether or not Red Lake Falls was to be again put on a spur track by the road. An official of the road here today stated that the train service of Thief River and Greenbush via Tilden had been very satisfactory and would be continued.

The beginning of the "end" on the old time road will be heard of with peculiar regret by the people of this section who remember when the line was built and the important part it has played in the life and development of the section of the state that it tapped.

PACKERS FIX RATES

RAILROADS HAVE LITTLE TO SAY IN REGARD TO TARIFFS ON DRESSED MEATS.

President Stickney of the Great Western Railroad Tells the Interstate Commerce Commission How the Beef Barons Do Business—Always Insist on a Big Cut From Regular Rates and the Carrier Must Agree.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—"The packers fix the rate," declared A. B. Stickney, president of the Chicago Great Western Railway company, testifying for the defense before the interstate commerce commission during the day regarding freight rates on live stock and live stock products from the Missouri river to Chicago. In answer to a question as to how the charges were made President Stickney replied:

"In fixing the rate on dressed meat we don't have very much to say. The packer generally makes the rate. He comes to you and always makes you feel that he is your friend. Then he asks you how much you charge for certain shipments of dressed meats. The published tariff may be 23 cents per 100, but he will not pay that. You say to him: 'I'll carry your meat for 18 cents.' He says: 'Oh, no you won't. I won't pay that.' Then you say: 'Well, what will you pay for it?' He then replies: 'I can get it hauled for 16 cents.' So you haul it for 16 cents per 100.' He generally tells you that if you want the business you must haul the meat for the price he names."

President Stickney denied that his road had paid any claims for damages or rebates since the Grosscup injunction.

PACKERS ARE FINED

FOUR OFFICIALS OF A CHICAGO CONCERN ASSESSED AN AGGREGATE OF $25,000.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Four officials of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Packing company of Chicago were fined an aggregate of $25,000 by Judge Humphrey in the United States district court here during the day. The fines followed a plea of guilty to indictments charging conspiracy to accept railroad rebates. The defendants were: Samuel Weil of New York, vice president of the company; B. S. Cusey, traffic manager; Vance D. Skipworth and Chess E. Todd, assistant traffic managers.

Mr. Weil was fined $10,000, the other three $5,000 each.

The four defendants were charged with unlawfully combining and agreeing to solicit rebates for the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company from six railroad companies.

Charges were made that the defendants conspired with each other in presenting supposed claims for damages which were in reality claims for rebates.

Mr. Max Sulzberger paid the fine, giving his check for $25,000.

BOMB EXPLOSION AT PEKING.

Four Minor Officials Killed and Many Persons Injured.

Peking, Sept. 25.—At the Peking railway station, as a train carrying one of the four missions ordered abroad to study foreign political methods was leaving, a bomb was exploded inside a private car, killing four minor officials and wounding more than twenty persons. The wounded include Prince Tsai Tche, who heads the most important of the missions, and Wu Ting Fang, former minister to the United States, both of whom received slight injuries.

The perpetrator of the outrage, who was in the car, was blown to pieces.

COLONEL WALKER DEAD.

Former Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army.

Indianapolis, Sept. 23.—Colonel Ivan N. Walker, assistant adjutant general of the Indiana G. A. R., is dead of uraemic poisoning. Colonel Walker was widely known in G. A. R. circles, with which organization he had been prominently connected for many years, having been commander-in-chief of the order. He was also prominent in state affairs.

Berlin, Sept. 25.—The official bulletin announces that 2 new cases of cholera and 2 deaths have occurred in the last 24 hours, making the totals 216 cases and 85 deaths. The fresh cases are at Dirschau and Wirsitz.

FRANCE IS INDIGNANT.

Offensive Treatment of Acting Minister to Venezuela the Cause.

Paris, Sept. 23.—The offensive attitude of Venezuela toward M. Taigny, the French charge d'affaires at Caracas, has aroused indignation in official quarters here. Although the ministry has not yet taken definite action it is said in the highest quarters that Premier Rouvier undoubtedly will demand that Venezuela disavow the offensive action and adopt a course conformable with the usual courtesies of diplomatic intercourse. Unless Venezuela apologizes soon, a naval demonstration may be made against her by France.

NAVAL ARMISTICE ARRANGED.

Russian and Japanese Admirals Agree on Terms.

Vladivostok, Sept. 21.—The Russian and Japanese squadrons commanded respectively by Rear Admiral Jessen and Vice Admiral Shimamura met in Koruiloff bay Sept. 16 and the admirals arranged the terms of the naval armistice. The conference, which lasted five hours, determined on the zones in which ships of the two nations are free to circulate, regulated the question of contraband and established a line of demarcation beyond which military contraband shall not be carried.

BAD FIRE AT BUTTE

PROPERTY VALUED AT ABOUT A MILLION DOLLARS GOES UP IN SMOKE.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 25.—Fire which caused a loss estimated at about $1,000,000 consumed the entire business portion of Butte lying between the Shodair block and Renshaw alley on the south side of West Park street and half destroyed the public library.

The Miner, Broadway, Harvard, Argyll and other buildings were licked by the flames, but good work on the part of the owners and the firemen prevented what seemed for some time a general conflagration, as a stiff wind was blowing flaming embers everywhere.

The fire departments from the Rarus, Cora, Parrott, Original, Gagnon, Anaconda, Silver Bow and other mines responded with alacrity and rendered great service.

REACH END OF ROPE

GAYNOR AND GREENE AT LIMIT OF RESOURCES IN FIGHTING EXTRADITION.

Montreal, Sept. 23.—A decision against Colonel J. F. Gaynor and Captain B. D. Greene, the American contractors wanted in the United States on charges of defrauding the government, was handed down by Judge Oulmet in the court of king's bench.

It is the general belief among legal men that Greene and Gaynor have reached the limit of their resources in fighting against extradition. The defense still has two weeks in which to begin further proceedings to act as a stay.

The decision given during the day was on a writ of habeas corpus based on the contention that Judge Lafontaine, the commissioner who held them for extradition, had no authority to act in the case.

WHOLESALE EMIGRATION.

Shiploads of Spaniards Going to South America.

Madrid, Sept. 21.—Dispatches from the famine districts of Andalusia say that entire trains of emigrants are leaving to embark for South America. Many families are abandoning their homes and farms. Some villages in Galicia have been totally deserted through despair of receiving the promised relief. The steamship companies announce that fifteen steamers loaded with emigrants will leave Andalusian ports in October. The press is urging the government to adopt energetic measures against wholesale emigration to America.

NOW NUMBER ONE HUNDRED.

Memorials to Mikado Against Ratification of Treaty.

Tokio, Sept. 25.—The emperor is giving personal attention to the memorials presented to the throne against the terms of the peace arrangement with Russia. These memorials now number nearly 100. The agitators who are trying to interview privy councillors advocate the refusal to ratify the treaty of peace and the public is almost unanimous in demanding the resignation of the cabinet. Even the moderates do not conceal their grief at the result of the negotiations.

MURDERED AND CREMATED.

Negro Woman and Four Children Meet Horrible Fate.

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 23.—The charred remains of Lulu Wise, a negro woman, and her four children were found in the smoking ruins of her home near this place.

The skulls of the woman and all of her children were crushed, indicating that they had been murdered and the house had been burned to conceal the crime.

DISSOLUTION OF UNION

SWEDISH-NORWEGIAN PROTOCOL AS AGREED ON AT KARLSTAD CONFERENCE.

Document Consists of Five Articles and Thirty-five Sub-Clauses Dealing With the Various Subjects in Dispute—All Differences Arising in the Future, Except Matters of Vital Interest, Go to The Hague Tribunal.

Stockholm, Sept. 25.—The Associated Press has succeeded in securing the text of the protocol signed at Karlstad Saturday by the Norwegian-Swedish delegates appointed to arrange the terms for the dissolution of the union of Norway and Sweden subject to the ratification of the riksdag and storthing. The historic document, which will become a treaty when ratified by the two parliaments, consists of five main articles and thirty-five sub-clauses. The first article deals with arbitration; the second with the neutral zone and the demolition of the fortifications; the third with reindeer pastures, etc.; the fourth with intertraffic and the fifth with common waterways. The agreement provides for the compulsory arbitration before The Hague court of all disputes except matters of vital interest for the period of a decade, with extensions for other periods of ten years unless two years' previous notice is given of an intention to abrogate it.

The treaty provides for a zone on either side of the frontier which shall forever be neutral and for the demolition of the fortresses within that zone with the exception of the old portions of the fortifications of Fredriksten, Gyldenloeve and Overhjerget, which may remain, but which are not to be used as fortifications. A headquarters staff and garrison may be maintained at Fredriksten to the same extent as prior to the erection of the new fortifications. No extension of the Kongsvinger group of fortifications will be permitted, nor of the new forts erected within ten kilometers of the old fortress of Kongsvinger.

FIVE DEAD IN COLLISION.

Crash of Trains on the Philadelphia and Reading Road.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 22.—Five railroad employes were killed and eight others seriously injured in a collision between a pay train and a combination passenger and milk train on the Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburg branch of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad at Mount Holly Springs. None of the passengers was injured.

The pay car contained about $50,000 in checks, which are scattered about the tracks. Officials of the company here say the accident was probably due to a misunderstanding of orders.

TROUBLE IN HUNGARY

BIDS FAIR TO RESULT IN A WAR BETWEEN THAT COUNTRY AND AUSTRIA.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Interest in diplomatic circles has shifted suddenly from other foreign complications to the crisis in Austro-Hungarian affairs. There is sharp surprise manifest here that Francis Joseph should have been so curtly cold in his reception of the Hungarian coalition representatives, and the belief is, though diplomacy voices it cautiously, that the situation in the double kingdom is grave and that revolution may break out.

The claim of the Hungarians that the industrial and political center of gravity has shifted from Austria to Hungary has in it much of truth, and the Hungarian representatives in asking concessions of the emperor are asking only that which it is more than probable they have the power to force if a resort to arms were made the court of last appeal.

TROOPS ENTER FINLAND.

Large Forces of Czar's Soldiers Sent to Strengthen Garrisons.

Helsingfors, Finland, Sept. 25.—Large forces of Russian troops have already been drafted into Finland. Over 1,200 men have arrived at Helsingfors to reinforce the garrison of Sveaborg, which is adjacent to Helsingfors, and garrisons at other points have also been reinforced by 700 to 1,000 men.

DEED OF INSANE MAN.

Fires Home and Cremates Wife and Three Children.

Madison, Ind., Sept. 21.—On Beattys ridge, in Switzerland county, George Ford, who is believed to be insane, cremated his wife and three children by setting fire to the house in which they were asleep. All four perished in the flames.

Workman Sawed in Two.

Bucyrus, O., Sept. 23.—Thomas Johnston, aged thirty-two, son-in-law of T. B. Carson, postmaster at New Washington, was sawed in two while at work. He was running a saw and stooped down to remove a piece of bark. The saw caught him on the shoulder and drew him against the teeth and literally sawed him in two.

SAVED BY THE POLICE.

Man Who Fires Into Street Car Narrowly Escapes Lynching.

Kansas City, Sept. 25.—Frank Mikeli, an Italian who shot into a crowded street car a mile from the business district because he had been ejected from the car, was chased by a crowd of men that gathered quickly and was badly beaten before the police rescued him. Mikeli sought refuge in a basement from which he was dragged by the crowd and it probably was due only to the arrival of the police that he was not killed. The bullet fired by Mikeli shattered the glass windows in the car above the heads of the passengers, barely missing a number of persons.

KILLS ONE, WOUNDS TWO.

Homesick Macedonian Turns Loose With Gun at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Sept. 23.—Homesick and enraged at his countrymen, who refused to contribute money to pay his fare back to Europe, Cantro Wassili, a Macedonian, drew a revolver in a lodginghouse filled with foreigners and began firing. Tonso Risto was killed and two men were wounded, one of whom will die.

Wassili was regarded as a tramp by his countrymen and they knew nothing of his whereabouts until he appeared and demanded money.

CUBANS FIGHT BATTLE

CONGRESSMAN AND CHIEF OF POLICE FALL IN POLITICAL CONFLICT AT CIENFUEGOS.

Havana, Sept. 23.—Official dispatches from Cienfuegos announce the killing of Congressman Enrique Villuendas, leader of the Liberal party and most able orator in the lower house, and the chief of police of Cienfuegos during a conflict between the two political parties, the Liberals and Moderates.

The government advices say the police had information that within the hotel in which Villuendas resided a quantity of arms had been deposited and they went to the hotel to investigate the matter. As the police ascended the stairs they were met by a party of Liberals, who fired on them, killing Chief of Police Illance. The police returned the fire, killing Villuendas and wounding several others. Intense excitement prevails at Cienfuegos and Havana.

EARTHQUAKE AND CLOUDBURST.

Disasters Continue in Province of Calabria, Italy.

Rome, Sept. 22.—Earthquake shocks continue in Calabria. At Amantea two women were killed. At Ajello many houses fell and twelve persons were injured. At Bruzio a church fell and there was further damage at Cosenza, Catanzaro and Monteleone.

There was a cloudburst at Bari, the wind capsizing a sailing vessel in the harbor and six persons were drowned.

At Portici, near Naples, there was another cloudburst and the floods of water brought into the town many large blocks of lava from Vesuvius. Service of the street cars was interrupted.

NEGRO WHIPPED TO DEATH.

Mob Takes Man From Cell and Gives Him Fatal Beating.

Huntington, W. Va., Sept. 25.—A mob of twenty or more, said to have been composed of the better class of people, at Williamson, the county seat of Mingo county, W. Va., broke in the jail door and, forcing open a cell, took Moses Lovern, a negro, across Tug river into Kentucky, where he was tied to a tree and fatally whipped.

A GREAT AWAKENING.

State Auditor S. G. Iverson believes that one of the greatest results of the present campaign of publicity for Minnesota state lands will be the awakening of Minnesota farmers to the value of their property.

"Owners of northern Minnesota land who have been willing to sell during the past two or three years, said Mr. Iverson, have practically withdrawn their land from the market during the past two months The great publicity given the resources and prospects of the northern part of the state has opened the eyes of land holders of the possibilities of that section of the country".

Minnesota lands are receiving columns of complimentary notices in the papers over the west. Minnesota papers are devoting space each week to notices of the land to be sold and a number of papers are issuing supplements containing the exact description of the land to be sold in their counties. Other commercial organizations are sending land descriptions broadcast.

The auditor's office is flooded with inquiries about the land, and every effort is being made by Auditor Iverson to get proper information into the hands of prospective settlers and land buyers. The sale of State lands in Roseau will take place on Oct. 26 and about 4,000 acres of land will be offered. See other column for full descriptions.

FEMALE WEAKNESS

PORTLAND, MAINE, Oct. 17, 1902.

I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation which completely prostrated me. Pains would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

Wilhelmina Sruvo
Treasurer, Portland Economic League

Periodical headaches tell of female weakness. Wine of Cardui cures permanently nineteen out of every twenty cases of irregular menses, bearing down pains or any female weakness. If you are discouraged and doctors have failed, that is the best reason in the world you should try Wine of Cardui now. Remember that headaches mean female weakness. Red Lake Falls Gazette

SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly. Thursday evening. Entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

City Treasurer Ovide Emard announces that he will be a candidate for re-election at the coming city election, and so far is the only candidate to announce himself for any office. Mr. Emard has been treasurer for several years past, and has always given satisfaction, and there seems to be no logical reason for a change.

It is the general opinion that Thief River Falls now has two of the best country newspapers in the state, and its a safe proposition that the town will be better advertised now than ever before. There has long been a crying need for good papers at the up-river city, and now that the versatile Sam Clarke has charge of the Press, and "Jack" Eastman has struck his proper gait, Thief Riverites have reason to be happy.

The Minneapolis Times suspended publication Sunday, the subscription lists, accounts, etc., being assumed by the Tribune company. The Times has been a very fair paper, but never came up to the standard of the Tribune and Journal, and for several months it has been known that they would eventually give up the ghost. Minneapolis and St. Paul now only have one morning paper each, and it would seem that with the excellent service given by these and the evening papers that the field is well covered. The patrons of the old Times will miss its daily calls, but they will be well served by the Tribune.

Says the Roseau Region "It will benefit you just as much to advertise on the inside of your barn as it will on the outside or upon board fences and telegraph poles. You are but throwing away mouey when you seek to obtain custumers by sticking up your advertisments along the public highways. Passers by take no notice of them. They see them not. But place your ads in a newspaper and they will be read and bring results. The live merchants have found this out and are in consequence daily increasing their advertising space. There is no questioning the fact that the great percentage of business goes to the people who advertise in the newspapers."

The Thief River News last week called The Gazette down because we stated that Red Lake Falls was the best town on the Great Northern between Crookston and Greenbush, and quotes agent Baker, of Thief River, as saying that freight shipments, receipts and passenger business of Thief River Falls was four times as great as that of Red Lake Falls. In a column adjoining John tells his readers how $1000 is being spent repairing the court house here. Comment is truly unnecessary. The court house repairs cost about $325, and as John's estmaie is several times too large in one case it is logical to presume that his figures in regard to the railroad business are likewise overdrawn, which brings the matter down to where we will probably have to admit that Thief River Falls does as much railroad business as does Red Lake Falls. All right, John, we're agreeable.

A circular issued by the state dairy and food department this week, says: "Considerable attention has lately been given by the department to the investigation of sauces and condiments. No startling results have been obtained except in the case of one particular sauce which has been accepted as standard for years. This is, Lea & Perrin's Worcesteshire Sauce, which was found to contain considerable quantities of salicylic acid as a preserving agency. Several samples of this product were collected and analyzed and each analysis verified the first result obtained. In view of the fact that this product is found on almost every grocer's shelves, it was decided to allow until Jan. 1, 1906, to clean up the goods now in the state. The manufacturers of this product have signified their intention to at once call in all the goods now on sale and to replace them at once with new goods which are legal. The same product will continue to be on sale, minus the illegal preservative, salicylic acid."

Lakefield Standard: We regret to see the Northfield News make the statement that perhaps R. C. Dunn "may be placated by the prumise of the railroads that supported Governor Johnson in the last campaign, that if the signs are propitious they will support him in 1906." The insinuation meant to be conveyed is altogether unworthy of so valuable an organ as the News and of so able an editor as Joel P. Heatwole. Mr. Dunn has been defeated, was the recipient of more uncalled-for abuse than any other man who ever ran for a state office in Minnesota, had to face more malicious falsehoods than falls to the lot of most men, was fought by the railroad and corporate interests of the State as well as most of the large jobbing and manufacturing establishments of the Twin cities and he took his defeat like a man. In view of those facts and the additional ones that he is not in the meantime a candidate for any office is not at present obtruding himself on the public, politically or otherwise, it would seem to be the part of courtesy and ordinary fairness and justice to cease casting such reflections as the above. Good common sense ought to suggest that since the railroads opposed Dunn so bitterly last year they had a substantial reason for doing so and the only reason was that Dunn could not be made a subservent tool to truckle to their interests. And if he was willing to go down then to defeat rather than become their pliant servant, it is quite foolish to think that be would truckle next year. Besides, those who know Dunn and his record know that he never will do so.

Incredible Brutality.

It would have been incredible brutality if Chas. F. Lemberger, of Syrecuse, N. Y., had not done the best be could for his suffering son. "My boy," he says, "cut a fearful gash over his eye, so I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which quickly healed it and saved his eye." Good for burns and ulcers too. Only 25c at W. A. THROUGH TO WARROAD

Given Out That Great Northern Will Build Their Line To the Canadian Boundary This Year.

Announcement was made in last Thursday's dailies that the Great Northern would extend their Greenbush line straight through to Warroad this fall, and connect with the Canadian road, making another direct line to Winnipeg.

The work on the line to Roseau is being pushed very rapidly, and the report is that the company is now buying right-of-way right through to Warroad.

This will give the Great Northern a desired line through a country heretofore untouched by a railroad and will mean a great deal to the country up there.

The plan as outlined will make this line of the Great Northern practically a main line from the cities to the boundary, and will result in much good to the entire territory.

ELEVATORS COMING DOWN.

Grain Firms Pulling Warehouses Out of Wylie.

The St. Anthony & Dakota and Imperial Elevator companies are tearing down their large elevators at Wylie, and will move them to some new town on the Great Northern in North Dakota. The Red Lake Falls Milling company have not commenced to tear theirs down, but will do so this fall.

The fact that the Great Northern has practically abandoned Wylie, is the cause for this move, as there is no positive assurance that train service will be continued there ultimately. It is more than likely that the grain firms were given advantageous offers to locate in Dakota, and of course when there ceases to be sufficient earnings to warrant train service the railroad and warehouse commission will be powerless to stop the road from abandoning the line.

The fact that the Great Northern has accorded the people of Wylie such shabby treatment is to be regretted, as a great many people have purchased property in and around there in good faith, and the abandoning of the line will mean financial loss to them.

But it seems that the powers that be can do pretty nearly anything these days without consulting anyone's wishes, and there appears to be no way to avoid their dictums.

VESLEY INDICTED.

Will Be Tried For Murder of Dahl Family.

James Vesley and Paul Fournier were indicted by the Beltrami county grand jury Wednesday, for the murder of the Dahls at Quiring in April, 1904. The state made a strong showing and the greatest interest has been aroused in the case.

The murder was the most dastardly ever perpetrated in northern Minnesota and relatives of the Dahls have spent large sums to secure evidence against the murderers. Both men were arrainged and both are making a strong defense. The verdict is eagerly awaited by the many friends of the Dahls in this vicinity.

New Priest at Terrebonne.

The Rev. Father Tapin, who has had charge of St. Anthony's church at Terrebonne for the past year and a half, was in the city Tuesday on his way to Argyle, where he will in the future have charge of the pastorate there. His place at Terrebonne will be taken by Rev. M. Barras, who has been at Argyle in the past, and who will hold his first services at St. Anthony's next Sunday. During the time Father Tapin has been at Terrebonne he has made many warm faiends and admirers who are indeed sorry to see him leave, but who will hope for his continued health and happiness. Rev. Barras, the new priest, comes recommended as a most excellent gentleman and will undoubtedly prove popular with the parishioners of St. Anthony.

Statistics show startling mortality, from appendicitis and peritonitis. To prevent and cure these awful diseases, there is just one reliable remedy, Dr. King's New Life Pills. M. Flannery, of 14 Custom House Place, Chicago, says: "They have no equal for Constipation and Biliousness." 25c at W. A. Schreiter druggist.

The Gazette $1.00.

Working on Vault.

Contractor James Brady is busy this week tearing up the floor in the auditor's office and getting ready to build the new vault ordered by the court house committee last week. The vault will be in the northwest corner of Auditor Ford's office and will be about 12x15, extending clear to the ceiling. When finished it will furnish ample room and protection for all the books and records of the office. The large safes in the auditor's office will be used in some of the other offices, and just now Nick and Happy are in the midst of a discussion as to their disposition.

Are Shipping Cattle.

Messrs. Groshong & Blake, of the Falls meat market, have commenced buying cattle for the market, and expect to ship their first carload on Saturday of this week. They have been out in the country considerable the last few days, and report that there is much desirable stock right now for the market. The excellent feed obtainable this year has put the cattle in prime condition, and good money will be realized through the sale of them this fall.

Reports Are False.

President Leo Steinert, of the Northern Minnesota Milling Co., calls The Gazette on the phone today, and desires the people to understand that the reports circulated the past week to the effect that the mill would not run any more and that no more "Gold Seal" was on the market, were false in the extreme, and that conditions were just the opposite. The mill will run right along, and Mr. Steinert says he wishes to thank the people for their patronage in the past and trusts that they may be favored with the public patronage in the future.

Study Club Plans Winter's Work.

The Study Club of this city has just begun their winter's work. The line of study this year will be "The Development of English Literature to the Seventeenth Century." The membership of the Club now numbers twenty three, and there is still opportunity for those desiring to join to present applications for membership. This Club meets Wednesday evenings at the homes of the members. The officers of the Club elected last spring are: Rev. H. W. Knox, president; Mrs. S M. Sivertson, vice-president; Mrs. Emma F. Marshall, secretary; Mrs. E. W. Chamberlain, treasurer, and Miss Ella Hanson, chairman of the program committee.

The Club has secured from the State Library Commission a "Free Travelling Library" of 50 volumes of books for general reading. This library will be kept at Reichert's Drug Store, where it will be open to the public without charge under suitable regulations. A new Library will be secured by exchange every six months or oftener. The Club has also secured a special reference library on English Literature which will be at the same place and like-wise open to the public. These libraries will soon be here and the book lists will be distributed and also printed in this paper.

Potatoes promise to be a scarce article in this part of the country this fall, and will likely bring a good figure before the new crop comes next year. The abundance of wetness that this section has been afflicted with this year has caused the potato crop to rot badly, and as a result there is bound to be a scarcity. Potatoes are now selling for 50 cents a bushel, and it is safe to estimate that they will be worth double that before the winter is over.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.

New Towns in North Dakota.

The extensive railroad building now being done in North Dakota has brought tributary to railroad facilities an additional vast area of the rich agricultural sections of northern and western North Dakota. The Great Northern railway is building a number of new extensions from its main line northward notably that of the Sarles extension of the Edmore line, the Thorne extension running north from York, the Maxbass extension running northwestward from Towner, and a further extension of the Westhope line to Antler.

The building of these new lines has brought into being a number of new towns which are fully described in a pamphlet recently issued by the Great Northern railway. By application to Mr. F. I. Whitney, Passenger Traffic Manager, St. Paul, Minn., a copy of these pamphlets "New Extensions in North Dakota" or "New Towns in North Dakota" will be mailed to any address. 6w

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. SOMEWHAT OF A SPRINTER

Several of them were lined up in front of the counter at the hotel, discussing foot racers. After the sprinting qualities of world famous racers had been defended with much warmth and everybody engaged in the discussion had reached the point where he insisted upon backing his opinion with a week's income, they submitted the whole question to Lynn Austin, who used to be a famous sprinter in his time, relates the San Francisco Chronicle.

"Well, I'll tell you," said Austin, squaring off for the encounter with a serious look. "The fastest runner I ever saw in my life was a fellow at Kearney, Neb. He used to run with the hose company, and he was certainly a prodigy. Did you ever hunt prairie dogs? Well, a prairie dog has so much speed that after you've landed a charge of buckshot in his vitals he is carried along by his own momentum and falls into his hole, for which reason no one ever succeeded in capturing the carcass of the animal after shooting him. This fellow down at Kearney, Neb., was the only fellow that ever succeeded in beating a prairie dog to his hole."

"What ever became of him?" said one of the interested listeners.

"Well, I'll tell you. He was out hunting prairie dogs one day. He got a bead on a prairie dog, sent a charge of buckshot after him and then started for the dog. Just as he was stooping to grab the dog the charge of buckshot caught up with him and the calves of his legs were riddled with shot. It crippled him up pretty badly, and he couldn't run after that."

GOOD WORD FOR SNAKES.

Original Observations of a Boston Taxidermist Concerning Reptiles.

"It is a great mistake to say the snake is of no benefit to mankind," said J. P. Siebert, a Boston taxidermist, recently, reports the New York Globe. "Snakes are a necessary evil. We once went to great pains to kill off all the alligators and muskrats. When the alligators were killed the muskrats multiplied tremendously, and being conscientiously opposed to river embankments, they undermined the walls, so that the river is frequently breaking through and flooding the country. Nature knew that alligators were needed to keep down the muskrats, but man thought he knew better. Now he sees his mistake.

"It is said that St. Patrick cleared all the snakes out of Ireland. If that is so Ireland has certainly not been benefited. Even Irishmen themselves admit that their country is to-day the most miserable on earth. Ireland is now full of pigs and there isn't a single snake. Now, I claim that no country ever flourishes where snakes do not bear a normal proportion to the other inhabitants. There are no snakes in Iceland, and look at the miserable state of the island. America is full of snakes and see the prosperity we are enjoying.

"I do not say that the snake brings prosperity wherever it goes, but I do say that when the original balance between snakes and the rest of the population is disturbed in any given country, that country is bound to be poor and miserable."

SLIPPERS HARD TO HANDLE

Those of the Japanese Are Not the Best to Climb Stairways In.

He shuffled awkwardly about his room in a pair of Japanese slippers sent from Tokio by his brother, the war correspondent, relates the New York Herald. The slippers had no heels; they only hung on by the toes; and they fell off if, forgetting himself, he once lifted his feet instead of dragging them.

Soon, though, he acquired the knack of walking about without losing the slippers; but he never could acquire the knack of ascending a stairway without losing them. So, in despair, at the end he would always take off the slippers and carry them in his hand before attempting to go upstairs.

"Even the Japs themselves," he said, "couldn't ascend a stairway with these slippers that have no heel clutch. You see, such slippers are only worn by the Japanese middle classes, and the middle classes have no stairs in their houses—everything is on the first floor. For shuffling about on the level heelless slippers are all right, but for stair climbing they are useless, and before stairways they must disappear even as before the locomotive the stage coach faded away.

"Without shame, therefore, I take off my Japanese slippers and carry them in my hand when I go upstairs, for I know that the Jap, if he had stairways, would be obliged to do likewise."

Too Much Horse Sense.

In the classes in equitation at Fort Riley the horses soon become as apt pupils as the riders. On account of this fact, says the Kansas City Journal, some of the most important lessons to be derived from this course by the men are lacking. In order to carry out the intent of the riding school the department has to bring in unbroken horses almost constantly. A carload of wild Indian ponies arrived a few days ago.

THE MIRACLE OF DAWN.

What it would mean for you and me
If dawn should come no more!
Think of its gold along the sea,
Its rose above the shore!
That rose of awful mystery,
Our souls bow down before.

Think what it means to me and you
To see it even as God
Evolved it when the world was new!
When Light rose, earthquake shod,
And slow its gradual splendor grew
O'er deeps the whirlwind trod.

What shoutings then and cymbalings
Arose from depth and height!
What worship-solemn trumpetings,
And thunders, burning white,
Of winds and waves, and anthemings
Of Earth received the Light!

Think what it means to see the dawn!
The dawn, that comes each day!
What if the East should ne'er grow wan,
Should never more grow gray!
That line of rose no more be drawn
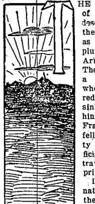
—Madison Cawein, in Ainslee's Magazine.

A Real Bad Man



THE yellow sands of the Painted desert flew past the car windows as the train plunged into an Arizona twilight. The glamour of a desert sunset, where the great red ball of fire sinks slowly behind the San Francisco peaks, fell upon the party of railroad officials who were traveling in the private car.

It was the most natural thing in the world that, under the influence of the exhilarating and peculiar beauty of the desert, which is all its own, the eastern men should start a reminiscent discussion of life in the wild and woolly west. Orders had been issued not to light the lamps in the cars until the twilight had given way to the darkness of the night. The fact undoubtedly added to the zest as the discussion of the bad man of the west and his terrible deeds grew more interesting.

"I'll tell you what it is, fellows," declared K——. "I don't believe there exists to-day a good example of the old-style 'real bad man' of the west. You read about 'em in stories written by those newspaper fellows who have never been west of the ponds in Jackson park and who are made up of three-fourths imagination and one-fourth froth."

"STANDING IN THE DOORWAY WITH BOTH CANNONS POISED FOR ACTION."

"If what I hear is true," protested one of the party, "there are, on the contrary, a few of the real articls left around these very same bad lands we're scooting through at this moment."

"Oh, pshaw," retorted K——. "It's just like the stories of the cowboys which we read every day. The real, simon-pure article in the cowboy line don't exist any more except in fiction. Travel the west over and you won't see one of him, and I know what I'm talking about. Hain't I eaten with him, bunked with him and helped him sober up many a time in the early days, when I was a freight agent in Colorado? They are not to be found, I tell you, and in this respect they are just like the typical bad man of the west. Oh, of course," he conceded, "there are a lot of counterfeits hiking around, simulating the real article, and making the tenderfeet believe in 'em. That's easy enough when a fellow is a tenderfoot, but if I should see one of those blamed, howling, counterfeiting coyotes hanging around I'd know him for what he really was."

"I dare say you are right," replied one of the party. "Of course, you are familiar with the west, while the rest of us are more or less green in this respect."

"I should say I was familiar with it," declared K——. "There isn't any kind of western character that I am unacquainted with, and I know how to handle them, too, the bad man included."

As K—— concluded the train slowed down for water at Winslow. The shadows were beginning to lengthen and there was a momentary lull in the conversation. Suddenly the air was rent by a series of yells which would have put to shame an Apache on the warpath. The terrible sounds, which were frequently accompanied by the crack of a revolver, evidently came from just outside the door of the private car.

"I'm bound for La Junta to drink the town dry and bust the bloomin' bank," declared the voice, which had a larger and more fanciful register than a steam calliope. "I ain't goin' to spend a cent for car fare. I own the train; in fact, I own the road, but the blamed old thing ain't worth owning. Whoopee, but I'm it with a big I. Why in —— —— —— don't some one try to stop me—me, the Arizona cyclone?"

This challenge was concluded with a yell that split the night atmosphere for fully three-quarters of a mile and was concluded with a revolver fusillade that did the western terror great credit.

"I guess he's one of 'em, all right," said Mr. M——, as another shriek set the telegraph wires to jingling a merry tune.

K—— opened the door of the private car end, towering to his full six feet and throwing out his Sandowic chest, demanded: "My good fellow, what is all this row about?"

"Well, I'll be blankety, blankety blanked if there ain't a real 'ristocrat," declared the bad man. "Say, pard, take off that whitewash collar and jine me. We're the boys who can do it."

The bad man laid a large, grimy "paw" upon the railroad man's shoulder and tried to kiss him. Upon the railroad man's resenting this familiarity the fun began. Out came two forty-fours simultaneously with another war-whoop which made a record.

"You onery, sneakin' coyote," shouted the bad man, "I like the looks of this blamed car and so I'll just take it and make you come along. And when I take possession you can bet you'll take off that whitewash collar."

Into the car plunged the bad man, emptying a couple of chambers in his revolvers by way of emphasis. This had the effect of scattering the occupants. M—— made a wild dash in search of the conductor, convinced that K——'s last hour had come. K—— made up his mind to the same effect unless he could reach his own revolver in the sleeping-room of his car. Making a run for it, he tried to beat the bad man to it, but it was no use. Like an avenging Nemesis the terror of the plains came charging down the center of the car, letting loose a picturesque flood of billingsgate directed at K—— and the whitewash collar. As he reached the trunk in his room and sought to grasp his revolver K—— glanced over his shoulder and saw the terrible westerner standing in the doorway with both cannons poised for action. Therefore he decided not to stop at the trunk, but to go right on out of the window, which he did. Landing upon his head and shoulders, the railroad man picked himself up and started for the rear of the train just as the bad man began to show his appreciation of the empty car by giving vent to a series of blood-curdling war cries.

On his way to the rear K—— encountered the conductor, to whom he breathlessly told the story of the bad man's invasion of his car. Without a word, but with a peculiar smile on his face, the conductor hastened to the private car, K—— following at a respectful distance. Without a moment's hesitation the conductor sprang into the private car just as the bad man had concluded telling the world that he owned it. When the bad man saw the conductor he dropped both revolvers and started for the forward end. But the conductor was too quick for him, and grasping the western terror by the coat collar he exclaimed:

"You measly bum, I've been looking for you all through the train. I told you thet if you ever bothered me agein I'd break every bone in your cowardly body."

Dragging the limpid terror to the car platform, the conductor administered a lusty kick which sent him plunging headlong into the sands of the desert. As the bad man picked himself up and limped dejectedly away the expression on K——'s face was a study.

"In the excitement of the moment you didn't recognize your friend, did you, Ed?" asked M——, laughing. "Is he the real thing?"

"Just couldn't bear to hurt him, I suppose," said another.

"Well, it wasn't up to Ed, anyway," declared a third. "He wasn't running the blamed train."

"Well, anyhow, boys," retorted the crestfallen general freight agent, "he's a bad man else he wouldn't hit the booze so hard."—Chicago Record-Herald.

TOMB OF THE UNKNOWN

There was a battlefield where myriads lay,
Some deadly wounded, many thousand dead;
And with a hurrying dust through all the land
Sprang the hot couriers; many a name they bore,
Spoken by Victory in her trumpet breath,
Crowned by the crimson Hour for deathless fame.
The mother gave her son; he lay forgot;
The wife her husband; in the cannon's path
Oblivion tossed him; and the maid betrothed
Sent her beloved; the earthquake of the bomb
Was the fierce sexton at his sudden grave.
Their names the couriers bore not. Far behind
The vulture hovered, seeking such, and found,
When the long death-list came at last it brought
The nameless names that break a myriad hearts.
The conquering leader rides in history;
The conquering army sleeps anonymous.

HER IMPRACTICAL SCHEME

By EDWIN PUGH

SHE was a bright-faced little woman —hardly more than a girl—and she wore a ravishing costume of silvery gray. Her hat was a wonder and a mystery, a confection of (apparently) dead autumn leaves on a furry, blue foundation. Her abundant hair was fair and fluffy; her rounded cheeks were becomingly flushed; she had the eyes of an inquisitive kitten and a bewitching mouth.

She stormed the almost impregnable stronghold of Billy Bosworth's private office without the slightest difficulty, and, carefully ignoring the hard, wooden chair that he mechanically offered her, ensconced herself in his own roomy, padded seat of judgment.

"You are Mr. William Bosworth?" she began, laying a slim gold-handled umbrella across his writing table and proceeding to unbutton her white kid gloves.

"Guilty," he stammered, ruefully.

"And you are what they call a literary and artistic agent?"

"They call me other things besides," he answered; "but—yes."

"Then you are precisely the person I'm looking for," she remarked. "You deal in authors, I believe?"

SHE WAS A BRIGHT-FACED LITTLE WOMAN.

"Let us say—their works."

"And artists, and lecturers, and famous folk of all kinds?" she continued.

"Yes."

"Do you—?" she hesitated, then amended her question. "Have you any use for Ideas?"

"I—yes—providing—"

"That's all right," she assured him. "You won't be able to find any flaws in mine. It—it's a sort of idea that ought to be worth thousands."

"But that is quite the commonest sort of idea," he murmured, uneasily.

"I perceive," said she, "that your business has made you a profound cynic." All her important words were pronounced with a capital letter.

"A cynic is never profound," retorted Billy Bosworth.

"I want a cynic," she remarked, with a brilliant smile, entirely disregarding his trenchant pronouncement. "Now, I am going to trust you, you know. I am going to tell you about my Idea, and then arrange with you as to our going into partnership or something. Or that you pay me a royalty, or a percentage, or whatever it is. I wouldn't do it, of course, but I am so fearsomely poverty-stricken, and I do so want a motor."

"Quite naturally."

"I have already bought the most perfect costume, and—and—really—a veil that—"

"You will pardon me, madam," said Billy, "but if you would kindly let me know—"

"Of course." She beamed upon him, panting delicately. "Last night I was dining with Lady Helen Twyford. You don't know her? What a privilege! And I was taken down by an undertaker's mute named Harold Farsyde."

"I gather—"

"Oh, Mr. Boswell, please don't gather. Whenever Josie—my husband, by the way, begins to gather, I know at once that he is going to be formal and unpleasant or something. And men are all exactly alike—aren't they—just as policemen and butlers are. Well, as I was saying, Mr. Farsyde is quite impossible, whereas—"

"But you should remember, my dear madam—"

"Oh, no! . . . Whereas young Dicky Garden is altogether charming."

"I'm afraid I haven't the pleasure—"

"Yes, it is a pleasure, I assure you. So handsome and tall! So witty! Dances so divinely! Hands tea just—just like a seraph. Dresses like an angel, in the most perfectly fitting tweeds. In the country, of course. Rides. Shoots. Sings. Plays golf and the banjo. But perhaps you were about to say that you don't know poor Dicky?"

"I was."

"You shall know him, though. It was to introduce him—and some other dear people—to you that I called."

"You see," she said, showing her dazzling teeth, "we are all so poor nowadays, aren't we? There's Jerry Harkins and little Kitty Mackney. Her losses at bridge—"

Billy stirred restlessly on the very uncomfortable chair to which he had been so unceremoniously condemned.

"What I thought was this," she went on, breezily. "I thought it such an awful pity that poor Dicky or Jerry wasn't Harold Farsyde."

"May I request you, madam—"

"To come to business? Of course. Well, what I have in my mind is a scheme—the most perfect scheme imaginable—for rendering people appropriate. We might form a company, and call it 'The Impersonators, Limited.'"

"I think I hardly follow you."

"It is quite simple, really. My idea is to make poets look like poets. To give an artistic tout ensemble to artists. Lecturers should look profound—all forehead and eyebrows and jaw—and not as if they were only interested in some small, suburban chandler's shop. Positively, you know, these clever people injure their own reputations by mingling with their fellow creatures. You literary agents ought not to allow your authors to appear in public; they damage their own sales. I am sure they do. And painters are always so in need of decoration themselves that you cannot possibly believe in their genius. And as for your reputed wits, I have listened to more epigrams at a mother's meeting in one short half-hour than ever I heard at a fashionable gathering of celebrities."

"You must have had some most unfortunate experiences."

"Not unusually unfortunate, I fancy. Other people quite agree with me. I was talking to . . . . But—as you so courteously do not say—your time is valuable, and I am by way of becoming a nuisance. I will hurry on, then, to my remedy. Why, Mr. Boswell, should all these famous people ever appear in public at all?"

"Why?"

"Yes. Would it not be better for all concerned if they were to employ other people to impersonate them? There are plenty of nice young men who would look far more like the authors of great works than the real authors do. And many of them would be only too glad to earn a few guineas by wearing the mantles of the great at receptions and balls and dinner parties and afternoon teas. They would, I am sure, stimulate sales enormously, instead of retarding them."

"You forget, madam, that the personalities of most of our famous people are already well known to the public. One moment. How would it be possible to introduce an altogether unknown person as the author of—shall we say?—Mr. Farsyde's book, either to a hostess or the casual reader? Mr. Farsyde's portrait has appeared in—"

"And you said you were a cynic!" she sighed.

"Pardon me," said Billy, "it was you who said that."

"Anyhow," she rejoined, "you ought to know that the memory of the common herd is the most short-lived thing in the world. And then there are always new men and women coming along. They, at least—"

"I have not quite done. . . . How, for instance, could I hint to my best author that he—is not altogether handsome? How could I point out to one of my artists or poets that he was essentially not picturesque—that his wild hair resembled rather the stuffing out of a cheap sofa cushion than ambrosial locks? It could not be done, my dear madam. The thing is not feasible. And my brilliant wits! What, in the name of all that is improbable, would they do to me if I told them, no matter how delicately, that their funniments were not funny? And then, my lecturers. Imagine their wrath at being compared to small suburban shopmen!"

"I didn't think—" the lady faltered.

"And that is not the worst of it, either," proceeded Billy, ruthlessly. "How am I to advise them to change their tailor or their dressmaker, their hatter or milliner, without laying myself open to the suspicion of taking commissions from tradesmen? And then, you know, these absurd people are proud of their houses and their back gardens. They plume themselves on their knowledge of horses and dogs. And, above all, how is it conceivable that I should criticise their wives adversely, and, in the last dread resort, their children, without provoking them to reprisals that might even be of a sanguinary sort? No, madam. Your idea has points, I admit, and, for some reasons I wish that it could be put into practice. But so long as life is ordered as it is at present, even the wisest and most inspired of mankind must have their share of human nature. Show me how to eliminate human nature and I am prepared to talk to you till the cows come home."

"I see," said the lady, sadly, reflectively. "But I thought, you know . . . They don't look human one bit, anyway!" And she smiled.—Chicago Chronicle.

Mrs. Patois, an aged lady who has kept house for Father Roy at Lambert for the past several years, died Monday from dropsy, after a brief illness. The good lady had been a resident of Lambert many years and was well liked by the people. The funeral was held from the Lambert church yesterday.

"Bill" Nolan, the ever-welcome entertainer, will "speak a piece" at the opera house next Tuesday evening. Ask the first person you meet what he thinks of Nolan as an entertainer and you will get a reply that he is the best ever. You will kick yourself the next day if you fail to hear him next Tuesday evening.

Little George Bourdon, son of Chas. N. Bourdon, had the misfortune to break the bones of one his arms Saturday, and the accident will lay him up for several weeks. He was riding a horse, and in some manner lost his hold and fell off, the fall breaking the bones of the arm and making a painful injury.

The Great Northern is hauling several loads of gravel from the Ives pit every day, which is being dumped into the sides along the line through here, and used to ballast the track. The large crew of men under Road master Began have been making things hum, and the road is fast being put in first class shape.

Conrad Hinre, of Fairfax, this state, arrived here last week with his family and several carloads of machinery and stock and will move onto the Will Marlow farm north of town, which he purchased through the Healy agency. Mr. Hince has eleven children and is well prepared to make a success of farming here.

The pastor of the Presbyterian church has begun a bible training class on Thursday evening at 7:30, which will be the special feature of the church work for this year. It is not too late to enroll, and it is hoped that many more will use this opportunity to become better acquainted with the greatest book of the world.

"Joe" Markham, founder of the Hotel Markham at St. Hilaire and Bemidji, and one of the prominent hotel men of this section of the state, died at Hot Springs, Arkansas, Monday, after a long illness. Mr. Markham was well known to many of the old settlers here, and was a resident of Red Lake county for several years.

Theo. W. Zalser, Red Lake county agent for the Watkin's Medical company, has about the finest rig ever seen in the county, and when he starts out shortly on his fall trip he will surely make an excellent showing. He recently had his wagon repainted and handsomely lettered, and has just purchased a beautiful new nickle-plated harness for his black team which gives his rig a strictly swell appearance. The Watkin's company has many patrons in Red Lake county, and Theodore will do a big business on his fall trip.

Ed. L. Healy is in receipt of a letter from State Auditor Iverson, asking that an article of 500 words be furnished in regard to Red Lake Falls, and Red Lake county's advantages, which will be published in the October number of the New York Commercial, a leading publication of the eastern financial world. The paper goes to a great many capitalists and investors in the east, and the advantages set forth in the article will undoubtedly bear fruit.

The Great Northern's popular agent at this place, J. L. Tracy, last Thursday celebrated the twenty-fourth anniversary of his entrance into the employ of the Great Northern railroad. Friend Tracy is one of the men that would have made a success of anything undertaken, and is today one of the most popular men on the system. Red Lake Falls is fortunate in having a man of his ability as agent here, and the Great Northern would have the wrath of the Gods upon their heads should they attempt to take him away from us.

Messrs. George D. Dayton and G. N. Dayton, owners of the Minneapolis Dry Goods company, accompanied by A. G. Myers, of Worthington, were callers here last Friday and were shown over this section of the county by Ed. L. Healy. Mr. Dayton is investing quite heavily in valley lands this fall, and found several choice pieces here that suited him and which he will buy. He intends putting men on every farm he purchases, and the interest of such men as Mr. Dayton in a country will mean a great deal towards its development.

Brunelle Bros. have their new brand of cigars on the market, and Red Lake Falls people can now burn up home made goods when they want to smoke. Their 5 cent brand "I Lead" is a fine article, and the "B. B." 10 cent cigar will be found equal to anything that can be found in the tobacco line. It should be a pleasure for Red Lake Falls people to smoke home cigars and in calling for the brands made by Butch and Clem they will be getting good goods and patronizing a couple of the finest young men of the city. Call for a Red Lake Falls cigar when you want your next smoke.

F. C. Leppert, of the firm of Leppert Bros. formerly of Wylie, was in the city last evening on his way to Sarles, North Dakota, a new town on one of the Great Northern extensions, where they have shipped their stock and will engage in business. The Leppert Bros. have been at Wylie for several years, and have by their hustling qualities built up a fine trade, but the practical abandonment of the town by the Great Northern made a move necessary, and they selected Sarles as a promising point. Romsos Bros., who have conducted a general store at Wylie will also move to Sarles, and the county will lose some valuable citizens in the departure of the Lepperts and Romsos Bros. They will have the good wishes of a host of friends for unbounded success in their new field.

Ed. L. Healy has an exhibition at his office some of the finest samples of corn ever seen anywhere, which he has gathered during the past week from different fields throughout the county. The varieties of field corn are dead ripe, and the long handsome ears certainly bear out the assertion that corn can be raised here in a favorable season. His sweet corn samples are immense, the collection embracing several of the largest ears it has ever been our pleasure to see, even in corn raising Iowa. The present season has been exceptionally favorable for corn and with the frost holding off as long as it has this year every season Red Lake county could be developed into a corn country equal to any in the world. Mr. Healy is an enthusiastic gatherer of samples, and his display of products of this section of the country is certainly a beautiful one.

DEATH OF OLD RESIDENT.

Mrs. M. Hennings Succumbs To Attack Of Kidney Trouble.

At St. Vincent's hospital in Crookston Tuesday morning occurred the death of Mrs. M. Hennings, an old and highly respected resident of Red Lake Falls.

A couple of weeks ago the good lady was taken seriously ill with a complaint of the bladder and kidneys, a trouble with which she had been afflicted for several years, and while she was very sick it was hoped that she would withstand the attack and soon be able to be about again. She grew steadily worse, however, and Friday was taken to St. Vincent's hospital at Crookston to undergo an operation. The operation was successfully performed, but failed to bring the desired relief, death coming early Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Hennings has been a resident of Red Lake Falls for a great many years, coming here in 1882, and has always been closely identified with society circles. The husband died some fifteen years ago, and for several years Mrs. Hennings conducted a private boarding house at her home on the North Side.

Deceased was born in Indiana in 1850, and came west when a young lady, settling here with her husband twenty-three years ago.

Three sons, William, Emil and George, all grown to man's estate, a sister, Mrs. Matthies, of this city, and numerous relatives and admiring friends are left to mourn the loss of a kind mother, sister and neighbor.

The funeral was held from the Presbyterian church this afternoon, Rev. H. W. Knox conducting the services, and a large number of sorrowing neighbors turned out to pay their last respects to one near and dear. The remains were interred in the cemetery east of the city.

To the bereaved family the tender sympathy of the community goes out in the fullest measure.

MUST BE GOOD.

Schools Must Be Up To Marks To Share In State Aid.

J. W. Olsen, superintendent of public instruction, has just issued a circular with regard to special state and in semi-graded and first and second class rural schools which he will send to the county superintendents and to the officers of semi-graded and rural schools. He calls attention to the ruling of the department that all teachers in these schools must hold state, not local, certificates of the required grade for the full school year of eight months. Limited second grade certificates are not second grade certificates within the meaning of the law, and do not comply with the requirements, but conditional certificates of either the first or the second grade are sufficient.

The heating, ventilation, outhouses, supplementary reading and library which are required to obtain the special state and must be put in in time so that pupils will have some benefit of them during the greater part of the school year and aid will not be granted unless these requirements are provided before Dec. 1. It is not sufficient to make these provisions during the latter part of the year, as that would comply with neither the letter nor the spirit of the law.

The matter of ventilation is given special attention by the department.

"Those in authority," says the circular, "should make a careful study of heating and ventilation before installing a plant. Adequate provision must be made for admitting fresh air from without in such a manner that it can be properly heated before it is thrown into circulation in the schoolroom, and also for drawing off the foul air from near the floor, through a shaft properly heated so as to create a current for this purpose. If necessary some expert should be employed to do this work. These improvements may seem costly, but the theory of our special aid laws is manifestly to help districts that expend large but needed sums to improve their districts.

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

Partridge Season Open.

The open season for killing partridges began Sunday, Oct. 1. Anyone desiring to hunt outside his own county must have a license from the county auditor. Not more than 15 birds can be killed by any one person in one day, and not more than 35 birds can be in the possession of any person. The selling of any partridge is strictly prohibited. There are a goodly number of the birds this year, especially in portions where there is hard timber. The wet weather in the spring interferred somewhat with the hatching of the partridges, and they will not be found in any large numbers near the swamps, as used to be the caso in farmer years. There are many down the Mississippi river, and also along the shore of Lake Bemidji and on to Movel and Turtle lakes.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will hold a bazaar early in December. Watch for full particulars to be published later.

Wedding Bells at the Court House.

Monday afternoon W. J. Pollard, of Beltrami county, and Miss Katie Lenora Olsen, of Red Lake county, were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony, the Hon. N. W. Tarrant, Judge of Probate, performing the ceremony which made the happy couple one. The handsome young bride's mother was present and gave her away, while Adam Zeh, deputy Clerk of Court, acted as best man for the groom. The Judge's office was handsomely decorated with bunches of Climax for the occasion. County Treasurer Hansen acted as assistant to the Judge. The ceremony was performed in the usual prompt and masterly manner. The ring ceremony was omitted. By request of the Judge the left hands of the contracting parties were joined at the crucial moment, which error was happily corrected in time, and at the close of the ceremony congratulations were showered upon the happy couple. They left immediately for their honeymoon in the east. The Judge is gaining a wide reputation for his efficiency in performing weddings, and is now so far recovered that he is ready for the next happy pair that need his services. In this connection he predicts an unusually severe winter and all who contemplate getting married should not delay but come at once.

Whereas, The Angel of death has visited our ranks and has summoned from our midst for the first time a charter member, our esteemed neighbor, Mary Hennings: Therefore be it

Resolved, That while we bow our heads in submission to the will of One who doeth all things well, we mourn the loss of a neighbor and unite in extending our heartfelt sympathies to the members of this bereaved family: and be it further

Resolved, That as a tribute of respect we drape our charter in mourning for a period of forty days, and that copies of these resolutions be sent to the sorrowing family, and a copy be published in each of the Red Lake Falls papers, and that a copy be spread on the memorial record of our camp.

Red Lake Falls Foot Ball Team Takes the Warren Aggregation Into Camp to Tune of 27 to 0.

The Red Lake Falls high school foot ball team went over to Warren last Friday, and Saturday met the Warren team in their first contest on the gridiron this fall, winning the game by a score of 27 to 0.

The Gazette did not have a reporter on the field and is unable to give a detailed write-up of the game, but from reports our boys made a very creditable showing, and give promise of having an unusually successful season.

The Warren team is considerable stronger this year than it was last, while our boys lacked one or two of their regular men, and while Warren put up a much stiffer fight and held the score down better, they could not get near the scoring line, and only once did they stand any show of crossing Red Lake's goal.

After the game our boys were entertained in royal style by the Warrenites, and speak in the highest terms of the excellent treatment they received while in the neighboring town. A dance was given in their honor, and everything possible was done to make them feel at home which our boys highly appreciated.

It is not likely that they will play a return game with Warren this year, but they all look forward to a pleasant meeting again next season.

DEATH OF CHRISTIAN LADY.

Mrs. Eli Germo, mother of Thomas Germo, of this City, Passes Away.

Mapleton (Blue Earth County) Enterprise:—On Saturday evening at seven o'clock, Mrs. Eli Germo, one of the best known residents of Medo, peacefully passed away. The deceased was born in Voss, Norway, March, 1831, was therefore a few months over 74 years old. She came to America with her husband and children in the year 1860, at the momentous time when the great figure of Abraham Lincoln was rising out of obscurity, and settled in Deerfield, Dane county, Wisconsin. Here the Germo family resided, a close neighbor of the youth Nelson, now senator, until 1866, when they removed to this state, settling in Medo township, where the deceased has lived ever since.

Widowed by the death of her husband in 1877, to her lot early in life, together with her oldest sons, fell the duty of taking charge of affairs and directing the education of her children, of whom she had nine—six of these are now living. She was as good a mother as ever lived, a practical christian, a thorough believer in education. Through her wise counsels, personal sacrifice, and material aid, all of her children received a high school training or its equivalent, and three of the boys, Severt, Charles and Thomas, graduated from the State University, and Mary, the only daughter, being a graduate of the State Normal school at Mankato.

She leaves to mourn the loss of a dear and devoted mother, Martin Germo, Salt Lake City, Utah; John Germo, Medo, Minn.; Peter Germo, Port Angeles, Washington; Mary Germo, Anaheim, California; Dr. Charles Germo, Balaton, Minn., and Thomas Germo, lawyer, at Red Lake Falls, Minn.

The funeral was held on Tuesday morning from the Norwegian Lutheran church of Medo, Rev. J. Olson, the pastor, officiating.

CAN HAVE INSTITUTE

Interesting Meeting Conducted By State Officials Offered The Farmers Of This Part Of The County.

The Gazette is in receipt of a letter from Dr. J. C. Curraver, who has charge of the work of conducting farmers' institutes throughout the state, saying that an institute could be held here the coming fall if the farmers and business men desired it.

The matter was taken up with Mayor Duffy, and a petition will be circulated among the business men and farmers, asking that such an institute be held here, which will be forwarded to Mr. Curraver. The petition should be liberally signed by everyone, as these institutes are excellent things for a community and mean much to the farmers.

Prominent speakers and demonstrators attend these sessions and much valuable information is given the farmers.

Push the movement to the best of your ability, gentlemen, and make the institute here one of the most successful ever held in the state.

GRAND FORKS NEXT

Local Foot Ball Team Will Cross the Red to Meet Foes Worthy of Their Steel.

The local high school foot ball team will go to Grand Forks Saturday where they will meet the husky team representing the high school there in a battle for honors, and it is safe to predict that the game will be worth witnessing which ever side wins.

Last year the Grand Forks team was the only team that beat Red Lake Falls, and then by a score of 12 to 0, so that the prospects are that the game will be fairly close this year. While Red Lake Falls has probably not as strong a team as they had last season they have a fast bunch of players, and as Grand Forks has not played a game so far this year it is safe to presume that they will not be as good as they were at the time of the last meeting.

The game will be called early in the afternoon and arrangements have been made to hold the N. P. train at Grand Forks until 4:30 in order that our boys can get home the same afternoon. It is likely that a large crowd of rooters will accompany the team to encourage them to victory if possible, and it is a safe bet that they will be well repaid for their trip.

Stores Open Evenings.

Commencing October 1st. the general stores, etc., remain open until 8 o'clock in the evening instead of closing at 6:30 as heretofore. The extra fall business makes this necessary, and the 8 o'clock hour will be in vogue until the first of the year.

COMPANIES IN A POOL

LOBBYISTS EMPLOYED JOINTLY BY THE THREE BIG LIFE INSURANCE CONCERNS.

Legal Staff Under Pay to "Look After Legislation" Before the Various State Legislatures—Special Counsel Employed by One Company in Its Territory and the Expense Shared by the Combination.

New York, Sept. 30.—In the legislative investigation of life insurance companies Alfred W. Maine, an associate auditor of the Equitable Life Assurance society, said that the Equitable Life, the Mutual Life and the New York Life companies had formed a pool "to look after legislation" before the various state legislatures. Andrew Hamilton, to whom President McCall of the New York Life paid several checks, the purpose of which the counsel for the committee, Mr. Hughes, has not yet brought to light, was one of the chief members of the legal staff for these companies and was employed and received money for services from the Equitable.

Mr. Maine told of the division of the country to be looked after by Mr. Hamilton in conjunction with E. L. Short and W. P. Thummel. Witness presented vouchers for moneys paid by his company to Mr. Hamilton and these showed that in eight years, from 1895 to 1903, the sum of $65,596 was paid to Mr. Hamilton for legal services.

Mr. Maine said he could not give any details of the duties performed by Mr. Hamilton nor of the committees he appeared before, beyond the fact that Mr. Hamilton looked after legislative matters for all three companies in the states west of Ohio.

Witness told of an agreement whereby special counsel was employed by one company in its territory and the expense was shared by all. He was asked if campaign contributions came under his observation and he replied they did not. He never heard of money being paid to influence legislators. He was excused, but will be called again to submit transcripts of accounts giving information he was unable to supply.

PACKER TO TESTIFY

MAX SULZBERGER WITNESS FOR THE GOVERNMENT IN CASES AGAINST ARMOUR ET AL.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Max Sulzberger of Chicago, vice president of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Packing company, and E. B. Fish, who is one of the traffic officials of the company, it is announced, have been subpoenaed by the government as witnesses in the beef trust cases to testify against Armour & Co. and the other defendants. Two other employes of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company also have been subpoenaed by the government.

Officers of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company pleaded guilty recently to charges of conspiracy to illegally obtain railway rebates. The offenders, through pleading guilty, escaped imprisonment, being sentenced to fines aggregating $25,000.

DEMURRER SUSTAINED.

Decision for the Government in the Case Against the Packers.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Federal Justice Humphrey has sustained the demurrer filed by United States District Attorney Morrison to the plea in abatement made by packers seeking to have indictments for alleged restraint of trade declared void. Judge Humphrey said he made his decision on broad grounds without taking into consideration technicalities which the government advanced against the plea in abatement.

The plea in abatement attacked the alleged secrecy maintained about the drawing of the grand jury. It was alleged that the names of the jurymen, after they had been drawn, were withheld from the defendants. This plea was supplemented by the declaration that it is the constitutional right of every man to know beforehand who is to try a case in which he is interested.

TELLS SENSATIONAL STORY.

Alleged Cause of Mysterious Murder at Cambridge, Ill.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Details of a series of sensations which are alleged to have smouldered for months in Cambridge, Ill., and which may explain the mysterious death of John V. Streed, a prominent attorney and politician who was found lifeless at his office door in Cambridge a week ago with a bullet through his head, were revealed here during the day. Dr. Byrd C. Powell, a veterinary surgeon living in Sandwich, Ill., came to Chicago and told a story back of the recent suicide of his brother, William D. Powell of Cambridge. This story discloses a chain of facts connecting the Powell and Streed cases with the virtual murder of a Swedish domestic in the home of a wealthy man in Cambridge more than five years ago. She was buried secretly, without death certificate or inquest. In the opinion of Dr. Powell Attorney Streed was murdered because Streed knew the truth behind the woman's death. Streed got the facts from William D. Powell, who committed suicide Aug. 26 last, after William Powell's home had been broken up and the guilty persons shielded, it is alleged, by an influential political friend. Dr. Powell declares that his brother was driven to his death by a clique in Cambridge.

The coast guard cutter Leyte is a complete wreck and eleven Americans and twenty-four natives were drowned.

At the town of Sorsogon fifteen natives were drowned.

The loss on hemp plantations is estimated at $1,000,000.

TRAINS IN COLLISION

ONE PERSON KILLED AND MANY OTHERS INJURED IN WRECK AT ST. PAUL.

St. Paul, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Clara N. Cross of Minneapolis is dead, nine persons are seriously injured and ten are suffering from slight cuts and bruises as the result of one of the worst railroad wrecks which ever occurred in St. Paul.

A train of thirty-five cattle cars on the Chicago Great Western road broke away from the control of the crew and struck Soo passenger train No. 7 just as it was pulling out of the yards headed for Minneapolis. Striking the second sleeper of the passenger the engine of the cattle train ripped two of the sleepers from the passenger train and hurled them over a retaining wall eighteen feet high into a gully twenty feet below.

All of the injured, with the exception of three, were in the sleeping cars. The casualty list would have been larger, but the train had unloaded the greater part of its passengers at the Union depot in this city.

Refusal of the airbrakes on the Chicago Great Western cattle train to work is generally accepted as the cause of the collision.

CAPTURE BOND THIEF

NEW YORK OFFICERS ARREST MAN WHO STOLE SOME VALUABLE SECURITIES.

New York, Oct. 3.—By the confession of Henry A. Leonard, a young clerk in the employ of Hallie & Stieglitz, brokers at 30 Broad street, the mystery of the robbery on Wednesday last of $359,000 worth of securities from the National City bank was cleared up Monday. Leonard, who lives with his parents at 586 East One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street, was arrested Sunday and kept in close confinement while the detectives continued their search for the missing securities, every dollar of which was recovered Monday.

The prisoner, who is only twenty-four years old, and who has previously borne the reputation of being an industrious and thoroughly reliable clerk, made the astounding statement in his confession that he had planned and carried out his scheme of forgery and robbery, not from any criminal motive, but solely to show by what a simple device the elaborate safeguards of New York banks could be set at naught. That this statement is true is in a measure corroborated by the facts in the case and is the belief of the young man's employers, by whom he was highly esteemed.

The labor troubles which have disturbed the St. Cloud granite industry for the last seven weeks, during the course of which the number of strikers reached 200 and the amount of money lost in wages and inability to fill contracts amounted to a sum in excess of $50,000, came to an end last week with the signing of new schedules and contracts by the Granite Cutters' and Polishers' unions.

Thirty-two thousand gallons of ale and porter were dumped into the Mississippi at Minneapolis last week under the personal supervision of Sam N. Nichols, deputy collector of internal revenue. This liquor was the remaining stock of the Imperial Brewing company, which went out of business July 1 and suspended the operation of its plant. The ale and porter had spoiled and the company, unwilling to pay the government tax upon it, had notified the internal revenue department to take charge of it.

ON A DIVERSIFIED FARM.

There Is a Greater Demand on the Farmer for Skill and Energy Than on Single Crop Farms.

The man that has to run a diversified farm has his "hands full," if we may use a slang expression that has almost ceased to be slang. The man that has to look after 20 different crops needs a mental development far above that of the man that has to look after one crop only. The man with many crops to look after has to acquire 20 times the information about crops that the man does that has to look after one crop only. On the other hand, he does not have to do so much worrying about the sale of his crop, as the community around any farm will largely absorb the crops of the farm where diversified farming is practiced.

On a diversified farm all the ground is kept in use, and sometimes several crops are grown on the same piece of ground in one summer. One crop may be dove-tailed into another crop, so that a new crop is being started before the old one is off the ground. The mixed farmer generally breaks the old Jewish commandment not to sow mixed seed in the field. He does not find that the growing of two, three or even four crops in the same field the same season damages his fields, provided his land is kept well manured and well supplied with humus.

On a diversified farm, declares the Farmers' Review, labor can be used to better advantage than on a farm devoted to the production of any one crop. On the diversified farm there is a demand for labor from one part of the season to another, and the owner is also enabled to utilize all of his own time. This is a great thing to the man that is running a small farm. In this day it is not possible to make money out of any establishment that is run on half time, even a farm.

A ROPE FIRE-LADDER.

Safety Device Which Every Farmer Should Have Handy in Case of Fire.

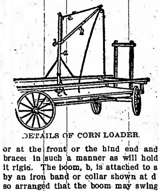
There is always danger of fire catching the roof of farmhouse or barn. Quick work will often save much loss. But if one happens to be alone, it is almost impossible to raise long, heavy ladders, especially the one needed to reach any place on the roof. A very convenient ladder to keep on hand is one made of light ropes, as shown in the cuts, suggests the Farm Journal. At one end are two hooks and a connecting cross-bar which any blacksmith can make in a few moments. To the center of the cross-bar is attached a long cord with a bit of weight fastened to its outer end. It is but an instant's work to throw this cord o[ver] the ridge-pole of a building, and h[av]ing secured the weighted end upon the other side, to draw the ladder up over the roof until the hooks cross the ridge. Then pull the ladder back into place with the hooks biting into the wood of the saddle boards, and one can go anywhere upon the roof. This ladder should be long enough to reach the ground from any building. One person alone can raise a wooden ladder to the eaves, and with this rope roof ladder he has command of the situation. The "rounds" of the rope ladder need not extend to the ground, but the ropes should, that the ladder may be manipulated from the ground. It will be seen from Fig. 2 that a staple over the rope keeps the latter from slipping off the "rounds."

SHOCK CORN LOADER.

Device Which Will Save the Farmer the Back-Breaking Work of Hand Loading.

For the man who has loaded corn fodder from the field to the wagon with a fork all day until his back feels as though it had been pounded with a club, the arrangement shown in the picture will be much appreciated, says the Farm and Home. It is a device for elevating shocks or bundles of fodder from the ground directly to the wagon.

The upright standard, a, may be attached to wagon frame in the center or at the front or the hind end and braced in such a manner as will hold it rigid. The boom, b, is attached to a by an iron band or collar shown at d so arranged that the boom may swing entirely around upright a, which may be secured to the bed of wagon by anchor chains or by setting into block as shown at c. The cable, e, is used to adjust the height of boom, elevating it to highest point in finishing out the load.



DETAILS OF CORN LOADER.

The farm telephone proves its worth in haying and harvest. It is quicker to telephone for repairs than to ride in and find they are not in stock.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly. Thursday evening. Entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

There is at least a grain of satisfaction in knowing that when you go down street dead "broke" that the next fellow you meet is in the same fix.

The Red River Valley Editorial association will meet at Crookston tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock After the business session the pencil pushers will be entertained at a smoke social at the home of State Senator A. D. Stephens. A good time is looked forward to, and a big crowd of scribes will likely be in attendance.

Perhaps it was a forlorn hope but those of us who knew him had faith in Sam Clarke's good sense and judgment, and hoped that his Thief River Press would refrain from dabbling in the mud puddles stirred up by friend Lee and Jack Eastman. But Sam got in last week, and tells about how Red Lake Falls people have robbed the county for lo! these many years. Sam is in a decidedly glass house when he is in Thief River Falls to be talking about "heelers," and you know the old story about people living in glass houses throwing stones, don't you?

ANOTHER STRIKE ON.

The typographical unions in many of the large cities at the present time are striking for a working day of eight hours and nine hours pay, says the Crookston Times. As a result a vast army of men have laid down their aprons and at the present time are out of employment. Many of these men have families depending upon them for support and a great hardship has been brought upon them as a result. No one denies working men the right of an organization for his own betterment. And the union has accomplished some good for its members, but the union is denying any man the right to work whether he belongs to the union or not and at all times denying the non-union man the right to work beside the union man encroaches upon the one great principle embodied in the constitution of the United States that all men are created free and equal. The laborer who holds his position upon his own merits and ability rather than upon the strength of his carrying a union card is the man best fitted for the place and the man who will be more successful and of greater value to his employer. The man who receives a working day of eight hours or an increase in salary because he is actually worth it receives a far greater reward than the man who obtains this concession by means of the union and the strike. Thus far the strike has been conducted along peaceable lines and the union men should be given credit for eliminating violence and all bull dozing tactics. Just the minute they resort to violence, or countenance or encourage it, whether they actually participate in the trouble themselves or not, just that minute they will lose whatever chance they may have of winning out. Strikes are unpopular with the public at the best, and all patience with strikers is lost the moment violence is permitted.

TRADE AT HOME.

The question of trading with the home merchant as against sending to the catalogue houses for goods is very pertinently discussed in the following article clipped from a Canadian exchange. It is worth reading.

"It is the duty of every business man to inculcate in the citizens of his town the desirability of buying from home merchants. This is not a matter for sentimental theorizing. The evil of patronizing outside stores is present, and it must be combatted by retail merchants with dispatch and vigor.

"It requires no argument on our part to prove that this is unfair. The whole fabric of civil life depends upon the organization of every element of the town for the common good The merchant invests more or less money in his stock and store; he pays taxes on this; he pays wages which enables his clerks to live and contribute their share to the general fund, the public institutions of the town are to a large extent dependent upon his generosity; it is through the mutual intercourse of farmers and himself that a market is established, the schools are supported largely through his taxes. Everything in the town which depends on good citizenship, generosity and enterprise is directly supported or largely benefited by his presence.

"What does the mail order store in the big city do for the town? Its proprietor pays no taxes, employs no men, has absolutely no stake in the place. The maintenance of good streets and public buildings is of no account to him. His influence on all sides is injurious. In the closing or weakening of the retail stores be does a double injury. Not only is the merchant ruined, but the numerous clerks and workers who are contributory to his business are thrown out of employment. So the town loses the benefit from this class also. The mail order cause is always drawing the money away from the town; contributes in return nothing.

"These are facts which should be kept before the people. It is not sufficient for the merchant to know that such conditions are not right. He should start a crusade against them and stir up public sentiment against the unfair practice. Let him, however, never forget that the best weapon to use in such a campaign is up to date merchandising. If possible beat the mail order man on his own ground."

NOLAN ON THE OUTLOOK.

Thinks G. O. P. Could Win With the Right Man.

Hon. W. I. Nolan, of Minneapolis, one of the cleverest politicians in the state, sees a strong chance of the Republican party winning in the next campaign, provided the right man is named, and while here Tuesday talked freely on the issues that confront the people to-day.

"In Minnesota we want a combination of republican forces centered upon able, energetic, wholesouled, friend-winning and honest man, who will be able to make an active, aggressive campaign, and win the hearts of his fellow men," said Mr. Nolan. "No dilatory, half hearted, luke warm tactics will go if the Grand Old Party is to be brought back to its seat of power in the state of Minnesota. Such a candidate as I believe would be capable of making the run which would win, has not yet been mentioned. I hope however that he will be before the political cauldron begins to boil too strongly in the campaign of '06. The man who is looking for political favors, generally is the man who will get left and we want some real honest, on the square citizen of Minnesota, who has a little personal magnetism to carry banners to victory another year.

"Unite the republican party of Minnesota on one good man and the present peculiar conditions of affairs will be relieved immediately an election is held. Nationally I believe the people including Root, Shaw, Fairbanks and others now clamoring for press favors in regard to their booms for the presidency will fall in the rear when the time of all times arrives. The man who is to be next president of this nation in my opinion has not been mentioned for the place, and probably will not be until a short time before the time of action," Mr. Nolan concluded.

Frightful Suffering Relieved.

Suffering frightfully from the virulent poisons of undigested food, C. G. Grayson, of Lula, Miss., took Dr. King's New Life Pills, "with the result," he writes, "that I was cured." All stomach and bowel disorders give way to their tonic, laxative properties. 25c at W. A. Schreiter's drug store, guaranteed.

Brick Work Done.

The brick work on the new Washington school will be completed this week, and Contractor Johnson has his crew of carpenters ready to commence work on the interior finishings and wood work, which will be pushed rapidly, and the building completed just as soon as men can do the work. The structure is a very pretty one, and the people can begin to get a fair idea as to how it will look when completed. It is figured that it will be ready for use early in December.

Indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and liver disorders, and all stomach troubles positively cured by using Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, 35 cents, Tea or Tablets W. A. Schreiter.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. The Kind You Have Always Bought

To Increase Grain Growers' Profits.

Prof. Thomas Shaw is recognized at home and abroad as one of the greatest experts the world has yet produced in all that relates to the practice and science of cereal culture. His writings seem to warrant these astonishing statements:

1—Growers of wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley or buckwheat can readily add from 5 to 20 per cent to their average yield per acre each year.

2—Along with this increase in production, will come improvement in quality.

3—Larger yields of better quality mean bigger profits, because—

4—These results need not require any extra outlay of cash or labor.

Many farmers are anxious to cooperate to thus increase their profits. If the movement becomes general, it will add millions annually to the farmers' wealth. Prof. Shaw agrees to undertake an organization for this purpose if enough of our readers are interested to warrant him in so doing. Those favorable to the idea should write Prof. Thomas Shaw, St. Anthony Park, Minn.: "As a grower of— acres of grain, I would like to join your effort to increase grain growers' profits, provided it does not call for extra cash outlay on my part."

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

DIFFICULT TO GRADE

THE MULE IS A DIFFICULT PRODUCT TO CLASSIFY.

Missouri Stock Dealer Gives Some Points of Interest Regarding the Hybrid Output.

Kansas City, Mo.—"The classification of Missouri's great product, the mule, is the hardest of all live stock," says John Grant, of the firm of Walcott, Beers & Grant, at the stock yards.

"To most people the animal is simply a mule, with a strong inclination to emphasize his presence with a kick. To most buyers he is a good or bad, large or small, smooth or rough, will probably bring a certain price on the market or will not be wanted at all. While among dealers who supply the different demands he is classified according to weight, bone, size, color, age, mouth, teeth, broken or unbroken, length and breadth, and also in regard to the locality of the buyer.

"In the first place, green, unbroken mules are never wanted. Once in awhile we receive a few and generally have to sell them at a sacrifice. The principal classes of mules known to the market are: Cotton mules, lumber mules, railroad mules, sugar mules, farm mules, levee mules, city mules and miners. Miners are classed as surface and pit mules.

"Cotton mules are the commonest kind in regard to numbers. They range from 13 to 16 hands, and from 4 to 7 years old are the best ages. Their build makes little difference so long as they are smooth. In price they range from $50 to $165. Lumber mules are the largest, heavy boned, rugged grades, 15.3 to 16.2 hands or better. They are used in the big lumber camps for logging, and must have the weight for good heavy pulling. In price this class ranges up to $250.

"Similar to the lumber mule is the railroader. Some lighter, but on the good heavy order, and from $15 to $20 cheaper. They are used in grading, hauling and all the work that is known in the construction of railroads. Sugar mules belong to the fancy class. They must be smooth, built rangy, small head and neck, small bones. In height from 15 to 16 hands, and in price from $165 to $210. Farm mules vary in size, but are formed from the rejected ones of the foregoing classes. Their prices range $10 to $25 lower.

"The miners are the hardest class to supply. They must be either dark bay or black in color. White and sorrel mules are never used. When the mines have long shafts, in the Pennsylvania coal regions especially, they say a white mule resembles a ghost and frightens the other mules beyond control. The pitters must be long in body, heavy boned and have good weight. They range from 12 to 15.2 hands and bring from $135 to $200, while for any other trade they would bring $50 less. Surface mules are used on the long hauls on top of ground. They are heavy, but taller, and have not such large bones.

"Levee mules, as the word implies, are used near steamboats and docks for the heavy work. They are generally single workers and must be of the rugged class. Their looks matter little so long as they are sound and fit for hard work. A city mule includes the small, light grades, such as you see on delivery and transfer wagons. The high prices in the last year have reduced the number greatly.

"The government buys all classes of mules, but that is done according to contract and prices hold a wide range. They never buy a low-priced animal and they are rigid in their examinations."

ALL ONE PIECE OF WOOD.

Remarkable Feature of the Washington Exhibit at the Portland Exposition.

Portland, Ore.—A cross section cut from a fir tree 13 feet in diameter forms the floor of an office of tree furniture which has attracted a great deal of attention in the Washington state building at the Lewis and Clark exposition. The big tree from which the 13-foot section was cut grew in Snohomish county, Washington.

The cross section is about a foot thick with the upper surface polished, so that it makes an excellent floor. On it are several other cross sections of smaller trees, which do service as chairs. They are of cedar. Some of the stumps thus utilized are cut off and polished to form stools, while others have been so carved as to make a comfortable chair with a back.

The oddest feature of this exhibit is a typewriter desk made of a single fir log standing on end. The log forms a cylinder about four feet high and three feet thick, with a polished top. One side has been cut away underneath, so that there is plenty of room for the stenographer's knees.

In another part of the Snohomish section a log six feet in diameter has been used to make a seat. The log has been carved so that a post a foot in diameter is left in the center to form a back, and the effect is similar to that produced when a seat is built around a tree.

Club of Deaf Persons.

One of the most curious clubs on record has recently been formed by society ladies in Berlin. The principal condition for membership is that the applicant must be deaf. The club has over 100 members, who meet regularly once a week in handsomely furnished rooms in the Wilhelm Strasse, where they converse by means of ear trumpets and the sign language and drink tea.

GOOD RECRUITING FIELD.

The Door City to the West Gets First-Class Men for Uncle Sam's Army.

Kansas City, Mo.—The local army and marine recruiting stations have, in the past six months, enlisted more than 625 men in the service. The army station, of course, takes the larger part of the recruits, but the marine service has been strengthened by 153 men from Kansas City and vicinity since January 1.

Sergt. J. R. Thompson, in charge of the marine office here, has not been looking for new men for the past two months. The marine corps has been full and only the most desirable applicants have been examined. The corps is to be greatly enlarged in the next few months, however, and, beginning to-day, Sergt. Thompson wants to send out 50 men a month.

The army station has been kept busy all the year. On average 80 men a month have been sent to army posts throughout the United States. About one-third of these were old soldiers who reenlisted. These recruits have been fairly evenly divided among the cavalry, infantry and artillery. A good number have been sent to the engineer, hospital and signal corps.

The class of recruits sent out from here has been exceedingly good, the recruiting officer says. Very few of the army recruits have to draw out clothing before they are sent to their post.

"Most of the men we take in the marine corps," said Sergt. Thompson, "are well dressed and have money. We try to keep out all the other kinds. When a man comes in here wearing respectable clothes and carrying himself as though he meant business, we encourage him to join. When a slouchy, tough-looking man who needs a shave and a bath comes shuffling in and asks: 'What yer payin'?' we don't rush up and grasp his hand as we would had he looked frankly at us and said: 'I want to enlist; can you send me to-day?'"

"Farmers make the best recruits," said Sergt. J. A. Stanley, of the army station. "We get lots of men from the little towns within 100 miles of Kansas City, and they are always the right kind. They are strong, willing to work and are happier at an army post than a city man is."

A naval recruiting station will be opened here in a few weeks.

STOP WHITE SLAVE TRADE

European Countries Agree to Suppress the Importation of Girls.

Berlin.—The Reichsanzeiger publishes the details of the treaty entered into between 12 European countries, which, having been duly ratified, went into effect July 18. The contracting states obligate themselves to establish each a bureau for the collection of information regarding the solicitation of women and girls for immoral purposes abroad. These bureaus are to exchange information among themselves and a strict watch is to be kept particularly at large railway stations and sea ports, to detect persons engaged in the white slave trade. Efforts are to be set on foot among fallen women for the purpose of obtaining information about those engaged in the traffic.

The contracting states further obligate themselves financially to assist girls enticed abroad to return home. Agencies and persons advertising positions abroad for women are to be subjected to special police attention.

Most of the signatories include their colonies, but Germany, Great Britain, Denmark and Spain reserve decision regarding their colonies until a later period.

The Reichsanzeiger also prints the proclamation issued by Imperial Chancellor Von Bulow announcing that the treaty has been ratified and is in effect.

While no American state is party to the treaty, it is understood that efforts to suppress the trade will apply equally to those who try to entice girls to North or South America.

CARP IN CABBAGE PATCH.

Extraordinary Crop Raised by a Farmer in New York State.

Canandaigua, N. Y.—Eight hundred carp in a cabbage patch will give a slight idea of the number of these fish in Canandaigua lake. The connection may not at first be plain, but it must be understood that the lake and the cabbage patch are adjacent.

Thomas Rafferty, who owns a farm on the east shore of Canandaigua lake, about three miles from the village, went out to his cabbage patch the other day and found it covered with dead and dying carp, some of them of ten or fifteen pounds weight. They had invaded the land during the high water of Sunday and had been left stranded by the receding waters.

Rafferty didn't consider this a piece of good luck. He could not get rid of the fish all alone, and soon his neighbors came to him with loud complaints and threats to have him indicted for maintaining a nuisance. Finally he called on the village board of health for aid. There were more 800 of the fish.

Optimism Up-to-Date.

A Harvard alumnus of some distinction, at a recent fraternity dinner, gave a definition of optimism that hasn't heretofore been published, but which is good enough for print. He declared that he was an optimist, but not one of that extreme type who, if falling from the top of the Flatiron building in New York, would be able to say as he passed each story: "Well, I'm all right up to date!"

CRIMINAL MICROBE.

GERM OF CRIME FLOURISHES DURING SUMMER HEAT.

City of Paris Disturbed Over Unusual Prevalence of Criminality—Efforts of the Police to Abate It.

Paris.—Just as when the earth temperature rises to a certain degree it is supposed to release the germs of infectious disease, so the criminal microbe seems to be especially active in the summer heats. It is, perhaps, not really so, from a statistical point of view, but, at any rate, it is a microbe that gets itself more talked about than in the winter, when there are other matters to occupy the attention of the newspapers. At this moment, with the Grand Prix over and the fashionable life in the Boise on the wane, we are rapidly approaching the silly season, when Paris criminally reaches its high-water mark in the columns of the "Faits Divers." Of a truth there is reason for a certain disquietude at the prevalence of crime, not only at this moment, but during the whole round of the 12 months.

The central parts of Paris are well and adequately policed, but the suburbs and the outer regions are in a deplorable condition of insecurity. No other conclusion can be come to from the long series of attacks upon the person, murders, robberies and violations which have been set forth in the police news during the last 18 months. A case in point is the shocking assassination of the English governess, Miss Charlotte Cary, which is now occupying the attention of M. Hamard and his sharpest detectives. That such a deed is possible in broad daylight and at the very gates of Paris is no compliment to the police arrangements. I hasten to say that the police themselves are not necessarily to be condemned; rather, on the contrary, it is the limited budget, or grant, that is at fault. The police service is starved for want of funds, a condition, by the way, which is not singular to Paris.

The organization of the cycle police has brought a certain amount of order and security into some districts, but they cannot obviously perform quite the same service as the foot police. Too much license is unfortunately given to the creatures belonging to a detestable class which preys upon women and supplements its evil earnings by an occasional robbery or murder. Numbers of these utterly worthless members of society are to be seen on any fine afternoon sunning themselves on the fortifications, which are the especial haunts of the malefactor. One of the first measures toward rendering the town and environs of Paris secure would be the suppression of these ill-favored loafers, whose characters and occupations are well known to the police.

Short of Draconian laws against these people there are other measures to be taken that should result in some amelioration of the summer crime of Paris. Appeal should be made to the good taste and patriotism of certain journals who specialize in criminal details, whose daily dole of murder, suicide and spoliation is a succession of stimulation to the weak-brained to go and do likewise. The theaters, too, are not without blame. Lately we have seen a series of positively horrible dramas, one in which a woman is strangled before the audience in the most realistic manner and in much the way in which the poor English woman appears to have met her death. There is too lenient an eye cast on incitements to crime, and that is, I believe, the cause of a great deal of it. No wonder a deputation from the city council is urging the government to abolish public executions, which is the apotheosis and glorification of the criminal. Without advertisement he would largely cease to be.

DIRTY TOWELS FOR SOLONS

Lavatory Appropriation Was Unwittingly Killed by the Last Congress.

Washington.—Members of the Fifty-ninth congress have just discovered that congress, in a fit of absent-mindedness during the last session, struck out the appropriation that provides the clean towels used by members in the performance of their daily ablutions. In the last appropriation bill there was an item of $25,000 for "miscellaneous items." Certain persons employed under that appropriation were obnoxious and they were legislated out of office by the insertion of a proviso reading: "Exclusive of salaries and labor." The washing of the enormous number of towels used on the house side is paid for out of this appropriation.

On the morning of July 1 the new legislative act went into effect and the clerk of the committee on accounts promptly decided that washing towels was "labor" and, therefore, could not be paid for out of an appropriation that expressly forbids any payment for labor. The matter was referred to the comptroller of the treasury, from whose decision there is no appeal, and he took the same view. The question now is how is the Fifty-ninth congress to get its towels?

Crop Estimates.

The New York broker does not care very much whether the crop is scanty and prices high or abundant and prices low so long as he keeps on the profitable side of the market. But the government has gone into the crop estimating business to protect the producer, and the producer kicks like a mule when the figures do not suit him. The reply of Secretary Wilson to the New York cotton trade when they protested against his figures implied that he was mainly concerned to serve the interests of the producers.

AN EXCELLENT RAT TRAP.

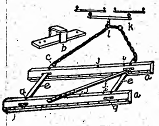
Home-Made Device Which Will Catch the Most Wary and Cunning Rodent.

The only kind of trap proved to the writer a complete success is the deadfall shown in the accompanying cut. It has been used in his family for nearly half a century, catching, during that time, an army of rats. Simple in construction, it is, nevertheless, so swift and deadly in its action that any rodent, having once sprung it, never escapes. Wonderful to relate, as many as eight rats have been caught in such a trap at one time, which, though it did not kill them, held them prisoners until they could be dispatched, says Fred O. Sibley, in Epitomist. The platform A should be about 20 inches square, and the drop B consist of hardwood plank with two holes bored through exactly middle-way, so that it will slide readily up and down the posts supporting the crosspiece H. Through the center of this is a hole for the similar action of the circular post D, which is securely embedded into B. A piece of light band-iron is G, which, when the trap is set, rests on the support H and, being loosely fastened to D at I by an iron pin, thus holds up the plank B. The rat enters and begins nibbling at Indian meal sprinkled in the groove of the platform at J, and finally reaching the spindle, hidden beneath it, agitates it enough to displace the bottom E on the outside; this, in turn, releases both the string F and band-iron G, the latter of which, owing to the weight of the plank B, is drawn upward into a groove, sawed middle-way through D by its sliding down the hole in the center of H and as the motion of B is then exceedingly fast, the victim, ere it can scramble over the sides round the platform, is caught and killed. Provided the affair is nicely adjusted and made so that it operates easily, there is no patented trap on the market, to my knowledge, half as good, for it has such an innocent appearance that the oldest and most cunning rat will ultimately be caught by it. To work well the spindle C should have a little play, and the more lightly the button E rests against the notch cut in it and yet will hold, the better. Made on a smaller scale, this kind of trap is also most excellent with which to catch mice.

HOME-MADE ROAD SCRAPER

It Will Do as Good Work as the High-Priced Grader, and Is Very Durable.

In the illustration a a are 3x12x8 feet long, bottom edge beveled with its hoe of steel ¼x4 inches, bolted on cutting edge as shown at g. The crosspieces, e e, are bolted with inch bolts in mortises 1x8, two inches from the top of a a, and made out of 1x4x30-inch iron, which has holes in front ends to fasten draft chain to, also a hole in s at the right-hand end to bolt brace, f, on, which is also bolted to the rear a at h. The guider, f, is 1x2 inches and six feet long, with holes in back end so the rear a can be changed at any time so it will properly follow front a. A seat board, b, is bolted to a a at i i when team is hitched at b for ditching, and at j j when smoothing up the roadbed. The right-hand ends of a a are sloped back 45 degrees to prevent catching in the bank of side ditch. If properly made of good material, this is very durable, and does almost as good work as a costly grader.—Farm and Home.



ROAD GRADER.

FARM FACTS AND FANCIES.

Farming is a poor business when the farming is poor.

Wire fencing is more durable and cheaper than wood.

A farmer without plans is next to a ship without a rudder.

One way to increase the profits in farming is to reduce the cost of production.

What per cent. of that seed corn do you think will grow? If you haven't tested it, you don't know.

The greatest saving of time is made by the use of the best tools in the preparation of the ground, planting the seed, and after cultivation.

It is much more profitable to keep land in good condition than to get it out of such condition by one-sided fertilization and then try to bring it back.

Time will be saved and you will be apt to be more careful in your selection if the seed corn is selected this month. If you intend buying seed, place your order now.

Every farmer should have his seed corn testing patch on which competing selections from his own fields and varieties secured elsewhere may be subjected to a careful field test under his own eye.

THE VALUE OF GOOD COWS

Few Farmers Realize the Income Which May Be Realized from Them.

Prof. Eckels, in charge of the department of dairy husbandry at the University of Missouri, says of the value of good cows:

"Very few farmers realize the income that can be had from a good cow. The farmer who keeps a cow a year to raise a $15 or $20 calf, usually thinks he has done well, but his profits do not compare with those of the dairyman. Except with the high-priced registered cattle, the milk, not the calf, is the most valuable product of the cow.

"The milk produced by the average Missouri cow in a year will sell for about $50 at the creamery or when made into first-class butter. A good cow of the dairy breed will make at least $50 cash income every year. I have a list of about 50 Missouri farmers who report a cash income of $50 to $100 a cow every year, and these figures do not include the income from the sale of calves, and pigs fed on the skim milk. 'But,' says one, 'milking is a tremendous task.' As a matter of fact, it takes only 60 hours, worth 15 cents an hour, to milk a cow twice a day for ten months.

"Last year the cash income from the herd of cattle on the college farm was $82.50 a cow for butter sold and $12.50 a cow for milk, skimmed milk and calves, making a total income from each cow of $95. This year the average income per cow from the same source will be over $100 for the entire herd of 28. These results do not come from expensive or excessive treatment of any kind. But they are the result of doing the right things at the right time in the proper way."

A DAIRY CATECHISM.

Some Questions and Answers for the Education of the Keeper of Cows.

Q. How many kinds of cows are there?

A. Three.

Q. What are they?

A. Dairy cows, beef cows and combination cows.

Q. What is a dairy cow?

A. One that has the ability to turn all she may eat and digest, over and above that required for maintenance, toward the udder, there to be transformed into milk.

Q. What is the beef cow?

A. One that turns her surplus food into fat.

Q. What is the combination cow?

A. One that tries to take both turns of the road and never gets anywhere.

Q. What causes this difference in cows?

A. Heredity.

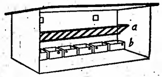
Q. What is heredity?

A. The biological law by which living beings, whether animal or plants, tend to reproduce themselves in their descendants.—Blooded Stock.

FEEDING RACK FOR CATTLE

Cattle Shed with Convenient Feeding Boxes for the Dairy Farm.

The cut shows interior of cattle shed arranged with rack and boxes for feeding, says Farm and Home. The rack, a, may be built of two by fours pieced horizontally above and below with slats one by two or two by two vertically for holding the hay. The boxes, b, may be made of any suitable size. They are placed in position loose and have a large hole bored in one end to make them easily removed for cleaning, which we do after each feed.



FEED RACK AND BOXES.

HINTS FOR THE DAIRY.

Wasteful feeding may mean too much or too little.

Always skim sweet milk; never let cream thicken.

Cows should be milked with dry hands and the udders should be washed clean.

Provide a milking stool with a bottom to set the pail on for the boy. Don't expect him to hold the pail between his legs.

Improved machinery improves every industry. The dairy cow is the most important of the machinery connected with the dairy.

Cream is a very perishable article and must be kept under the most favorable conditions if good butter is to be made out of it.

A Missouri writer says: "Missouri has 800,000 dairy cows, and has sunshine, water, grass and feed enough to support 10,000,000 cows."

Any farmer that has ten or more cows should have a silo unless he is selling his milk to some company that refuses to take milk made out of silage.

Stable ventilation is best secured by some well-constructed and easily operated device, rather than by loose boards or accidental holes in the windows.

Borers.

Borers burrow in the base of the trunks of trees. The only way to fight them at this time of year is to inspect the trees and dig out the borers with a stiff wire. It is well to scrape all the loose bark off the trunks of the trees and whitewash them. This will at least make it easy to find the borers, and the whitewash will perhaps prevent to some extent the entrance of borers.—Farmer's Review.

There is nothing regular about this service for a few days, however, and agents are instructed not to sell tickets unless they are sure the train will be doing duty that day. The train leaves here in the morning and returns in the evening. Freight for the new towns is given preference.

The final open air concert of the season was given on Main street last Thursday evening by the local band organization, and the usual large crowd of listeners turned out. The band has now commenced active work on their first concert of the winter season, which will be given sometime during the latter part of October. The first concert promises to be a dandy, and will be a forerunner of the many fine entertainments to be put on by the band during the winter.

Jeweler H. W. Anderson has completed his miniature steam engine, and has had it running several times during the past week. The engine is a tiny affair made entirely of brass, and Andy made every bit of it even to the screws. The fly wheel is about two inches in diameter, and the rest of the machinery is made in proportion, but the little machine runs as smooth as a hundred horse power engine. Andy intends putting on several other attachments, and as soon as he gets it completed will run displays with it and use it as a novel advertising scheme.

Joseph Lachance returned Monday from his extended visit at points in the eastern part of the states and Canada, looking well and feeling greatly benefitted as a result of his vacation, Joe spent some little time at Waterville, Maine, being present at the time of the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Wm. Lachance. From there he went to his old home at Banceville, Canada, and spent a few days among the scenes of his boyhood days. He also visited the famous St. Anne de Beaupre. Joe says he enjoyed his trip immensely but that he was glad to get back to the West where things are moving.

Ralph E. Wyer will leave Red Lake Falls Friday evening for his home at Excelsior, where he expects to spend a couple of weeks before leaving for Toronto to assume his new duties with the Savage Manufacturing company. It is safe to say that the removal of any young man of the city could not be more seriously regretted by the people, as Ralph has been closely identified with the business and social life of Red Lake Falls for several years past, and is of the type of young man that makes desirable timber for a town. Ralph goes to Toronto to become identified with one of the largest financial institutions in America and that so good a field is opened to him is a source of gratification to every citizen of Red Lake Falls. His career will be watched with interest by the people here, who contemplate for him the greatest possible success.

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

FOOT BALL SATURDAY

Law Department Eleven of the North Dakota University Will Meet Local Highs on Home Ground.

On the local grounds Saturday of this week will occur the first foot ball game of the season on the home grounds, when the eleven representing the law department of the University of North Dakota will meet the Red Lake Falls high school team.

The laws are really not in the high school class, but the locals had an open date, and rather than not play at all they took on the heavier eleven. The game will without doubt be one of the fastest ever witnessed here, as the law team will be heavy and experienced and will put up a stubborn resistance against the fast local eleven.

The game will be called at 2:30 p. m., and an admission of 25 cents will be charged to defray expenses. As the boys will be under heavy expense in getting this team here, and as there likely be but one more contest on the local grounds this year, the people should come out and make the gate receipts sufficient to let the boys come out even.

CHRISTMAS IS COMING

Famous Divine Healer From Canada Will Be Here For Several Days Next Week.

Divine Healer Christmas (or Christman) who has been startling the people of Northern Minnesota and North Dakota with his remarkable cures during the past month or so, will arrive in Red Lake Falls Saturday evening, and will remain here several days of next week to consult with all that call. Sunday evening at 7:30 he will preach at the Metropolitan opera house which services will be free to all.

He will be located in the Kaufer building opposite the Gazette office during the first of next week, where he will be prepared to treat all that come.

Stories of the remarkable cures made by this gentleman have been common talk the past month, and everywhere he goes crowds of cripples and invalids flock to consult him. His work is done by "divine healing" and without the use of any medicine whatever, and those that have been to see him say that he is all right.

He will likely be kept busy here next week, as his coming has been talked of for a month past.

You're Wrong, Harry.

St. Hilaire Spectator: The Red Lake Falls Gazette, in writing up a wedding which was held at Judge Tarrant's office, informs its readers that the "office was handsomely decorated with climax." We were under the impression that "spear head" was the Judge's favorite brand.

DITCH CO[redacted]T LET

Sauve, of Terrebonne, Successful Bidder On Contract For Ditch No. 22 in Emardville Township.

Bids were opened and the contract let for the construction of the new Emardville ditch No. 22, at the office of Auditor Ford last Saturday morning, and X. Sauve, of Terrebonne, was awarded the contract at 12 cents per yard.

The new ditch runs about five miles through Emardville township, draining a large amount of swamp lands and will be a great boon to the wet country out east. Contractor Sauve commenced work on the contract Tuesday and will rush it with all possible speed, in order that the benefits to the country may be realized as soon as possible.

A total of eight bids was submitted on the work as follows: Frank Jeffers, 22.02 cents; X. Sauve, 12 cents; L. Paranteau, 13.87 cents; Louis Seiff, 16 cents; E. A. Moran, 15.96 cents; L. C. Perruse, 12½ cents; Theo. Halvorson, 17.09 cents; Dan Linnihan, 18 cents.

The bid of Mr. Sauve was very low, and the county will get this work done at about 2 cents per yard less than former ditches have been built for, which means a big saving.

Several other ditch contracts will be let during the next few weeks.

RESIGNS FROM BOARD.

Frank E. Hunt Steps Out Of Duties On School Board.

At the meeting of the school board Monday evening, Frank E. Hunt, who has been president of the board for several years, and who was re-elected last July, tendered his resignation, to take effect at once, and while the members of the board were not desirous of accepting the same, Mr. Hunt positively declined to serve longer and his wish was accepted.

S. M. Sivertson, of the North Side, was elected to fill the vacancy and will serve until the annual election next July.

Mr. Hunt did not want to run for the place at the last election, but in view of conditions was prevailed upon to do so and was elected without opposition, but he was not anxious to serve and took the first opportunity to resign. Mr. Hunt has been a very valuable member of the board, always working for the betterment of the district, and the people are sorry that he would not remain a member.

Mr. Sivertson, the newly elected member, is a conscientious business man and will make an excellent successor to Mr. Hunt.

The board is now composed of the following members: Theo. Gareeau, A. P. Toupin, Thos. A. Crompe, N. M. Watson (elected to complete term of Sam Allard) and S. M. Sivertson, and it is the unanimous opinion that a more competent set of men could not be picked.

A Stranger's Impression.

Wadena Pioneer Journal: H. E. Duncan, who resigned as rural carrier on route 1 to travel for Rand & McNally, is back from a trip to Red Lake county, and reports that at Red Lake Falls potatoes are bringing 40 or 50 cents a bushel. He says oats are also high there, bringing 40 cents.

"The condition of the wheat fields is very discouraging," said he. "In some places hundreds of acres are either under water or the ground is too soft to go on. Much of the wheat is not cut, and in some places they are using old fashioned reapers, in order to prevent the wheat from threshing out. Conditions there are bad, and the farmers around Wadena are a great deal better off."

Mr. Duncan also says that the country up there is alive with ducks, feeding in ponds in the wheat fields. He saw three hunters who said the had killed 200 ducks in one day's shooting.

CONTEST WAS CLOSE.

Large Number of Guesses In Jim and Paul's Guessing Contest.

The guessing contest inaugurated by Berthon & Armstrong several weeks ago, was closed yesterday and the count made, the store being filled with anxious young men who came to witness the outcome.

The ball of twine was measured and was found to contain 2319 feet and 11 inches, and Francis Febvro had the nearest guess, 2300 feet and was awarded the first prize, a $5 suit of clothes. Erve Toupin guessed 2381 feet and won second prize, a $3 suit.

A total of 167 guesses were counted, ranging from 250 to 5000 feet, but a great many were near the actual amount.

The contest was a great success as an advertisment to this popular firm, and the young men who won were fortunate.

The tournament will be held at Warren next year, and it is the intentions of the running team to commence practicing early to fit themselves for practicipation in the events.

Eighty-four Additional Indictments Returned, Thirty-nine Charging Embezzlement and the Balance Forgery. Prisoner Fails to Furnish the $64,000 Bond Asked by the Court and is Taken Into Custody.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 10.—Shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternoon the grand jury reported eighty-four indictments against Newton C. Dougherty in addition to the thirteen already found. Forty-five of these are for forgery, each containing eight counts.

Thirty-nine are for embezzlement, each containing six counts.

The amounts involved are from $34.to to $600.

Bonds are fixed in the sum of $1,000 on each indictment for forgery and for $500 on each for embezzlement, making a total of $64,000.

Joseph Weil, Dougherty's attorney, announced that he would appear in court of his own accord.

Newton C. Dougherty Monday night drove to the county jail and delivered himself into the custody of the sheriff. He was locked in a cell.

He was unable to give the $64,000 bail which was fixed by the court after the return of eighty-four additional indictments and his attorneys said that he would probably have to remain in jail until time for his trial.

At a meeting of the school board Monday evening the directors announced that attachment papers had been issued against his real estate and personal property, amounting to $50,000. This was done to further protect the school board funds.

TEN MEN ARE KILLED

MEET INSTANT DEATH IN QUARRY OF A SLATE COMPANY AT GRANVILLE, N. Y.

Granville, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Ten men met instant death at the quarry of the Vermont Slate company here Friday when about 100 feet of the west bank crashed down without warning, burying the victims under hundreds of tons of slate and loose earth. Five bodies were recovered, but it is doubtful whether the others can be reached before next week. The dead, with the exception of John G. Williams, president and treasurer of the company, are all Hungarians.

The slide occurred at 9:30 a. m. while the gang was at work in the quarry, directed by Mr. Williams, and the men were caught like rats in a trap. Mr. Williams was standing near the edge of the bank while the others were below in the pit. He had just raised his arm to signal to the engineer in charge of the hoisting engine when the bank gave way, carrying him into the pit, seventy-five feet below.

NORTH DAKOTA BANK ROBBED.

Cracksmen Obtain Thirty-five Hundred Dollars at Hensel.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 9.—The entire funds of the State Bank of Hensel, Pembina county, were stolen early in the morning by cracksmen. More than $3,500 was secured, and checks and notes valued at a much larger amount were torn and scattered by the explosion. The robbers took nothing but cash, $750 in silver and the remainder in currency.

The bank is capitalized at $10,000. F. A. Halliday is president and J. O. Mills cashier.

The only clues found seem to indicate that the burglars are the same that robbed the Clifford bank last fall.

IN JAIL AT SAVANNAH.

Gaynor and Greene Behind the Bars on American Soil.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 9.—John F. Gaynor and B. D. Greene, the men who fought extradition to the United States from Canada for so many years, arrived here at 6 a. m. Their wives, who had preceded them to Savannah, met them at the depot. The prisoners were at once taken to jail by United States Marshal White, who had gone to Montreal for them, accompanied by Deputy Doyle. The prisoners seemed in good spirits.

RUSSIAN RAILWAY DISASTER.

CITIZENS FIGHT BANDITS.

One Killed and Two Wounded in Desperate Battle.

Wild Rose, Wis., Oct. 9.—One bandit was killed, two were seriously wounded and one other was captured as the result of a desperate fight with a posse of fifty armed citizens of the village, aroused by the burglary of the postoffice and bank.

The bandits were caught in a forest eight miles from the village and fought with guns for an hour and a half.

The bandits secured $100 in cash and $300 in stamps, which, with nitroglycerin and burglars' tools, were found on them. They cracked the outer door of the safe in the State bank of Wild Rose, but were frightened away before reaching the money chest.

No citizens were hurt in the fight.

BOYCOTT SUSPENDED

CHINESE WILL GIVE CONGRESS A CHANCE TO AMEND THE EXCLUSION LAWS.

Washington, Oct. 9.—News that the merchants of China, who have been prosecuting the boycott against American goods, have decided to temporarily suspend that movement to await possible action of the United States congress in softening the exclusion laws, is contained in official dispatches received during the day from Peking. The information comes from the Merchants' guild of that place and is to the effect that this course has been decided on by merchants throughout the empire. The action follows the action of the Chinese government in the matter, which was given as a consequence of the attitude of President Roosevelt. Should congress fail to take the desired action the boycott will again become effective and will be pressed with renewed vigor.

HUGHES DECLINES NOMINATION.

Refuses to Make Race for Mayor of New York City.

New York, Oct. 10.—Charles E. Hughes, counsel for the legislative insurance investigating committee, has declined the Republican nomination for mayor of New York city. In stating his grounds for refusing the nomination, which was tendered to him by the unanimous vote of the city Republican convention last Friday night, Mr. Hughes said:

"In this dilemma I have simply to do my duty as I see it.

"In my judgment I have no right to accept the nomination. A paramount public duty forbids it. It is not necessary to enlarge upon the importance of the insurance investigation. This is undisputed. It is dealing with questions vital to the interests of millions of our fellow citizens throughout the land. It presents an opportunity for public service second to none and involves a coercive responsibility. This work commands all my energies. It is imperative that I continue in it."

GETS LARGE SALARY

PRESIDENT OF MUTUAL LIFE RECEIVED $150,000 FOR LAST YEAR'S SERVICES.

Minor Officials of the Company Paid From $10,000 to $50,000 Each, According to the Payroll Examined by the Investigation Committee—Relatives of the Officers Given the Best and Most Lucrative Positions.

New York, Oct. 7.—Developments in the legislative insurance investigation for the week just closed have been of a startling nature. The most sensational event of the day was when Mr. Hughes demanded the payroll of the legislative officers of the company. This was produced and showed the salaries of these officers since 1881. For the year 1904 President McCurdy received $150,000; two vice presidents were paid $50,000 each, a second vice president, $17,500, the third vice president $10,000 and the general manager $25,000 (who this year will receive $30,000), and the treasurer $50,000.

Robert McCurdy said he never knew the salary of his father until Friday, when he heard it read in the committee room. He thought, however, that there should be no limit to the salary of such positions, because they should be in accordance with the accumulations of the company.

When asked if it was any benefit to the policyholder to increase the president's salary Mr. McCurdy said he thought the trustees had considered that when they increased the president's salary. No increase, however, had ever been considered when he was present at the trustees' meeting.

Their Principle of Reward.

Earlier in the day when Mr. McCurdy was on the stand, Mr. Hughes tried to bring out why C. H. Raymond and the partners in that firm received larger emoluments from the company than any other agents in the business. Mr. McCurdy said he did not know what Mr. Thebaud received from the business. He said it was a "large reward for large achievements" and that all businesses of large magnitude were built up on that principle.

During Mr. McCurdy's testimony it was brought out that George Raymond, a brother of Charles H. Raymond, was the general agent for New Jersey; that Howard Lewis, the general agent for Northern New York with an office in Albany, was a cousin of either the vice president, Mr. Granniss, or Mrs. Granniss; that Dr. E. J. Moss, the medical director of the Mutual Life, medical director of the Mutual Life, married a sister of the president of the company, and that P. Stuyvesant Pillot, an inspector of risks, is a cousin of Louis Thebaud, son-in-law of President McCurdy and partner of the Raymond firm. G. W. White, a secretary of the company whom Mr. McCurdy was asked about, said he was no relative of any officer of the company, but that "Mrs. White was a niece of Mrs. Granniss, wife of Vice President Granniss."

PAID AS COMMISSIONS

RELATIVES OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE MUTUAL LIFE RECEIVED LARGE SUMS.

New York, Oct. 6.—That the astounding total of more than $2,600,000 has been paid as commissions by the Mutual Life insurance company to two members of the family of Richard A. McCurdy, president of the company, and the promise of District Attorney Jerome that the insurance scandals certainly will be submitted later to an extraordinary grand jury were the sensational developments in the insurance situation Thursday.

It was brought out by the testimony before the legislative insurance commission that Robert H. McCurdy, a son of Richard A. McCurdy, has received as commissions on foreign business $1,163,829 and on domestic business $541,852, and that Louis A. Thebaud, son-in-law of Richard A. McCurdy, has received an aggregate of $920,113 in commissions from the company. It was also brought out that Robert H. McCurdy expected that his income this year would be about $110,000.

Previous to this testimony, W. F. Thummel, an attorney of the Mutual Life Insurance company, testified he had paid to the chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee the sum of $2,500 in cash as a campaign contribution.

Mr. Jerome, in announcing in court that the scandals would be submitted to an extraordinary grand jury, said the inquiry by the legislative committee had shown "greater moral obliquity and moral obtuseness on the part of persons important in the business world than did the shocking revelations regarding the Equitable Life."

Attempted Murder and Suicide.

St. Joseph, Mich., Oct. 7.—Driven mad over the refusal of a young woman to marry him Fred Freerar, chef in a local restaurant, probably fatally wounded Mrs. Violet J. Lonsdale and then killed himself in the presence of his victim.

PACKERS TO PAY COSTS.

New System of Government Inspection of Meats.

Washington, Oct. 6.—At the cabinet meeting the plan of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson to require packers to pay for the inspection of meats was approved and it will be put into operation at once. It is expected that a saving of $50,000 a year will thereby be effected by the government.

The draft of the reply of the invitation of Emperor Nicholas to take part in the second Hague peace conference was made and talked over.

The Chinese question also was discussed and it was determined that no changes or modifications in conflict with instructions to United States consuls contained in the circular issued several months ago by the president's direction will be made.

OUTLOOK GROWS BRIGHTER.

Fever Conditions at New Orleans Continue to Improve.

New Orleans, Oct. 7.—Brilliant weather, the rush of travelers home and evidences of increasing business on every side with the promise that communication will be gradually reopened are having a stimulating effect upon the whole city. The number of new cases of fever continue to decrease slowly.

ACCEPTS AGREEMENT

NORWEGIAN STORTHING RATIFIES DISSOLUTION OF THE UNION WITH SWEDEN.

Christiania, Norway, Oct. 10.—After two days spent in excited discussion the storthing at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning proceeded to a division on the proposition of the minority to submit the Karlstad agreement concerning the dissolution of the union between Norway and Sweden to a referendum. The proposal was rejected by a vote of 109 to 8. The agreement was then accepted by a vote of 101 to 16. This is a signal victory for the government.

In the course of the debate Premier Michelsou made an interesting speech on the question of the selection of a king. He said that the offer of the throne to a member of the house of Bernadotte was made as an expression of good will. It had apparently, however, been otherwise interpreted in Sweden, as, according to King Oscar's observations to foreign newspaper men, his majesty would regard his approval of such a selection as a personal sacrifice. In conclusion the premier said that the question now appeared to be outside actual politics.

THOUSANDS PERISHED

TWO ISLANDS AT THE MOUTH OF THE YANGTSE RIVER RAVAGED BY A TYPHOON.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 9.—The steamer Tartar, which has just arrived from the Orient, brought news from Shanghai that the loss of life of the natives of the islands at the mouth of the Yangtse river in the typhoon at the end of September was tremendous. The North China Daily News of Shanghai says:

"To the east of Tamaignen, two islands, one called Ynwoshwa, the other Shihousha, distant about twenty miles from Wosung, have suffered much from the typhoon, nearly all the inhabitants being swept away. The islands have only been inhabited for a short time, comparatively speaking, as they are of recent formation and are not much above high water mark. It is reported that nearly 10,000 people have been drowned on these two islands and the smaller islands adjacent. Tamaignen itself has not suffered much, being well above the high water mark."

THREE TRAINMEN KILLED.

Number of Race Horses Also Perish in Collision.

Millersburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—Three men were killed, one man was injured and a carload of race horses were either killed or so badly hurt that they had to be shot as the result of a collision at the junction of the Lykens Valley branch of the Pennsylvania railroad a quarter of a mile south of this place. The dead are: Theodore Scott, Northumberland, fireman; Ralph Hendershott, Northumberland, freight brakeman, and Charles E. Berry, Sunbury, freight conductor.

The collision was between the fast No. 3 Erie mail train, westbound, and a caboose and boxcar containing a load of race horses. The mail train was bound from Harrisburg to Erie. It was preceded out of Harrisburg by a fast freight train, which, owing to a heavy fog, lost some time. The caboose and boxcar accidentally uncoupled at the junction and the mail train overtook them.

JUDGE CALHOUN RETURNS.

New York, Oct. 9.—Judge W. J. Calhoun, who went to Venezuela several months ago as a special commissioner representing the United States government, returned to New York during the day on the steamer Caracas. He will go at once to Washington.

George W. Gunn, yardmaster for the Northern Pacific road at Stillwater, died suddenly from apoplexy on one of the company's trains while on a trip to St. Paul.

According to the report of the state census bureau more than 100 residents of Minnesota were born at sea. About a score of these reside in the Twin Cities.

George F. Putnam, treasurer of Sherburne county, who admitted that he used several hundreds of dollars of county funds in his private enterprise, has resigned.

Charles Wolford, a Minneapolis telephone lineman, is dead as the result of a fall of fifty feet while repairing a line. His skull and one of his arms was fractured.

Colonel Arthur J. Stabbort of St. Paul has been appointed major general of the uniform rank, Knights of Pythias, by Charles E. Shiveley, supreme chancellor of the world.

Miss Myrtle Sterling, a well known young lady of Red Wing, has confessed to the police that she caused several recent fires in that city. Her mind is said to be unbalanced.

Reports from all the public schools in St. Paul for September show that instead of there being an increased attendance, as compared with last year, there is a falling off of forty-one.

Daniel McCormick, a switchman employed in the Milwaukee yards at Minneapolis, was caught between two cars while helping to make up a train and so badly injured that he died two hours later.

Mrs. Rose Hammond, twenty-five years old, committed suicide at Minneapolis by drinking and inhaling the contents of a two-ounce bottle of chloroform. The act was probably due to domestic infelicity.

Because of the prevalence of glanders in Minneapolis the city health department is planning to shut off all of the public drinking fountains provided in a number of different parts of the city for watering horses.

While pulling stumps at his farm four miles from Bemidji Eric Bos was struck by the sweep of the stump puller and so badly injured that he died in the wagon that was bringing him to the hospital in Bemidji.

John Faughty, lineman for the Red Wing Gas and Electric company, was electrocuted while on top of a pole fixing wires. The dead man was thirty-five years old and served with the Thirteenth Minnesota in the Philippines.

The October apportionment of the public school fund, announced by State Superintendent Olson, amounts to $862,881.80, divided on the basis of 375,136 pupils, or $2.30 per capita. This is 10 cents more for each pupil than the apportionment of last October.

Prompt arrival of fire fighting apparatus from Cloquet and Scanlon saved the village of Carlton, on the Northern Pacific road, from complete destruction by a fire that began at noon Friday. Ten buildings were destroyed and many others were badly damaged, so that the loss, roughly estimated, probably will exceed $50,000.

The slipping of a new wagon tongue from the neckyoke resulted in the instant death of Peter Tollefson, a farmer residing near La Crescent, and perhaps fatal injury of his wife. In the runaway which followed the accident Tollefson was hurled to the ground and his neck was broken by the fall. Mrs. Tollefson was injured internally.

The unusual shortage of cars for the movement of the grain crop in the Northwest is likely to result in an official investigation on the part of the state railroad and warehouse commission to determine whether the companies are giving Minnesota a fair share of their freight cars and whether or not these cars are being distributed properly to the different shippers.

The state board of equalization has completed its work, having added about $11,000,000 to the personal property valuations. The return for personal property was $158,397,416 and the raise will make it about $170,000,000. The valuation as left by the board last year was $149,684,181, so there is an increase of about $20,000,000. About $25,000,000 is exempt, so there will be $145,000,000 to be taxed. The board had nothing to do with the valuations of real estate this year. The valuation of real estate last year was $700,000,000 and the improvements this year will add about $10,000,000. This will make the total taxable property in the state $855,000,000.

ON A DIVERSIFIED FARM.

There Is a Greater Demand on the Farmer for Skill and Energy Than on Single Crop Farms.

The man that has to run a diversified farm has his "hands full," if we may use a slang expression that has almost ceased to be slang. The man that has to look after 20 different crops needs a mental development far above that of the man that has to look after one crop only. The man with many crops to look after has to acquire 20 times the information about crops that the man does that has to look after one crop only. On the other hand, he does not have to do so much worrying about the sale of his crop, as the community around any farm will largely absorb the crops of the farm where diversified farming is practiced.

On a diversified farm all the ground is kept in use, and sometimes several crops are grown on the same piece of ground in one summer. One crop may be dove-tailed into another crop, so that a new crop is being started before the old one is off the ground. The mixed farmer generally breaks the old Jewish commandment not to sow mixed seed in the field. He does not find that the growing of two, three or even four crops in the same field the same season damages his fields, provided his land is kept well manured and well supplied with humus.

On a diversified farm, declares the Farmers' Review, labor can be used to better advantage than on a farm devoted to the production of any one crop. On the diversified farm there is a demand for labor from one part of the season to another, and the owner is also enabled to utilize all of his own time. This is a great thing to the man that is running a small farm. In this day it is not possible to make money out of any establishment that is run on half time, even a farm.

A ROPE FIRE-LADDER.

Safety Device Which Every Farmer Should Have Handy in Case of Fire.

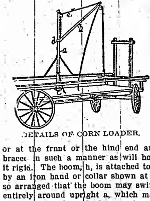
There is always danger of fire catching the roof of farmhouse or barn. Quick work will often save much loss. But if one happens to be alone, it is almost impossible to raise long, heavy ladders, especially the one needed to reach any place on the roof. A very convenient ladder to keep on hand is one made of light ropes, as shown in the cuts, suggests the Farm Journal. At one end are two hooks and a connecting cross-bar which any blacksmith can make in a few moments. To the center of the cross-bar is attached a long cord with a bit of weight fastened to its outer end. It is but an instant's work to throw this cord over the ridge-pole of a building, and having secured the weighted end upon the other side, to draw the ladder up over the roof until the hooks cross the ridge. Then pull the ladder back into place with the hooks biting into the wood of the saddle boards, and one can go anywhere upon the roof. This ladder should be long enough to reach the ground from any building. One person alone can raise a wooden ladder to the eaves, and with this rope roof ladder he has command of the situation. The "rounds" of the rope ladder need not extend to the ground, but the ropes should, that the ladder may be manipulated from the ground. It will be seen from Fig. 2 that a staple over the rope keeps the latter from slipping off the "rounds."

SHOCK CORN LOADER.

Device Which Will Save the Farmer the Back-Breaking Work of Hand Loading.

For the man who has loaded corn fodder from the field to the wagon with a fork all day until his back feels as though it had been pounded with a club, the arrangement shown in the picture will be much appreciated, says the Farm and Home. It is a device for elevating shocks or bundles of fodder from the ground directly to the wagon.

The upright standard, a, may be attached to wagon frame in the center or at the front or the hind end and braced in such a manner as will hold it rigid. The boom, b, is attached to a by an iron band or collar shown at d so arranged that the boom may swing entirely around upright a, which may be secured to the bed of wagon by anchor chains or by setting into block as shown at c. The cable, e, is used to adjust the height of boom, elevating it to highest point in finishing out the load.



DETAILS OF CORN LOADER.

The farm telephone proves its worth in haying and harvest. It is quicker to telephone for repairs than to ride in and find they are not in stock.

WHY NOT NOW?

The banquet and gathering at the Grand View last Thursday evening, brought forcibly to mind the fact that a business men's club in Red Lake Falls would fill a long felt want, and the general opinion was that steps should be taken at once toward the organization of such a club.

There are easily fifty business men in Red Lake Falls who would gladly concur in such a movement, and with this number the cost of maintainance of a desirable club room would be light on each individual. A large room could be secured and furnished with reading room, card rooms and a general room for gatherings and be open every evening to the members. On stated evenings of each month a light lunch could be provided and a program of papers on subjects of importance arranged, which would bring the business men in closer touch and get them acquainted with one another, other than in a cold business way. Ideas daily suggest themselves to all that with the cooperation of those interested could be carried out to the lasting benefit of the city, and by getting together once a month these thoughts could be exchanged with general good resulting.

The long winter coming makes the early organization of such a club very desirable, and The Ga-Gazette believes if the matter was taken up and pushed but little difficult would be encountered in attaining the end desired.

Thief River Falls is arguing over who they will have for Mayor. What's the matter with "One Henry" gentlemen. Hasn't he earned the spurs?

The Red Lake county agricultural society cleared a nice sum on their fair this year, and as a result the county is getting good advertising from the press of the valley.

The city election is only four weeks away but things are as quiet as a church mouse during services. Those that desire to save their country should not be so slow in speaking up.

The large catalogue houses are at present flooding the country with advertising matter, and into every home there is being placed catalogues and literature sent out by these concerns. Those who so strenuously object to the buying from catalogue houses, have not far to look for the reason of the success of these large concerns. Every year thousands of dollars. is spent in various forms of advertising and the old motto of "keeping constantly at it" brings success in this case as in all others. The business man that expects to keep up with the procession by setting by and letting the people guess what he has to offer them is surely to be left far in the rear, as only by persistent publicity do these big mail order concerns succeed in getting the trade. The smaller merchant has the club with which to battle his way around the difficulty, but many of them refuse to use it until too late.

ENJOYABLE BANQUET.

Business Men Gather To Say Farewell to Ralph E. Wyer.

At the Grand View hotel last Thursday evening about forty-five of the business men of the city assembled to sit down to the banquet table prepared by Landlord Krueger, and the affair was one of the most enjoyable in the history of the city.

The banquet was given as a farewell tribute to Ralph E. Wyer, who was leaving the business ranks of Red Lake Falls to take up his newly acquired interests in Toronto, and it turned out to be a much greater success than was anticipated. The guests were called to the dining room at about 9 o'clock, where two beautifully decoroted tables loaded with the best of good things to eat awaited them. and the first hour was spent in satisfying the wants of the inner man. Mine Host Kreuger had prepared a spread fit for a king, and ample justice was done to every item on the bill of fare.

After the feasting was over cigars were assed, and Mayor Duffy, acting as toastmaster, proposed a toast to our president which was given with cheers. Messrs. F. A. Grady, P. B. Gaass and James E. Ford were called upon to respond to the toast "Our President," and did so in well chosen remarks. Mayor Duffy gave a toast to "Our Guest," and Mr. Wyer responded, expressing with feeling his gratitude and pleasure that the business people had been so kind to him, and ended by wishing one and all the greatest success in the futuae. "Commercial Interests" was next, and was responded to by Messrs. S. M. Sivertson, W. A. Schreiter, F. E. Hunt, Theo. LaBissoniere and Joseph Fortier. "The Army and Navy" toast was assigned to Messrs. Boughton, Spillane, Armstrong, L. A. Knufer and Borchers. Mr. Rhodes, an old friend of Messrs. Sivertson and Hunt, was present and in a few well chosen remarks complimented the business men on the excellence of the entertainment. "Professions" was next, Messrs. Germo, Argne and Watson being called upon. The subject "Banking" was elucidated upon by Messrs. Gareeau, Toupin, Sortedahl and C. L. Hansen. Our "Agricultural Interests" were talked of by Farmers Tarrant, K. M. Hansen, and Linnihan "Transportation" was the theme of remarks by Messrs. Tracy and Mizen. "The Press" by Messrs. Haislet, A M. Anderson, Converse and Padden. The best toast of the evening, that to "The Ladies" was assigned to Messrs. Sam E. Hunt, H. W. Anderson, John Grady and H. H. Zaiser, and of course these young fellows did justice to the topic. Every speaker expressed sincere regrets at the departure of friend Wyer from Red Lake Falls, and all were unanimous in wishing him the best of success in his unkertak'ngs in the future.

Landlord Kreuger was cheered for the excellent banquet he had prepared, and with the wishes for the continued success of the guest and all present the meeting broke up at a late hour, and everyone felt that it was well to have been there.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING

Adams Presbytery Holds Two Days Interesting Session at Presbyterian Church In This City.

The Adams Presbytery, comprising twenty-eight Presbyterian churches in this neighborhood, met here Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, and a large number of the ministers of the Presbytery were in attendance to take part in the program, which was a very interesting and instructive one. Tuesday afternoon was given over to devotional exercises and a business session. In the afternoon a short business session was held, followed by a conference on evangelism. "Preparing for a Revival," led by Rev. W. S. Ward; "Work of Pastor In Revival," led by Rev. W. J. Hall; "Conserving the Fruits of Revival," led by Rev. S. E. P. White, were the topics taken up and discussed. In the evening a popular meeting was held, Rev. F. J. Barackman delivering the sermon, and Ralph J. Fulton speaking on "The Forward Movement."

Wednesday forenoon was given over to a business session and devotional exercises. The afternoon program was as follows: "Evangelists on Mission Fields," D. K. Laurie; "The Work of the Holy Spirit," Rev. Niel A. Gilchrist. Address, Rev. R. N. Adams, D.D. The meeting adjourned in time for the members to catch the evening train.

Among the many matters to be taken up was the release of Rev. Ralph T. Fulton, the popular pastor at Warren, from his work at that city, and Mr. Fulton will go to New Jersey to enter the evangelistic work as a singer. The gentleman is possessed of a beautiful voice and will undoubtedly be very successful in his chosen work.

The members of the Presbytery expressed themselves as very well pleased with the work of the pastor at this place, and complimented the church people highly on the excellent condition of their church and property.

The ladies of the congregation served a dinner to the visiting brethern Wednesday, which was very much enjoyed.

The following pastors were in attendance: State Missionery Rev. R. N. Adams, D. D., of Minneapolis, for whom the Presbytery was named; Rev. Neil A. Gilchrist, of Crookston, pastor-at-large of the Presbytery; D. K. Laurie, of Brainerd, Sunday School Missionary; Rev. W. M. Best, of East Grand Forks; Rev. Wm. J. Hall, Hallock, Rev. F. L. Barackman, Blackduck; Rev. Ralph T. Fulton, Warren; Rev. E. M. Williams, Argyle; Rev. S. E. P. White, of Bemidji; Elders Frank, of Warren and Davnie, of Hallock.

Before adjourding the following resolution was passed by those present at the meeting:

"We have had a most helpful and inspiring meeting of Presby and we fell that this success has been due in no small part to the pleasant circumstances under which we have met. Therefore be it resolved: By a vote of Presbytery we express our appreciation of and gratitude to the pastor of this church for his careful preparation for the meeting of Presbytery; to those who so kindly received us into their homes; to the ladies who provided us the magnificent dinner which we enjoy today in the church parlors, and all who have helped to make our visit to Red Lake Falls so pleasant and profitable.

S. E. P. WHITE,
E. M. WILLIAMS,
Committee.

From here the members of the Presbytdry went to Fergus Falls, where they are in attendance at the meeting of the Synod of Minnesota, which comprises eight Presbyterys, and where a large meeting is being held.

WANT THE INSTITU E.

Business Men and Farmers Petition for Meeting Here.

As mentioned in last week's paper, a petition was circulated among the business men and farmers last week, asking that a session of the State Farmers' Instute be held here during the coming winter, and everyone approached was anxious that this meeting be secured and willingly signed the petition, which was forwarded to the department at St. Paul with a request for a session of the institute.

A series of these meetings will be held throughout the state during the fall and winter, and as Red Lake Falls has expressed almost a unanimous desire for a session, they will likely be given one.

The farmers of this section should make it a point to turn out en masse to this meeting if it is secured, as by so doing they will get many valuable pointers that will aid them in their work.

An Ideal Medicine.

MISS LOUISE MATHER, 13 Church St., Burlington, Vt., Vice-President Bureau of Exchange, writes:

"Your medicine is an ideal woman's medicine and by far the best I have known to restore lost health and strength.

"I suffered for several years. My back ached, I had bearing down pains, and frequent headaches.

"I would often wake from sleep in such pain that I would suffer for hours before my eyes would close again. I dreaded the long nights as well as the weary days.

"I consulted two physicians, hoping to get relief. Finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me, a friend advised me to try Peruna.

"I am certainly glad that I followed her advice, for Peruna was the only medicine for me. Every ache and pain disappeared in four months and I am in perfect health now.

"My earnest advice to suffering women is to try Peruna, for I feel sure they will not be disappointed in it."—Louise Mather.

Enjoying Splendid Health.

Mrs. L. E. Tyler, Santa Monica, Cal., Secretary Santa Monica Musical Society, writes:

"I was troubled for over three years with systemic catarrh, complicated by female weakness and inflammation.

"This induced frequent headaches, nervousness, hysteria and sleeplessness, which nothing could relieve until I tried Peruna.

"I began to feel better after I had taken the first bottleful and improved from week to week until at the end of about eleven weeks I was entirely well.

"I am pleased to say that I have enjoyed splendid health now for nearly a year. I have a fine appetite, enjoy sound sleep and do not suffer from any more headaches or other pains."—L. E. Tyler.

Completely Regained Her Health.

Miss Edith Reams, 726 North Main St., Dayton, O., writes:

"I suffered for some time with both lung and female troubles.

"I had been under the treatment of a good physician for about nine months without obtaining any relief, when Peruna was recommended to me. After taking twelve bottles of this medicine I have completely regained my health.

"I am pleased to recommend Peruna to any one suffering from the above ailments."—Edith Reams.

America is the Land of Nervous Women.

The majority of women are nervous because they suffer from some form of female disease.

The greatest obstacle in the way of recovery is that they do not understand that catarrh is the main source of their illness.

Women who are in doubt as to their ailments should write to Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O. Give him a full description of your symptoms, previous treatment and age.

He will promptly reply with full directions for treatment, free of charge.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

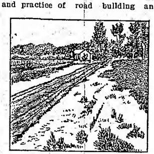
ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

GOOD ROADS IN IOWA.

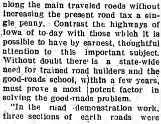
What That State Is Doing to Improve the Highways in Rural Districts.

The Iowa highway commission recently held at the Iowa state college an institute for the training of road officers in building and caring for the highways of the state, and the stimulus given to the interests of good roads will prove of lasting benefit to the state. Prof. W. H. Stevenson, in making report of the institute, says: "In Iowa there are approximately 100,000 miles of public roads for the maintenance of which the enormous sum of $4,456,000 in road taxes is raised each year, in addition to mulct tax moneys and the poll taxes. If this money were used by men trained in the science and practice of road building and skilled in business methods, as are the men intrusted with the affairs of great business concerns, it would be entirely possible to maintain every mile of roadway in the state in good condition and gradually to build hard surfaces along the main traveled roads without increasing the present road tax a single penny. Contrast the highways of Iowa of to-day with those which it is possible to have by earnest, thoughtful attention to this important subject. Without doubt there is a state-wide need for trained road builders and the good-roads school, within a few years, must prove a most potent factor in solving the good-roads problem.



ROAD BEFORE BEING TOUCHED BY GRADER.

"In the road demonstration work, three sections of earth roads were built, two with reversible graders and one with an elevating grader, all operated by experts. In addition, six kinds of road drags were exhibited and five were operated at the school. These included, besides the widely known King drag, the V drag, the Stevenson "ditch cleaner," the Russell road leveler and the Smith steel road drag. These drags were all shown and operated by the inventors, themselves, and it was made plainly apparent that all can do first-class work. So much interest was aroused in these road drags that the commission has decided to thoroughly test each kind on a section of earth road and to report the results in a bulletin.



SAME ROAD IN OPPOSITE DIRECTION SHOWING PROPER WIDTH AND CROWN.

"No feature of the many demonstrations in road construction attracted more attention than the building of a reenforced concrete culvert. At the present time many road experts in Iowa are carefully considering the advisability of displacing expensive and unsatisfactory wooden culverts with durable structures of concrete reenforced with steel. The commission has prepared standard plans and specifications of simple and inexpensive concrete culverts for distribution among Iowa road officers."

BREVITIES.

"No" is the shorter, but it seems easier to say "yes."

Land is a good thing to own, but the man "land poor" is to be pitied.

It is harder to get a crop in an overwet year than an unusually dry one.

Turnips make a good catch crop. Sheep will pasture them well in the fall.

A consolidated rural school means that the country boy and girl will have the same chance their city cousins now enjoy.

Rain barrels should be covered with mosquito netting or a little skum of kerosene to prevent their becoming a breeding place for the pests.

To Cure Clover Hay.

The way to cure clover hay, is to cut the grass in the morning as soon as the dew is off. At noon shake out the bunches, rake into windrows before evening dews get on it, and leave it lie until next day. Next day, shake out the hay as soon as the dew is off. You ought to be ready, to haul, on a hot day by 11 o'clock or certainly after dinner. It spoils clover hay to get too dry. It should never be put in the barn when wet with rain or dew; but a little sap won't hurt it.

ECHOES.

"Eenie, meenie, miney mo,
Crack a fenney, finey fo,
Ommanuga, poppatuga,
Rick, stick, dan do."
No sense for savants wisdom laden
Lies within that childish strain;
But there's bliss that comes from Aidenn
Down life's golden shore again,
When the lay that used to throb us
Comes from out the long ago,
Time, old graybeard, cannot rob us
Of our "eenie, meenie mo."

"Entry, mentry, cutey corn,
Apple seed and apple thorn,
Wire, brier, limber lock,
Six geese in a flock."
Ah! old greybeard, you can never
Still the song that used to thrill,
Hide away the forms that ever
Troop along the meadow hill.
Song of cheer and mery laughter!
Lad and lassie, they will flock
Through the years of the hereafter
With their sunny "limber lock."

"One zaw, two zaw, zig zaw zam,
Bobtail, vinegar, ticklum tan,
Harum, scarum, virgum marum,
Stringlum, stranglum, buck and John."
Ah! we recall each joyous fellow,
And each lassie sweet and fair,
With the silver moonbeams mellow
Spreading halos o'er them there.
And again their faces meet us
As no other faces can;
And their voices come to greet us
With the dear old "zig zaw zaa."

"Eenie, meenie, monie my,
Bassaloney, boney, stry,
Hare, ware, crown, nack,
Alko, balko, we wo wack."
No classic stanzas laid before us
E'en by master bands can thrill,
Cannot thril us and implore us
Like that far-off echoing call.
There is throb of joy and frolic,
Sweetness of the days gone by,
Trembling in each ringing rollick
Of our "eenie, monie my."
—Horace Seymour Keller, in N. Y. Sun.

THE EVICTION OF MONSIEUR

By
J. C. PLUMMER

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"OUT on the street he goes, bag and baggage," said Mrs. Raggett, "unless he pays me what he owes me. And to-morrow morning, too."

"I think Musseer Grande means all right," remonstrated Capt. Gaggett, somewhat feebly.

"You are a nice judge of people, you are," retorted his wife, scornfully, "there's not a rum-sucking old sailor about the wharves who hasn't borrowed money from you, and they all mean well. You'd think the Old Boy meant well, I suppose, if he stuck you on his fork."

Capt. Raggett, guiltily conscious of having loaned Capt. Simon Bond a dollar, that very morning, held his peace.

"For a whole month that old Frenchman has been promising me my money," continued Mrs. Raggett, "says he's a letter coming from France with a lot of money in it. Where's the letter, I'd like to know? I won't be made a fool of no more."

"Wait until to-morrow night," pleaded Capt. Raggett, "the letter may come to-morrow."

"Letter from the moon," sniffed his wife, "there's no letter, you ninny; he's only playing off on me for time."

"If you please," said a gentle voice from the staircase, "is it that the post has come not yet?"

"Yes, he's come, gone and forgot it," replied Mrs. Raggett, roughly.

"And no letter," cried Monsieur Grande, with a gesture of despair. "I am desoleted, Madame Raggett. Again I cannot fulfil my promise. But patience, Madame, it must come, it must come."

"There may have been gales at sea," put in Capt. Raggett.

"Yes, yes," exclaimed the Monsieur, "and held the ships ahead, no aback; patience, Madame, patience."

The old man ascended the stairs to his room, supperless, for Mrs. Raggett had made no hospitable sign.

Monsieur Grande was the sole boarder at the Raggett mansion. The tall, thin, old Frenchman, with the oval of his face accentuated by the grey imperial at his chin, with his gentle manners and perpetual struggle with the idioms of the English language, had made many friends in the neighborhood, but he had never made a favorable impression on Mrs. Raggett. That strenuous lady denounced his gentleness as weakness, and his mistakes in language, stupidity. At first the Monsieur made a meagre living, writing for some Franch newspaper, but, latterly, his contributions seemed unwelcome, and he became back in his board. Then a letter came from France, and the Monsieur came to Mrs. Raggett, his face as radiant as a sunny day in June. In his excited manner he read that a legal matter had been settled in France, and that a remittance of 3,000 frans would be made the monsieur by the next mail. Monsieur trod on the air. He invited both the captain and his wife to a dinner at a French restaurant, and to the theatre afterwards. He promised treats, galore, to the neighbors, and presents to the dirty children, who loved to play tricks on the old Frenchman.

But day succeeded day, and the letter came not. Day by day the irony of Mrs. Raggett changed to insulting mockery, and the gentle old man was overwhelmed with shame. Wistfully he watched for the postman each day, and sadly he bowed his head, as he passed the house, without leaving the expected missive.

Capt. Raggett, entering his room, stealthily, found the old man sitting with his face on his hands.

"Ahoy, musseer," said the captain, softly, "here's a bit of bread and 'am I hooked from the safe. Eat it."

"I am desolated," groaned the monsienr, "will the letter nevaire come?"

"Musseer," said the captain, suffering from a throat obstruction, "you'd better get ready to weigh anchor to-morrow."

"Comment?" asked the monsieur.

"The missus 'll ask you to get out to-morrow," explained the captain, still suffering with impeded utterance. "I want to give you the word."

"I must leave; is it that I must leave?"

"That's what she says," said the captain, "and you come straight down to the schooner Nautilus. I'll give you a berth."

"But, my letter, captain. It will come here, and I must be here to get it."

Capt. Raggett shook his head, sadly. He did not believe in the letter, but not for the world would he have had the monsieur suspect his doubts.

Mrs. Raggett arose the next morning, in a first rate humor for an eviction. She had slept poorly, and had discovered that her husband had loaned a doller to Capt. Bond. She ate breakfast with a ferocious gleam in her eyes, which chilled the blood of the captain, and directly the meal was finished she prepared for action.

"Mister Grande," she said, sharply, entering the room of the old Frenchmen, "I've come for the money due me."

"Mais the letter, it has not come," exclaimed the old man. "When it comes I will pay you."

"Mister Grande," said Mrs. Raggett, "you will do me the favor of leaving this house and board."

Monsieur Grande made no move to leave. He sat, as if stunned, in his room.

Mrs. Raggett was a women of prompt action. She summoned a ragged, slattern of a man, called Pete, who did odd jobs for enough to buy a drink, and ordered him to carry the monsieur's scanty furniture out on the sidewalk.

The neighbors gathered, as the small pile of effects were placed alongside the gutter, and commented in undertones. When the last piece of furniture was out of the room, Pete grasped the arm of the old man, as he leaned against the wall, and began to drag him out. Then something happened. Pete lay down, suddenly, on the floor, his head striking the boards with a thump, and Capt. Raggett, his face as red as a lobster, escorted the old man carefully down stairs.

Pathetically, the old man perched himself on the pile of his household goods, and concealed his face with his hands. The neighbors looked on, silently. Many of them had undergone the same misfortune in their time, and their sympathy was not the less, because they were silent. They were not wont to be expressive of their emotions.

Suddenly, the old Frenchman's head arose, a hopeful, wistful expression came into his eyes, for away up the street he saw the grey uniform of the postman. He came briskly down the street, stopping at one house after another, until he reached the Raggett house.

"IT MEANS THAT I AM RICH."

Monsieur gazed at him, eagerly.

"Nothing," said the postman, shaking his head.

"Rien," groaned the old man, his head dropping on his breast.

Mrs. Raggett laughed scornfully, and Capt. Raggett, who was leaning against the mantel-piece in the lowest possible spirits, was so depressed at the non-delivery of the letter that he knocked a nickel clock off the mantel and with it a mass of papers tucked behind the clock.

"Orkard idjut," exclaimed Mrs. Raggett.

The captain solemnly picked up the clock and replaced it. Then he gathered up the papers. There was one bulky envelope from some installment house which had come unsealed and contained advertising matter. As the captain picked this up another letter dropped from out of the advertisements.

"What's this?" exclaimed he, "a letter for M. M. Francois Grande. Where did this come from?"

Mrs. Raggett colored. "I suppose it got tucked into that there other letter and nobody noticed it," she said. "Let me see it."

"It belongs to Musseer Grande," said the captain, and he bore it to him.

With eyes gleaming, with gaelic utterances pouring from his lips, the old man opened the letter. There was the draft for 3,000 francs, and, more, a promise of a like sum in two months.

The old Frenchman waved the draft, triumphantly.

"I was sure, captain," he exclaimed. "It is that I am riche. It is that we have a dinner at the restaurant, that the friends have presents and the children have bon-bons."

Mrs. Raggett was harsh, but she had some feeling. She declined the invitation to the dinner.

"It'd have choked me," she exclaimed.

Monsieur still boards at the Raggett house. His articles sell again, and in two months' time another draft and another dinner, more presents, more bonbons for the children.

If the imported ants really destroy the boll weevil, they will be forgiven any additional annoyance they cause in connection with the picnic pie and cake.

COLLIE RECOVERS THE CAT

Smart Dog Takes Long Journey to Find the Friend of His Youth.

A family living in Vermont removed from their long-time residence to another village, some 40 miles away. They took with them a Scotch collie of unusual intelligence, but left behind the family cat, says the New York Times. The collie and the cat had been warm friends for several years and had fought each other's battles with courage and impartiality.

After the family reached their new home the collie was evidently lonesome. One evening as the family was gathered about the open fire some remarks were made about this, and the man of the house, patting the collie on the head, said: "I am sorry that we did not bring George with us. You miss your old playmate, don't you?" The next morning the collie had disappeared. Three days afterward he came into the yard in a state of great enjoyment, indicated in the usual dog way, followed by George, the cat. Both seemed somewhat excited, and the collie showed marks of battle. Each seemed greatly delighted in the company of the other, and the old-time status quo was at once resumed.

Out of curiosity inquiry was made by the family, both at their old residence and along the line of the main highway between the two places, which developed the fact that the dog appeared at the old home, very deliberately and very distinctly induced the cat to start on the journey with him and had protected him en route, with a clash of arms for nearly every mile.

Of course, the question arose as to the language by which he told George his wants and what inducements were offered to go with him on the hazardous journey.

GROWING JET-BLACK ROSES

Secret Long Sought by Florists Has Been Discovered by an Englishman.

Florists in New York were greatly interested in the recent announcement that an Englishman has discovered how to grow jet black roses, a feat which has been vainly attempted for many years. If a dozen of them could be offered for sale to-day in the city, says the Baltimore Sun, leading florists agreed that there would be no difficulty in obtaining $1,200 for the bunch.

On a few estates along the Rhine practically black roses have been grown for the last ten years, but all efforts to eliminate a reddish tint in the center of the bud have so far failed. No secret has been more closely guarded by the German gardeners than this one of developing even a comparatively black flower. Visitors are allowed to look at the bushes and buds on special occasions, but what ingredient has been put into the soil to bring about the abnormal color has not been told even to close friends.

In California a specialist has also been partly successful in producing roses practically black, but, according to announcement in London, it remained for a peddler of shoelaces to attain perfection. It was said to-day by New York florists that undoubtedly the color is the result of a chemical introduced in the soil.

The same principle, however, is said to be involved as in the development of blue hydrangeas, which are produced by putting iron into the soil in which the plants are grown.

The black blossoms would be most popular as indications of mourning, but it was agreed by florists that the day is yet distant when any one of the freaks will be seen in their windows.

WERE NOT DESIRABLE LOTS

Man Put in Extra One in Trade and Was Afraid of Getting It Back.

"There is a little town up the coast that bears the name of Ocosta,' remarked Jere T. Burke, of the Southern Pacific law department, while in a reminiscent mood, relates the San Francisco Chronicle. "It lies just back of Gray's harbor and is the largest town in that neighborhood. However, that does not mean very much. I visited Ocosta a little while back, and while I was in town a certain fellow traded a town lot for a horse. After closing the deal the fellow that had acquired the horse hurriedly took the animal to a blacksmith shop and asked the blacksmith to shoe him in a hurry. The blacksmith seemed in no hurry, however, and the owner of the horse made two or three trips outside of the shop, looking nervously up the road.

" 'Can't you hurry that job?' he said to the blacksmith. 'I never was in such a hurry in my life.'

" 'Say,' declared the blacksmith, 'did you steal this horse?'

" 'No, I didn't steal the horse,' replied the owner reassuringly. 'I traded a lot for the horse, and by mistake I put two lots on the deed instead of one. Now I am afraid the other fellow will discover the mistake and come back to demand the horse.' "

Arkansaa River.

The Arkansas river is the only water course in Oklahoma ever navigated by steam. It has diminished year after year by pouring its waters into the irrigating ditches of arid and western plains, until now often in the summer solstice it is possible for a pony to pass from bank to bank without wetting a saddlegirth.

India's Foreign Trade.

India has three and one-third times as much foreign trade as Japan; three times as much as China, easily beating Italy and Austria, also Belgium, and surpassing the Russian empire by 21 per cent.

DYNAMITE MAKES CHANNEL

Ice in Long Island Sound Was Blown Up to Permit of Navigation.

The severity of last winter in the neighborhood of New York is emphasized by an occurrence at Port Chester, N. Y., on Long Island Sound, says the New York Tribune. Usually the harbor of that place is not closed in the winter by the ice. The steamers from New York are able to make their way up the Byram river, the mouth of which forms the harbor of Port Chester, to the wharves. In the winter just ended it has been impossible for them to do this, for ice more than a foot in thickness formed and effectually blocked navigation in the channel.

The manufacturers became tired of waiting for nature in the form of gentle spring to release them from their icy bonds. When March came roaring in, and the ice was found still to be from a foot to 18 inches in thickness, they decided to treat the ice themselves. Procuring 450 pounds of dynamite, they set to work. Beginning at the open end of the ice field the ice was divided into huge blocks with plows. Then sticks of dynamite were inserted in holes made for the purpose. The dynamite was exploded by an electric current, and three or four miniature geysers of mixed ice and water would shoot up into the air.

Foot by foot the ice was broken away. Finally, after five days of ice breaking of this sort the channel was opened sufficiently to permit a steamer to reach a wharf.

AN APPEAL FROM AFRICA.

What the People of the Dark Continent Ask of Those of Other Nations.

It is but very little that we ask—the right to work on our own soil, among our own people, ruled by some, at any rate, of our rulers, and to be permitted to eat and drink what we think good for us, instead of having deadly poison poured down our throats, says an extract from "Africa's Appeal to Christendom," in Century. Even if foreign powers should for a time be financial losers, they cannot eventually be anything but gainers—aided by a country almost unlimited in its capabilities, and the willing, grateful service of 20,000,000 of people rescued from the moral as well as physical death now staring them in the face. They will not have the obstacles presented to them in their own country; all will be with them in this crusade; leaders and people alike are stretching out their hands for aid. We appeal, not to England, not to France, not to Germany, not to other empires and states, but to the conscience of the individual men forming such nations. We appeal, not for a gift or favor, but for our right. Even as the Americans appealed for their rights, and obtained them by heroic measures, so do we claim the right for "freedom to worship God," and to worship Him by sobriety, industry, good will and all the Christian graces.

FOUND IN "LEMON" PIES.

Analysis of Restaurant Pastry Fails to Bring to Light Any Lemon.

Three lemon pies brought from the shelves of downtown restaurants were analyzed in the office of the state food inspector, and this is the composition of the filling of one of them, as announced by the chemist, reports the Chicago Record-Herald.

"Starch, in thick, firm paste, flavored slightly and very little acid; 21 per cent. sugar. Aniline coloring (methyl-orange group). The color is made synthetically from aniline, and aniline from coal. Method—di-methyl-aniline on diazo-benzine sulphonic acid. Methyl orange is poisonous in large doses. Found to contain very little flavoring and acid from lemon. Filling of starch paste, sugar and colored deep yellow.

In plain English, it was explained by the chemist that aniline is used instead of eggs. The butter was neglected altogether and the lemon juice was slighted.

Another lemon pie was beginning to decompose when it was delivered to the laboratory. There was dough at the bottom. The third lemon pie examined was said to be tolerably good. The much-abused mince pie escaped with good reputation, but one of the two pumpkin pies examined was said to be old.

Largest Known Sun Spot.

The Abbe Moreux has published a chart of the great sun spot made at the Observatory of Bourges, when on February 2 it attained its greatest extension of about 175,000 kilometers long and 102,000 kilometers wide—that is to say, about one-twenty-ninth part of the solar disk. It is the largest yet known. Lengths of 200,000 kilometers have been noted, but they represented a group of spots. One in 1858 was 250,000 kilometers long, but owing to its narrowness only measured one-thirtieth of the solar surface. The spot passed the central meridian of the sun on the night of February 3. It lay in the southern hemisphere, and varied notably in its aspect.—London Globe.

The Local Overflow........

Chas. Elvidge, living west of town, is enjoying a visit from his brother, who lives at Marshall.

The "Bon Ami" club went up to St. Hilaire last Saturday morning and spent the day as the guests of young lady friends there.

Rev. H. W. Knox left last evening to attend the meeting of the Synod, which is being held at Fergus Falls this week. He will be absent until Monday or Tuesday,

County Auditor Ford has received the returns of the work of the state board of equalization, and is busy getting the tax books to conform with the new figures as left by the board. Red Lake county came in for a general raise at the hands of the state board, the total of which makes a practical boost of 50 per cent on personal values. Nearly every item on the schedule was tilted.

Judge of Probate Tarrant has been getting a good share of the "good things" of life all summer, in his position as one of Red Lake county's popular officials. Nick got his raise in salary first, and then came a handsome new desk; later a new filing case, and now it is a beautiful new stove that puts on extra airs in the Judge's office. Nick deserves the best there is going, however, so there is general rejoicing.

Carl Krueger has been walking with the aid of crutches this week, the result of a runaway accident. Carl was driving a strange team on the Grand View 'bus Saturday evening, and some part of the harness broke, which caused the team to light out and take Carl with them for a short distance, the fall giving one of his ankles a serious sprain. No damage was done to the rig, and Carl thinks he was lucky to escape so easily.

Chas. N. Bourdon arrived home from North Dakota Saturday night, where he had spent the past few weeks finishing up some right-of-way matters for the Soo railroad company. Charley says that North Dakota is exceptionally prosperous this year, and the threshing machine is telling an interesting story of an excellent crop of grain. The new towns on Soo's west line are good ones, according to Mr. Bourdon, and those who have located there are fortunate

The first snow of the season fell Tuesday morning, and the cold northwest wind that accompanied it reminded us that the coal dealer will shortly need a hurried summons. The beautiful weather so far enjoyed this fall, has banished all ideas of winter from the minds of the people, and the snow and wind of Tuesday morning brought them back to the realization that it is high time to be looking up the overcoat and winter flannels.

Crookston Times: Judge William Watts departed last evening on his trip to Clinton and other points in Ontario, where he will spend the coming fortnight at his old home amid familiar scenes and with old friends. The Judge will be compelled to return within a fortnight as he has a session of fall court at Red Lake Falls, which will begin later in October. He was unaccompanied but expects to enjoy his trip very much. A portion of the journey will probably be made by water.

Register of Deeds Jeffers is wearing a handsome new Stetson hat these days, a present from the New York Life Insurance company. The company offered a new hat for a certain amount of new business in September and Frank got out and made a rustle and of course got the headgear. Frank made a great success of his insurance work while he worked for the New York Life, and he says it seems natural to drop the cares of office for a day occasionally and rustle up some new business.

Arthur LaPlante returned yesterday from an extended trip throughout the western part of the country, where he has been looking up prospects for a location and visiting relatives and friends. He stopped at a great many of the principal points of interest in the west, and at several places met many old-time Red Lake Falls people, whom he reports as all prospering. He has not definately decided upon a location, but will probably go to some point in the west to make his future home.

Sam Leppert, formerly of Wylie, but now in business with his brother at Sarles, North Dakota, was a caller here last Saturday on his way to Wylie to look after some business matters. Mr. Leppert says that their business at the new North Dakota town starts out in fine shape, and that he looks to see the town where they have located make an important trading point. The Red Lake county friends of these enterprising young business men will hope that they have struck it rich in their new location.

Ralph E. Wyer said good-bye to his many Red Lake Falls friends last Friday afternoon and departed on the Great Northern with the foot ball team for Grand Forks, leaving there Saturday evening for Excelsior. After a visit of a few days at his home there he leaves for Toronto to take up his new duties. It is been said many times, and bears repeating, that friend Ralph will be sadly missed from the business and social circles of the Falls, but the knowledge that he has a great field before him and will earn an important place in the business world, is pleasing to all, who as much as they regret his departure are pleased to think that he will be the gainer.

A crowd of fifteen enthusiastic foot ball "rooters" arose early last Saturday morning and arrayed themselves in their best clothes and abundance of colors preparatory to taking the N. P. train for Grand Forks to witness the game between the local and Grand Forks school foot ball teams. But Fate decreed that they should remain at home, and although their hopes rose and fell during the entire forenoon the N. P. train didn't show up until nearly one o'clock, which made it too late to get the "rooters" there in time. The game was worth journeying over the Red to see, and soft cuss words were thought of by some at least when they found that they had been beaten by a beastly old railroad.

Raymond Lasha, the three-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jule Lasha, living west of town, died last Thursday evening after a ten days illness with severe attack of cholera infantum The child was some better Wednesday of last week and hopes were entertained for its recovery, but the disease had gained too strong a hold on the little fellow and death came to relieve his sufferings. Deceased was an exceptionally bright child, and the blow is a hard one to its parents, to whom the sympathy of the community is extended. The funeral was held Saturday the remains being interred in the Louisville cemetary.

G. A. Beachem, who has been representing the Russel-Miller milling company, one of the largest mills in South Dakota, was here Monday, and left the same day on a trip through North Dakota and Montana in the interests of the Red Lake Falls Milling company, with whom he has accepted a position. Mr. Beachem is a first-class salesman and excellent fellow, and will without doubt work up a big business for the popular "Mascot" in the new territory. The company now has two salesmen on the road constantly, Mr. J. B. Dunwoody, representing them in the eastern part of the state and Wisconsin, and the fame of the great flour made by this popular mill is spreading so fast that they can scarcely keep up with the orders.

Editors Sam H. Clarke, of the Thief River Press, John W. Eastman, of the News, Harry E. Ives, of the St. Hilaire Spectator, and R. D. Carr, of the Middle River Pioneer, were passengers on last Friday evening's Great Northern on their way to Crookston, where the Red River Valley Editorial Association met in regular session that evening. A large number of valley scribes were in attendance at the session, which was one of the best yet held. After the business meeting the boys were entertained at a banquet and smoke social at the handsome home of Senator A. D. Stephens, which was a delightful affair. The association is gaining in membership, and promises to be a great benefit both from a business standpoint and socially to the newspaper boys of the valley.

Crookston Times: Rev. Ralph T. Fulton, of Warren, in charge of the Presbyterian church at that place during the past year or more was in the city this morning enroute to Red Lake Falls to attend the Presbyterian meeting, and announced his intention of resigning his post at Warren for the purpose of engaging in evangelical work. He will join Evangelist J. R. Pratt of Albany, New York and will start out on Thursday on his new work. One month will be spent by the evangelical party at Owatonna and during the entire winter services will be held at various points in the Northwest. Rev. Fulton has appeared at several band concerts here in vocal numbers and is well known to Valley people who will wish him all manner of success in his new field of labor.

GRAND FORKS VICTORS

Heavy High School Team Too Much For Red Lake Falls Lighter Players, But Game is Close Nevertheless

Manager Sam Hunt and fourteen players representing the Red Lake Falls high school football team went over to Grand Forks last Friday evening and Saturday met the speedy Grand Forks team on the university field in that city.

As the expectation was that our team would fall an easy victim to the Forkers this year, the result was a pleasing surprise to the home people, and when the news came that Grand Forks had only scored eleven points against us there was general rejoicing.

Grand Forks made her two touchdowns and kicked one goal in the first half, by a hard fought battle, every inch they gained being hotly contested. In the second half the contest was a beautiful one, Red Lake Falls keeping the ball in their opponents territory at all times, and when the whistle blew ending the game had the ball within a few yards of the Grand Forks goal. The Grand Forks team was much heavier than our boys, and had the advantage of having practiced against the varsity eleven, which made their team work better than it would have otherwise been.

On the other hand, Red Lake Falls was handicapped by having two of their heaviest line men out of the game, which necessitated changing the places of the other players, so that the showing made against the odds that were apparent was indeed satisfactory and commendable.

The Grand Forks Daily Herald had the following in regard to the game:

"In the game between Grand Forks and Red Lake Falls high school Saturday afternoon clearly demonstrated that as long as the Grand Forks highs had the weight on their side they could win out very easily. The score of 11 to 0 was made in the first half in very close scrimmages, and was fairly won. In the second helf neither side scored, but the whole time the ball was pushed back and forth in the center of the field. The chief gains made by Grand Forks were through the line and even then they worked for every yard they gained. Red Lake Falls played a scientific game and only made one fumble, and it is beleived that if the difference in individual weight had not been so much, the Red Lake Falls boys would have at least tied the score. The game was interesting and gentlemanly from start to finish and the Grand Forks highs were in the game all the while and made some fine plays."

The teams lined up as follows:

Grand Forks—		Red Lake Falls—
McGraw	le	E. Touplin
Sullivan, Woods	lt	Bourdon
Woods, Duggan	lg	J. Touplin
Wonderlich	c	Zalser
Reilly	rg	Richards

Taxes Are Payable.

Treasurer Karl M. Hanson requests The Gazette to inform the people of Red Lake county, that the remaining unpaid half of the real estate taxes must be paid before the last of October to avoid the penalty which is added the first of November. The law provides that half the real estate taxes may be paid in the spring and the remainder before October 31, after which date a ten per cent penalty is added to the unpaid half. The treasurer urges that the people call early and not wait until the big rush at the end of the month to pay the remaining taxes due.

Plummer Pioneer: Mrs. W. Wejnarowski and her baby came in on Wednesday from a homestead near Radny, in town 152-40, and left on the night train for Chicago where she will join her husband and make her future home. She has been living on the homestead, which her husband purchased last fall, for about nine months in compliance with the law governing the reservation lands, and all went well until the time came for making the second payment. This payment was sent in a few days too late and could not be accepted by the land office officials. The money was returned and there was no alternative but to give up the claim and return to the great city after a year of wasted time and the loss of the money paid on the land at the time of purchase.

University Law Team Talks To Crookston Jonrnal Man.

Crookston Journal: A badly battered up team of football players passed thru the city Saturday evening enroute home to Grand Forks from Red Lake Falls. They were the U. of N. D. Laws and they were badly beaten by the Red Lake Falls High school by the decisive score of 23 to 0. Although so badly beaten the boys had nothing but praise for the Red Lake Falls team and if the accounts they give of that team are all true Crookston will have the time of her life when she goes up against the swift little Frenchmen from farther up the Creek.

Time and again in Saturday's game the heavy Grand Forks team which out-weighed Red Lake Falls by about ten pounds to the man would rush the ball up the field thru sheer force and superior weight, until they were within striking distance of their opponents goal, when they would lose the ball on a fluke or fumble and one of Red Lake's fast little ends would snap it up and run the length of the field for a touchdown. The boys admitted that they were out played at every stage of the game.

Gets a Medal.

Spectator: The St. Hilaire creamery this week received a diploma signed by Governor Johnson for the excellent display made at the recent September scoring contest for butter at St. Paul. The butter displayed was given a mark of 94 per cent. The creamery is still doing a good business and no week so far has fallen under 40 tubs, or 2,500 pounds a week. This is a busy time of the year and farmers do not like to come in with cream, but still they are doing remarkably well.

FIRST INDOOR CONCERT

Red Lake Falls' Prize Band will Entertain at the Metropolitan on the Evening of the 27th Inst.

The first indoor concert of the season of '05-'06 by the Red Lake Falls Band will be given at the Metropolitan opera house on Friday evening, October 27, and the program, as published below, contains many excellent features that the audience will be bound to appreciate.

The band starts its winter concert work under auspicious circumstances, and there is all the reason in the world to believe that it will be a successful one.

The following is the program:

PART I.

Manager Healy submits the following article and report of the financial condition of the band, in order that the public may have a clear understanding as to what the plans are:

As the first indoor band concert of the season 1905-06 is approaching, the management desires that those who have pledged $1.00 per month for the support of the band should clearly understand the matter of accomidation tickets, and that the public in general should know the exact standing of the band up to date.

It must be understood, and will be seen in the following report, that it takes money to support an organization of this kind. The generous support given by the citizens of the city pays the largest part of the expense, namely: the leader's salary and music; and the band is dependent upon the receipts at the indoor concerts for incidental expenses. It is our aim then to do all we can to increase these receipts. To do this we have made the following arrangements which we believe is perfectly right and fair. Those who contribute $1.00 a month to the band's support shall have two reserved seat tickets to each concert. Those who have children who would be benefitted by attending the concerts, or who enjoy going, may have tickets for them free by getting an order from the manager, Lee Healy, or the secretary, J. B. Armstrong.

The band at present is in excellent shape. We have begun regular steady practice of two nights a week, have recently added four new horns, two of which are band property, and have twenty-six active members, as follows: five Bb clarinets, one piccolo, one Eb clarinet, one saxaphone, four melephones, five cornets, three trombones, one baritone, three Eb basses and a snare and bass drum. We own a full set of uniforms, two melephones, a bass drum, a fine library of music worth about $300, together with a cupboard for its preservation. There is a youngsters band which has been at work all summer and fall, and which will furnish much material before the winter is over. With the continued support of the citizens we will have by the end of the season a band which will be hard to beat. We would add that if there are any who have been overlooked, and who desire to aid the good cause, it would be greatly appreciated if they would make it known to the manager or secretary.

Following is a financial statement of the band's work from July, 1903, when Prof. Onstad took charge of the directorship, to the present day:

The Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls high school elevens will meet on the local field Saturday, in a foot ball contest, and the followers of this fascinating sport look forward to a good game.

The powress of Red Lake Falls on the gridiron does not need elucidation, and as Thief River Falls is credited with having a speedy eleven, there should be football "gore" sufficient to suit the most fastidious.

The game will be called at 2:30 p. m. and an admission of 25c will be charged to defray expenses. Everybody turn out and help our capable little bunch win further laurels.

FAMOUS HEALER HERE

Spent Sunday and Monday in Red Lake Falls and was Kept Busy Healing the Sick of the Community.

Rev. Christmas, the "divine healer" who has been performing miracles over in Dakota during the past couple of months, was here last Sunday and Monday, and during his stay hundreds of people called to have him exercise his mysterious powers upon their persons.

Sunday afternoon he spoke at the Metropolitan opera house, and the large hall was crowded to the doors. His talk was very interesting, and the audience was pleased with what he had to say. All Sunday night and all day Monday he was at the Kaufer building on south Main street, prepared to meet all that came and endeavored to relieve their sufferings.

Just what success he had here cannot be ascertained, but everyone who went to see him claims that they were benefitted. He treated but very few who were helpless cripples, and as to his work on these we have no information.

There is of course a wide difference of opinion as to the truth of his claims to possessing divine power, but be that as it may if he helps mankind in any extent his work, whatever it consists of, is not all in vain.

He has promised to return here in a few weeks, and probably by that time those who visited him will know whether or not they are cured of their ills for all time to come.

SUTOR WILL LEAVE

Likes The Washington Country As A Place Of Abode.

County Commissioner James Sutor, of Polk Center township, and one of the early settlers of that part of the county, will leave within a few months for Washington and will make his future home in the Yakima valley of that state. Mr. and Mrs. Sutor have just returned home from an extensive trip throughout that part of the country and were so favorably impressed that they decided to leave as soon as they can make suitable arrangements. Jim will not dispose of his farm in Polk Center, as he believes that this is a coming country and that farm values will materially increase during the next few years.

Mr. Sutor has been prominent in the official circles of Red Lake county for a long time, has always been counted as one of our most progressive citizens, and his decision to leave the country will be heard of with regret by his legion of friends and neighbors.

L. A. DAUTREMONT DEAD.

At the family home in this city at 4:30 this afternoon, occured the death of L. A. Dautremont, proprietor of The Gazette. Mr. Dautremont had not been real well for several months past, but he was not considered dangerously ill until two weeks ago, when he was taken to his bed, and although everything possible was done for him, he sank rapidly, peaceful death coming as a welcome relief to his suffering. The cause of his death was an acute attack of stomach trouble, for which no relief could be had. All of the children with the exception of two sons were with him during his last hours. Deceased leaves a wife, five sons and four daughters to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father. Deceased was a consistent Christian and an upright citizen and his life has been such that his reward is earned in that beautiful land that lies 'oer the unknown sea.

HENRY IRVING DEAD

NOTED ENGLISH ACTOR EXPIRES SUDDENLY OF SYNCOPE AT BRADFORD, ENG.

Stricken After the Evening Performance in Which He Portrayed the Title Role in Lord Tennyson's "Becket"—Death of Famous Thespian Considered an Irreparable Loss to the English Speaking World.

London, Oct. 14.—The English-speaking world has suffered an irreparable loss by the sudden death Friday night of Sir Henry Irving, who was universally regarded as the most representative English actor of contemporary times.

Sir Henry died literally in harness. He was giving a series of farewell performances in the English provinces and this week was playing an engagement at Bradford, appearing in several favorite roles. Thursday he presented "King Rene's Daughter" and "The Bells," and seemed to be in excellent health, taking the exhausting part of Matthias in the latter play, with all the vigor of youth. Friday night before an enthusiastic audience he portrayed one of his most characteristically intellectual parts, the title role in his own stage adaption of Lord Tennyson's "Becket," with marked success.

After the performance Sir Henry returned to his hotel, reaching his rooms at 11:30 o'clock, when it was observed that he was in great pain. Physicians were immediately summoned, but before they could arrive Sir Henry was seized with an attack of syncope and expired within a few minutes, without having uttered a word, in the presence of Bram Stoker, who had been his immediate manager for many years, and a few other intimate friends. The event caused the greatest pain and consternation among the members of the company.

WRIGHT WILL RESIGN

Washington, Oct. 13.—By reason of what appears to be dissatisfaction with the situation in the Philippines Luke E. Wright, governor general of the Philippines and president of the Philippine commission, will retire from that position about Dec. 1. General Wright is expected to arrive in the United States during that month and is entitled to six months leave of absence prior to the formal relinquishment of his labors as governor general. It is understood that he expects to return to Nashville, Tenn., to resume the practice of law.

NOT YET EXHAUSTED.

French Patience Severely Strained at Castro's Action.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Another conference between Secretary Root and M. Jusserand, the French ambassador, regarding Venezuela was held at the state department during the day. Reports of the growing impatience of the French public continue to reach here and this phase of the situation was among those discussed.

At the conclusion of the conference the statement was made that French patience, while exceedingly strained, had not exhausted itself. Another effort to settle the dispute diplomatically will be made by France before a resort to force. Meantime a French warship is hovering almost within striking distance of the Venezuelan coast and others are prepared to start for the West Indies on short notice.

Judge Eason added that both children would, however, remain under the jurisdiction of the court and that the above arrangement might be changed later.

ALL IN THE SAME BUILDING.

Young New Yorker Arrested on Complaint of Having Three Wives.

New York, Oct. 12.—Accused of having had three young wives living simultaneously in the same flat building in Eighteenth street, each of whom believed that she was the only wife, Robert Benicker was arraigned in court during the day on a complaint made by two of them. He is twenty-five years old and a painter.

The woman who claimed to be his first wife, Norma, nineteen years old, and Emily, twenty years old, who says she is the second Mrs. Benicker, told the police that a third wife was now in Fall River, Mass., and that they two, while still ignorant of each other's relation to Benicker, were persuaded by him that the Lowell girl was his sister. They said they had both supplied the money which recently sent her back to Fall River.

BIG SUM FOR CONSCIENCE FUND.

Stranger Hands $2,000 to Treasurer of Jersey City.

New York, Oct. 14.—A man who was not recognized gave City Treasurer Ely of Jersey City $2,000. The stranger said:

"Will you receive $2,000 that belongs to Jersey City and give me a receipt for it?"

"Conscience money?"

"You may enter it that way if you like."

The money was accepted and the man left unidentified.

CAUSES A SENSATION

CHAIRMAN OF PEORIA SCHOOL BOARD INDICTED FOR CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 13.—The grand jury returned a final report during the day with a true bill against Oliver J. Bailey, chairman of the finance committee of the Peoria school board, holding him on the charge of "malfeasance of office, failing and neglecting to perform his duties as such public officer and suffering and permitting one Newton C. Dougherty to misappropriate and unlawfully convert to his own use the school moneys to a large amount and neglecting and failing to perform his duties as such public officer by permitting the payment of school moneys and funds for school purposes to Newton C. Dougherty, the said Dougherty being a person not legally authorized to receive the same."

This is the way the indictment reads and the returning of the document has caused a sensation in Peoria. Mr. Bailey is one of the wealthiest men in this city, president of the Dime Savings bank, a director in the Central National bank and an officer in many other financial institutions. As chairman of the finance committee of the school board it is claimed that he was negligent and allowed Dougherty to misappropriate thousands of dollars of the public funds.

In addition to the Bailey indictment the jury censured the entire board for "criminal negligence in administering the affairs of the city schools."

Forty-three additional indictments were also returned against Dougherty for embezzlement and forgery.

Hemery covered the distance of the race, 283 miles, in 4 hours, 36 minutes and 8 seconds, or 7 minutes better than a mile a minute speed. Heath, who won last year's race in an American car, drove a French one this year and was second. Tracy, in an American machine, was third, and Lancia, in an Italian machine, was fourth.

SWEPT BY HUGE WAVE

CUNARD LINE STEAMER CAMPANIA MEETS WITH DISASTER IN MIDOCEAN.

At Least Five Persons Washed Overboard and Thirty Others Injured, Some Seriously, by an Unexpected Sweep of Water—All the Dead and Injured Passengers Confined to the Steerage.

New York, Oct. 14.—Five lives are known to have been lost and more than thirty persons injured, some of them seriously, on the Cunard line steamer Campania last Wednesday when a gigantic wave rolled over the steamship and swept across a deck thick with steerage passengers. So sudden was the coming of the disaster and so great the confusion which attended and followed it that even the officers of the steamer themselves were unable on the vessel's arrival here to estimate the full extent of the tragedy. It is possible that the five persons known to be missing from the steerage may not constitute the full number of dead.

The Campania was plowing along under full headway last Wednesday afternoon. A heavy quartering sea was running, but the weather conditions were far from unpleasant and the big boat's decks were crowded with passengers. The steerage deck was covered with merrymakers and there was nothing to indicate the approaching disaster when, suddenly, the big steamer lurched to port and scooped up an enormous sea. The wave boarded the steamer about midships on the port side and swept clear across the steerage deck, completely filling the space between that deck and the deck above and Carrying Everything With It.

The steamer's side was buried so deep that the passengers on the deck above the steerage were submerged to their waists as the immense volume of water rolled aft and then surged forward. All the cabin passengers on the upper deck succeeded in clinging to supports while the water surged around them and were saved, but the unfortunates on the steerage deck found themselves utterly helpless, the irresistible rush of waters, sweeping toward the forward part of the ship, carrying everything before it. Nettings, heavy railings and other obstructions which had been arranged near the railings to prevent passengers being washed overboard served their purpose only in part. So great was the volume and force of the rushing waters that a door in the rail was smashed and through this opening five of the helpless ones who had been caught by the wave were swept to their death. Others dashed against the rails and other like obstructions escaped death, but many of them received severe injuries. One young woman had both legs broken at the thigh and several persons suffered broken arms and ribs, while more than a score were bruised and battered.

END OF EASTERN WAR

EMPERORS OF RUSSIA AND JAPAN SIGN PEACE TREATY DRAWN AT PORTSMOUTH.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The emperor of Russia and the emperor of Japan during the morning signed their respective copies of the peace treaty, thus officially ending the war.

Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador, called at the state department and saw Secretary Root. While he had no official advices on the subject information had reached him to the effect that the emperor of Russia had early in the day affixed his signature to the copy of the treaty drawn at Portsmouth and engrossed on vellum at St. Petersburg. It was not necessary for the ambassador to convey this information officially to the state department, for according to the plan previously arranged the Russian foreign office was to advise the French government of the act of signature and that government in turn was to advise the Japanese government.

A few minutes after noon Minister Takahira appeared at the state department with a message stating that the emperor of Japan had signed the treaty at Tokio. A cablegram was immediately dispatched to Spencer Eddy, charge of the American embassy at St. Petersburg, who was instructed to inform the Russian foreign office that the emperor of Japan had performed his part and so, both copies of the treaty having been duly signed and each of the great nations lately engaged in hostilities having been officially informed of the fact, the Russo-Japanese war, which began Feb. 8, 1904, with the attack by Togo's fleet upon the Russian ships at Port Arthur, terminated officially Oct. 14.

Little remains to be done to meet the official requirements. Later copies of the treaties will be actually exchanged.

Four Negroes Drowned.

Prattville, Ala., Oct. 16.—Four negroes were drowned while crossing the Alabama river in a skiff. The skiff sank in mid stream. Their bodies have been recovered.

PUNISH INSURANCE OFFICIALS.

New York Merchants' Association Demands Action.

New York, Oct. 13.—The Merchants' association of New York, through its board of directors, has adopted resolutions calling upon the district attorney of New York county to ascertain whether an indictment cannot be found against the officers of life insurance companies who have contributed the funds of the companies to political campaign committees. The association also asks that civil action be instituted by the state attorney general looking to the restitution of the money so contributed.

In addition to the adoption of the resolutions the Merchants' association announced that District Attorney Jerome would be requested to reconsider his determination not to ask for an extraordinary session of the grand jury to consider the matter at this time.

Charles E. Hughes, counsel to the legislative insurance inquiry, and Samuel Untermeyer, counsel to James H. Hyde, had a conference in Mr. Hughes office. While neither lawyer would discuss the matter it is said as a result of the meeting Mr. Hyde probably will appear voluntarily as a witness before the investigating committee, though it is likely he will not be summoned in the immediate future.

Mr. Hughes has gone on record as refusing to promise to Mr. Hyde any special immunity or privileges as a witness and it is understood that when he appears to testify he will stand on the same footing as others.

CATTLE ON THE TRACK.

Five Trainmen Killed in Wreck at Seaton, Ill.

Oskaloosa, Ia., Oct. 16.—Five trainmen were killed at Seaton, Ill., when a heavy double-header freight train, eastbound on the Iowa Central railroad, ran into cattle on the track at a speed of twenty miles an hour. Both locomotives and eleven freight cars loaded with grain and lumber were piled in a heap beside the track. The dead are: George A. Caffal, engineer; Harry Summers, engineer; Harry Barr, fireman; L. H. Briley, fireman; P. T. Morgan, brakeman.

All the men killed lived in Oskaloosa except Briley, whose home was in Monmouth, Ill.

The engineers lived several hours after the wreck occurred, but the other three men were killed instantly.

END OF EPIDEMIC IS NEAR.

Yellow Fever Situation at New Orleans Improving.

New cases, 15; total to date, 3,329; deaths, 3; total to date, 434; new foci, 4; cases under treatment, 139; cases discharged, 2,756.

The first practical evidence of the approach of the wind up of the yellow fever fight here was the issuance of an order by Dr. White Monday consolidating several of the uptown wards and materially reducing the fever inspection in that section. The downtown wards will be similarly treated in a few days.

CHICAGO'S FREIGHT SUBWAY

Will Furnish Facilities for the Best Underground Mail Service in the World.

Far below the surface of Chicago's streets scores of electric locomotives are pulling freight trains that are taking thousands of tons of coal into the boiler rooms of skyscrapers, without dirt, noise or sign of effort in the street, says the Scientific American. They are removing tons of ashes, and caring for the excavations from the basements of buildings in course of construction. More than this, they are hauling daily thousands of tons of freight which was formerly carried over the pavements in wagons. On February 15, 1905, the company entered into a contract with the government under which all Chicago's second, third and fourth-class mail matter will be transferred from the railway stations to the new post office through the tunnels. A further plan to utilize the tunnel for mail purposes involves the building of chutes connecting the street corner mail boxes with boxes in the tunnel, where the mail can be collected by cars. When the new schemes are perfected and added to the present pneumatic tube service for first-class mail, Chicago will have the most perfect underground mail facilities in the world. Eight hundred and eighty tons of mail will be handled in the tunnels daily, in special locked United States cars. The system will be in operation by June 1.

Without noise, dirt, smoke or the slightest delay to traffic, the central business district of Chicago has been honeycombed with these tunnels. Twenty-eight miles already have been constructed, and extensions are projected.

OUR SHARE OF SIMPLON.

Drill That Made the Plan Possible Was Invented by an American.

To the great Alpine tunnels we have, of course, contributed nothing in money and probably nothing in labor. It is not probable that an American was employed in any of them. But we did contribute the original invention which enabled the Mont Cenis to get through even in 13 years, the St. Gothard in nine, and the Simplon in less than seven, says a writer in the Chicago Inter Ocean.

J. J. Couch, an American, in 1849 made the first machine rock drill. He was the first man in all the world to substitute steam or other mechanical power of human muscle in such work. The use and adaptation of his invention was slow in spreading. In 1857 it was so little known that work began on the Mont Cenis tunnel with hand drills, and machine drills were not used on the Italian end until 1860, or on the French end until 1862.

The American inventor made the Mont Cenis tunnel commercially practicable. He shortened the time of such works all over the world. He made the Simplon tunnel possible in less than seven years.

That is the American share in the great engineering work whose completion Europe is now celebrating.

WASHINGTON'S ARMY HOME

House at Valley Forge Which Sheltered the General for Six Months.

It is hardly more than an hour's ride from Philadelphia to Valley Forge, and one alights from the railway train about 100 yards from the ancient, pointed stone house of miller Isaac Potts; the structure which all America cherishes to-day as the home of Washington for the half year the continental army was encamped in that country. As nearly as can be ascertained, writes W. H. Richardson, in Four-Track News, the building is very much the same as it was when it was getting its right to a high place on history's page. "The log cabin to dine in," about which Mrs. Washington wrote, has been rebuilt, and otherwise the restorations have been carried on in a consistent manner. Externally the substantial and comfortable look of the building is very impressive, and its simple, dignified proportions appeal at once to the good taste of every visitor. The curious porch over the front door, the exquisite hand-made moldings and other details of its architecture are charming notes in the very pretty harmony. Interest in the interior is heightened by the presence in the various rooms of rare old furniture, prints, engravings and other relics of the colonial and revolutionary eras.

Biblical Arithmetic.

To the number of times Paul was stoned add the number of times he was shipwrecked; add the number of times he was beaten with rods; multiply by number of times he received 40 stripes save one; add the number of fathoms at first sounding when Paul was shipwrecked; add number of days they sailed; multiply by number of anchors cast out; and the result will be number of persons on board the ship that was to carry Paul to Rome.—Ram's Horn.

Bulls Killed in Spain.

A Spanish contemporary says that in 1904 nearly 12,000 bulls were killed in bull fights of the country. The bulls killed about 10,000 horses. The best and most valuable bulls for the arena are raised on the vast estates of the duke of Veragua, in Andalusia, who has made a fortune out of this business.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, Proprietor
SAM S. HAISLET, Editor and Manager

Published weekly, Thursday evening. Entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

The Gazette unintentionally omitted friend Henry Hennemuth's name from its article in regard to the school board last week, and in so doing slighted a very deserving member. Mr. Hennemuth is one of the oldest members of the board, and has served the district very faithfully during his tenure in office, and The Gazette had no intention of trying to depreciate his well-known ability when his name was unintentionally left from the list of members.

Justice S. L. Lewis announces that he will be a candidate for re-election at the coming fall election, and as "Louie" has so ably administered the affairs of the office during his term there is no doubt but what he will receive the unanimous support of the voters. Mr. Lewis makes an excellent justice of the peace, his law training exceptionally fitting him for the position, and it should and will be a pleasure for the people of the city to support him for re-election.

Mayor John A. Duffy gives out that he will be a candidate for re-election at the city election next month, and the news will be gladly received by the people of Red Lake Falls. Mr Duffy has handled the affairs of the office very ably during the past two years, and a re election is certainly earned. There are at present problems before the people of Red Lake Falls that are unsolved, and as Mr. Duffy has proven his generalship in the administration of the city's affairs, he is the man to be given charge for another term at least

T. A. Crompe, who has served four years as alderman from the Third ward, announces that he will positively decline to be a candidate again this fall. Mr. Crompe has been a very faithful member of the council, and his decision to retire is regretted by the people in this ward. Several residents of the ward have been mentioned as able successors to Mr. Crompe, and The Gazette has heard P. B. Gaass spoken of as a very capable man for the place. Mr. Gaass is a first-class business man and a good rustler, and it would seem that this is the kind of men the city needs during the coming two years. Wm. Findeisen has also been mentioned, and there would appear to be no reason why the Third ward cannot select a man who will continue Mr. Crompe's good work.

Here's an explanation from the Elk River Star News of something well remembered by all: "Even a blind man can now see the significance of the attitude of the jobbers and merchants of the twin cities at the election last year, with the action of the state board of equalization appointed by Governor Johnson, before him. The valuation of goods and merchandise in Minneapolis and St. Paul has been fixed at $1,769,774 less than it was a year ago, and the reason for the activity of the traveling men last year is now apparent to the most dense intellect. From these figures one is compelled to the conviction that the growth of population in the twin cities does not extend to business conditions, inasmuch as the stocks carried are nearly two million dollars less than last year. A democratic administration seems to cost the public cash as well as other things."

The state census report shows that there are 31,949 persons in Minnesota who have lived in the state since its admission to the union. Of these 4,431 are residents of Hennipin county and 3,171 of Ramsey. On the other hand 392,941 people have moved into their respective election districts within the year. The record shows a particularly roving disposition in Hennipin county where out of a population of 292,806 there were 93,501 who had moved into their election district within a year, and 90,830 who had lived in the district more than one but less than five years. Of the total population of the state, 534,872 people have either been born or have moved into the state within five years. As the state has only increased in population 228,303 this means that 306.569 have moved away or died during the five years.

The Gazette believes that Messrs. Borchers, Brady and Hennemuth should be re-elected as aldermen of the city next month, for the reason that they have demonstrated their ability as capable officers, which is what the city wants at this time more than ever before. An alderman of the Third ward and an alderman at large will have to be chosen aside from these three gentlemen, as Mr. Crompe refuses to run, and a vacancy was caused by Mr. Hatten's removal. There are several good men for alderman at large, among whom might be mentioned Samuel Gibeau, Joseph Helm, J. B. Armstrong, Ed. L. Healy, S. M. Sivertson, Theo. LaBissoniere and many others. Any of those named would be a desirable addition to the council, as all are active business men with recognized sound judgment. By all means choose the capable business men to fill the vacancies this year, should be the motto of the voters, as questions of import will surely come up that will demand careful and intelligent consideration.

HAD MANY DUCKS.

Thief River Hunter Runs Into The Game Law.

Thief River News: W. M. Bullock, a well known hunter of this city, was arrested last Saturday while coming to this city from his camp at Mud lake with 130 ducks in his possession. The arrest was made by Deputy Game Warden Jones, and was made under the game laws of 1905, which do not allow a person to kill more than 25 ducks in any one day or have more than 50 in his possession at one time.

Mr. Bullock claims—and it is undoubtedly true—that the ducks were shot by a party of hunters who are stopping at his camp and he was hired to bring them to town. As he is not a common carrier, the law gives him no right to do this. The game wardens believe that Mr. Bullock is guilty in only a technical way, but they are also firmly of the opinion that he has violated the game laws upon numerous previous occasions, and now that they have an opportunity, they say that they intend to enforce the full limit allowed by law.

Mr. Bullock was taken to Warren Saturday and on Monday given a preliminary hearing. He was not allowed, as is usually the case, to plead guilty to having one or two ducks more than fifty in his possession, but was charged with having the whole 130 and bound over to await the action of the grand jury at the November term of court for Marshall county. Greeley E. Carr, of this city, was over and acted as his attorney.

The law provides that a person shall be fined not less than $10 or more than $100 for each bird he has in his possession over 50. Therefore the lowest fine Mr. Bullock can get if found guilty is $800. It is said that the game wardens insist that he be punished for the eighty illegal birds in his possession, and it looks as if the punishment to be given to Mr. Bullock would be severe in the extreme.

Mr. Bullock has been released on bonds of $500.

SELLS DRAY LINE.

August Krenger Disposes of His Business Here.

August Kreuger, who has conducted a dray line for the past several years, sold his teams, drays and business to the Roi brothers last Saturday, the new proprietors taking possession Monday of this week. Mr. Krenger has built up a good business since taking charge of the dray line, and the new owners are fortunate in stepping into so good a proposition. They also secured the local agency for the Gund Brewery company.

Mr. Kreuger left Monday for North Dakota, where he will look up a location and engage in the harness business again. Ever since August quit the trade he has wanted to get back at it again, and he will locate just as soon as he can find a desirable field. He is an A1 harness maker and good citizen, and the people of Red Lake Falls are sorry to see him leave, but wish for him the best of success.

The new draymen are well-known young hustlers, and will undoubtedly be successful.

"Royel" Dablen insists that the mosquitoes were as thick out at Goose lake last Sunday, Oct. 8, as they have been any time this summer. This is rather a late date for the mosquito to get in his work but the past week has given them a crimp that will last them until next May.

There being a dearth of men nine of the young ladies appeared at the party in masculine attire. Local clothing stocks were called on and it is said that they were a very "gentlemenly" crowd. Among those present were: Buster, Jim, Eddie, Harry, Billy, Sam, Jack and Elmer Can you pick them out?

Climatic Cures:

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

HON. JOHN TIGHE.

Assemblyman Tighe's letter should be read by every brain worker leading a strenuous life.

Hon. John Tighe, No. 98 Remsen St., Cohoes, N. Y., Member of Assembly from the Fourth district, Albany county, N. Y., writes as follows:

"Peruna has my hearty indorsement as a restorative tonic of superior merit. At times when I have been completely broken down from excess of work, so that my faculties seemed actually at a standstill, Peruna has acted as a healing restorer, starting the machinery of mind and body afresh with new life and energy.

"I recommend it to a man tired in mind and body as a tonic superior to anything I know of and well worthy serious consideration."—J. Tighe.

Excess of work so common in our country causes impaired nerves, leading to catarrh and catarrhal nervousness—a disease that is responsible for half of all nervous troubles.

Peruna cures this trouble because it cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Miss Dora Marchand has been very sick at her home in this city this week, with some complaint of the stomach, and it was feared at one time that she would not recover. She is reported as much easier today, however, and the many friends of the family will hope that she will speedily gain her lost strength.

While out hunting the first of the week Messrs. Reichert, Wilkinson, Buse and Healy killed one of the most beautiful green head mallards ever seen in these parts. The duck was given to H. H. Zaiser, who will have it stuffed and mounted. Pretty mallards are plenty, but this handsome fellow must have been the pride of them all.

Crookston Times: Miss Lizzie Cyr, a sister of Mrs. Arthur Bockingham, who has spent several days in the city as a guest at the Buckingham home, departed this morning for Red Lake Falls, where she has many friends and relatives with whom she will enjoy a pleasant visit during the coming week or more. Later on Miss Cyr will leave for North Yakima, Washington, to make her home.

Verna Bernice, the two-and-a half-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Kindseth, of this city, died early this morning, after a brief illness with an acute attack of Bright's disease. The child failed very rapidly after being stricken with the fatal illness, and death came soon as a relief to her suffering. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the community.

Crookston Times: Henry McAnolty, Superintendent of the Red Lake county schools, was a caller at County Superintendent Casey's offices in the court house last Saturday, and both gentlemen enjoyed their lengthy chut on "shop topics" very much. Mr. McAnulty won out in a hot fight over east a year ago and has been very successful in his management of the Red Lake county schools since taking hold of them. He and Mr. Casey are old friends.

Noel Delorme, salesman at the Big Store, was very near death's door Tuesday, caused by an extremely serious attack of the nose bleed. Tuesday afternoon his nose started to bleed, and continued to bleed profusely for practically all the afternoon and evening. Medical aid was summoned hurriedly, and finally the flow of blood was stopped, but not before Mr. Delorme was very weak from the loss of blood. He is resting easily at the present writing and unless complications ensue will soon recover.

J. P. Harren returned this morning from St. Cloud, where he was called Monday evening to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Lena Harren, who died there Sunday. Deceased was 65 years of age and was one of the early settlers of that part of Minnesota. She had always been hale and hearty, and death came quite suddenly. Interment was made at that place Sunday. Mr. Harren has the sympathy of all in the loss of his truest friend and counsellor of the early days of life.

Desire Greniere, a young man about twenty-five years of age, died at his home in this city Monday, after an illness of several months with quick consumption. Deceased was married a little over a year ago, and leaves a wife and an infant child, besides a father, mother and several brothers and sisters to mourn his demise. The funeral was held from St. Joseph's yesterday, interment being made in the Catholic cemetery. The bereaved family has the sympathy of all.

Crookston Times: Dick Cooper, the Crookston mason contractor, who has been engaged at Red Lake Falls on the new school building during the past few weeks, expects to be several weeks in finishing up his work at that place. Mr. Cooper spent Sunday in the city with his family, returning to the Falls this morning. He has secured an additional contract which he will have to complete after finishing the school building. The latter however will not take a great while to wind up.

The Gazette has added four new names to its list this week, making a total of ten for October, and the month is barely half gone. The Gazette gives the people the best paper for the same price, and of course is given the preference when a Red Lake county man wants a newspaper. We would like fifteen more new ones by November first in order to make a grand total of twenty-five for the month. Tell your neighbor that if he isn't already taking the Gazette now is the time to subscribe.

Drew Marshall writes to his mother here that he has given up football at the U. this fall, as it takes up so much of his time from his studies, but that he hopes to be able to be a candidate for the 'Varsity eleven next year. Drew has the making of a speedy football warrior, and if he goes after honors on the gridiron will surely get them. However, his decision that he went to the U. to learn something besides the great college game is a wise one, and he will surely be better by achieving success in his chosen work than gaining fame as a football player.

P. B. Gaass has an elegant corn display in his office, and to one who will look at Pete's excellent collection the fact that Red Lake county is a banner corn county will be strongly impressed upon the mind. The samples were collected at random in the fields in this neighborhood, and they cannot be beaten even by the big Illinois corn stories. Red Lake county is every day demonstrating her ability as an agricultural county in every sense of the word, and as her prowess as a stock raising section has long since been recognized, there is good argument to be advanced in favor of this as a place of abode.

Mrs. W. A. Schreiter charmingly entertained a party of ladies at her home yesterday afternoon, in honor of her 54th birthday anniversary. Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had Kidney Trouble, which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since, as I find they have no equal," W. A. Percy couldn't move her so he made up his mind to let her stay there for awhile. She met him with a limp and an overgrown calf-like smile and 'lowed as how she'd go home and behave in the future.

He was at Henry Lemieux's place east of town and with his father was driving in a wagon. The road was rough and the little fellow got thrown out. He fell between the wheels one of which passed over the arm and broke it. Medical aid was sought at once and the boy is resting as well as could be expected with the injured member in plaster of paris.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

IS A WAR EXPERT

PRESIDENT WATCHES CLOSELY ARMY AND NAVY MATTERS.

HOW HE IMPROVED GUNNERY

Instrumental in Having New Bayonet and Sword Adopted in the Army—Effort to Secure War Data from Japanese Proves Futile.

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt finds time in all the multitude of big state questions and international problems that pour in upon him to give a good deal of attention to the details of various branches of the public service. He is an enthusiastic army and navy man, and everything pertaining to the personnel or equipment of those branches is of intense interest to him. There is not an expert in the navy who watches more closely the performance of battleships and cruisers in their maneuvers and the records made by their gunners at target practice. He is well acquainted with the technical part of gunnery, and the reports of the performances of the various ships are sent to him as soon as received, and he reads them with eagerness and discrimination.

When Mr. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy, he did more to advance the efficiency of the men behind the guns than anyone connected with the service for years. On several occasions he accompanied the fleets on their evolutions and at target practice, and he made a study of all things pertaining to the manipulation of the big and little guns on the ships. During target practice out on the open sea Mr. Roosevelt would become so intensely interested in the shots as to be oblivious to his surroundings. He would shout and cheer lustily when an extraordinarily good shot was made. To this day he maintains his interest in this very important part of the service, and frequently consults with the naval officers regarding methods of improving marine gunnery, and criticises reports that do not show what he conceives should be a good record of efficiency.

The president takes just as deep an interest in the army as he does in the navy, and studies the details of the army equipment just as he does that of the navy. A recent example of this was when he sent a letter to the general staff recommending that a change be made in the bayonets and swords used in the army.

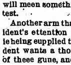
Wants Effective Weapons.

MR. ROOSEVELT believes that if a weapon is to be used at all it should be substantial and effective. In this letter he criticised the light stiletto-like bayonet that has been in service as being too small and brittle for practical use. He called attention to the fact that on the slightest test the thin blades would snap. In an engagement where the bayonet would be called into play, this weapon would be useless, and the president therefore recommended that something more substantial be adopted, and on his recommendation the general staff has adopted a broad, strong, dagger-like bayonet that can be wielded with terrific effect, if necessary, in close quarters.

The president had the same criticism to make of the pretty, toy-like swords which the officers have been wearing, and he recommended that for actual service a good, sharp saber be substituted, one that would prove a weapon of defense and could do execution. Rather than depend on the fancy dress swords that have been in use, he declared it would be better to do away with such a weapon altogether and if practicable arm the officers with rifles. The letter suggestion he, of course, did not advocate, as he admitted it would be impracticable for officers in command of troops to be encumbered with a rifle. He did insist, however, on a change in the sword, and the general staff has in consequence adopted the saber, which is to be ground to a razor-like edge, so that it will mean something when used in a contest.

Another arm that is engaging the president's attention is the new rifle, which is being supplied to the army. The president wants a thorough test to be made of these guns, and suggests the trials of their effectiveness be made on long ranges, such as may be found at some of the western posts.

Little Data from Japanese War.



IN THEIR consideration of the adoption of new bayonets and sharp sabers, army officers have been eager to secure information regarding the use of such weapons in the present war between Russia and Japan. They have had considerable difficulty in gaining the knowledge desired. The war department recently invited the Japanese minister here to furnish what information he could on the

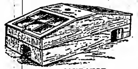
POULTRY AND BEES

HOME-MADE BROODER.

Description of One of Simple Construction Which Is Said to Do Good Service.

The accompanying pictures and condensed descriptions are furnished by C. E. Beare, Trumbull county, Ohio, to the Ohio Farmer. Fig. 1 shows the outside of the brooder. Fig. 2 is a cross section. Heat is supplied by lamp, L, over which is suspended an inverted box, A, with a galvanized iron bottom, and having openings in its sides for ventilation. An inch above the sheet iron is a platform, C, on which the chicks are placed. The space between forms the hot-air chamber, B. Fresh air is supplied by shaft, H, passing into the chamber, B, where it is heated and rises through a warm air pipe, F, into the brooder pen, P, P, where it is partially confined by the cover, D, which may be adjusted to suit the size of the chicks. About the edge of D is hung a woolen curtain, E, notched so that the chicks may run in and out. The warm air finally finds an outlet through the ventilators, V, V, V, in the roof, M, M. Platform C is hinged at T, so that the portion R may be raised or lowered by cord, N. When raised it is supported by the spring, S. It is important that this slope be inside rather than outside the brooder, as the chicks are invited by the open door, and when this leads them to the bottom of the slope they will generally find their way up. If the slope is outside they may fail to find the entrance. Raising the slope gives a double floor space and plenty of room inside the brooder on bad days. Have a thermometer in brooder. Start chicks at 95 degrees and gradually reduce to 90, 85, 80 degrees, with less heat as they grow older.



THE INCUBATOR.

SECTIONAL VIEW OF INCUBATOR.

HENS FOR HATCHING.

Plymouth Rocks Are Undoubtedly the Best Sitters and Mothers.

In spite of the fact that incubators and brooders have been brought to a great state of perfection, the old hen will still be used on most farms. The hen is a more skillful producer of chicks than is the incubator in the hands of the average man and woman. Where only a few fowls are kept and only a few chicks are desired the hen will still hold her popularity. We believe that, where the farmer desires to keep a good-sized flock of hens, and to raise yearly in excess of 100 chicks, the incubator should be used. But we realize the fact that on millions of our farms just enough fowls are kept to consume the scraps from the table.

The hens for setting purposes must come from some of the breeds that have not had the maternity instinct bred out of them. We would not think of selecting any of the Leghorn breeds for setters. Probably there is no breed that produces better setters than the Plymouth Rocks. But in selecting a fowl for this work, preference should be given to those that are light in weight, as the heavy fowls both break eggs and trample chicks to death. We have found the lighter weights to give most excellent satisfaction. While they cannot cover so many eggs as the larger fowls, they will bring more chicks to maturity.

CACKLES AND CROWS.

The hen is the friend of the small capitalist.

The hen is still a leader as a money maker on a small scale.

The farm boy and the farm girl should each own a flock of fowls.

Everybody interested in raising poultry should own an incubator.

An incubator raises more hens, consequently more eggs, which makes more money.

Separate the fowls into small flocks of 25 to 30, putting the hens by themselves and dividing the pullets. You can then feed them better and get more eggs.

For incubating purposes care should be exercised to make sure that a large proportion of the eggs are fertile. It will also pay to candle the eggs after they have been in the incubator for a couple of days, removing the eggs that are not fertile.

Small Egg Producers Infertile.

Contrary to general impression, the fewer eggs a hen lays the more are they likely to be infertile, if we can judge anything from experiments carried on at the Maine station. There an attempt was made to breed downward in egg yield as well as upward. The experimenters were surprised at finding an unlooked-for obstacle, namely, the infertility of the eggs from hens producing the fewest.

WASHINGTON LETTER

SECRETARY ROOT IS REMARKABLY YOUNG LOOKING.

"UNCLE JOE" IS INCENSED

Hospitality That Counts a Good Deal in Legislation—President Disapproves of Growing Bureaucracy in Navy Department.

WASHINGTON.—Secretary of State Root did not stay in Washington long enough to warm his desk chair after taking oath of office. Nevertheless he is secretary of state and the country feels easier. The people are perfectly content that he should go away off to Labrador to get a complete rest from a hard year's labor in his profession, gain that physical tone that is so necessary to a public man and come back like a young man of 30 to take up diplomatic and state puzzles with a zest.

Mr. Root is the youngest looking man there ever has been in the public service, and he will come back from the wilds of Labrador looking little more than half his age. There was a general approval throughout official circles when Mr. Root was named by Mr. Roosevelt as premier of his administration. No one had guessed this able statesman, who had a little over a year before resigned from the cabinet because he wanted to get back into the profession of law, where he could earn a competence before he grew too old. Few believed that, with all the enormous fees he had won in that short time, that he had acquired a sufficient fortune with which to return to public life. But it appears that within that time Mrs. Root has fallen heir to several millions, and her distinguished husband can follow the bent of his ambition in a political way.

"I guess I was bitten by the diplomatic bug during our trouble in China over the Boxer uprising," said Mr. Root the other day, when he admitted that he wanted to be secretary of state. Mr. Root conducted much of the diplomatic business of that period, Secretary Hay being absent from Washington. He ran both the war and state departments, and his promptness and decision counted for much.

Better Estimate of Canada.

VICE PRESIDENT Fairbanks seemed to strike a popular chord in his address at Sault Ste. Marie a few days ago when he spoke of the similarity of purposes between the United States and Canada and the harmony that existed between the two countries. Mr. Fairbanks has seen a great deal of Canadians during the seven years he has been a member of the high joint commission whose object has been the settlement of a few troublesome questions between the countries. The vice president, as everyone knows, is not given to the expression of very decided views on any subject, but he said the other day to a friend:

"It would be a good thing if the people of the United States had a closer knowledge of their neighbors to the north. Let them go up into the broad wheat lands of that mighty country stretching west from Winnipeg to the Rockies and they will find a pretty good lot of Americans there." This opinion is agreed to by a group of Washington correspondents who recently made a tour of Canada from Montreal to Victoria, spending a week in the great northwest wheat field. The people met by the Washingtonians and what they are accomplishing were revelations.

Some of these newspaper men had never gotten rid of their school geography ideas that a few miles above the international boundary began the reign of eternal snow and ice. They knew, of course, that the Canadian Pacific railway ran clear across Canada, but without a practical view of what this railroad had accomplished they could not realize the possibilities and greatness of the country. When they found good farmers from the United States raising as high as 40 bushels of wheat to the acre as far north as Edmonton they reformed their ideas of geography and their estimate of Canada.

A Strict Economist.

"UNCLE JOE" CANNON, the genial speaker of the house of representatives, declares it is all a double blanked lie about his washing his fingers in the public drinking glass on the platform table at the Portland exposition and sneaking a piece of ice out of the pitcher with which to cool his fevered brow. This being a lie, so also was the companion story that the wife

JUST A QUERY.

They fill the windows with their hues,
The rainbow is a faded thing
Beside the pinks and greens and blues
That riot on the hats of spring.
The hats, of course, are "just too dear,"
But where are the styles of yesteryear?

The picture hats are gardens fair,
With blooms of every sort and kind;
They nod and blossom everywhere,
In front and also stuck behind;
They droop in clusters o'er each ear,
But where are the blooms of yesteryear?

The hats are built of gauze and tulle,
Of every shape and form and name;
They never fashion them by rule,
For never are there two the same;
Some droop, some jerk, some flout [illegible]
fleer,
But where are the shapes of yesteryear?

The crowns, they say, will tower high,
And this, of course, is rather nice;
But crowns, no matter how they try,
Can ever soar and reach the price,
No matter how they climb and rear,
But where are the hats of yesteryear?

The husbands note the handsome hats,
The ribbons and the tulle and plumes,
The peaks, the tall ones and the flats,
The buckles and the brilliant blooms,
And then they stop to shed a tear,
But where are the bills of yesteryear?

DID A GOOD TRADE IN TRAMPS

Shorty and His Pal Prospered Until the County Law Was Changed

SAID the man behind the bars:

"Yes, I'm in again, but I much fear there ain't nothing coming to me, like there was the last time I was in jail when I was released. It was in the Leland county jail, and there I met Shorty. Shorty got religion from the Sunday school reading a lady handed in to us. He got affected by them uplifting words and the drunkard's fate something emotional.

"He comes to me and says, earnest: 'You ain't walking in the light, are you?' I say my business carries me out nights mostly. Then Shorty groans and exhorts on till I see the folly of my ways and groans with him.

"Shorty says: 'I believe you, my brother man; I believe your repentance is as sincere as mine is. Then I'll help you. When I get out I know of a nice little business to go into, and I'll take you for my partner.'

"Shorty and me was released together. Says Shorty:

"'All my plans is perfected, but a little capital to start matters must be forthcoming.' We wait till night and it's dark and in a crooked street by a high board fence we see a prosperous-looking gent.

"'You hold him and I'll go through him,' says Shorty. Which pleases me very much. Most of them that gets converted is narrow and prejudiced, but Shorty is the broad-minded kind. But we only lift $3.85 off him, and take a sneak right out in the country, where our business interests is.

"In the morning we meet our first customer out on the road. He's a young feller, and Shorty says:

"'My unfortunate fellow man, will you come along with me, if I give you 50 cents and take you to a place where you can get as much more and tobacco and beer?'

"HALT," SAYS SHORTY.

"That lad's reply is to cling so close to us it's hard walking. By afternoon we have six more boboes in a procession, and can't get no more to do business on, because we give them 50 apiece, and it uses up our capital.

"'Halt!' says Shorty. We're in front of a country barber shop, which is also a saloon and a candy store, and sells cheese. Here Shorty draws up his procession. A little fat man darts out to us.

"'Hello!' he says to Shorty. 'Then you really gone in the business you was speaking of last time. I see you? Seven of them? What you want for the seven?'

"'Here's the goods, all delivered to you, and I want my price, which is a dollar fifty apiece for them,' says Shorty. And the holler that goes up from the little man is heartrending.

"'There ain't no consideration for others in business matters,' says Shorty. 'I had to pay them something to come along, and I must make my profit, mustn't I? Then here's my partner to share the proceeds. Then, if you won't pay me my price, we goes to Batsey's. Attention, boys!'

"'Oh, don't think of going to nobody else!' implores the little fellow. 'I'll take the goods at your price.' He hands Shorty a dollar and a half for each tramp, and the seven tramps, not knowing much of what is going on, is lined up, trying for all they're worth to make a fine impression on whoever's going to be good to them.

"'Well, boys,' says Shorty, 'you are now arrested, so make yourselves comfortable. This is Constable Blathers!' The little constable bows cringing to them. 'You'll be tried and sentenced in just a little while now.'

"Well, them seven breaks ranks and sets up a holler. What are they arrested for? They want to know. And Shorty has betrayed them! Then just let them get at Shorty!

"'Now, now, boys,' pleads the constable, 'don't carry on so, please! I'd rather lose the price I paid for you than have any hard feelings against me in Leland county. I always tries to treat the boys [illegible] have [illegible] go to jail, it'll only be for a few days. Here!' and he runs amongst them, passing out a 50-cent piece to each. 'There's tobacco for you, and, if you'll step inside and be arrested like gentlemen, there's a cool, refreshing glass of beer. So, now, do be gentlemen.'

"And, as the goods we just sold and delivered is assured they won't get more than three days on the charge of vagrancy, they go inside with the constable, who rubs his hands saying they mustn't be mad at him, and remember they're gentlemen and will they have light or dark?

"'You see,' explains Shorty, 'Leland county pays a bounty of seven dollars a head for every tramp caught and lodged in the jail. The judge and the constable goes shares on the bounty. These constables is most kind to the tramps, as you see, because they want them to come back and be arrested maybe a dozen times during the summer. While I was meditating over the cup of sorrers which I had drunk to the dregs, it struck me that here was a good chance to make a honest living.'

"It's then along comes the judge. He's a nice, fatherly old feller, and greets us cordial, especially Shorty, who's been up before him before.

"'No,' says Shorty, 'me and me friend ain't going in again; we're in business for ourselves now.'

"'Oh!' says his honor. He's a little cold and lost his fatherly interest in us then, seeing there ain't no bounty attached to us. He goes into the barroom, bowing very dignified but fatherly to the prisoners, which was the most important looking lot of prisoners you ever see, as for the first time in their lives, maybe, they was worth seven dollars a head. They is most meek, and takes a day or two most grateful, for it's a very pleasant jail, without no separate cells, but 30 or so in one ward, and nothing to do but be sociable.

"Shorty and me goes out the next day and searches the country, and gets a very nice assortment of goods to the number of 11. The fact is we prosper so that at last we think a vacation is due us. We goes down to the seashore and has a swell time of it.

"The first morning we're back we start right out to do a little business. And all morning not a tramp do we see! We hunt up one road and down another and over others, but there ain't a tramp in sight, and we're beginning to feel sore. When afternoon comes we spy a hobo away off, but he's running for all he's worth, which is seven dollars, and is out of sight before we can hail him. A couple of hours later we spy another. His hair is standing out behind him, and he'll get in trouble for exceeding the speed limit.

"'There's something wrong,' says Shorty, much apprehensive. 'What's all this excitement about?'

"Another tramp comes tearing down the road.

"'Don't stop me!' he implores, piteously. 'The consequences would be more than I could bear. Lemme get out of this county as quick as I can. To-morrer will be the fust of the month.'

"'What of it?' we ask.

"He tells us and we let him go. Ain't we in hard luck, though? 'The supervisors has passed a new law, to go in effect the first of the month,' that tramp had said to us. 'After that every hobo is arrested on sight, and gets three months. It ain't that that's so terrifying, but the new law says that every inmate of the county jail will be put to work!'"—N. Y. Sun.

Decanting Wines.

A deposit will often form in the bottles, making it necessary to decant them into other bottles. The utmost care should be taken not to disturb the sediment. In large wine cellars in Europe, and in the cellars of hotels and clubs employing a cellarman, a decanting apparatus is used. Decanting old wine is a delicate operation, which requires much care. The bottle should be carried in a horizontal position and, gently lifting it to a slanting position, insert a "power corkscrew" and remove the cork without shaking. Then raise the bottle so that you can see through the wine by candlelight and, in drawing it off, stop as soon as the cloud or deposit in the bottle gets to the neck. In this way you avoid having any deposit, cloud or crust flowing into the decanter.—American Wine Press.

Barber Wanted Talk.

"Now say something," said the barber to the customer in his chair whose beard he had just finished trimming.

"What's that?" said the astonished customer.

"That'll do," said the polite barber. Naturally, the customer had been sitting with his mouth closed, and what the barber wanted was to see him with his mouth open, so that he could detect any stray projecting hair ends of the mustache that he might have overlooked in trimming it.—N. Y. Sun.

WE WIN ONE MORE

Heavy Law Department Team of North Dakota University Gets a Drubbing on the Local Gridiron.

The foot ball game at this place last Saturday proved to be all that it was advertised to be, and the large number of people that turned out to witness the contest between the law department eleven of the North Dakota University and the local high school team were more than paid for their trouble.

The visiting eleven was composed of men averaging about 160 pounds, and beside our team of "kids" looked decidedly formidable, but the play developed that what our boys lacked in weight they made up in speed and headwork.

Red Lake Falls kicked off to the laws in the first half who run it back a few yards. On the next few plays the heavy backs of the opposing team crashed through and over the Red Lake Falls line for gains of from two to four yards at every attempt, and their heavy formations resulted in the ball being moved steadily toward Red Lake Falls' goal. The locals finally threw the law quarter for a big loss, and Grand Forks punted, Red Lake Falls running the ball back several yards. By a series of fast end plays, line bucks, etc., they soon pushed the opposing team back over the ground they had gained by their punt, and without losing the ball walked over their line for the first touchdown. Goal was kicked making the score 6 to 0 in our favor.

Red Lake Falls again kicked off, and the laws started to repeat their line smashing performance. Yard by yard the Red Lake Falls boys were pushed back toward their goal, and seemed unable to stop the advance. When the ball was within about seven yards of the goal the laws tried an end run which resulted in a fumble, and Harry Garceau, the fast little end, snapped up the ball and sped down the field towards the opponents goal, with splendid interference on the part of our players. He got over the line, but the referee decided that he had gone out of bounds about the middle of the field, and the ball was brought back to that place. The local boys worked steadily ahead however, and within a few moments were again behind the goal posts. Goal was kicked making the score 12 to 0.

Red Lake Falls again kicked off. the laws running the ball back about 30 yards. By their favorite line smashes the laws again walked toward the Red Lake Falls' sacred goal, sometimes only making their five yards in three downs by a fraction. They held the ball though, and kept up their heavy smashes until they were on Red Lake Falls' three yard line. where they were held just as time was called for the first half.

In the second half Red Lake Falls kicked off to the laws, who by a trick change of the ball carried it back past the center of the field. They were soon held for downs, and the Red Lake Falls boys, playing faster than ever, walked straight to the line and put the ball over for the third touchdown. Goal was missed, score 17 to 0.

Red Lake Falls kicked off again and soon downed the runner who brought the ball back; the line smashes of the Forkers were weaker and they were soon held for downs. Red Lake Falls repeated their performance of going straight down the field for a touchdown without losing the ball. Goal was kicked, score 23 to 0.

Red Lake Falls kicked off again and soon held the Forkers, getting the ball and starting on their increasing march toward the opponent's goal. A costly fumble here lost them the ball, and the Forkers had made but a couple of trials to gain when time was called and the game ended with the score 23 to 0 in favor of Red Lake Falls.

The game was a very clean one and was entirely devoid of "rag-chewing" in any form. The University boys were all gentlemenly fellows and played a clean game, but were out of their class.

For the fast little high school team that represents Red Lake Falls there can be nothing but praise, as they are ably sustaining their championship record of the past years.

The next game will be with Thief River Falls, which will be played on the local grounds Saturday of this week. The usual price of 25c will be charged, and of course a big crowd will turn out to see the game.

RUSHING THE WORK.

Topographical Survey Of Northern Part of the State Being Hurried.

Crookston Times: State Ditch Engineer Ralph, was home yesterday for an over Sunday visit with his family, reports work on the state topographical survey as being rushed ahead in a very satisfactory manner by his crew of engineers, under his own personal supervision.

Mr. Ralph has six engineers working under him on the big survey and is making rapid strides with the work. Wadena county which has during the past few weeks commanded his attention is about all wound up and Cass county will next receive the attention of the engineer. By the time the work is done in that section, the cold weather will permit of rapid work in Cook and Lake county and later the marshy regions of the extreme northern portions of Beltrami and Roseau will be covered.

Mr. Ralph expects a rigorous winter's work in camp while pushing the work forward, but will have his survey completed and reports all prepared on schedule time.

GOOD RECRUITING FIELD.

The Door City to the West Gets First-Class Men for Uncle Sam's Army.

Kansas City, Mo.—The local army and marine recruiting stations have, in the past six months, enlisted more than 625 men in the service. The army station, of course, takes the larger part of the recruits, but the marine service has been strengthened by 153 men from Kansas City and vicinity since January 1.

Sergt. J. R. Thompson, in charge of the marine office here, has not been looking for new men for the past two months. The marine corps has been full and only the most desirable applicants have been examined. The corps is to be greatly enlarged in the next few months, however, and, beginning to-day, Sergt. Thompson wants to send out 50 men a month.

The army station has been kept busy all the year. On average 80 men a month have been sent to army posts throughout the United States. About one-third of these were old soldiers who reenlisted. These recruits have been fairly evenly divided among the cavalry, infantry and artillery. A good number have been sent to the engineer, hospital and signal corps.

The class of recruits sent out from here has been exceedingly good, the recruiting officer says. Very few of the army recruits have to draw out clothing before they are sent to their post.

"Most of the men we take in the marine corps," said Sergt. Thompson, "are well dressed and have money. We try to keep out all the other kinds. When a man comes in here wearing respectable clothes and carrying himself as though he meant business, we encourage him to join. When a slouchy, tough-looking man who needs a shave and a bath comes shuffling in and asks: 'What yer payin'?' we don't rush up and grasp his hand as we would had he looked frankly at us and said: 'I want to enlist; can you send me to-day?'"

"Farmers make the best recruits," said Sergt. J. A. Stanley, of the army station. "We get lots of men from the little towns within 100 miles of Kansas City, and they are always the right kind. They are strong, willing to work and are happier at an army post than a city man is."

A naval recruiting station will be opened here in a few weeks.

STOP WHITE SLAVE TRADE

European Countries Agree to Suppress the Importation of Girls.

Berlin.—The Reichsanzeiger publishes the details of the treaty entered into between 12 European countries, which, having been duly ratified, went into effect July 18. The contracting states obligate themselves to establish each a bureau for the collection of information regarding the solicitation of women and girls for immoral purposes abroad. These bureaus are to exchange information among themselves and a strict watch is to be kept particularly at large railway stations and sea ports, to detect persons engaged in the white slave trade. Efforts are to be set on foot among fallen women for the purpose of obtaining information about those engaged in the traffic.

The contracting states further obligate themselves financially to assist girls enticed abroad to return home. Agencies and persons advertising positions abroad for women are to be subjected to special police attention.

Most of the signatories include their colonies, but Germany, Great Britain, Denmark and Spain reserve decision regarding their colonies until a later period.

The Reichsanzeiger also prints the proclamation issued by Imperial Chancellor Von Bulow announcing that the treaty has been ratified and is in effect.

While no American state is party to the treaty, it is understood that efforts to suppress the trade will apply equally to those who try to entice girls to North or South America.

CARP IN CABBAGE PATCH.

Extraordinary Crop Raised by a Farmer in New York State.

Canandaigua, N. Y.—Eight hundred carp in a cabbage patch will give a slight idea of the number of these fish in Canandaigua lake. The connection may not at first be plain, but it must be understood that the lake and the cabbage patch are adjacent.

Thomas Rafferty, who owns a farm on the east shore of Canandaigua lake, about three miles from the village, went out to his cabbage patch the other day and found it covered with dead and dying carp, some of them of ten or fifteen pounds weight. They had invaded the land during the high water of Sunday and had been left stranded by the receding waters.

Rafferty didn't consider this a piece of good luck. He could not get rid of the fish all alone, and soon his neighbors came to him with loud complaints and threats to have him indicted for maintaining a nuisance. Finally he called on the village board of health for aid. There were more 800 of the fish.

Optimism Up-to-Date.

A Harvard alumnus of some distinction, at a recent fraternity dinner, gave a definition of optimism that hasn't heretofore been published, but which is good enough for print. He declared that he was an optimist, but not one of that extreme type who, if falling from the top of the Flatiron building in New York, would be able to say as he passed each story: "Well, I'm all right up to date!"

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

LEE IS LET GO FREE

Indictment Against "One Hennery" Dismissed At Request Of County Attorney This Week.

"One Hennery" W. Lee, the famous Thief Riverite who was busy trying to indict half the people in the county last fall, and in the end got indicted himself, will not have to answer to the grand jury this fall, as at the term of court here the action against Mr. Lee was dismissed at the request of the County Attorney, the defendant ordered discharged and the bondsmen released.

The indictment of Mr. Lee was never taken seriously by the public, and was the outcome of a difference of opinion between Thief River Falls people, and the general opinion is that the County Attorney acted wisely in asking the judge to dismiss the case.

THE OCTOBER APPORTIONMENT.

Red Lake County Schools Get Cash to Help Them Out.

Auditor Ford received notice yesterday of the October apportionment of school funds, which gives Red Lake county $8,070.70—$2.30 per capita for her 3,509 children attending schools.

The several larger districts of the county will receive money as follows as their share: Red Lake Falls city, $1,255.80; Thief River Falls, $1994.40; St. Hilaire, $594.70; Plummer, $71.30; Brooks, $92.00; Wylie, $75; Terrebonne village, $184.00; Lambert, $94.30.

The money has been placed to the credit of the various districts of the county, and will come in handy in squaring up some summer's indebtedness.

SHORT TERM OF COURT

Judge Watts Sits on Bench of Justice for a Brief Session of District Court This Week.

Judge William Watts and his stenographer, Chas. M. Lohn, arrived in the city Monday morning to attend the session of the district court of Red Lake county, and remained a couple of days to hear a few of the cases on the calandar, adjourning yesterday until November 13, when the regular cases will be taken up and tried. the jurors having been summoned to appear on that date.

The case of Ernest Buse vs. The First State Bank occupied most of the time of the session, and all the evidence was taken and the case closed, the attorneys being given time to present their arguments in brief form, when the decision will be rendered.

Mrs. R. H. Duntley, of St. Hilaire. applied to the court for a divorce from her husband, R. H. Duntley, and no appearance being made by the defendant, her motion was granted. The disposition of the property was settled by Mr. and Mrs. Duntley before the case came to court.

Mrs. John Blaine, of St. Hilaire, was granted a divorce from Blaine, on the grounds of desertion, etc. The defendant did not appear.

M. C. Harlow applied to the court to have certain blocks vacated in Knox's Addition to Red Lake Rapids, said application being granted by the Judge.

Several cases were stricken from the calendar, and those remaining will be tried in November.

INSTITUTE NEXT MONTH

Red Lake County Farmers will be Given Valuable Pointers by State Institute Workers in November.

Mayor John A. Duffy is in receipt of a letter from Dr. J. C. Curryer, stating that Red Lake Falls would be given a session of the state farmers' institute on Thursday, November 23, at which time a corps of lecturers and demonstrators will be here to give the farmers of this section some valuable pointers.

The work of arranging for and advertising the institute will be in the hands of the Commercial Club, Mr. Duffy being president and Mr. Germo secretary. It is the intention to secure the personal pledge of every farmer in the territory to attend, in order that the crowd will be large, and as all the work is done free of charge it would seem that the farmers would gladly avail themselves of this excellent opportunity to get valuable information on the different phases of farm work. Advertising matter will be scattered about shortly, and every effort made to make the meeting one of the biggest ones of the many held throughout the state.

Plan early on attending this meeting, farmers of Red Lake county, and help yourself and the state out in their good work.

An institute will also be held at St. Hiliare on the 24th and at Thief River Falls on the 25th.

ANSWERS FINAL CALL

Miss Dora Marchand, Popular Young Lady of Red Lake Falls, Summoned to The Other Shore.

The people of the city were shocked beyond expression Tuesday afternoon when the announcement came that Dora, the eldest daughter of Mrs. Georgiana Marchand, had died at her home in this city, and everywherr could be heard expressions of heattfelt sorrow and sincere regret.

Miss Dora was one of the city's brightest daughters, of a cheerful and lovabla disposition, always ready to aid the needy and comfort the despondent, and in every family in the city today there is a feeling that there is lost to all more than a mere friend and neighbor.

About three weeks ago Dora was compelled to give up her school at Badger on account of not feeling well enough to work, and came home to rest up for a month or so under her mother's care. She was about the house for a week or so, but kept growing worse until being forced to take to her bed about ten days ago. All that medical skill could accomplish was done, and Saturday it was reported that she was much better, these cheering reports being joyfully received by the people. She failed rapidly again Monday, however, and late Tuesday afternoon death came to relieve her of all earthly cares, and the spirit of a noble character was wafted back to its Maker, death being caused by an aggravated attack of appendicitis and stomach trouble.

Miss Marchand was born in Polk county (now Red Lake county) a little over twenty-one years ago, and has lived in Red Lake Falls practically all her life. While Dora was [illegible] young girl her father was left totally blind and helpless by an affliction, and she left school and took up teaching in order to help her mother bear the added burdens in caring for the family. She has taught constantly during the past several years, and besides being a liberal provider for the household was the chief comforter and counsellor to her widowed mother. Her life was an earnest one, yet in the pleasures of the social whirl she was a favorite leader.

The removal by death of any member of a family is indeed hard to bear. but when a daughter just budding into womanhood is snatched from a home left sad by the loss of the husband and father, the burden must seem unbearable, and the home that is thus left darkened by the visitation of the Angel of Death can ne'er be the same again.

The funeral was held today from St. Joseph's church, a large and sorrowing crowd of people turning out to pay their last tribute to one whom they loved in life as in death. Many beautiful floral offerings covered the casket when consigned to its eternal resting place, which but reprented few of the many charitable acts and kindnesses of the life of the one departed.

Words fail to express the genuine sorrow and regret over the sudden death of one so well known and admired, but to the bereaved mother and family the sincere sympathy of the community is cold consolation indeed.

Thief River Foot Ball Team Scalped Several Times Over on Local [illegible] Last Saturday.

During the past few months of strenuousness in Red Lake county the Thief River papers have taken pleasure in referring to the "slowness" of Red Lake Falls in all respects, and time and again have told their readers how much faster the inflated burg up the river could move on any occasion. They have waited for a chance to prove their assertions, and lately have howled long and loud of the prowess of their football team, which has been coached in the art pig-skin pushing by one Bockman, who achieved fame once upon a time at the University of Minnesota.

Their high school not providing sufficient material for a team capable of cleaning up Red Lake Falls, they called upon all the outsiders they needed to fill up the holes, and last Saturday came down to clearly demonstrate how little the Red Lake Falls high school team really knew about the great college game.

But the game itself proved somewhat different than they had contemplated, and the shock that they received after the first few minutes of play, echoed and re-echoed up and down the frog pond at the bend in the Red Lake river.

A detailed write-up of the contest would be far too amusing for a country sheet to print—'tho Judge or Puck might do it justice—and all that is necessary to tell is that at the end of the game it was found that Red Lake Falls had piled up 85 points, while the up-river team had not even got a glimpse of the outlines of the Red Lake goal posts.

Thief River Falls could not do a thing against the speedy little Red Lakers, and our boys simply scored whenever they wanted to, giving each member of the team the ball and shoving him over for a touchdown time and time again.

The game was devoid of interest except for the fact that we had been led to believe that we would be wiped off the earth by the boys from the great town up the creek, but the result demonstrated that wind constitutes about 70 per cent. of the claims made and repeated by these over-enthusiastic boomers.

The Thief River boys were fine young fellows and were well pleased with the treatment they were accorded by the people here. Their defeat will probably be the means of spurring them on to greater efforts, and in time they may be able to do better work.

Cheated Death.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had Kidney Trouble, which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety. but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since, as I find they have no equal," W. A. Schraiter, druggist guarantees them at 50c.

HEALER COMING BACK

On Sunday, the 12th he will speak at 2:30 p. m., and all day Saturday, Sunday and Monday will be at the house adjoining J. W. Bourdon's residence to consult with the people.

While here before Rev. Christmas treated a large number of people from this neighborhood, and will likely do a big business when he comes again.

PROPERTY NOT ASSESSABLE.

Judge Watts Makes Ruling Regarding Property of Lodges.

The case of the State of Minnesota vs. the Clearwater Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Red Lake Falls, came up at the session of court here this week, and after listening to the arguments the Judge decided the case in favor of the lodge. The case arose over the taxes assessed against certain property on which the lodge holds a mortgage, and the Judge upheld the lodge in the contention that any property of the lodge is not assessable.

ORDER IS HUNG UP.

Order Of Interest To Country Merchants Is Postponed.

A great deal of opposition has been raised to the numbering of rural free delivery boxes and the allowing of mail matter addressed with the number alone. The country merchant feel and justly so, that this will give the mail order houses and unfair advantage as it would not be necessary for them to get the names of those getting their mail on the rural routes but they could get the numbers from the post office reports and swamp the country with their catalogues. Congressman Steenerson was so strongly importuned by the merchants in his district that he sent a letter to the Postmaster General stating that he felt this opposition was justified and asking that the order be revoked.

Last Thursday he received a letter from the Fourth Assistant P. M. General McGraw stating that the the order had been somewhat of an experiment although the post office department had thoroughly considered the matter before giving the order. But there had been so much opposition registered to that part of the order which read: "Mail addressed to merely the number of a box may be delivered so long as no improper or unlawful business is conducted in this manner." That the erection of this part of the order has been deferred indefinitely pending an investigation by the department.

JERRY SIMPSON DEAD

"SAGE OF MEDICINE LODGE" SUCCUMBS AFTER ILLNESS OF SEVERAL MONTHS.

Death of Former Congressman Removes One of the Most Unique Characters in American Political History. Succeeded in Turning Eastern Sentiment Regarding Populism From Ridicule to Respectful Consideration.

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 24.—Ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson died at 6:05 a. m. of aneurism of the aorta. Mr. Simpson had been in ill health for nearly a year. Six months ago he consulted a specialist at Chicago, who pronounced his case hopeless.

Ex-Congressman Simpson was born in New Brunswick on March 31, 1842. At fourteen he began life as a sailor and during his twenty-three years following that pursuit commanded many large vessels on the Great Lakes. In the Civil war he served in the Twelfth Illinois infantry. He came to Kansas in 1878. Originally he was a Republican, but later became a Greenbacker and Populist. He was a member of congress from 1891 to 1895 and from 1897 to 1899, being nominated the last time by both the Democrats and Populists. After he left congress he moved to Roswell, N. M., where he engaged up to the time of his death in stock farming. He returned to Kansas a month ago and entered a local hospital for treatment. His condition became hopeless ten days ago and since then the patient kept alive principally by sheer force of will. His wife and son were at the bedside at the end.

Washington, Oct. 24.—"The sage of Medicine Lodge," as Jerry Simpson was called, was in many respects one of the most unique characters which adorns the history of congress. He was swept into the Fifty-second congress by a wave of Kansas Populism, charged with the task of reforming the whole government and living down the only advance information his colleagues had of his personality—that he wore no socks. The latter task he succeeded in accomplishing in fact, although he never quite lost the title "Sockless Jerry." His legislative accomplishment consisted in turning popular Eastern sentiment regarding Populism from scorning ridicule to respectful consideration during his service of six years in the Fifty-second, Fifty-third and Fifty-fifth congresses.

IN BANK SUSPENSION

PROMINENT PENNSYLVANIA POLITICIANS INVOLVED WITH DEAD CASHIER.

Pittsburg, Oct. 19.—The investigation of the affairs of the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny City, Pa., whose doors were closed Wednesday afternoon by the comptroller of the currency following the sensational suicide of T. Lee Clark, the cashier, is making good progress.

The developments following the tragedy and the closing of the bank have been startling, involving as they do the names of several prominent citizens who have been active in state politics.

According to the statements of President Gwinner the bank, through Cashier Clark, had furnished most of the funds used to float the Santa Fe Central Railway and the Pennsylvania Development companies, in which former State Senators W. H. Andrews and Arthur Kennedy and Francis J. Torrance were deeply interested, together with Cashier Clark.

The two projects are allied ones. Former Senator Arthur Kennedy is president of the Development company and former Senator W. H. Andrews is president of the railway.

Francis J. Torrance is heavily interested in both concerns and his confidential man, W. S. Hagan, is secretary of both companies. T. Lee Clark, the dead cashier of the Enterprise, was treasurer of both companies and the bank was the custodian of their bonds, which were held as security for the loans.

POLICE CHARGE CROWD.

Ten Rioters Killed and Hundreds Wounded at Santiago, Chile.

Santiago, Chile, Oct. 24.—A meeting called to petition the government to abolish the import tax on Argentine cattle degenerated into a most serious riot owing to the absence of the troops, who are now engaged in maneuvers two days' march from the capital. The police, who were unable to maintain order, charged the crowd and killed ten persons and wounded hundreds. The rioters destroyed street cars and smashed electric lights.

The rioting was continued during the day, many persons being killed or wounded. The rioters attacked the gas works but were repulsed. The troops are expected back here soon.

Powers May Deliver Ultimatum.

Vienna, Oct. 23.—It is reported here that the powers intend to present a joint ultimatum to the Turkish government on account of its resistance to their financial control of Macedonia and that if the ultimatum should be disregarded the powers will make a naval demonstration.

KILL ALL FRIENDLY NATIVES.

Mindanao Insurgents Threaten Extensive Operations.

Manila, Oct. 21.—The insurgents of the Cotahato valley, island of Mindanao, now threaten extensive operations in an endeavor to capture and kill all the Moros who are friendly to the government.

It was announced from Manila Oct. 15 that Chief Ali, with his followers in the island of Mindanao, had taken the aggressive and was killing many Moros friendly to the government. Ali informed the chiefs who are assisting the federal troops to effect his capture that he is now preparing to meet and kill them. Provisional companies of troops were then taking the field for a vigorous campaign, aided by friendly natives.

THIRTY PERSONS INJURED.

Missouri Pacific Passenger Train Derailed.

Fort Scott, Kan., Oct. 21.—Westbound Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 40, carrying cars from Kansas City and St. Louis, was wrecked five miles west of Fort Scott early in the day, the result of a broken rail. The baggage and express cars, mail car, smoking car, chair car and a sleeper left the track and turned over. Fully thirty passengers were more or less injured, but no one was killed. Only three or four of the injured were seriously hurt.

Of the injured only thirteen were seriously enough hurt to be taken to the hospitals. The others, whose injuries were slight, continued their journey.

CUNLIFFE ARRESTED

MAN WHO STOLE $101,000 FROM ADAMS EXPRESS COMPANY A PRISONER.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 19.—Edward George Cunliffe, the Adams Express company employe who disappeared from Pittsburg with $101,000 in cash, was arrested here during the day. He made a confession and expressed his willingness to return at once to Pittsburg. Nearly $80,000 of the missing money was recovered at the home of Cunliffe's brother-in-law at Bristol, Conn., but the remaining $21,000 has been destroyed, according to the prisoner, who feared that the bills of large denomination would lead to his detection. He asserts he burned the money in his room in a hotel here.

MORE MONEY RECOVERED.

Friend of Cunliffe Had $9,065 in His Possession.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 21.—The chances that the police will recover nearly the whole of the $101,000 stolen from the Adams Express company in Pittsburg by Edward G. Cunliffe, who was arrested Thursday and taken to Pittsburg Friday seem bright. Friday night $9,065 was found in a trunk belonging to a butler in a prominent family at Black Rock, but the butler and the family by whom he is employed are ignorant of the fact that the large sum found was within the house. Although there is a possibility that the remaining $10,500 has been destroyed the police are of the opinion that another accomplice of Cunliffe may reveal the hiding place of the missing sum. In round numbers $90,000 have been found within the past twenty-four hours. After figuring on about $500 as the amount which Cunliffe has spent up to the time he was arrested, there remains the sum of $10,500 yet to be accounted for.

PRESIDENT AT MOBILE.

Forty Thousand People Turn Out to Hear His Address.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 24.—All Mobile lent itself to the reception of President Roosevelt during his two hours' stay in this city. There was general closing of all business houses and along the route of the procession to the stand on Bienville square, where the reception ceremonies took place, residences and stores were covered with decorations of lights and bunting in the national colors. The route lay out Government street, one of the most noted drives in the South, for ten blocks. The sidewalks and streets along Government street were packed with humanity and at McGill Institute, Barton academy, and other points hundreds of school children were massed singing national songs as the procession passed. Cheer after cheer welcomed the president.

At Bienville square 40,000 gathered to listen to the president's address and those within hearing cheered his remarks enthusiastically.

DESTRUCTIVE STORM

WORST GALE IN YEARS SWEEPS OVER LAKES HURON, ERIE AND MICHIGAN.

Forty-two Vessels Known to Have Been Destroyed and a Number of Others Are Reported Missing—Loss of Life Already Reported Aggregates Twenty-one Persons and Later Details May Increase the Number.

Cleveland, Oct 21.—From the best information obtainable twenty-one lives and forty-two ships were lost on the Great Lakes as a result of the terrific gale which raged for thirty-six hours These are the minimum figures and will in all probability be increased by later reports. Telegraph wires are down in many sections and it is believed that when full reports are received the number of lives and vessels lost will show the storm to have been the most disastrous in the history of the inland seas.

Fear is felt for the safety of the steamer Siberia, owned by the Gilchrist Transportation company of this city. She was last seen near Long point and was then flying signals of distress. No tidings have been received from the vessel at the office of the company here.

NINE HEROES PERISHED.

Captain and Crew of the Minnedosa Sank With the Ship.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 23.—Nine heroes went down with the schooner Minnedosa. The hurricane sent mountainous waves to batter to pieces the wooden boat wherein eight men and one woman were imprisoned. The vessel creaked and groaned and timbers snapped. The bulwarks went over. The wind hissed through the rigging and sent it piece by piece into the lake. Great seams were opened and water poured into the schooner's hold.

Ahead tumbled the steel steamer Westmount, staunch and able. Behind pitched the Melrose, a frailer vessel than the Minnedosa and faring worse. The Minnedosa was going to the bottom. Every one of the nine human beings aboard her knew it. Why should they take others with them? Perhaps if cast loose the Melrose could save herself.

Captain Jack Phillips' voice rose in command over the howling storm. One of the crew held a sharp axe. It fell—and the blow set the Melrose free and she sailed on through the shrieking storm to safety. A few moments later the Minnedosa with its nine heroes and a cargo of 75,000 bushels of wheat lurched to the bottom off Harbor Beach, Lake Huron.

STRUCK BY TORNADO

VILLAGE OF SORENTO, ILL., SUFFERS SEVERELY AS RESULT OF WIND STORM.

St. Louis, Oct. 19.—A tornado struck the village of Sorento, Ill., thirty miles northeast of St. Louis, during the night, killing four persons, injuring thirty-five others, of whom three will probably die, and doing a great amount of damage to property. Forty houses were blown to pieces or carried far from their foundations. A complete swath was cut through the town. Everything in the track of the tornado was reduced to debris or blown away. The dead are: Mrs. Thomas File, thirty-eight years old; Mrs. William Stewart, sixty years old; William Maun, sixty years old; Harrison Mann, eighteen years old.

Telegraph communication with Sorento is cut off and details were obtained over the long distance telephone. The four killed were in their homes in different parts of Sorento. All were badly crushed. The storm approached from the southwest and swept through the main residence portion of the town. The work of the wind was quickly done and then followed a heavy downpour of rain, accompanied by vivid lightning and deep thunder. Those who escaped injury were for the time fear stricken, but finally set to work to recover the injured.

COLD SNAP IN LOUISIANA.

Yellow Fever Situation Continues to Improve Rapidly.

New Orleans, Oct. 21.—The predicted cold snap struck Louisiana during the night, sending the temperature down into the forties over a large portion of the state.

The fever situation in both the city and state continues to improve rapidly. Only one death occurred all over Louisiana in the past twenty-four hours.

There is rapid improvement of the situation along the Gulf coast. The embargo against bananas, it is announced, will be lifted Nov. 1.

British Officers Released.

Tangier, Oct. 23.—The scout ship Pathfinder has arrived here with Captain Crowther and Lieutenant Hatton, the British officers who were captured by Moroccan tribesmen. The liberation of the officers was effected through the good offices of the shareef of Wazzan and in exchange for the brigand Valiente.

ROBBERS SECURE $3,000.

Representative of Philadelphia Bank Held Up.

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 21.—An Italian was held up by two highwaymen near Harrvilla and robbed of $3,000. The Italian is the representative of an Italian bank in Philadelphia and comes here once a month to get money for deposit from men employed on the Pennsylvania Railroad company's new line. Friday was payday and the amount given him for deposit was about $3,000. While driving to the railway station at Herrvilla, accompanied by a farmer, he was held up by two men armed with rifles and relieved of the money. The Italian took the train for Philadelphia without notifying the Lancaster police of the occurrence.

SHORTAGE OF $9,000 ALLEGED.

Cashier of St. Louis Postoffice Under Arrest.

St. Louis, Oct. 21.—Francis B. Runder, cashier of the St. Louis postoffice, was arrested during the afternoon by Postoffice Inspectors Stice and Sullivan following the discovery of an alleged shortage of $9,000 in his accounts.

Immediately after taking Runder into custody the inspectors applied to the United States district court and a warrant charging embezzlement was issued. It is said that Runder admitted the alleged shortage to the inspectors and said he was responsible for it, but that he did not know what had become of the money.

TRAFFIC PARALYZED

GREAT SECTION OF THE RUSSIAN EMPIRE ISOLATED BY RAILROAD STRIKE.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 23.—The railroad strike situation shows no signs of amelioration. Traffic across the central belt is paralyzed, while a general strike which broke out during the day at Kharkoff has cut off communication in another great section of the empire. Kharkoff is the most important railroad center in Southern Russia. The strike affects among others the line to the Donetz coal region, on which Russia largely depended for fuel during the crisis in the oil regions, and the line to Odessa and Sebastopol. Moscow is isolated, except the line to St. Petersburg, while the capital has an international line, via Fydtkuhnen, open to Berlin. The strike is part of a general scheme of the Social Democrats to compel the emperor to grant universal suffrage and complete political freedom, but the plan of the leaders is to avoid a collision with the authorities. Their present purpose is to make tests of the strength of the various organizations preparatory to the inauguration of a general strike of all classes in support of the Radicals at about the time the national assembly meets.

PITCHED BATTLE IN STREET.

Mutinous Crew Attacks Officers After Landing.

New York, Oct. 23.—Four men were badly wounded in a series of battles between the officers and crew of the lumber schooner Ida B. Gibson of Seaford, Del., and afterwards between Milton Corderry, the cook of the Gibson, and the police. For an hour about daybreak the cook, armed with a shotgun, stood off the police reserves of the De Lancey street station and wounded a detective and night watchman.

Frank H. Medley, the mate of the Gibson, is missing and may have been murdered by the crew of the Gibson, who were compelled to pump the craft from Norfolk to New York.

Rollarity Nedelke of St. Louis was instantly killed by a passenger train while walking on the railroad track between St. Cloud and Clear Lake. His father was walking with him and was a witness of the accident. They had been working at Black Duck and were making their way home to St. Louis.

W. C. Arona, the "bonesetter," who operated in Hudson and Superior, Wis., entered a plea of guilty to charges of bigamy and grand larceny before Judge Spooner at Aitkin, this state, and was sentenced to six years in Stillwater, five years being the limit on the first count and one year was added for the other.

Stringent methods to prevent the spread of tuberculosis have been determined upon by the state board of health. A circular letter will be issued to the county school superintendents instructing the members not to hire a teacher affected with tuberculosis nor to permit a child suffering from the disease to attend school.

The state auditor figures that the state will realize from the timber sale held last week more than $800,000. The 80,000,000 estimated feet of timber, at the average price paid, $8, would bring $640,000, but the actual amount of timber usually runs about 25 per cent ahead of the cruisers' estimates. All the timber has to be cut in two years or it will revert to the state.

The charges made by Mrs. Agnes Marshall in her suit for divorce against Thomas Marshall in the Minneapolis district court are rather out of the ordinary. She says that during the past nine years, by reason of her consort's cruelties, she had been obliged to lead a nomadic life, having moved sixteen times during this period. She is twenty-six and he thirty-eight years of age.

STRIPED GRUNTS KISSING.

Little Fishes in New York Aquarium Afford Amusement to Spectators.

In one of the tanks at the aquarium is a lot of striped grunts, handsome little fishes from Bermuda, which do one thing that is peculiar and different from anything done by other fishes in the aquarium, relates the New York Sun.

If the outside of the glass front of the tank is stroked softly and repeatedly downward with the finger tips, the pretty fishes will come swimming toward it, opening wide their mouths, which are within of a beautiful red.

When near the glass two of them, each with its mouth wide open, will approach each other and gently lock jaws in an attitude of kissing. Sometimes when the glass has been stroked as many as four pairs of the striped grunt have gone through this performance at once.

Why the striped grunts do this nobody knows. It may be due to some sort of hypnotic influence exercised by the moving finger tips; but men experienced in the care of fishes in captivity have observed that all the species of the grunt family do the same thing in like circumstances.

Little Plume, chief of the Blackfoot Indians, of Montana, in company with another Indian chief and an interpreter, visited the aquarium one day recently and viewed all the other exhibits with interest, though with all of the Indian's traditional immobility. But at the exhibition given by the kissing striped grunts Little Plume laughed outright.

DIVORCE IN ENGLAND.

Report of Consul General Evans Shows That It Is Increasing Rapidly.

Interesting statistics concerning divorce proceedings in England and Wales are contained in an official report from United States Consul General Evans, at London. The number of petitions for dissolution of marriage filed in 1902 was 1,050, as against 900 filed in 1901. Of the petitions filed in 1902, 609 were filed by husbands and 441 by wives. The prompt action of the courts is shown by the fact that of the total number of petitions filed, 930 were set for trial during the year. Judgments were rendered as follows: For husband, plaintiff, in 397 cases; for wife, plaintiff, in 284 cases; for husband, respondent, in 17 cases, and for his wife, respondent, in ten cases. The annual number of petitions filed during the past five years was 853.

The population of England and Wales is about 33,000,000, showing, says Consul General Evans, that there was one petition for dissolution of marriage in some form filed in the courts in 1902 for about each 32,500 population. He adds that experimental or trial marriages, seemingly, are not encouraged by the ease of securing divorce, and that the sentiment of the people, sustained by the courts, is clearly against divorces or the divorced. The established church, he says, is against performing the marriage ceremony where either party to the proposed marriage is a divorced person.

TOUGHNESS OF CURRENCY.

Single Treasury Note Will Sustain Lengthwise a Weight of Forty-One Pounds.

That Uncle Sam's notes stand a great deal of rough and careless handling is a fact that impresses itself upon anyone who has ever chanced to note the manner in which the average cashier pulls and jerks the bills before he pushes them through the window to the waiting patron, says the Philadelphia Record.

A single treasury note measures 3⅛ inches in width by 7¼ inches in length. It will sustain, without breaking, lengthwise, a weight of 41 pounds; crosswise, a weight of 91 pounds. The notes run four to a sheet—a sheet being 8¼ inches wide by 13½ inches long. One of these sheets lengthwise will suspend 108 pounds, and crosswise 177 pounds.

It will be observed that a single note is capable of sustaining crosswise a weight of 91 pounds, which is twice the amount by nine pounds, of the weight the note can sustain lengthwise; while in the case of the sheet, the crosswise sheet lacks 39 pounds of double the sustaining power of the lengthwise sheet.

English Village Life.

A writer in Cornhill says of village life in England: "The plain and terrible truth of the matter is that, in districts far wider and more numerous than the kind dwellers in towns and casual visitors to our pretty villages can be expected to realize, the agricultural laborer, his wife and his children are half-starved from the beginning to the end of life."

Miss News and Comments in the Duluth News-Tribune places it all in a nut shell in the following: "You can't tell how many business men there are in a town by the number of ads in the local newspaper, but you can tell how many of them are prospering."

Editor Anthony Lafreniere, of the Grand Rapids Independent and Northdome News, has branched out still further and the Itasca Iron News, published at Bovey, comes to hand this week with his name at the head. Tony is an old Red Lake Falls boy, and his newspaper success is gratifying to the people here.

Thief River Falls' municipal campaign grows hotter with each succeeding day, and the prospects for an old fashioned municipal scrap are interesting. S. T. Johnson is the only candidate who has yet come out in the open for Mayor, and according to the News, the people are up in arms trying to get some one to run against him. Each ward has several different candidates for alderman, and altogether things politically are promising to furnish some excitement for the sleepy old town before they choose their new officers.

Gustaf Widell of Mankato will be a candidate for secretary of state at the next republican state convention. General Widell has been prominent in state politics for several years, serving on the state committee, and last year an effort was made to get him out as a candidate for secretary of state. He declined to oppose Peter E. Hanson at that time. Other probable candidates for the nomination are E. A. Nelson of Hallock, Captain Joseph Osborne of Minneapolis, Julius Schmahl of Redwood Falls, J. J. Doman of Ada, now assistant secretary, and George B. Brown, son of F. P. Brown, former secretary, and now chief clerk in the office

A STRONG MAN NEEDED.

The Warroad Plaindealer contains the following editorial in regard to the gubernatorial situation, and while there will probably be a happy conclusion to the problem presented within a few short months, the Plaindealer's straight-from-the shoulder article is worthy of consideration. The Plaindealer says:

"Every democratic paper in the state is urging the nomination of Julius Block for governor, by the republicans. Mr. Block is a worthy man, and a good republican, but he does not possess the element of strength necessary to be elected governor of Minnesota next year. If Mr. Block is nominated, the Plaindealer will do all it can to bring about his election, but we will be doing so fully expecting his defeat, just as we did in the case of Dunn last year. Before the republican state convention last year, every democratic paper in Minnesota was shouting for Dunn. The Plaindealer was opposed to the nominating of Dunn, because we realized that he could not be elected; but we gave him all the support could after the convention. This paper has repeatedly pointed out that the man who defeats John A. Johnson for reelection must be a man well known thruout the state, a man of whom it cannot be said he had any part in the Dunn-Collins factional feud, and that he must himself be a good campaigner and a vote-getter. Mr. Block is neither a good campaigner nor a vote getter. It cannot be reckoned that the German democrats will vote for Mr. Block because he is of German decent. The nationality racket cannot be counted upon for votes, and should not be.

"The Scandinavian republicans will support the nominee of the party if the right man is put up, and they have strongly demonstrated a number of times that F. M. Eddy is satisfactory to them. Eddy is wholly free from any disaffection in either the Dunn or Collins wing, and would be acceptable to every republican in the state, and is not being urged by democrats.

"There may be another republican in the party in Minnesota thus happily situated, but if there is we have not heard of him.

"Do not let the democrats name our gubernatorial candidate for next year. If the party gets a little sense and tenders Eddy the unanimous nomination, it will witness a most spectacular campaign, and will elect the governor by the largest majority ever given a candidate for governor in Minnesota."

CONDEMN THE LAND.

Great Northern Uses Law To Get Right-of-Way.

Peter Sjoberg of Badger, Lewis Nordquist, of Roseau, and O. P. Gurkerud from midway between Badger and Roseau, were named by Judge Grindeland as commissioners to appraise the value of lands needed by the Great Northern railroad in the extension of its line from Greenbush to Roseau this fall.

The land which will be appraised and condemned by the road is for the most part owned by non-residents and the appointment of a commission of appraisers to set a value upon all property which will have to be used, was a legal step required.

Engineer Eddy of the road and right of way Agent Clay were present at the proceedings and the road was represented legally by Attorney Wilkinson.

SCHOOLS GET MONEY

County Auditor Gets Check For $3957.00 As State Aid To Public Schools Complying With Law.

Auditor Ford received a check the first of this week for $3957.00, as state aid for public schools in Red Lake county that had complied with the new 1905 law relative to ventilation, number of months school, etc.

The schools to which the aid is given, with the amount each gets, are as follows:

High Schools.
Red Lake Falls	$1495 00
Thief River Falls	1375 00
Graded Schools.
St. Hilaire	525 00
Semi Graded Schools.
Dist. 79 Terrebonne	240 00
First Class Rural.
Dist. 1, Wylie	114 00
Dist. 81, Terrebonne and Gervais	97 00
Second Class Rural.
Dist. 27, Lake Pleasant and Terrebonne	37 00
Dist. 63, Red Lake Falls Twp	37 00
Dist. 112, Gervais	37 00

First class rural schools are given $125 and second class rural $50, and the amounts above for these are merely a pro rata rate of the amount appropriated by the legislature, leaving the balance to be made up later.

Red Lake Falls gets more than Thief River under the allowance, but the balance above what Thief River gets is a balance due this district unpaid from former years.

This makes a substantial increase to the receipts of the various school districts, and should be an incentive for every district to try and comply with the provisions of the chapter, in order to receive the aid.

The amount due each district has been placed to their credit in the county treasury, and can be drawn on application of the treasurer of the district.

BIG GAME SEASON

Hunters are Preparing to Take to the Tall Timber.

The approaching cold weather calls to the mind of the hunter the fact that the big game season opens within a few days, and already parties are organizing to have a go at the moose, deer and carribeau in the tall timber east of here. There is a fascination about a big-game hunt that puts the sportsman's blood at fever heat long before the season arrives, and already many are polishing their trusty rifles and looking to their equipment. We would suggest that the local nimrods look well to the game laws before they make their pilgrimage to the big woods, and for their benefit we publish the following condensed outline of the state law governing the handling of big game:

Deer and Moose—Season for killing.—No person shall hunt, catch, take, kill, ship, convey or cause to be shipped or transported by common or private carrier, to any person, either within or without the state, or purchase, expose for sale, have in possession or under control at any time, any elk, moose, thereof, including the hides and horns, except as hereinafter provided. Provided, that deer may be killed between Nov. 10 and Nov. 30 of the same year, and any deer or any part thereof may be had in possession by any person during the same time; but no person shall kill or have in possession during said time more than two (2) deer, or parts thereof; and provided further, that any person who is lawfully in possession of any deer, or part thereof, may ship or cause the same to be shipped in the manner provided for by this chapter, but not otherwise; and provided, further, that male antlered moose may be killed between Nov 10 and Nov. 30 of the same year, and any such male moose, or part thereof, may be had in possession by any person during the time aforesaid, but no person shall kill or have in possession during said time more than one (1) male moose, or part thereof; and provided, further, that when any deer or such male moose, or part thereof, are lawfully in the possession of any person as provided for in this chapter, such person may continue in the possession of the same for five (5) days after the time herein limited for killing said animals; and provided further, that no cow or female moose can be killed or had in possession at any time.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. A JUDGE'S WIFE CURED OF PELVIC CATARRH

MRS. MINNIE E. McALLISTER.

Light on Female Diseases.

What used to be called female diseases by the medical profession is now called pelvic catarrh. It has been found by experience that catarrhal diseases of the pelvic organs are the cause of most cases of female diseases.

Dr. Hartman was among the first of America's greatest physicians to make this discovery. For forty years he has been treating diseases peculiar to women and long ago he reached the conclusion that a woman entirely free from catarrhal affection of these organs would not be subject to female diseases. He, therefore, began using Peruna for these cases and found it so admirably adapted to their permanent cure that Peruna has now become the most famous remedy for female diseases ever known. Everywhere the women are using it and praising it. Peruna is not a palliative simply; it cures by removing the cause of female diseases.

Peruna builds up the nerves and restores the appetite and digestion.

Dr. Hartman has probably cured more women of female ailments than any other living physician. He makes these cures simply by using and recommending Peruna.

She Suffered For Years and Doctors Failed to Give Relief —Cured by Pe-ru-na.

MRS. MINNIE E. McALLISTER, wife of Judge McAllister of Minneapolis, Minn., and Chaplain Loyal Mystic Legion of America, writes:

"I suffered for years with a pain in the small of my back and right side. It interfered often with my domestic and social duties and I never supposed that I would be cured, as the doctor's medicine did not seem to help me any.

"Fortunately a member of our Order advised me to try Peruna and gave it such high praise that I decided to try it. Although I started in with little faith, I felt so much better in a week that I felt encouraged.

"I took it faithfully for seven weeks and am happy indeed to be able to say that I am entirely cured. Words fail to express my gratitude. Perfect health once more is the best thing I could wish for, and thanks to Peruna I enjoy that now."—Minnie E. McAllister.

Mrs. Esther M. Milner, DeGraff, Ohio, writes:

"I was a terrible sufferer from female weakness and had the headache continuously. I was not able to do my housework for myself and husband. I wrote you and described my condition as near as possible. You recommended Peruna. I took four bottles and was completely cured. I think Peruna a wonderful medicine."—Mrs. Esther M. Milner.

Congressman Thad. M. Mahon, of Chambersburg, Pa., writes:

"I take pleasure in commending your Peruna as a substantial tonic and a good catarrh remedy."—T. M. Mahon.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peruna does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

As a tonic and nerve invigorator Peruna has no equal.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

Deputy Boiler Inspector Albers has spent the past few days at home attending to some business matters. He has finished the work of inspection of boilers in Norman, Polk and Red Lake counties, and now starts in on Beltrami and Clearwater. Louie is kept busy now that he has five counties to cover, but is doing the work well, and has not been bothered with complaints.

Fall work throughout the country is now fairly well along, and one of the best things to which the township officials could turn their attention for a few days now would be the cutting of the weeds alongside the roads. The law provides that these weeds shall be cut, and common sense dictates the same course. Tall weeds alongside the roadways tend to gather snow, and keep the roads in bad shape throughout the winter. The cutting of these weeds has always been an important matter.

Auditor Ford received a request from the state game and fish commission this week, asking him to return all the unused game license blanks he could spare, as the demand was far greater than the supply. The new license law has turned many dollars over to the state game and fish commission this year, and as a result the game protection will be much more thorough.

Auditor Ford could conduct a modern turkish bath parlor with but little trouble these days, using the new vault for the "hot room" without making any extra work. A stove has been placed in the vault and a roaring fire kept all the time in order to dry out the place before it is used, so that it has given the inquisitive visions of their hereafter when they stepped inside the inner doors. The vault will be put in use in a few days.

Arthur LaPlante packed up his household goods Monday and left in the evening with his family for North Yakima, Washington, where he will make his home in the future. He will enter the employ of the Bon Marche department store, having been given a flattering offer. Mr. LaPlante has had considerable experience in the mercantile business and will without doubt give his employers good satisfaction. The people here will hope for good luck for the family.

Chas. S. Chase, of St. Louis, Industrial and land agent for the Southern and Mobile and Ohio railroads, spent Sunday and Monday in Red Lake Falls, a guest of his brother, Ed. H. Chase. Mr. Chase has his headquarters at St. Louis, but spends a greater share of his time travelling in the interests of the roads he represents. Mrs. Jacob Nelson, of Albert Lea, Minn., says: "This winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and could not get rid of it; it was always bothering me in the morning till I had to do something for it. My neighbor advised me to try Kalo's Ruby Oil, and I did. I used it freely that evening. In the morning I got up and started to cough up all that stuff which was on my lungs. One bottle cured my cold entirely. I can say I never used anything as good before, and would never be without Kalo's Ruby Oil."

Just before going to press the Gazette visited the scene of the state land sale, being held at the auditor's office today, and found State Auditor Iverson and his assistants up to their eyes in work. Mr. Iverson took time to say that about 5.000 acres had already been sold at an average of $8 per acre, the highest bid being $21 per acre for one piece of land. Mr. Iverson was exceptionally well pleased with the result of the sale. The full table of lands sold will be published next week.

State Auditor S. G. Iverson, accompanied by C. H. Warner, of St. Paul, arrived here today and are conducting the sale of state lands at the court house this afternoon. When seen by the Gazette Mr. Iverson was retricent about the political situation, and said that not much talk was heard about the capitol in regard to the outlook. He thinks, however, that the Republicans should have no trouble in defeating Johnson next year, provided the right man is named to make the run. Mr. Iverson will remain here until tomorrow, when he will go to Roseau to conduct a sale of lands.

The use of the hand chemicals at the fire last evening clearly demonstrated that a chemical engine would be a valuable addition to the fire-fighting apparatus of the local department. The small chemicals kept the flames in check until water could be secured, which alone was all that saved the row of frame buildings from destruction. A chemical engine has much greater force and lasting power than these smaller chemicals, and could be depended on to put out nearly every fire before it had gained much headway. The Gazette understands that the question of whether or not the city should purchase a chemical engine will ba voted on at the coming election, and it would seem that the people would be glad to assist the department in their good work by voting to get them a chemical engine.

It makes no difference how long you have been sick, if you are troubled with indigestion, constipation, liver and kidney troubles, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will make you well. 35 cents. W. A. Schreiter.

A SMALL BLAZE.

Millinery Stock of Miss Katherine Ford Damaged By Fire.

At 8 o'clock last evening the fire bell brought the people out in a hurry, when it was found that a fire had been discovered in the rear of the millinery store of Miss Kaeherine Ford.

The firemen were soon out with their small chemical apparatus, and held the flames safely in check until the engine got in working order when short work was made of the fire.

The fire evidently started from the stove pipe, as Miss Ford had only stepped out a short time before the alarm was turned in, and on account of the large amouut of inflamable material had made rapid headway. The entire contents of the millinery store were very hably damaged, and Miss Ford estimates her loss at $800 covered by insurance to the amount of $300. The loss to W. A. Reichel, owner of the building, will not be heavy and is covered by insurance.

Miss Ford was indeeed unfortunate to suffer such a loss at this time, and has the sympathy of the public.

A Travalling Library.

Red Lake Falls readers now have a chance to get some excellent reading matter without cost, a branch of the Minnesota Free Travelling Library having been established here, the books being kept at Reichert's drug store. Any one may borrow a book by signing an agreement to pay for the same if it is lost or damaged, and the local committee are anxious that the people call and inspest the books and avail themselves of this opportunity. As fast as read the books will be changed, which gives a new selection at all times, and the library should be very popular with the reading public.

Frightful Suffering Relieved.

Suffering frightfully from tha virulant poisons of undigasted food, C. G. Grayson, of Lula, Miss., took Dr. King's New Life Pills, "with tha result," he writes, "that I was cured." All stomach and bowel disorders give way to their tonic, laxative properties. 25c at W. A. Schreiter's drug store, guaranteed.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

HOMES IN THE SUBURBS.

Comfortable Country Residences of Men Doing Business in the City.

In the east well-to-do families generally have both a city house and a country place, which architecturally are sharply distinguished from each other; but in the west such is frequently the case, states the Architectural Record. There are, of course, many fine country houses in the west, such as those grouped around the shores of Lake Geneva, in Wisconsin, and particularly in Chicago many of the older families occupy houses, which, although detached from their neighbors, are substantially urban rather than suburban dwellings. Nevertheless, the well-to-do western business man, in building a new residence, will probably choose a suburban site—a site that is containing two or three acres abutting on a street and surrounded by the grounds of similar dwellings. This house is planned as a permanent residence. It is situated in a neighborhood accessible from the man's place of business and is occupied both summer and winter. It has enough land around it to permit the enjoyment of some of the pleasures of the country and to afford an opportunity for a certain amount of landscape treatment; but this land is and can be nothing but the front and back yard of the house. As an architectural type it is intermediate between the town and country house.

DAUGHTERS OF NOBODY.

Ultra Fashionable Society Shown Up by Rejected Applicant for Membership.

"The fad of tracing one's ancestors back as far as possible has a firmer hold in the east than in the west," said Mortimer E. Walker, of Boston, relates the Milwaukee Sentinel. "One winter I spent some time in a certain southern city which is noted for its blue-blooded and exclusive inhabitants. There was much jealousy in the highest social circles, as there were two factions which desired the honor of being the original grandees. Finally the leader of one faction gathered together a few friends and started a society known as the Daughters of Ferdinand de Soto.

"This was supposed to be the ultra fashionable society of the city, and one by one the aspiring matrons produced the indisputable proof that they were eligible for membership. Finally one of the younger set had the temerity to try and force an entrance into the charmed circle. She was blackballed almost unanimously.

"She determined to be revenged, and to that end did a little real investigating which was more thorough than any ancestor hunt which was ever made in that city. The result of her investigations she made public, and the result was the utter rout of the daughters. For the young woman proved beyond the question of a doubt that Ferdinand de Soto had died a bachelor."

BRUSH YOUR STRAW HAT.

That Is the Way to Keep It Protected from the Marring Effects of Rain.

"Yes, I know," said the hat man, "people never think of brushing their straw hats, the straw doesn't seem to be a hat made to be brushed, the dust doesn't show on it so much, and so they brush all their other hats and let their straw hats go.

"But if they would brush their straw hats as they do the others they would keep fresh and good-looking much longer; this is not so much on account of the brushing itself as because of the protection that brushing it, keeping it clean, gives it from the effects of moisture.

"What puts a straw hat out of business, in appearance, is rain. Let drops of rain fall on a dusty hat and every drop spreads and fixes the dust on which it falls and makes the hat dingy. The same rain falling on a clean hat would have far less effect on its appearance.

"Brush your straw hat, and the ribbon, too, just as you would any other, and you will have the satisfaction of keeping it in fair condition, a hat fit to wear the season through."

Confusion of Verbs.

One of two young women talking to a young man on Philadelphia street car the other afternoon said: "This car was nearly full when we boarded it." The young man, the moment he opened his mouth, showed by an unmistakable accent that he was English. "Boarded?" he said. "Were your ancestors, by chance, pirates, that you use such a word? Don't you mean to say 'when we took the car' " "Took it?" said the girl, "why we didn't take it. We could not take it, even if the police weren't looking. It's too big and too heavy. In fact, it's taking us, isn't it?" "Oh, I see what you mean," said the man. "Still, wouldn't it be better to say 'we got on the car?' " "Well, hardly," was the reply. "The roof is too high up and, besides, it would be too hot up there this weather. We got into the car."

Rapid Eating.

"The trouble is that we eat too fast," said the man who worries about health.

"That's right," answered the man who worries about money. "Some of us eat so fast that our incomes can't keep up with our grocery bills."—Washington Star.

GOOD RECRUITING FIELD.

The Door City to the West Gets First-Class Men for Uncle Sam's Army.

Kansas City, Mo.—The local army and marine recruiting stations have, in the past six months, enlisted more than 625 men in the service. The army station, of course, takes the larger part of the recruits, but the marine service has been strengthened by 153 men from Kansas City and vicinity since January 1.

Sergt. J. R. Thompson, in charge of the marine office here, has not been looking for new men for the past two months. The marine corps has been full and only the most desirable applicants have been examined. The corps is to be greatly enlarged in the next few months, however, and, beginning to-day, Sergt. Thompson wants to send out 50 men a month.

The army station has been kept busy all the year. On average 80 men a month have been sent to army posts throughout the United States. About one-third of these were old soldiers who reenlisted. These recruits have been fairly evenly divided among the cavalry, infantry and artillery. A good number have been sent to the engineer, hospital and signal corps.

The class of recruits sent out from here has been exceedingly good, the recruiting officer says. Very few of the army recruits have to draw out clothing before they are sent to their post.

"Most of the men we take in the marine corps," said Sergt. Thompson, "are well dressed and have money. We try to keep out all the other kinds. When a man comes in here wearing respectable clothes and carrying himself as though he meant business, we encourage him to join. When a slouchy, tough-looking man who needs a shave and a bath comes shuffling in and asks: 'What yer payin'?' we don't rush up and grasp his hand as we would had he looked frankly at us and said: 'I want to enlist; can you send me to-day?' "

"Farmers make the best recruits," said Sergt. J. A. Stanley, of the army station. "We get lots of men from the little towns within 100 miles of Kansas City, and they are always the right kind. They are strong, willing to work and are happier at an army post than a city man is."

A naval recruiting station will be opened here in a few weeks.

STOP WHITE SLAVE TRADE

European Countries Agree to Suppress the Importation of Girls.

Berlin.—The Reichsanzeiger publishes the details of the treaty entered into between 12 European countries, which, having been duly ratified, went into effect. July 18. The contracting states obligate themselves to establish each, a bureau for the collection of information regarding the solicitation of women and girls for immoral purposes abroad. These bureaus are to exchange information among themselves and a strict watch is to be kept particularly at large railway stations and sea ports, to detect persons engaged in the white slave trade. Efforts are to be set on foot among fallen women for the purpose of obtaining information about those engaged in the traffic.

The contracting states further obligate themselves financially to assist girls enticed abroad to return home. Agencies and persons advertising positions abroad for women are to be subjected to special police attention.

Most of the signatories include their colonies, but Germany, Great Britain, Denmark and Spain reserve decision regarding their colonies until a later period.

The Reichsanzeiger also prints the proclamation issued by imperial Chancellor Von Bulow announcing that the treaty has been ratified and is in effect.

While no American state is party to the treaty, it is understood that efforts to suppress the trade will apply equally to those who try to entice girls to North or South America.

CARP IN CABBAGE PATCH.

Extraordinary Crop Raised by a Farmer in New York State.

Canandaigua, N. Y.—Eight hundred carp in a cabbage patch will give a slight idea of the number of these fish in Canandaigua lake. The connection may not at first be plain, but it must be understood that the lake and the cabbage patch are adjacent.

Thomas Rafferty, who owns a farm on the east shore of Canandaigua lake, about three miles from the village, went out to his cabbage patch the other day and found it covered with dead and dying carp, some of them of ten or fifteen pounds weight. They had invaded the land during the high water of Sunday and had been left stranded by the receding waters.

Rafferty didn't consider this a piece of good luck. He could not get rid of the fish all alone, and soon his neighbors came to him with loud complaints and threats to have him indicted for maintaining a nuisance. Finally he called on the village board of health for aid. There were more 200 of the fish.

Optimism Up-to-Date.

A Harvard alumnus of some distinction, at a recent fraternity dinner, gave a definition of optimism that hasn't heretofore been published, but which is good enough for print. He declared that he was an optimist, but not one of that extreme type who, if falling from the top of the Flatiron building in New York, would be able to say as he passed each story: "Well, I'm all right up to date!"

VALUE OF A GOOD TEAM.

Real Economy Is Found in Using a Well-Mated and Prompt Span of Horses.

How many good farmers stop to consider the real difference in value between a good, heavy, well-mated, prompt team of horses and even an average one, not to say a poor one. Almost every day in the year the farmer has to drive some kind of a team. In fact, his outdoor life is spent largely in their company, and how much more satisfaction he can get in driving a team of horses that are not only pleasing to the eye and handle pleasantly, but one that will do vastly more work and do it better than an inferior one. Almost every piece of machinery on the farm works better when drawn by a well-mated prompt pair of movers. This is particularly true when drilling grain and planting and cultivating corn. No man can drive a drill or planter straight when one horse is lagging behind.

Generally speaking, I think our farm horses are far too light to do their work profitably and pleasantly, writes Forest Henry, in the Northwestern Agriculturist. Nearly all our farm machinery is much heavier than in the past, and requires stronger teams. We not only plow deeper, but take a wider furrow than we did 20 years ago. Our harrows are made much wider and dig better. We also do vastly more cultivating, all of which requires more horse power. Every engineer will tell you it is not only easier on an engine but less liable to accident to have an engine large enough to do its work without crowding its firebox. It is equally true with a team of horses. A team that has sufficient size to pull their load with their weight, so to speak, and that does not have to work on their nerve, will not only keep easier, but last longer and be less liable to accident than a smaller one.

While it may be well to keep one lighter team for the running about and light work, the farm horses in general should not weigh less than 1,400 pounds, and for my own use I should prefer even 1,500. I know from years of experience that it takes no more grain to feed them, and only a little more hay. A small horse may seem to do the same work nearly as easily for a few days; but he cannot hold up under it for a long stretch like the heavier one. The tendency is also to plow more shallow and to slight the work where one has a light team, when if he had a stronger one he would do it as it should be done.

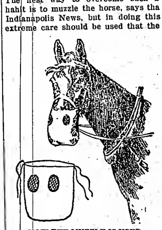
A good heavy horse will even do a good day's work if he is thin in flesh, while a light one is of little account if he gets poor. I do not mean by this that it is advisable or economical to let a work team get run down; but I have been so situated in my early farm days that I could not keep my team in condition. It would have paid me better if I could have fed them better, or done less work with them; but I then had to do the best I could, and not as I would. It is always more economical to keep an extra horse where one is situated so he can, than to overwork them.

If you have a really good, pleasant working team on the farm, do not part with them, even if you can buy another not as good for $100 less. The difference in price will not pay you. Soon your $100 will be gone, and you will never get any satisfaction in working them. Nothing on the place makes the farmer more contented (and the boys feel more like staying on the farm) than good horses to work and drive.

A MUZZLE FOR HORSES.

Good Thing to Use on the Animals Which Have Disagreeable Habits.

Horses sometimes act disagreeable when working in the orchard or when cultivating corn or grain by trying to get a mouthful of the growing crop. The best way to overcome such a habit is to muzzle the horse, says the Indianapolis News, but in doing this extreme care should be used that the horse is not injured nor seriously discommoded by the muzzle. Take heavy white canvas, such as grain bags are made from. Cut this in 18-inch lengths and wide enough to go around the jaws of the horse comfortably loose. Cut two oval airholes three by four inches, braid the edges with strong braid and make a lattice work over the opening by weaving knotted hard twine through it.



HOW THE MUZZLE IS USED.

Bind the top, add strings at the side, hem the bottom edges and it is complete.

The Dairy Bull.

It is estimated that not one dairy bull in 20 is fit to really improve a dairy herd. The fault is in not distinguishing between the twentieth bull and the other 19. Too often the twentieth one brings no higher price in the market than the others.

HOBO IDLE 104 YEARS

OLDEST TRAMP ON EARTH RETURNS TO GOTHAM.

"Old Simon," Pious Wanderer, Finding Jerusalem Too Slow to Die In, Comes Back to New York with Proud Boast.

New York.—"Old Simon," Sem Semke Hersh, or, as his American citizenship certificate records his name, Simon Harris, the centenarian tramp and most pious man in America, is back in his old place in the Norfolk street synagogue.

Until recently his friends supposed that "Old Sim" was in Jerusalem, whither he went nearly two years ago to die. He became tired of waiting to attain the object of his pilgrimage, and surprised his friend, L. Melzer, 4 Atlantic avenue, and his daughter, Mrs. Fred Brock, 73 Columbia street, Brooklyn, by walking in upon them. He had just arrived on the Philadelphia from Cherbourg.

By reason of his years, his piety and the extent of his rambles, Simon Harris, known to everybody on the East side, is the most remarkable tramp down on the books.

He himself says he is 97, but the records of the societies which have assisted him and the public records at Bialystok, Russian Poland, where he was born, show the patriarch to be 104 years old.

It is one of his proudest boasts that he never did a day's work in his life. He was about 60 years old when he walked from Bialystok to Hamburg and induced the packet company to give him passage to America. He became a religious tramp, starting penniless. By way of Panama he reached California, where he became, 44 years ago, an American citizen. He came back to New York afoot, and was three years on the way.

He returned to Russia, where his wife had died before he first sailed for New York. He brought back with him his only child, Rachel, now Mrs. Brock. He next made little jaunts into Central America, Brazil, Chili and Peru, returning through Central America, Mexico and Texas.

After spending about five years on the East side, passing most of his time in prayer in the synagogue, he started for Palestine, sailing for Tripoli and tramping through Africa, Egypt, Siberia and China. He came back again by way of Russia.

Always wearing his yarmenke, or praying cap, "Old Simon" spent many a night in the synagogues praying that the soul of some departed friend, over whose body he kept vigil, should keep on toward Heaven and that his grave should be light. Two years ago he decided to go again to Jerusalem, this time to die in the Holy City. He started with $200, while the societies have sent him ten francs a month.

"Old Simon" says he found Jerusalem "slow," with "little much" business doing there. He spent all his time praying in the oldest synagogue in the city—a temple 1,900 years old.

When he tired of the "dead town" the American consul, Selah Merrill, gave him a letter, and he came back by way of Joppa, Marseilles, Paris and Cherbourg. Early the other morning he worshiped in a private synagogue at 77 Columbia street, Brooklyn. "Old Simon's" voice is firm and his mental faculties keen. He read without spectacles a Hebrew newspaper.

"I was sick until I was 40 years old," said he "and then I began to get strong. Palestine is too little good. The United States is the best place. Whisky I like, not too much; a little. I am particular what I eat when I have nothing. If I have everything to eat then I am not particular."

OPIUM SMOKING AS A CURE

Specialist Says "the Pipe" Will Check Cancer, Nervousness, and Many Other Afflictions.

London.—Visions of opium dens and Chinamen are called up by the announcement that a pyrolithic institute has been opened, whose method of cure is "the opium pipe."

The institute, however, which is in Red Lion square, Holborn, is opened for medical purposes only. It is under the direction of a well-known medical specialist, who yesterday stated that he believes opium can stop laryngeal cough; that it can stop the pseudo-asthmatic attacks of patients afflicted with chronic emphysema more immediately than can chloroform or ether, and that it can counteract idiopathic nervous sleeplessness, beneficially affect spasmodic and convulsive affections of the nervous system, as well as valvular heart disease, asthma and neuralgia.

Moreover, its effects on "colds" he believes to be marvelous, while the specialist says that he has himself used it for years in cancer cases and succeeded in checking the disease.

Match for the Tartar.

Gen. Kuropatkin has at last hit upon the most deadly of all war engines, the automobile; but instead of employing it for his own purposes of command he should man it with a chauffeur and send it actively against the enemy. One good automobile properly operated will do more destruction than all your artillery. If it comes to an issue of the Red Devil versus the Russ—heaven help the Russ!

Different War Medicines.

Russia says that the Japanese won their battles because their army surgeons administered fighting pills to the soldiers. Then Russia is suing for peace because the French financiers have administered fighting bills to the autocrat's ministers in St. Petersburg.

THE MARAUDER.

There came a beggar to my door,
A comely little lad,
With sun-kissed hair and azure eyes,
With pensive mien, and sad.

So meek he seemed—so poor—alone,
I wept at such ill-faring—
Regardez! When he entered in
He proved a robber daring.

He barred the door, he barred the pane,
(Defenseless quite he found me),
A prisoner in my own demesne,
With braggart oaths he bound me.

He mocked my tears, he stole my heart,
With jest and gibe to flout me;
With rose-leaf strung on rose-leaf red
He wove his chains about me.

Quoth he: "Such sorry garb as youre
No thief would deign to borrow!"
He stripped me of my Cynic's robe,
Of Loneliness and Sorrow.

He found my store of Doubts and Fears,
Made loot to merry measure;
He scattered far to left and right
A hoard of doleful treasure.

He sealed my lips with kisses three,
And swore he'd stay no longer,
But though he made to loose my chains
I felt the links grow stronger.

Ay, strong as steel, these shackles sweet
I would not break nor sever—
A prisoner in my own demesne,
Love holds me fast forever.
—Meribah Philbrick-Reed, in Life.

A PORTRAIT

TWO children, a boy and a girl, stood before a painting that hung upon the wall. The boy gazed with all his soul in his eyes, dimly conscious, perhaps, of what the picture would some day mean to him. It represented a soldier mounted on a black charger, and the man's face was eager, ardent and earnest. With sword in his uplifted hand he seemed urging men to battle.

The little girl indifferently glanced at the portrait from time to time. She had seen it so many times, and then, too, patriotism had not yet awakened in her undisciplined little heart. She was proud in the thought, however, that she possessed something of absorbing interest to her new neighbor. Finally, she began to relate the story she had heard so often.

"You see, it's a really true man, and he painted himself on papa's horse. Those are the clothes he wore in battle—"

"Humph!" said the boy scornfully, looking at her with the superiority derived from his sex and his four years' seniority. "Those aren't fighting clothes, Lucile! He's on parade."

Lucile wondered vaguely what that might be and then begged him to "come and play."

They played for many a day to come, and then the boy's parents moved to another city.

Seven years later he came back for a visit. He had now attained the great age of 17 and when he had met his former playmate, who had just proudly entered upon her "teens," that long-looked-for period, he said most condescendingly:

"Why, this must be little Lucile Felton!"

Straightway Lucile felt she hated him and they spent a few weeks of turbulent companionship in strife.

"I thought you were going to be a soldier," she said one day, "like the man on horseback in the picture!"

"What's the use of being a soldier?" he laughed. "There are no wars. I'd rather be the man that painted the picture than the soldier he represents. Let's go and look at it again."

"Papa gave it away—to the man who gave him the horse."

Ten years passed before Paul Willis saw his little playmate again. It was evening of a summer day at a fashionable watering place. He had just arrived and was instantly surrounded by a group of old-time friends who claimed his attention and recognition after his years of foreign travel. Looking beyond the little group about him into the ballroom, his roving gaze was instantly caught and held by the vision of a girl with a pair of wonderful dark and deep eyes, an exquisite face and a quiet dignity in the carriage of her svelte figure.

"Who is she?" he asked of the man nearest him, and even before the answer came he knew the name would be "Lucile Felton."

"Look out!" he was warned, "Lucile cannot be accused of flirting, but she attracts all men and always turns them down."

She saw him coming across the room and knew him by the winsome brown eyes that were still the eyes of the little boy she had played with years before.

"Oh, yes!" she said carelessly, as he recalled himself to her memory. "I remember all my old playmates."

Then she turned to a man immaculate in evening dress who claimed her for the waltz.

Paul Willis stood gazing after them, all his ardor and impetuosity dampened by her nonchalent greeting. She smiled softly to herself through the waltz. The "little" Lucile Felton at 13 had at last been avenged. All the evening he watched her dancing and chatting with her partners, always gay and careless. His whole heart went out to her.

Just before the last dance he found an opportunity to speak with her alone. He was tongue-tied from this new, strange feeling.

"Are your parents well?" he finally asked abruptly. A shadow came over her face. The fan she had trembled.

"Did you not know? They died four years ago."

"Forgive me—I did not know," he said.

"And the old home," she continued, lifting saddened eyes to his, "burned down and all its contents."

She was more beautiful still with this sudden sorrow in her eyes.

"And you—where is your home?"

"I live with my sister, Mrs. Lothrop, in your home city."

Then others came up to her and he was outside the little circle.

But the next day and the many that followed showed no more of her momentary softening, and she resumed her old careless manner toward him. The season ended, and they both returned to the city, where he became a frequent caller at Mrs. Lothrop's. Always was the longing in his heart, but Lucile did not relax.

Her sister chided her one night after he had left them.

"He loves you, Lucile," she reproached.

"Oh, I don't know," said the girl, turning away her lustrous eyes. "They say he has always been sought after by women, but is never serious."

"That's what they say of you, Lucile," returned Mrs. Lothrop, accusingly.

But Lucile was humming a gay little French chanson, and made no response.

Paul Willis stood before his easel, gazing at the unfinished picture—the picture of a fair-haired boy and a perfect darling of a little girl, who were both looking up at the wall. One of his old photographs had served as his model for the lad's portrayal, and love had brought to his memory her childish face, but the picture that was to hang on the wall he could only dimly recall. The subject and the attitude of the man on the horse that had so stirred his young fancy were in his memory, but not perfectly enough to transfer to canvas.

The next day, while rummaging through the old stock of a picture dealer's he saw a small painting in antique frame that brought forth an exclamation of surprise and joy.

"Where did you get this?" he cried.

"A lady sold it to me," replied the dealer. "She had met with reverses and—"

"Do you know where she got it?"

"Yes. She said the man who once owned the original of the horse in the picture gave it to her."

Willis secured the prize, and hastened to his studio, painting "the picture on the wall" with haste and skill.

It was Lucile's birthday. She was glancing with a half pleasure and half humor at the array of books, flowers and confectionery that covered the library table when a maid brought her in a note.

"There is a great, big package just come," she announced, "shall I have it fetched in here?"

"Wait!" and Lucile opened the envelope and scanned the note.

"Oh, Ethel!" she cried to her sister. "Paul Willis has sent me a picture—one he painted! Yes (to the maid) have them bring it in here and open it here."

She was not a little excited and curious. Paul was attracting notice in the world of art and to possess one of his pictures was a privilege. What would the subject be?

When the final wrappings were removed, she stood before it silent and memory-moved.

Her sister gave a little cry of pleasure.

"Oh, Lucile! I understand how he could paint you, but how could he remember that picture—the one we all loved so and we were so provoked when papa gave it away. Why, Paul was a mere child when he saw it!"

The maid now brought in a second package, a small picture, with explanatory note.

Later, when Paul Willis called, he found her still standing before the picture he had painted. He had stood there in their childhood, only now she was gazing intently at the picture, while his eyes were upon her.

She began to fear lest he should hear her heart-beats.

"Paul," she said tremulously, "I love it so!"

"Lucile!" he said in low, passionate tones, "Lucile, love me, too, can't you? I have loved you so long!"

"Paul," very softly, "I have loved you since the night at the hall."

"Lucile!"

He gathered her in his arms.

"But you were so cold—so indifferent—always, Lucile!" he said presently. "How could you hurt me so?"

"I was afraid," she murmured, "that you did not really care. I hoped you did, and then I remembered your tone once when you said: 'And this must be little Lucile Felton!'" His laugh was good to hear.

And the children so long separated were again united.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

SOME GOOD ADVICE.

Henry Wallace Tells How to Handle Minnesota Lands.

Mr Henry Wallace, the veteran Iowa editor and farmer, writes as follows about Northern Minnesota and the state lands for sale there.

"Many of our readers will no doubt invest in these lands, and we wish now to drop them a little advice: Buy lands that have either clay (whether red or white is not material) or clay loam or loamy clay. Don't refuse to buy a swamp that is growing red top, provided it can be drained conveniently.

"If you get prairie land, break up the best parts of it, grow wheat a year or two and get it down to meadow. If you get timber land, sell whatever hard wood you can, burn the rest, and keep the brush cut down next year. If it grows with popple, close cut it; that is, have it cut off as close to the ground as possible. Then seed to timothy and clover, cut off the brush which will sprout up the next year. Let the hard wood stumps alone for two or three years, then pull them and make a solemn contract between yourself and the pine stumps that if they will let you alone you will let them alone. Bear in mind that a pine stump will last a hundred years, that you can't burn them in the ground; that blasting them out is expensive; that many of them can't be pulled out, and if you did succeed in pulling them out, you would be as badly off as you were before. Therefore let pine stumps alone.

"In almost any quarter section there is enough hardwood land for cultivation. There is a splendid opening in all that country for industrious men who will go at it the easy way. Meadow and pasture is the first requirement. Then go dairying and growing roots. Don't bother with corn. Sow oats and make them into hay. Then learn how to keep cows, and let the cows and the young stock tramp down the brush while looking for the wild legumes for which the clay sections of Minnesota are noted. The wild peas, as they are called, are richer in milk food than clover and as good as alfalfa. Outside of the Minnesota drainage basin and alluvial lands of the Red River Valley, dairying is the proper thing. In fact, Minnesota has more complete dairy conditions than any other state we know of. It has the dairy air, the dairy water, grows cow feed of the first quality, and all it lacks is men that are not above studying the cow and milking her."

TO DREDGE RIVER.

Congress Will Be Asked To Appropriate Funds.

Thief River Press: Captain R. J. McDonald, of this city, has commenced the circulation of a petition to Congressman Steenerson, asking him to make an especial effort in Congress to secure an appropriation to improve the condition of the Red Lake river between this city and the Lake, by dredging, etc., and also to establish a lock and dam at the outlet. While Red Lake river is a navigable stream, it is practically unfit for navigation in its present condition, and it is no more than just that the government should make an appropriation for the improvement of the river.

The petition will be generally circulated in the country tributary to Red Lake river and will undoubtedly receive the hearty endorsement of every layman in the district.

OBITUARY.

Louis Alexander Dautremont, whose death occurred Thursday, October 19, 1905, was born at Canonsburg, Washington county, Pennsylvania, March 2, 1838. His early life was spent on a farm and when quite young he moved with his family to Wheelersburg, Ohio, where he spent several years teaching school. On January 21, 1868, he was married to Miss Laura Rais, and the following summer moved to Iowa, settling on a farm in Washington county. After remaining there a couple of years, the family moved to Calhoun county, Iowa, where Mr. Dautremont purchased a beautiful farm home and where the family spent over 20 years, where all but one of the nine living children were born and raised. In 1893 Mr. Dautremont, seeking a change of location, sold his beautiful home in Calhoun county, and moved to Lohrville, in the same county, where he engaged in the general merchandise business for a year when he moved his stock to Matlock, Iowa, where he remained for three years. Selling his store there he moved to Adrian, this state, and conducted a leading hotel for nearly three years, when he purchased a farm adjoining the limits of the city of Adrian and moved on to it. After living on the farm about three years, Mr. Dautremont sold it and moved into town, where he remained until October, 1901, when he came to Red Lake Falls. Two years ago he purchased The Gazette of Phil A. Kaufer, and was proprietor of this paper at the time of his death. Mr. Dautremont also owned a quarter section of land south of town and his city property, having sold some of his farm lands last year.

Deceased was always strong and healthy until about a year ago, when he begin to fail, and although not feeling well he had no intimation that his illness was so serious until about two weeks before he died, when he found out that he had cancer of the stomach and that no relief could be had. He was fully resigned to the inevitable, and died in perfect peace and contentment, surrounded by all of his family with the exception of two grown sons.

Mr. Dautremont was a devout Catholic, and always lived an upright, honorable life, meeting his fellowman on the level, endeavoring to "do as he would be done by." His home was his chief comfort, and the removing of one so dear leaves a vacancy 'round the fireside that can never be replaced.

Besides his wife he leaves a family of nine children, as follows: Mrs. M. M. McLaughlin, of Rock Rapids, Iowa, Charles F., of Kendall, Montana, Arthur L., Victor B., and Albert S., of Lewistown, Montana, Mrs. S. S. Haislet, Rose, Florence and Raymond Dautremont, of Red Lake Falls; two brothers, Francis, of Monticello, Iowa, Charles, of Riverside, Iowa, and two sisters, Mary C. Dautremont and Mrs. Margaret Sebuoeblin, of Riverside, Iowa, to mourn the loss of a kind husband, father and brother.

The funeral was held from St. Joseph's church Saturday morning, the remains being laid at rest in the cemetery east of town, to sleep the final sleep that knows no awakening.

Requiescat in pace.

Card of Thanks.

To the many kind friends and neighbors who so generously tendered their assistance during the illness and death of our beloved father and husband, we desire to tender our most heartfelt thanks. Words fail to convey what these generous offices meant to us in our hour of darkness.—MRS. L. A. DAUTREMONT AND FAMILY.

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

BUYS MORE STOCK

Cashier Theo. Garcean Now Owns Controlling Interest In The First State Bank of This City.

Cashier Theo. Garceau, while in the cities the first of the week, completed a deal whereby he became the owner of the bank stock of the First State Bank of this city, formerly owned by James I. Wyer, of Excelsior, and G. A. Archer, of Minneapolis.

The acquisition of this block of shares gives Mr. Garcean a controlling interest in this institution, and he now controls a larger interest in the bank than was ever before held by any one connected with the institution.

The news of Mr. Garcean's good luck is securing this stock will be well received by the people of this neighborhood, as it places the stock of the First State all at home, and makes this a strictly home bank. Mr. Wyer, who retires from the bank, is one of the old timers of Red Lake Falls, and has a great many friends who will sincerely regret that he is to be no longer identified with our interests.

The regular annual meeting of the directors will be held early in January, when new officers will be chosen.

The Gazette is pleased to extend its best wishes for success to all concerned in the new order of things.

THE INSTITUTE WORK

Plans Made For Interesting Session Of Farmers' Institute Here November 23.

Advertising matter has been scattered broadcast this week, setting forth particulars of the State Farmers' Institute to be held here on Thursday, November 23, and an effort will be made to get the advertising matter into the hands of every farmer in the territory that they may known of the great benefits of the institute and plan early on coming.

The institute will be in charge of Hon. W. W. P. McConnell, former state Dairy and Food commissioner, assisted by a corps of able assistants, and he will endeavor to make the people feel at home and see that the institute is beneficial to the community.

The institute will be held at the Metropolitan opera house, from 10 to 12 in the morning, and from 1:30 to 4 in the afternoon. Every hour will be rich in institution and should not be missed.

Further particulars will be given from week to week.

TAX SALE MONDAY.

Auditor Ford Will Sell Many Lots At Public Sale.

The forfeited tax sale will be held at the auditor's office Monday, when Auditor Ford will dispose of over 5000 tracts, consisting entirely of city lots, on which taxes remain due and unpaid.

A great many of these lots are very desirable ones, being located in Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire, and it is likely that there will be quite a demand for them.

LAND SALE IS LARGE

State Auditor Iverson Disposes of Big Bunch of School Lands In Red Lake County.

The sale of state lands held here by State Auditor S. G. Iverson last Thursday, was largely attended and turned out to be a greater success than was anticipated.

The total number of acres sold was 5307.06, at a total price of $41840.75. The sum of $6,386.75 was received as the first payment on the principle and $845.04 was received as interest. About 10,000 acres was offered for sale, and the fact that over half was disposed of was gratifying. The highest price paid was $21 per acre, as announced correctly by The Gazette last week, and several other pieces brought $20.25. Some of course was sold for $6, the appraised value, but the average was considerably higher.

The Gazette intended to publish the complete list of the lands with the purchasers names, but on account of other matters was unable to do so. We will try and print it next week, however.

Court On The 13th.

The adjourned term of the Red Lake county district court will convene here on Monday, November 13, when the jurors will be here to sit on the several cases on the calendar. There is not a great deal of work for the jury this fall, and it is likely that the session will be a short one.

Catarrh can be cured! To prove this to you we are giving away a trial treatment absolutely free. If you are troubled with Catarrh or Cold-in-the-Head, do us a favor and call for a package no charge, Reichert the druggist.

BOLD BAD BURGLARS

Terrebonne Postoffice Latest Victim of Robbers, and Loss is Quite Heavy With no Clue to Perpetrators.

Word was brought to town Tuesday morning that the store of Dupont & Sons, at Terrebonne, had been broken into the night before and the safe blown open, the robbers securing all the cash, stamps, etc., of the postoffice located in the store.

The authorities at once went to work on the case, and Tuesday arrested a couple of suspects, but released them again because of not sufficient evidence to detain them. No clew whatever was left for the authorities to work upon, except a $50 gold certificate mentioned below, $185 in stamps and silver together with a $50 gold certificate were secured by the safe breakers and the get away was complete, not a soul about Terrebonne being aware of the occurrence until the next morning, when the postmaster went down to open up. The fact that nothing else in the place of business which might have formed a clue in the future, was touched is indicative of the fact that the safe breakers are old hands at the business, and it is believed that the parties responsible for the crime are but a few of an organized gang of thieves which has been at work throughout Northern Minnesota during the past summer and fall, and has been particularly active down south of here.

The $50 gold certificate may lead to the capture of the safe breakers by the authorities, as the banks in this section have been notified and suspicious characters found cashing bills of that denomination will be watched. It is not likely, however, that the robbers, whoever they were, will change the bill until they get well out of this section of the country. The supposition is that they drove into Terrebonne and away.

Merchant Dupont had brought a lot of money to town Monday belonging to the firm, so that the loss is not as heavy as it would otherwise have been.

The officers all over this territory are on the lookout for the robbers, and they may be rounded up before going far.

FOOT BALL FIRDAY.

Crookston and Red Lake Falls Will Meet at Former Place.

The Red Lake Falls high school foot ball team will go over to Crookston this evening, and tomorrow afternoon will meet the Crookston Highs in a football contest on the gridiron at that city.

The Crookston team has been very active this year, and Coach Thoreson has had a large amount of material to draw from, so that the game should be interesting and close.

Our boys have had a very successful season, and by hard practice work have built up a good team, so that the Red Lake Falls people look to see them give at least a fair account of themselves.

Some forty or fifty "rooters" will go down with the boys to see the game.

MET TERRIBLE DEATH

Prominent Young Man of Terrebonne Killed by Being Run Over With a Threshing Engine.

Fred, the 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Perrault, of Terrebonne township, was killed instantly Monday morning by being run over with the large wheel of a threshing engine.

The young man was working on the rig, and was trying to remove a large block which was set by one of the wheels. The block was froze to the ground wh[illegible] caused the boy to lose his hold, when the wheel caught his left hand and threw him to the ground, the heavy wheel striking his neck and head and crushing it in a horrible manner. He was released from his terrible position as soon as possible, but was beyond earthly help. The accident occurred at the Geo. Gerrett farm, and as soon as possible the body was removed to the family home.

The young man was the fourth of a family of twelve children, and was a bright, industrious fellow, and his sudden horrible death was a terrible shock to the family.

The funeral was held from the Terrebonne church yesterday, and the largest crowd that ever turned out in that town was present to pay their last respects to an esteemed friend and neighbor.

The Gazette, in common with a host of friends of the family, extends its heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Accident at St. Hilaire.

Eli Blair, an employee in the saw mill at St. Hilaire, was killed Saturday night by being struck in the abdomen with a large timber carried by the edger. He was running the machine and in some manner got in front of it so that the heavy timber struck him with terrific force. He was carried to his home, and lived until about four o'clock the next morning, the accident having happened at 9:30 Saturday evening.

Mr. Blair was quite well known here, having worked here several years ago in the Red Lake Falls Lumber company's mill. He was a steady fellow, and well liked by all. He leaves a wife and two or three small children to mourn his loss. The remains were shipped to Little Falls, his old home, for interment.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

PROF. ONSTAD RESIGNS

Gives Up His Position As Leader Of The Red Lake Falls Concert Band After Two Years Of Work.

Prof. A. Onstad, who for the past two years has very successfully conducted the local band organization, tendered his resignation Tuesday evening, to take effect immediately, and the same was accepted by the band management. Prof. Onstad has not announced his intentions for the future, but it is likely that he has some excellent position in view, and will leave here shortly to take up other work.

The Gazette believes that the people of Red Lake Falls generally will regret this move, as by his earnest efforts during the past two years, Prof. Onstad has built up a musical organization that cannot be equalled in any town in the west twice the size of Red Lake Falls. He is an excellent performer as well as competent director and his solo work at the concerts in the past has won for him an enviable reputation throughout this section, and he is certain of the well wishes of all the people here for a highly successful career. He can take a position with any band or orchestra, and his ability is such that he has no reason to fear for the future. He is too good a man for a band of this sort and deserves a much better field.

His place here will be taken by a man from Ohio—Prof. Miller—who will arrive here Monday to assume his new duties. He comes well recommended as an excellent musician and first-class instructor so that the winter's concert work will be carried on without interruption.

The public will join The Gazette in wishing the greatest success to both the old and the new leaders.

Another Courier Change.

The latest in newspaper circles in Red Lake Falls is the transferring of the management of the Courier to Messrs. Lewis & Higinbotham, the land and insurance agents, who will pilot that sheet for the next month or so at least. Editor King has had difficulty in finding an experienced newspaper man to take hold of his plant, and as he could not be here to devote his own time to the work, it was necessary to put it in the hands of someone who would look after it, even though not a practical newspaper man. The new managers are good business rustlers and good fellows, and will undoubtedly keep the paper up to its standard.

Mrs. Jacob Nelson, of Albert Lea, Minn., says: "This winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and could not get rid of it; it was always bothering me in the morning till I had to do something for it. My neighbor advised me to try Kalo's Ruby Oil, and I did. I used it freely that evening. In the morning I got up and started to cough up all that stuff which was on my lungs. One bottle cured my cold entirely. I can say I never used anything as good before, and would never be without Kalo's Ruby Oil."

AUTOCRACY ENDS

CZAR BOWS TO THE INEVITABLE AND GRANTS DEMANDS OF THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE.

CREATES GENUINE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY WITH EVENTUAL UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE.

COUNT WITTE BECOMES PREMIER WITH FULL POWER TO CARRY OUT REFORMS.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 30.—The autocracy of the Romanoffs and the old order of things has ceased to exist in Russia. Emperor Nicholas has surrendered and Count Witte comes into power as premier with an imperial mandate which will enable him to convert the farcical national assembly into a real legislative body elected by greatly extended suffrage and to confer upon the people fundamental civil liberties, including free speech. A manifesto giving the details of the new form of government has been issued and has been well received by the people.

A simple perusal of the manifesto shows how complete is the emperor's abdication of his autocratic power. The very style of the document is clear and direct and devoid of the verbose, vague and bombastic phraseology which heretofore has characterized his majesty's manifestos. It not only betrays the real authorship, but shows that the emperor at last has irrevocably bowed to the inevitable. He does not even conceal the fact that the discontent and agitation of his subjects has driven him to take the step and practically yields everything—civil liberty, the inviolability of person and liberty of conscience, speech and assembly.

He not only converts the farcical imperial douma, with only consultative power, into an absolute legislative assembly without the assent of which no measure shall become law and before which all governmental authorities must answer, but promises eventually universal suffrage.

The effect throughout Russia is expected to be instantaneous. While the extremists threaten an attempt to keep up the present struggle the best of opinion is that the backbone of the strike is broken but in the final analysis the effect will depend on how far Count Witte will be able to execute the heavy task which he has assumed. Some persons high in the government believe it still will be necessary to use ball cartridges to suppress the present movement, but Count Witte appears confident.

OVERTURN STREET CARS.

Crowds at Warsaw Attempt to Stop Traffic.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Oct. 30.—The excitement in the streets shows no signs of abating. Every now and then crowds overturn a street car with the object of stopping traffic, but no serious conflicts have thus far occurred. The police are trying to induce the shopkeepers to reopen their shops, threatening to fine them if they do not do so, but the merchants are between two fires since the socialists promise to smash their windows if the shutters are taken down.

All the banks and factories and most of the business houses here are closed.

The situation looks threatening at Lodz and the strike also is spreading to other provincial towns.

REFUSE TO FIRE ON CROWD.

Troops at Lodz Discharge Rifles in the Air.

Lodz, Russian Poland, Oct. 30.—The situation here grows worse hourly. The infantry, when ordered to fire on the people, are discharging their rifles in the air. The shops are closed and those whose owners refuse to shut up are destroyed. Crowds are busy tearing down Russian flags, which were displayed by order of the police.

Bands of peasants in the government of Suwalki are destroying the government alcohol stores.

HUNDRED DEAD OR WOUNDED.

Troops Fire on a Crowd of People at Reval.

Reval, Russia, Oct. 30.—The troops fired two volleys on a crowd in the market place during the day, killing or wounding over a hundred persons.

Crowds of people are parading the streets singing the "Marseillaise."

A mob has destroyed the Hotel de France.

MANY KILLED OR WOUNDED.

Collisions Between Troops and People Continue at Riga.

Riga, Russia, Oct. 30.—During the day collisions between the troops and the armed populace continued. Many persons were killed or wounded. The strikers used knives and revolvers and killed a number of police.

Moscow Entirely Cut Off.

Berlin, Oct. 30.—The telegraph has been working all the morning with St. Petersburg and the principal cities of Russia except Moscow, which for some hours has been entirely cut off from telegraphic connection.

SIX PERSONS PERISHED.

Hotel at Hot Springs, Ark., Destroyed by Fire.

Hot Springs, Ark., Oct. 27.—The Railroadmen's hotel, located a block below the Iron Mountain railroad depot on Elm street, was destroyed by fire early in the morning and when the fire was gotten under control six badly charred bodies were found in the ruins. They were identified as follows:

A. L. Mann, railway conductor, Denver; Mrs. Mack, pianist, city; Ed Snyder, hotel porter; Harry Bradley, waiter; H. Roberts, Tacoma, Wash.; John McLeon, Austin, Tex.

The structure was a two-story frame building and the flames spread rapidly, cutting off escapes by hallway, both up and down stairs. Several occupants jumped out of the second-story windows and were injured.

The fire was thought to have been caused by a lamp exploding, but incendiarism is now suspected.

TRAGIC END OF TRIP.

Two St. Paul Youths Drowned in Lake Elmo.

St. Paul, Oct. 30.—Allan Fagley, the twenty-year-old son of H. W. Fagley, and Philip Dodson, the nineteen-year-old son of Frank Dodson, were drowned in Lake Elmo some time between Saturday and Sunday night.

The exact manner of their drowning will never be known. The boys left town Saturday afternoon with a team to try a new canvas hunting canoe. They had their guns and hunting paraphernalia with them and that was the last seen of them alive.

SIX MILLIONS GRAFT

ENGINEERS INVESTIGATE PROFIT ON SEVERAL LARGE PHILADELPHIA CONTRACTS.

Philadelphia, Oct. 30.—The report of the board of investigating engineers appointed last July by Mayor Weaver to examine the filtration system of the city and the northeast and southern boulevards now under construction was made public during the day. It is signed by Major Cassius E. Gillette of the United States engineer corps, who investigated the Savannah harbor frauds, and John Donald MacLennon of Washington.

The report shows that up to date the city has lost, through excessive costs, collusive bills, illegal advertising and in other ways $6,330,000.

The contractors who received most of the more than $18,000,000 that have been expended on improvements are D. J. McNichol & Co., James J. Ryan, John A. Kelley and Vare Bros.

The members of the McNichol firm are Israel W. Durham, leader of the local Republican organization; State Senator J. P. McNichol, also a city leader, and McNichol's brother, Daniel.

The Vare firm is made up of State Senator George A. Vare and Edwin H. Vare. Their brother, William S. Vare, is recorder of deeds, an elective office.

The officials held responsible by the report for some of the conditions in connection with the filtration system are William C. Haddock, who was director of public works under Mayor Ashbridge; Peter E. Costello, who was director of public works under Mayor Weaver until last May, when the mayor dismissed him, and John W. Hill, former chief of the bureau of filtration, who is awaiting trial on charges of fraud and falsification of records in connection with the construction of the filtration system.

MORO LEADER KILLED

DATTO ALI, HIS SON AND TEN OF HIS FOLLOWERS SLAIN BY AMERICAN TROOPS.

Manila, Oct. 28.—Troops under Captain Frank R. McCoy of the Third cavalry, aide-de-camp to Major General Wood, has surprised Datto Ali, head of the Moro insurgents of the island of Mindanao, who has been on the warpath for some time past, and killed him, together with his son and ten followers. Forty-three wounded Moros were taken prisoners and many arms and a large quantity of ammunition were captured.

Three enlisted men of the Twenty-second Infantry were killed and two wounded during the engagement.

Heavy fighting is also reported between the constabulary and Moro insurgents near Lake Lingusen, Mindanao.

Datto Ali, who for a long time past has given considerable trouble to the American authorities in Mindanao, took the aggressive on Oct. 16 last and since then he has been killing many Moros friendly to the government.

MINE EMPLOYES KILLED.

Five Men Lose Their Lives at Hazel Kirk, Pa.

Pittsburg, Oct. 30.—Five minor officials of the Pittsburg and Westmoreland Coal company were killed by an explosion in Hazel Kirk mine No. 1 of the company at Hazel Kirk, Pa., eighteen miles east of this city, which they had entered to ascertain if a portion of the mine was still burning as a result of an explosion two weeks ago. The names of the dead are: John Hornical, superintendent; Daniel Griffith, foreman; Joseph Hunter, John Lavey and Henry Claybourne, fire bosses.

THIRTEEN ARE DEAD

THIRTY OTHERS INJURED IN ACCIDENT ON SANTA FE ROAD NEAR KANSAS CITY.

Train Running Thirty-five Miles an Hour Strikes a Loose Rail in a Deep Cut and Five Cars Jump the Track and Are Torn to Pieces by Crashing Against the Jagged Walls Forming the Sides of the High Bluff.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 31.—Thirteen persons were killed and thirty injured in the wreck during the day of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe passenger train No. 1, known as the California Express, which, while running at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, struck a loose rail, ditching five cars one mile east of Blue River, which is the eastern limits of this city. The train, which left Chicago at 10 o'clock p. m. and was due here at 10:30 a. m., is a through train running between Chicago and San Francisco. It was running at a higher speed than usual, being ten or fifteen minutes behind its schedule. The wreck occurred at what railroad men call the "Rock Creek cut," on a curve, where jagged rock walls on each side of the track form a bluff almost 100 feet high. The engine was going so rapidly that it passed the loose rail in safety. The mail car, immediately behind, jumped the track and struck the side of the bluff to the right and the four cars following plowed through it and shot against the high stone wall at the left. The sides of the coaches were torn off by scraping against the rough stone surface, and passengers and trainmen ground against the wall were either killed outright or badly hurt.

The cars which left the track were a mail car, a baggage and express car, the smoking car, a chair car and a tourist sleeping car. Three tourist sleepers, two standard Pullmans and the dining car remained on the track. The smoking car split the baggage car ahead of it just below the floor line, and the baggage car, when it stopped, was on top of what was left of the smoking car. The other derailed cars were jammed against the rocks of the bluff, except the splintered fragments of the smoker.

ROOSEVELT IN PERIL

LIGHTHOUSE TENDER WITH PRESIDENT ON BOARD COLLIDES WITH FRUIT STEAMER.

New Orleans, Oct. 28.—After a narrow escape from losing his life in an early morning collision in which the lighthouse tender Magnolia, on which he was traveling, was so much damaged that he had to abandon her, President Roosevelt is now safe on board the armored cruiser West Virginia, bound for Hampton Roads.

The Magnolia collided with the fruit steamer Esparta, bound for New Orleans, and the accident was the result of a confusion of signals.

The rail and port bow of the Magnolia was damaged and two or three holes made in the hull below the water line. No one was hurt. The Magnolia immediately on being struck was beached, her bow being high and dry. After a careful examination of the damage to the vessel it was evident that there was no danger and the president and his party went to bed. Major Craighill of the United States engineers was aboard the Magnolia. His ship, the Ivy, a sister ship of the Magnolia, had preceded the Magnolia and was some distance ahead. A boat was immediately put off for the nearest telephone, about a mile and a half away, and the order given to head the Ivy off at Pilot station and have her return for the president and his party. The transfer was made at 3 o'clock in the morning. The vessel got under way immediately and the West Virginia was boarded on schedule time.

SIX PERSONS KILLED.

Two Freight Trains Collide Head-On at Casey, Ia.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 31.—Six persons were killed in a head-on collision during the evening between two freight trains on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad at Casey, Ia. The dead are:

Fireman Ed Nelson, Engineer Bart Shields, Fireman William Marshall, Brakeman Frank Johns, all of Valley Junction, Ia., and Rev. P. W. Caldwell, Van Meter, Ia., and an unknown man.

The wreck was caused by a misunderstanding of orders by the crew of the westbound train.

THREE PERSONS PERISH.

Bursting Wate Pipe Causes Flood at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Three lives were lost, property valued at $150,000 was destroyed, scores of families were driven from their homes and freight traffic on the Nickel Plate railroad was delayed for several hours on account of the breaking of a water main at Eighteenth and Clark streets.

The fatalities resulted indirectly from the flood which followed the bursting of the water pipe inundating the neighborhood for several blocks.

ATTACKS ADMIRAL TRAIN.

Mob of Chinamen Roughly Handles American Officer.

London, Oct. 31.—A dispatch to the Evening Standard from Shanghai says that Rear Admiral Train, commander-in-chief of the American Asiatic squadron, and his son, Lieutenant Train, have been victims of a savage attack by Chinese outside of Nanking. The American officers were pheasant shooting when the admiral accidentally shot a Chinese woman, slightly injuring her. Hundreds of villagers thereupon surrounded the officers, took away their guns, knocked the admiral down in the mud and held Lieutenant Train as a hostage. Forty American marines landed as a rescue party were attacked by a mob of Chinamen, who tried to pitchfork the officers. The marines were obliged to fire twice. The Chinese officials refused to restore the officers' guns and supported the villagers.

ON RATE LEGISLATION

TWO REGULARLY ORGANIZED ASSOCIATIONS ARE TO CONDUCT CAMPAIGNS.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Both conventions of the Interstate Commerce Law league were adjourned sine die during the day without making any efforts at reconciliation and as a consequence there will be two regularly organized bodies working in the interest of railroad rate legislation. The title of the new association after much discussion was selected as "The Federal Rate Association."

The resolutions adopted by the "anti" convention declared "the railroads shall be kept within their defined rights" and that "such legislation be taken as will remedy existing evils."

In addresses of its members this convention protested that its delegates had not come to Chicago in the interests of the railroads.

The regular convention before adjourning adopted resolutions endorsing President Roosevelt's plan for general government rate regulation by enlarging the powers of the Interstate commerce commission. It was also decided to send a copy of the platform as adopted direct to the White House by a committee of five.

It was decided by the executive committee to organize in every state and enter upon a vigorous campaign for the success of the Roosevelt rate legislation plan.

According to present plans, a strong lobby will be sent to Washington at the next session of congress.

TAFT SAILS FOR PANAMA.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

EVENTS OF A WEEK THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

H. P. Kauritzen, Tyler's oldest citizen, is dead, aged eighty-two.

The nineteenth annual meeting of the Southern Minnesota Teachers' association was held at Mankato last week. Fully 300 teachers were present.

Ten heavily loaded cars were ditched and demolished in a freight wreck on the Northern Pacific near Fergus Falls. No one was hurt but traffic was suspended.

The announcement is made that Senator E. B. Hawkins of Biwabik, St. Louis county, will be in the race for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

A pair of "strong arm" robbers held up John Watson at 8 o'clock in the evening within half a block of the West hotel, Minneapolis, and took all of his money.

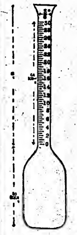
THE DAIRY

CREAM TEST BOTTLE.

New Design Which Will Make the Testing of the Cream More Accurate.

The increased interest in cream testing during the past two years has brought out several new cream-test bottles, says Prof. F. W. Woll, of the Wisconsin station. This has been largely caused by the extensive use of farm separators and the furnishing of cream instead of milk to the creameries. The testing of cream as a means of determining the amount of butter fat sent to a creamery by its patrons is a much more difficult process than the testing of whole milk, because the percentage of fat being larger than in milk, the errors of cream testing are greater; the amount of fat separated is often six times as great from cream as from milk. Experiments have shown that it is not safe to measure the cream into the test bottle with a pipette, as milk is measured, on account of the light fat of the cream, and because it does not drain from the pipette so completely as milk. These two facts make it impossible for a 17.6 c. m. milk pipette, which delivers 18 grams of milk, to measure out this weight of cream into test bottles, in order to determine accurately the percentage of fat in different samples of cream. The last legislature passed a law making weighing of cream samples obligatory in this state, wherever payments of cream are made on basis of the fat content of the cream.



Manufacturers have been placing cream-test bottles on the market for a number of years. They are made of the same length as the milk-test bottles, and while the bulbs of the two bottles are about the same size, the neck of the cream bottle is much larger in diameter. This gives an opportunity for testing as much as 30 per cent. fat in the cream-test bottles when 18 grams of cream is used. For some unknown reason the manufacturers have been gradually increasing the diameter of the neck, thus contracting the length of the scale on the cream-test bottles so that in some cases the entire graduation, from 0 to 30 per cent. occupies a space of only two inches in length. This brings the lines of the scale very closely together, so that the graduations which represent one-half per cent. of fat are not much farther apart than the width of an ordinary lead pencil mark. With such test bottles, it is almost impossible to read a test accurately to much less than one per cent. fat.

Realizing the difficulty thus introduced, a cream-test bottle made of the dimensions shown in the diagram has been suggested by Farrington. This bottle is of the same length as a milk-test bottle, but in order to give it a longer neck than cream-test bottles usually have, the capacity of the bulb has been reduced to 45 c. c. up to the zero mark of the scale, instead of 55 c. c., which is the capacity of the bulb of the old cream-test bottles. This size of bottle is amply large for mixing the cream and acid before whirling the test bottles in the centrifuge. The necks of many cream-test bottles on the market are only about three inches long, while those of the new cream bottle are at least four inches long. The graduations of the neck on this bottle are so far apart that it is easy to read one-fourth per cent. fat. The scale representing one per cent. on the new cream-test bottle is as long as that of two per cent. in the old bottles.—P. C.

The Sick Cow.

The sick cow should not be permitted to remain with the other cows, for in many cases the disease with which a cow is sick is a contagious one, but this is not always discernible at the time the cow is first taken sick. Milk from a sick cow should not be used, even for the feeding of farm animals. Give the animal the benefit of free air and moderate sunshine and deprive her of food for awhile, unless it be some sickness whose character is known. Often the sickness is merely the result of too high feeding. If the ailment is a very serious one it will pay better to call a veterinarian than to risk not doing the proper thing for the relief of the animal.—Farmers' Review.

The Main Thing.

No matter how skilled we may be in breeding and making nicks, crosses and out-crosses, the main thing with the cow is her feed, and unless she and her offspring are fed enough and well, the granddaughter will be a scrub and dear at most any price.

Breed for Winter Calves.

If you will breed part of your cows to come fresh in the winter you will find it profitable. A farmer who makes really good butter, can sell it for 35 and 40 cents all winter to private customers.

If the Republicans nominate a man that the people want, they can easily elect the next governor. If any set of politicians attempt to set up the pins in their own interest then there is likely to be "too much Johnson" to get satisfactory results at the polls says the Red Wing Republican.

Andrew R. McGill, postmaster of St. Paul, member of the state senate and former governor of this state died at his St. Paul home Monday afternoon from an attack of heart failure. Mr. McGill had been in the best of health and his sudden death was totally unlooked for. He made a good record as a public man and has been prominent in the state for a great many years.

State Auditor S. G. Iverson will be a candidate for re election next fall, and the excellent record made by this popular officer should certainly entitle him to the office for another few years. Mr. Iverson is a very capable official and the affairs of the auditor's office were never in better shape. Mr. Iverson is also very popular with the people of the entire state, and will add strength to the ticket.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Local Political Pot...

The local political situation for the city election next Tuesday is not very badly muddled, and only on two offices will there be a contest—that of Justice of the Peace and alderman of the Third ward.

* * * *

The mayorality will go to John A. Duffy, the present incumbent, who has so ably handled this office for the past two years. Mr. Duffy is the only candidate that filed, the people generally conceding him the honor, and no one cared to try and wrest it from him.

* * * *

James Brady is the candidate for alderman of the First ward without opposition. Mr. Brady has made a good officer, and can be looked to to continue his excellent work in the city's behalf.

* * * *

The old favorite, Fred Borchers, is a candidate for re-election in the Second ward, and no one ever entertained an idea of running against him. Fred don't say much, but his record as one of the city officials is a clean one, and he can always be depended on to be upon the right side of all questions pertaining to the city's welfare.

* * * *

H. Hennemuth and W. P. O'Brien are the candidates for aldermen-at-large, and neither has opposition. They are both desirable men, and will do all they can for their constituents.

* * * *

Adam Zeh has filed for justice of the peace, and will make a clean fight for one of the places. Mr. Zeh is admirably fitted for the position, and will make an able successor to Justice Toupin, who has declined to run. Adam has had lots of office experience and the voters will make no mistake in electing him.

* * * *

S. A. Swanson is also in the justice race, and with S. L. Lewis a candidate for re-election, this makes three candidates for the two justice offices. Mr. Swanson was at one time a justice here, and gave good satisfaction so that he can be expected to get a good vote, which will make a pretty three-cornered fight.

* * * *

Joseph Belair and Simon Paul have both filed for alderman of the Third ward, and as the Third is the largest and strongest ward in the city, here is where a pretty hard contest may be expected. Mr. Belair is one of the oldest residents of the city and has a large number of strong backers in his candidacy, and his vote is bound to be large. Mr. Paul likewise is an old-timer here, with many warm friends, and it would appear to be hard to pick the winner.

* * * *

The question of whether or not the city shall invest from $500 to $700 in a chemical fire engine to be added to the department apparatus, is to be voted on, and it seems that the question should carry in favor of purchasing the chemical. An engine of this sort is a very valuable thing in the event of fires, and can be used to put out over half of the ordinary blazes. It is always ready for use and can be got to the fire in short order after an alarm, and if the fire has gained too much headway will at least hold it in check until the engine is ready for action. The department needs the chemical, and the voters should put an X after the "yes" on the ballot next Tuesday.

COLLIE RECOVERS THE CAT

Smart Dog Takes Long Journey to Find the Friend of His Youth.

A family living in Vermont removed from their long-time residence to another village, some 40 miles away. They took with them a Scotch collie of unusual intelligence, but left behind the family cat, says the New York Times. The collie and the cat had been warm friends for several years and had fought each other's battles with courage and impartiality.

After the family reached their new home the collie was evidently lonesome. One evening as the family was gathered about the open fire some remarks were made about this, and the man of the house, patting the collie on the head, said: "I am sorry that we did not bring George with us. You miss your old playmate, don't you?" The next morning the collie had disappeared. Three days afterward he came into the yard in a state of great enjoyment, indicated in the usual dog way, followed by George, the cat. Both seemed somewhat excited, and the collie showed marks of battle. Each seemed greatly delighted in the company of the other, and the old-time status quo was at once resumed.

Out of curiosity inquiry was made by the family, both at their old residence and along the line of the main highway between the two places, which developed the fact that the dog appeared at the old home, very deliberately and very distinctly induced the cat to start on the journey with him and had protected him en route, with a clash of arms for nearly every mile.

Of course, the question arose as to the language by which he told George his wants and what inducements were offered to go with him on the hazardous journey.

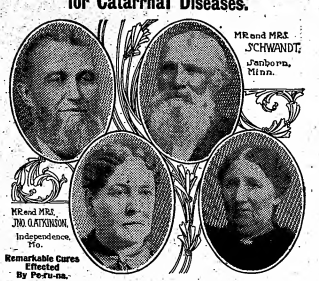
THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME

Are Never Without Pe-ru-na in the Home for Catarrhal Diseases.



MR and MRS. SCHWANDT, Sanborn, Minn.
MR and MRS. JNO. O. ATKINSON, Independence, Mo.

Remarkable Cures Effected By Pe-ru-na.

Under date of January 10, 1897, Dr. Hartman received the following letter:

"My wife has been a sufferer from a complication of diseases for the past twenty-five years. Her case has baffled the skill of some of the most noted physicians. One of her worst troubles was chronic constipation of several years' standing. She was also passing through that most critical period in the life of a woman—change of life.

"In June, 1895, I wrote to you about her case. You advised a course of Peruna and Manalin, which we at once commenced, and have to say it completely cured her.

"About the same time I wrote you about my own case of catarrh, which had been of twenty-five years' standing. At times I was almost past going. I commenced to use Peruna according to your instructions and continued its use for about a year, and it has completely cured me. Your remedies do all that you claim for them, and even more."—John O. Atkinson.

In a letter dated January 1, 1900, Mr. Atkinson says, after five years' experience with Peruna:

"I will ever continue to speak a good word for Peruna. I am still cured of catarrh."—John O. Atkinson, Independence, Mo., Box 272.

Mrs. Alla Schwandt, Sanborn, Minn., writes:

"I have been troubled with rheumatism and catarrh for twenty-five years. Could not sleep day or night. After having used Peruna I can sleep and nothing bothers me now. If I ever am affected with any kind of sickness Peruna will be the medicine I shall use. My son was cured of catarrh of the larynx by Peruna."—Mrs. Alla Schwandt.

Why Old People are Especially Liable to Systemic Catarrh.

When old age comes on, catarrhal diseases come also. Systemic catarrh is almost universal in old people.

This explains why Peruna has become so indispensable to old people. Peruna is their safeguard. Peruna is the only remedy yet devised that entirely meets these cases. Nothing but an effective systemic remedy can cure them.

Would you, brother, if you were taken suddenly ill, call in a boilermaker or a blacksmith to treat you? Not if you had any hopes of getting cured, you say. The people, or those that were about town that late, were startled by the clang of the big alarm bell on the First State Bank Sunday night at ten o'clock, and for a few moments visions of a thrilling robbery were easily imagined. The alarm continued for some fifteen minutes, and finally some of the brave ones sneaked up and peered into the bank windows, but the bold, bad burglar was not in evidence. The electrical burglar alarm system is so arranged that when the hour of ten o'clock p. m. arrives, unless the vault is closed properly and everything is in shape, the alarm will go off, and that evening some lonely detail of the mechanism had not been looked after, which resulted in a continuous alarm until the bank people got down to stop it. The alarm works o. k. and if the safe blowers ever tackle the First State they will find themselves in a tight box.

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At W. A. Schreiter's drug store, price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free,

HOBO IDLE 104 YEARS

OLDEST TRAMP ON EARTH RETURNS TO GOTHAM.

"Old Simon," Pious Wanderer, Finding Jerusalem Too Slow to Die In, Comes Back to New York with Proud Boast.

New York.—"Old Simon," Sem Semke Hersh, or, as his American citizenship certificate records his name, Simon Harris, the centenarian tramp and most pious man in America, is back in his old place in the Norfolk street synagogue.

Until recently his friends supposed that "Old Sim" was in Jerusalem, whither he went nearly two years ago to die. He became tired of waiting to attain the object of his pilgrimage, and surprised his friend, L. Melzer, 4 Atlantic avenue, and his daughter, Mrs. Fred Brock, 73 Columbia street, Brooklyn, by walking in upon them. He had just arrived on the Philadelphia from Cherbourg.

By reason of his years, his piety and the extent of his rambles, Simon Harris, known to everybody on the East side, is the most remarkable tramp down on the books.

He himself says he is 97, but the records of the societies which have assisted him and the public records at Bialystok, Russian Poland, where he was born, show the patriarch to be 104 years old.

It is one of his proudest boasts that he never did a day's work in his life. He was about 60 years old when he walked from Bialystok to Hamburg and induced the packet company to give him passage to America. He became a religious tramp, starting penniless. By way of Panama he reached California, where he became, 44 years ago, an American citizen. He came back to New York afoot, and was three years on the way.

He returned to Russia, where his wife had died before he first sailed for New York. He brought back with him his only child, Rachel, now Mrs. Brock. He next made little jaunts into Central America, Brazil, Chili and Peru, returning through Central America, Mexico and Texas.

After spending about five years on the East side, passing most of his time in prayer in the synagogue, he started for Palestine, sailing for Tripoli and tramping through Africa, Egypt, Siberia and China. He came back again by way of Russia.

Always wearing his yermenke, or praying cap, "Old Simon" spent many a night in the synagogues praying that the soul of some departed friend, over whose body he kept vigil, should keep on toward Heaven and that his grave should be light. Two years ago he decided to go again to Jerusalem, this time to die in the Holy City. He started with $200, while the societies have sent him ten francs a month.

"Old Simon" says he found Jerusalem "slow," with "little much" business doing there. He spent all his time praying in the oldest synagogue in the city—a temple 1,900 years old.

When he tired of the "dead town" the American consul, Selah Merrill, gave him a letter, and he came back by way of Joppa, Marseilles, Paris and Cherbourg. Early the other morning he worshiped in a private synagogue at 77 Columbia street, Brooklyn. "Old Simon's" voice is firm and his mental faculties keen. He read without spectacles a Hebrew newspaper.

"I was sick until I was 40 years old," said he "and then I began to get strong. Palestine is too little good. The United States is the best place. Whisky I like, not too much; a little. I am particular what I eat when I have nothing. If I have everything to eat then I am not particular."

OPIUM SMOKING AS A CURE

Specialist Says "the Pipe" Will Check Cancer, Nervousness, and Many Other Afflictions.

London.—Visions of opium dens and Chinamen are called up by the announcement that a pyrolithic institute has been opened, whose method of cure is "the opium pipe."

The institute, however, which is in Red Lion square, Holborn, is opened for medical purposes only. It is under the direction of a well-known medical specialist, who yesterday stated that he believes opium can stop laryngeal cough; that it can stop the pseudo-asthmatic attacks of patients afflicted with chronic emphysema more immediately than can chloroform or ether, and that it can counteract idiopathic nervous sleeplessness, beneficially affect spasmodic and convulsive affections of the nervous system, as well as valvular heart disease, asthma and neuralgia.

Moreover, its effects on "colds" he believes to be marvelous, while the specialist says that he has himself used it for years in cancer cases and succeeded in checking the disease.

Match for the Tartar.

Gen. Kuropatkin has at last hit upon the most deadly of all war engines, the automobile; but instead of employing it for his own purposes of command he should man it with a chauffeur and send it actively against the enemy. One good automobile properly operated will do more destruction than all your artillery. If it comes to an issue of the Red Devil versus the Russ—heaven help the Russ!

Different War Medicines.

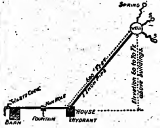
Russia says that the Japanese won their battles because their army surgeons administered fighting pills to the soldiers. Then Russia is suing for peace because the French financiers have administered fighting bills to the autocrat's ministers in St. Petersburg.

THE DAIRY

THE FARM WATER SUPPLY.

A Subject of Vital Importance to the Man Who Has a Large Dairy.

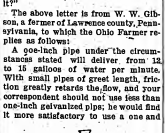
"I am thinking of gathering up some springs on hillside above my buildings and piping the water down to house and barn. I think of putting in self-watering devices for stock in barn and inside closet in house, with fountain in dooryard. About 600 feet from house I have a rise of 60 to 80 feet; at 1,000 feet would have considerably more, probably 100 feet. The supply of water is not large and I thought of collecting the water from one spring and one well, about 18 feet deep, into a reservoir, and from there conveying it to house and barn through one-inch galvanized iron pipe. In case well and spring would give out, I might drill well and put up wind wheel to pump into reservoir. How shall I go about it?"



THE WATER SYSTEM.

The above letter is from W. W. Gibson, a farmer of Lawrence county, Pennsylvania, to which the Ohio Farmer replies as follows:

A one-inch pipe under the circumstances stated will deliver from 12 to 15 gallons of water per minute. With small pipes of great length, friction greatly retards the flow, and your correspondent should not use less than one-inch galvanized pipe; he would find it more satisfactory to use a one and one-half-inch pipe. Assuming that he will use a one-inch pipe, the most important question for him to decide is whether he will need a reservoir or not. If he can collect water from different springs and get a flow equal to about the amount per minute named above, he will need no reservoir.



SIPHON AT WELL ON HILL.

Dig out the lower spring and put in two lengths of 36-inch sewer pipe. Then drill through just below the joint between them and connect the iron pipe. Place a screen over entrance to pipe. If a reservoir is needed, the size of it will depend largely upon the amount of water that is available and the amount of water that will be used. It is better to have supply enough to keep water running a good portion of the time. The pipe is then less liable to become clogged, will be cooler in summer, and less liable to freeze in winter.

Run the pipe as straight as possible from spring to buildings and without any abrupt turns. Lay it at least two feet deep so that it will remain cool in summer and keep from freezing in winter. T joints should be inserted wherever water is to be taken from the main pipe line. At the fountain there may be a manhole giving access to a stop-cock to shut water off from the fountain and a gate to let water out of fountain pipe in winter so as to avoid damage from freezing.

A waste-cock is put in at the barn so that, at times, the surplus water may be allowed to escape, and thus keep up more of a flow in the pipe than might otherwise be required. No filter will be needed.

In regard to drawing water from a well 18 feet deep: It could be siphoned out, but I should avoid this if possible, as air will sometimes collect in the siphon and water stop flowing. If a siphon is put in, at the highest point should be an opening with valve in order to facilitate filling the pipe with water, to get the flow started.

For Wrapping Butter.

Only the very best pure vegetable parchment paper should be used in wrapping butter. Inferior paper encourages the growth of mold and does not protect the butter. Much of the paper used is too light in weight. A ream of 500 sheets, measuring 50x12½ inches should weigh at least 40 pounds, and the same number of sheets 38x12½ inches should weigh not less than 30 pounds.

The Rattling Farm Wagon.

If your lumber wagon rattles take off the nuts, drive out the bolts and put a leather washer under the bolt head and under the nut or washer. Tell the boys and hired man not to drive so fast when the wagon is empty.

Old-Time Methods.

Every man who has given any thought to the subject knows that old-time methods will not apply to modern conditions. Every dairyman should keep this constantly in mind.

HOBO IDLE 104 YEARS

OLDEST TRAMP ON EARTH RETURNS TO GOTHAM.

"Old Simon," Pious Wanderer, Finding Jerusalem Too Slow to Die In, Comes Back to New York with Proud Boast.

New York.—"Old Simon," Sem Semke Hersh, or, as his American citizenship certificate records his name, Simon Harris, the centenarian tramp and most pious man in America, is back in his old place in the Norfolk street synagogue.

Until recently his friends supposed that "Old Sim" was in Jerusalem, whither he went nearly two years ago to die. He became tired of waiting to attain the object of his pilgrimage, and surprised his friend, L. Melzer, 4 Atlantic avenue, and his daughter, Mrs. Fred Brock, 73 Columbia street, Brooklyn, by walking in upon them. He had just arrived on the Philadelphia from Cherbourg.

By reason of his years, his piety and the extent of his rambles, Simon Harris, known to everybody on the East side, is the most remarkable tramp down on the books.

He himself says he is 97, but the records of the societies which have assisted him, and the public records at Bialystok, Russian Poland, where he was born, show the patriarch to be 104 years old.

It is one of his proudest boasts that he never did a day's work in his life. He was about 60 years old when he walked from Bialystok to Hamburg and induced the packet company to give him passage to America. He became a religious tramp, starting penniless. By way of Panama he reached California, where he became, 44 years ago, an American citizen. He came back to New York afoot, and was three years on the way.

He returned to Russia, where his wife had died before he first sailed for New York. He brought back with him his only child, Rachel, now Mrs. Brock. He next made little jaunts into Central America, Brazil, Chili and Peru, returning through Central America, Mexico and Texas.

After spending about five years on the East side, passing most of his time in prayer in the synagogue, he started for Palestine, sailing for Tripoli and tramping through Africa, Egypt, Siberia and China. He came back again by way of Russia.

Always wearing his yarmelke, or praying cap, "Old Simon" spent many a night in the synagogues praying that the soul of some departed friend, over whose body he kept vigil, should keep on toward Heaven and that his grave should be light. Two years ago he decided to go again to Jerusalem, this time to die in the Holy City. He started with $200, while the societies have sent him ten francs a month.

"Old Simon" says he found Jerusalem "slow," with "little much" business doing there. He spent all his time praying in the oldest synagogue in the city—a temple 1,900 years old.

When he tired of the "dead town" the American consul, Selah Merrill, gave him a letter, and he came back by way of Joppa, Marseilles, Paris and Cherbourg. Early the other morning he worshiped in a private synagogue at 77 Columbia street, Brooklyn. "Old Simon's" voice is firm and his mental faculties keen. He read without spectacles a Hebrew newspaper.

"I was sick until I was 40 years old," said he "and then I began to get strong. Palestine is too little good. The United States is the best place. Whisky I like, not too much; a little. I am particular what I eat when I have nothing. If I have everything to eat then I am not particular."

OPIUM SMOKING AS A CURE

Specialist Says "the Pipe" Will Check Cancer, Nervousness, and Many Other Afflictions.

London.—Visions of opium dens and Chinamen are called up by the announcement that a pyrolithic institute has been opened, whose method of cure is "the opium pipe."

The institute, however, which is in Red Lion square, Holborn, is opened for medical purposes only. It is under the direction of a well-known medical specialist, who yesterday stated that he believes opium can stop laryngeal cough; that it can stop the pseudo-asthmatic attacks of patients afflicted with chronic emphysema more immediately than can chloroform or ether, and that it can counteract idiopathic nervous sleeplessness, beneficially affect spasmodic and convulsive affections of the nervous system, as well as valvular heart disease, asthma and neuralgia.

Moreover, its effects on "colds" he believes to be marvelous, while the specialist says that he has himself used it for years in cancer cases and succeeded in checking the disease.

Match for the Tartar.

Gen. Kuropatkin has at last hit upon the most deadly of all war engines, the automobile; but instead of employing it for his own purposes of command he should man it with a chauffeur and send it actively against the enemy. One good automobile properly operated will do more destruction than all your artillery. If it comes to an issue of the Red Devil versus the Russ—heaven help the Russ!

Different War Medicines.

Russia says that the Japanese won their battles because their army surgeons administered fighting pills to the soldiers. Then Russia is suing for peace because the French financiers have administered fighting bills to the autocrat's ministers in St. Petersburg.

THE DAIRY

THE FARM WATER SUPPLY.

A Subject of Vital Importance to the Man Who Has a Large Dairy.

"I am thinking of gathering up some springs on hillside above my buildings and piping the water down to house and barn. I think of putting in self-watering devices for stock in barn and inside closet in house, with fountain in dooryard. About 600 feet from house I have a rise of 60 to 80 feet; at 1,000 feet would have considerably more, probably 100 feet. The supply of water is not large and I thought of collecting the water from one spring and one well, about 18 feet deep, into a reservoir, and from there conveying it to house and barn through one-inch galvanized iron pipe. In case well and spring would give out, I might drill well and put up wind wheel to pump into reservoir. How shall I go about it?"

THE WATER SYSTEM.

The above letter is from W. W. Gibson, a farmer of Lawrence county, Pennsylvania, to which the Ohio Farmer replies as follows:

A one-inch pipe under the circumstances stated will deliver from 12 to 15 gallons of water per minute. With small pipes of great length, friction greatly retards the flow, and your correspondent should not use less than one-inch galvanized pipe; he would find it more satisfactory to use a one and one-half-inch pipe. Assuming that he will use a one-inch pipe, the most important question for him to decide is whether he will need a reservoir or not. If he can collect water from different springs and get a flow equal to about the amount per minute named above, he will need no reservoir.

Dig out the lower spring and put in two lengths of 36-inch sewer pipe. Then drill through just below the joint between them and connect the iron pipe. Place a screen over entrance to pipe. If a reservoir is needed, the size of it will depend largely upon the amount of water that is available and the amount of water that will be used. It is better to have supply enough to keep water running a good portion of the time. The pipe is then less liable to become clogged, will be cooler in summer, and less liable to freeze in winter.

Run the pipe as straight as possible from spring to buildings and without any abrupt turns. Lay it at least two feet deep so that it will remain cool in summer and keep from freezing in winter. T joints should be inserted wherever water is to be taken from the main pipe line. At the fountain there may be a manhole giving access to a stop-cock to shut water off from the fountain and a gate to let water out of fountain pipe in winter so as to avoid damage from freezing.

A waste-cock is put in at the barn so that, at times, the surplus water may be allowed to escape, and thus keep up more of a flow in the pipe than might otherwise be required. No filter will be needed.

For Wrapping Butter.

Only the very best pure vegetable parchment paper should be used in wrapping butter. Inferior paper encourages the growth of mold and does not protect the butter. Much of the paper used is too light in weight. A ream of 500 sheets, measuring 50x12½ inches should weigh at least 40 pounds, and the same number of sheets 38x12½ inches should weigh not less than 30 pounds.

The Rattling Farm Wagon.

If your lumber wagon rattles take off the nuts, drive out the bolts and put a leather washer under the bolt head and under the nut or washer. Tell the boys and hired man not to drive so fast when the wagon is empty.

Old-Time Methods.

Every man who has given any thought to the subject knows that old-time methods will not apply to modern conditions. Every dairyman should keep this constantly in mind.

TOO LITTLE GOOD BUTTER

A Plea for Improvement of the Grade of the Farm-Made Product.

The consumption of butter is increased by the increase of the general quality. There is a general complaint that there is too little good butter on the market and too much poor butter. If this applies to creamery butter it applies much more to farm-made butter. The American public is always ready to pay for a product of good quality, but it turns away from a product of poor quality. This is so probably more in this country than in any other. No matter how poor the American may be he wants the best. Sometimes if he cannot pay for it he runs in debt for it rather than take a poorer quality, for which he could pay. This is so not only in the case of butter, but in the case of almost everything else. The result is that a poorly made product of any kind sells slowly even at a low price. The problem in this country is to manufacture good products, for those only can be marketed without loss.

When a man sends poor butter to market to be sold on commission he is taking big chances with it, says the Farmers' Review. As it is not a "quick sale," as the commission men say, it will be held in store longer than the other butter. Much of this time it is exposed to currents of air warmer than the required temperature of the refrigerators, for it must be often examined by possible buyers. The triers are run into it often and when the surface is covered with several signs of this kind the would-be buyers become suspicious of it, for they recognize the fact that other men have passed adverse opinions on it. It gets rancid in a short time and some of it has finally to be disposed of as grease.

TO MANAGE KICKING COWS

Stall in Which They May Be Safely Milked, While at the Same Time Breaking Them of Habit.

Kicking is a fault common to young heifers the first few weeks after calving. If it is allowed to continue they soon learn to become habitual kickers, than which I know of nothing meaner as they will stand quietly until the last drops are being drawn, and then let drive at the pail, and really seem to enjoy the fun of doing it. Kicking at flies in summer is also as great a cause of kicking as rough milking. This should never be allowed.

A heifer's teats are very tender and she should always be milked very gently by the full hand, says the Farm and Home. The teat should never be jerked, or pulled as in "stripping," especially when the bag is full. Extreme gentleness in every way the first few weeks will usually make a gentle cow. Often the animal is timid and shrinks from being handled, and also resents interference with what she considers the sole rights of her self. In all cases of kicking I have one unfailing remedy, whether the cow is young, or an old habitual kicker.

Make a slatted stall just high enough so she can't jump out and wide enough to hold her comfortably, with nothing to spare, narrower at the end where a feed box should be placed as high from the ground as is comfortable for her to eat out of. This slatted stall should be long enough to have cleats through which a bar or two should be run behind the cow to keep her from backing out, and also places to run a bar in front of her hind legs about the thick joint, or as high up as possible, so as not to interfere with milking. A hole about 18 or 20 inches wide is left open for this purpose from the ground up to the cow's flank, which allows easy and safe access to the udder, while the cleat, post, etc., prevent the cow from kicking outwardly at the milker, thus insuring safety to milk and milker.

This stall or break does not hurt the cow at all, but it teaches her to stand still, and also that she can't kick if she wanted to. Usually a few weeks' use of this break makes a gentle cow, especially if fed while she is being milked. Old kickers may always have to be milked in it, although I have broken several from kicking. They are usually good cows and can be bought cheap.

DAIRY HINTS.

Clean up the dairy quarters, vessels, tools, milkers and animals.

Sixty pounds of good butter is worth 20 bushels of wheat to-day.

Don't make the mistake of crowding your pasture grass too early.

Be not stingy with the salt. It costs less than one cent a pound, and should therefore be placed where at all times it is convenient for the stock to get it.

Does your churn smell as sweet as the new-mown hay after you have made ready to set away after using? Don't be satisfied to let it go if it does not. Nice butter depends on just such little thing as this.

Danish Dairymen.

The Danes are great dairymen, and there are no people in the world that pay more attention to their cows than do these people. A traveler that has spent some time in Denmark says that all the stables he visited had concrete floors and were fireproof. Water was in abundance and could be used in any quantity for the washing out of the stables. Danish dairymen like to know what their cows are doing, and in many of the stables keep a tablet behind each cow giving data relative to the cow, while a slate bears the dairy record of pounds of milk produced and sometimes its test.

ARRANGEMENT OF HOGPENS

Practical Plan Which Has Been Tried by One Farmer with Success.

The great difficulty in planning a hog-house is to get it so that it will be dry and clean. In this plan, 16x20 feet, I have four sleeping—or nest—pens, and four feed pens; close partitions between them, except passageway between the nest pen and the feed pen, explains John M. Jemison, in the Rural New Yorker. Each feed and nest pen is to be 5x6 feet, and the alleyway 4x20 feet. The building should stand east and west, with pens on south side, and alley on north side, and have a yard on south side as large as desirable. I would make a double doorway at two of the partitions, and make the doors so they will close tight. As arranged, the sows can make their nests in corners away from doors, and the wind will not blow on them when the doors are open. The pens next to the alley can be used to feed in, when the weather is bad, and when good, the feeding can be done in lots outside. The more feeding done inside, the more work required to keep the house clean.

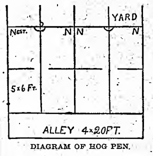

DIAGRAM OF HOG PEN.

I would lay the floor with cement concrete, making the alley floors level, but the pen floors I would slope from the south wall towards the alley, about three inches in the 12 feet. This will tend to cause all water to flow towards the alley, and keep the nests and feed stalls comparatively dry. The bedding from the nests, when soiled, can go into the lots or alley, just as the feeder wishes, when he cleans out the stalls. The yards should be kept clean by throwing in straw, or other coarse material. Over this floor plan the builder can put such building as suits him best; a shed in form, the roof sloping one way, or a comb roof. In either case, if he wishes, a room for bedding and feed above the pens. The building should be located on an elevated point of ground, so the water will flow away from it in all directions, and the roof spouted, to keep water from making it wet about the building. Make doors at the ends of the alley. If the doors are cut in half, it will often be an advantage in airing out the pens. There should also be plenty of windows on the south side, for sunshine is a very important factor in the health and comfort of swine.

THE BEST HOG TROUGH.

With Slats Across the Top It Will Keep the Hogs from Lying in Them.

I have tried all kinds of hog troughs and like best the one shown here, writes an Illinois farmer to the Farm and Home. It can be made of two boards for water, swill or grain, is stout and durable, is not liable to burst when water freezes in it. The boards should be 2x12, and 16 feet long is a good length; 1x12-inch boards make a very good trough, but are not so durable as two-inch. The slats across the top keep the hogs from lying in the trough when it is filled with water in hot weather.

THE LIVE STOCK.

Study the individual needs of each cow and supply those needs.

Keep the horse judiciously shod and exercised.

Be cheerful—help to inspire the other fellow too.

Some cows would be better ones if they were fed more.

It is the steady, quiet horse that can do the biggest day's work when it is hot.

You can change the quantity of milk by the feed, but the quality is born with the cow.

A strong, well-grown sow may be bred to farrow at one year, but a small one should not be bred until 10 or 12 months old.

Chaff and loose straw dropping through the cracks of an ill-constructed ceiling are a constant source and cause of dust during milking. The ceiling of the stable should be as tight as your house.

Many a stable of four or more horses, if intelligently mated and driven, would do better work and do it easier. An old horse mated to a young one, a heavy horse to a light one, a slow horse to a fast one, often causes trouble, which might easily be avoided by a little foresight and judgment in the matter.

The Horse to Reject.

Reject a horse with toes turned in or out. The twist generally occurs at the fetlock. Toes turned out are more objectionable than toes turned in. When toes are turned out the fetlocks are generally turned in, and animals so formed are very apt to cut or bruise. Both, however, are weak formations.

MINE ON FIRE SINCE 1857.

Vein of Coal in Pennsylvania Still Unextinguished After Forty-Seven Years.

President Lewis A. Riley, of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, in his annual report, says that one of the company's mines near Tamaqua has been on fire for 47 years, says Fuel. Regarding the efforts now made to quench these subterranean fires the report says:

"A portion of the outcrop of the Mammoth vein in this locality has been on fire since 1857, the fire being confined by the water filling the workings below water level and cut-offs on the outcrop. Before opening the colliery below water level it is necessary either to extinguish the fire or get it under control. During the past year efforts have been made with this end in view which have met with a large measure of success. A boiler plant and pumping machinery have been erected on the bank of the Little Schuylkill river at Tamaqua for the purpose of pumping water to the level of the outcrop. A branch of the Panther Creek railroad has been extended nearly two miles to reach the outcrop, and more holes have put down at various places where there were indications of fire. The fire is being extinguished by washing fine coal dirt through bore holes on the fire and filling up the vacant spaces so as to cut off the air supply."

HE DIDN'T WANT THE COAT

But There Was Something in the Inside Pocket He Did Want.

The truth of this story is vouched for by the victim, says the New York Sun.

"Where is that old blue coat I knocked around in last summer?" he asked his wife. She was not quick to offer an explanation.

"It was here only yesterday," remarked the husband. "I know it was."

"Yes," said the wife with a touch of anger, "I know it was. I just got sick and tired of seeing that coat and a lot of other old stuff lying around cluttering things up, and I sold it this morning."

"You sold it! Sold the coat—the old blue coat?"

"Yes, I sold it. And I don't want you to go around moping about it."

"Dear, I didn't want the coat, but to-morrow is your birthday and I had hidden a ring and a nice yellow bill in the inside pocket. I wanted to surprise you and I couldn't think of a better hiding place."

The victim says that what happened after that is nobody's business.

TRUE HEROISM OF LIFE.

Found in Every-Day Occupations That Call for Steady Heads and Hands.

Prof. William James, of Harvard university, relates that, upon a certain journey, he was questioning with himself whether or not the higher heroism of life was passing out of human society; and that, at the very moment, he looked from the car window and suddenly got sight of a number of workmen performing some task on the dizzy ledge of an iron construction at a great height. This at once brought to his mind, says Success Magazine, a sense of the everyday bravery of men in everyday occupations. It flashed upon him, on the instant, that the true heroism of life is found, not only on the day of battle and in desperate adventures, but also in building every bridge, or in the ordinary day-by-day service of the world, whether of the sailor upon his deck, the brakeman upon his train, the lumberman upon his raft, or wherever else men are at work.

"As I awoke to this unidealized heroic life around me," he says, "the scales seemed to fall from my eyes, and a wave of sympathy greater than I had ever before felt with the common life of common men began to fill my soul."

WOODS FOR FURNITURE.

Objections to Oak and Rosewood—Walnut's Day Gone—Seasoning Mahogany.

Some of the best cabinetmakers of New York are chary of working in oak. Really old and well-seasoned oak is hard to get and harder to work, says the New York Sun.

There is no great quantity of old oak furniture in the market, and old pieces that would supply large enough lumber for important work are seldom found. New kiln-dried oak is uncertain, being liable to warp and crack.

Paneled articles can be made of such material with some safety, but large solid articles are likely to give a bad account of themselves at the end of a winter in a steam-heated house.

Rosewood also the best cabinetmakers distrust. This wood has a peculiarly oily quality that makes it uncertain when glued. For this reason rosewood is used chiefly as a veneer. Thin sheets lose much of their oil and take glue satisfactorily.

Solid rosewood furniture is hard to find.

Unpardonable.

Mrs. Flip—That new neighbor is a fearfully slipshod housekeeper.

Mr. Flip—How do you know?

"Why, every single time I send over there to borrow something she's always out of it!"—Detroit Free Press.

It Sure Does.

Hear the Glee club!

Why do they call it a Glee club?

Because it effectually removes all evidences of glee from the adjacent populace.—Pittsburg Post.

HEARD AT ITALIAN 'PHONES

The Voice of His Holiness the Pope Frequently Rings Over the Wires.

Says a Rome report in the New York World: Of late Pius X. has become a constant user of the telephone. In fact, all his personal communications on important business with every diocese of Italy are transmitted from the vatican through the wire.

Since he sent his Easter blessing to his beloved Venetian diocese last year Pius X. has become fully aware of the importance of the telephone instrument for the speedy transaction of business, and has come to the conclusion that he would hereafter save much of the red tape and delay of the Roman congregations by attending to some of the church business personally at the telephone instrument.

Inquiries at the vatican telephone exchange revealed the fact that the most frequent use of the long distance telephone made by Pius X. is for communication with Venice, in which city he holds long conversations not only with his successor, the patriarch, but with some of his relatives and the numerous friends he made during the time he was the patriarch.

One of his intimate prelates, in the way of a joke, suggested to the pope a few days ago that his telephonic business with Venice will soon require the installing of a direct wire, at which suggestion Pius X. is said to have smiled an approval. It is a fact, however, that Pius X. keeps constantly in touch with every diocese in Italy through the frequent use of the telephone.

IVORY DIFFICULT TO JUDGE

Billiard Balls That Look Just Alike Differ in Lasting Qualities.

The next time you have a billiard cue in your hand and expect to run the game out just stop and ponder over the age of the pieces of ivory that are rolling tantalizingly about the table. That white ball which has just received too much "English" belonged to an old elephant who was wandering through the Congo jungles when Napoleon was still alive. Those balls cost from $8 to $10 apiece. Study the history of the billiard ball and their case and you will have more respect for the game.

The elephant's tusk which is large enough to furnish the product for a good billiard ball must be at least 25 years old. If it is 50 years old, so much the better. The tusk of the elephant grows much like an oak tree, and the grain of the ivory looks not unlike the grain of a seasoned piece of oak lumber. If it is "green" the ivory will shrink just as the wood shrinks. If it is too "dry" it will "chip" in the same fashion.

The buying of billiard balls at best is a gamble. A ball may have the right weight, the proper gloss and appear to be well seasoned, but for some unaccountable reason will chip off and become totally ruined by a fall on the floor. Buy a dozen balls like a setting of Plymouth Rock eggs; three or four balls will last for years, while the others will have to be replaced again and again.

IN FROG YEAR IN JAPAN.

Comes Every Twenty Years and the Creatures Overrun the Swamps.

A resident of Chicago, lately returned from a trip to Japan and Honolulu, says:

"I was fortunate in arriving in Japan in one of the 'frog years.' There is a certain variety of frog which comes to the swamps and marshes of Japan every 20 years, overrunning them and keeping up a croaking that is most annoying. Their visits correspond with those of the dreaded cicada, or 17-year-old locust, about which the scientists of the United States have been puzzling for years. Unlike the locust, however, the frogs do no damage, and their coming is welcomed by the Japanese on account of their value as food. Unlike the French and Americans, the Japs do not eat the hind legs alone, but cook up the whole body into a delicate dish which is palatable.

"The frogs grow to an enormous size, many of them attaining the weight of several pounds. Where they come from and where they disappear to is what the Japanese naturalists are now trying to learn, but, I fear, with small chance of success. Their skins are tanned and dressed and are fully as handsome as the snake skin from which pocketbooks and shopping bags are made in this country. All sorts of handsome things are made of the skins and sold to tourists. I purchased a number, and also secured a number of the skins."

Why He Wept.

During the funeral of one of the Rothschild family in Paris a beggar was noticed standing among the onlookers sobbing bitterly. A bystander touched by the man's grief, endeavored to comfort him. "Do not weep so bitterly, my poor friend," he said. "See, even his relatives are able to restrain their grief more than you are doing." Then, as a new idea struck him: "Surely, you are no relation of M. de Rothschild?" "N—no," sobbed the beggar. "That is just why I am so unhappy."—T. P.'s Weekly.

The Local Overflow........

The Hallowe'en social given by the Christian Endeavor society at the Presbyterian church Tuesday evening, was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season, and a large crowd was present to participate in the ghostly antics and entertainment provided. After several hours of fun the guests were treated to refreshments and the evening passed all too quickly to suit the young people. The society netted a neat sum for their efforts.

Wood has been scarce on the local market all fall, and unless snow comes pretty soon the people will have to go to bed early to keep from freezing. Good poplar has brought as high as $4 in some instances, although $3 50 has been the price paid for most of it. There is plenty of wood in this neighborhood that will be on the market as soon as snow comes so it can be hauled, but until that time there isn't much hope of relief from the present situation.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurt Wilkinson, of Poplar River township, are the happy parents of a bouncing girl baby, which came to gladden their hearts last Saturday morning. Mrs. Wilkinson had been staying at the Wilkinson home here for the past month, and Hurt drove up Sunday morning to get acquainted with his new daughter. The Gazette extends its congratulations to the happy young couple, and trusts that the young lady may live long as a comfort to her fond parents.

Crookston Journal: Mr. Joseph LaFramboise formerly of Gentilly but now of N. Yakima, Wash., is in the city for a few days visiting old friends and attending to some business. He has been visiting his daughter in Red Lake Falls. He has a 20 acre farm in the Moccasin Valley and says he likes the country fine also that things are rushing out that way. While here he will look up the pedigree of the stallion Ham Nut which he is standing at North Yakima.

The genial Wiley Tindolph came down from Thief River Falls last Friday evening to spend the night with friends and incidentally take in the first monthly concert by the Red Lake Falls band. Wiley was more than pleased with the concert, and said that while he had travelled over a lot of country it had never been his pleasure to hear as good a band in a city three times the size of ours. He thinks that the people of the county all have reason to feel proud of this splendid organization.

Editor Harry E. Ives, of the St. Hilaire Spectator, passed through here Tuesday in his automobile on his way home from Crookston. The auto had conducted itself very creditably thus far on the journey, and Harry had strong hopes of reaching St. Hilaire before Sunday. As no news of misfortune having overtaken him has reached here to date, it is taken for granted that Harry and his highly-taxed "bubble" are resting safely at home again.

The sale of the "B. B." and "1 Lead" cigars, manufactured by Brunelle Bros., has far exceeded all expectations, and these two young hustlers are kept on the jump to keep up with the demand for their popular cigars. The cigars have proved trade winners on their merits, and the general opinion is that there are no better goods on the market. Red Lake Falls people will be gratified to learn of the success of this popular new institution, and will see that it continues indefinately.

The past two weeks have been about as disagreeable from a weather standpoint as could be found anywhere, and as a result everyone has been feeling "on the bum." The sun has only shone a few hours during the whole time, and then but for a few moments at a time. No snow has fallen to speak of, however, and while it has been disagreeable the thermometer has not registered very low. If the sun would only get busy and give us some pretty clear days there would be general rejoicing.

The first monthly concert of the winter season was given by the local band organization at the opera house last Friday evening, and 'tho the weather was disagreeable a good-sized crowd of people turned out to listen to the program. The band numbers were all well rendered, and were received enthusiastically by the crowd. Special features were a beautiful violin solo by Prof. Onstad, a declamation well rendered by Joseph Toupin, a trombone and cornet duet by Messrs. Harry and Ralph Healy, two delightful vocal solos by Mrs. Ed. H. Chase and a laughable recitation by Miss Inez Linnihan. All of the special features were exceptionally pleasing, and each of the participants was given hearty applause. The next concert will be held the latter part of November, and a good program of music and specialties will be prepared.

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

ROAD IS TORN UP.

Old Shirley Line A Thing of the Past.

The work of gathering up the rails, ties and bridge material that has been going on, on the Wylie branch from Shirley to that point has been finished and a line of road which was long in use by the G. N. for the Red Lake Falls branch is no more.

Wylie which fought hard to retain the line is still connected with the outside world by the iron hands by a line from St. Hilaire with a daily mixed train service, this however is very unsatisfactory. The mail for Wylie is now sent by way of Red Lake Falls from which point it is supplied by a star route. With the removing of the rails farmers for miles around between Shirley and Wylie supplied themselves with a goodly supply of fire wood from the ties which the company considered not fit for use. A good highway is now left which can easily be made into a road that would equal anything in this upper country.

STARTED THE SURVEY.

Line From Duluth To Western Part Of The State.

Tuesday's Duluth Herald contains the following bit of information that will be of great interest to the people of this part of the state:

Surveyors are said to be at work on this end of the line which is to form the connecting link, it is believed, between the Soo line and the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road, running between the Head of the Lakes and Thief River Falls. As has already been announced in The Herald, surveyors have been working on the right-of-way from the Thief River Falls end of the extension for several months past.

It has not been announced whether the Soo or the South Shore would father the extension, but it does not make much difference either way, for the South Shore, Soo and Canadian Pacific lines are all closely allied, and are practically under one management. Thus far the South Shore officials have denied all knowledge of the extension, and those who appear to be in any way interested in it have preserved the greatest secrecy.

The Thief River Falls connection will be made with the new line which the Soo is just completing to Kenmare, N. D. a distance of about 300 miles. From Duluth to Thief River Falls, as the survey will be run, is a distance of 200 miles.

HEARING IS POSTPONED

Injunction Proceedings Against The Great Northern Will Be Heard In Crookston On The 21st.

The hearing on the injunction proceedings instituted by the state against the Great Northern Railway to restrain the company from tearing up and abandoning the Wylie branch has been continued to the 21st of November by stipulation of attorneys; meanwhile the restraining order is in force.

There is a strong determination on the part of the people over that way to prevent the company from abandoning this line, and the hearing will undoubtedly be a warm affair when it does come off.

BIG GAME SEASON.

Hunters Will Take To The Woods Tomorrow.

Tomorrow marks the opening of the big game season, and the sportsman may take his gun and go in pursuit of the festive deer and moose without fear of detention.

From all reports there are numerous deer within a short distance of Red Lake Falls this year, in several cases reports having been brought in of three or four being seen in the woods east of here in one day. If these reports are true the sportsmen will find excellent hunting without journeying a hundred miles or more.

Several parties will go out from here during the coming week, but would rather wait until it snows, when they would have hopes of greater success.

A VERY QUIET ELECTION

Tuesday's Municipal Campaign Not In It With the New York Fight Last Tuesday.

Tuesday was city election day in Red Lake Falls, but unless somebody told you about it you would never have guessed that such was the case.

On only two offices was there a contest worthy of the name, those being the alderman of the Third ward and justices of the peace.

A very light vote was the result in all three wards, which showed that practically no interest was taken in the election, the voters knowing that the candidates were all good men and no fear was held but what those who won would serve the city well.

In the third ward Joseph Belair and Simon Paul were the candidates Mr. Paul winning out by the narrow margin of 3 votes. Both are old timers here, and either would have made a good councilman, so that the fight for the place was nothing but a good natured contest and left no sore spots.

In the justice fight, Adam Zeh and S. A. Swanson won out in a three cornered race, Justice S. L. Lewis being beaten by these gentlemen. The new men are well-known citizens and can be expected to make competent officials.

The following is a table of the vote in detail, which tells the whole story:

	1st ward	2nd	3rd

NEW BAND LEADER.

Prof Miller Takes Charge of Local Organization.

Prof. Frank E. Miller, of Dayton, Ohio, arrived here Monday to assume the leadership of the Red Lake Falls Concert Band, and met with the band for the first time Tuesday evening.

The professor comes recommended as a first-class instructor and business man, and will without question be able to keep the band on the advance. He is a graduate of a prominent German conservatory and plays the clarinet, violin and piano. In the past several years he has developed some excellent musical organizations in the east, but desiring to get farther into the hustling west he gave up a good situation to come here.

He has been getting acquainted with the people this week and is well impressed with the city. The Gazette hopes that his success here will be brilliant.

Dance at Terrebonne.

A grand ball will be given at the M. W. A. hall at Terrebonne, Saturday evening of this week. Freund's orchestra will furnish the music and a good time is looked forward to.

THE ANGEL OF DEATH

Mrs. Lewis Adams Succumbs After Several Months Serious Illness With Quick Consumption.

At her home in Grand Forks last Thursday evening, occured the death of Bertha Adelaide Adams, wife of Lewis Adams, a former Red Lake Falls young man, after an illness of several months with blood-poisoning and quick consumption. The blood-poisoning first made its appearance several months back, and for awhile it was feared that she would not recover. She withstood the ravages of the disease, however, and had begun to improve nicely when quick consumption made its appearance, and in spite of all that could be done by medical aid, the end came steadily and surely, the final peaceful sleep overtaking her last Thursday.

Mrs. Adams was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Zaiser, of this city, and was born in Red Lake Falls March 28, 1883, being a little past 22 years of age. Three years ago she was married to Lewis Adams, then a resident here, and since that time has lived at Crookston and Grand Forks. She was an excellent young woman and a devoted wife and mother, and the news of her death cast a deep shadow of gloom over this community, where she has been known and admired since girlhood.

See leaves to mourn her loss the father and mother, husband, two children, a boy about two and a girl of four months, four sisters and two brothers.

The remains were brought here from Grand Forks Friday evening, and the funeral was held from St. Mary's church Sunday afternoon at two o'clock a large and sorrowing concourse of admiring friends turning out to pay their last respects to a true and beloved friend.

To the grief stricken family, husband and motherless babes, the sincere sympathy of the community is extended in the fullest measure.

Placed There Years Ago.

Chas. Gray, living on the shore of Lake Itasca, in Beltrami county, has made a most wonderful find. He has noticed several times in the last few years that a large boulder on a slight eminence near the water line of the lake seemed to be placed in an artificial manner on the stones beneath it, and he blasted the boulder into pieces so that he could remove it. When the fragments were taken away his amazement was great to find a small cavity beneath, surrounded by smaller stones laid in clay that had been burned until it resembled brick. Lying in this cavity was a roll of tanned buffalo skin, inside of which was a small copper cylinder, hermetically sealed at the ends with clay plugs covered with a substance that resembled pitch. On opening the cylinder he found therein a beautiful tanned antelope skin on which was inscribed a letter in Spanish, dated Aug. 9, 1547, purporting to have been written by two deserters from DeSoto's camp.

HOLD A CLEAR TITLE

Red Lake Falls Foot Ball Team Champ ons Of The Red River Valley Cf Minnesota.

The result of the football game at Crookston last Friday afternoon, between the Crookston Highs and the high school team from this place, was a pleasing piece of news to the friends of our team, as by defeating Crookston by a decisive score of 29 to 0, they placed themselves at the top of the race, and can lay claim to the championship of northwestern Minnesota.

The game at Crookston was a very good one—except for the fact that our boys were far too good for the Crookstonites and had rather an easy time. The Crookston team held our boys better than any team they had played before, excepting Grand Forks, but were not able to prevent them from making five touchdowns and kicking four goals, which brought the total up to 29 to 0. Crookston could not gain to speak of on the Red Lake Falls boys, and at no stage of the game was our goal line in danger of being crossed.

The treatment accorded the team was excellent, and the boys are unanimous in their praises of the Crookston players and people generally.

About fifty rooters took in the game and all were satisfied with the showing made by our team.

The record of the local team this year is certainly an excellent one, and speaks well for their ability as football players.

They played and defeated Warren, 27 to 0; Thief River Falls, 85 to 0; Crookston, 29 to 0; University of North Dakota law school, 23 to 0. Grand Forks beat us by a score of 11 to 0, but the game was played early in the season, and had it been the last on the schedule we would have that fast aggregation into camp.

Every member of the team has trained and conditioned himself in the same manner as the larger teams do, and this has had more than anything else to do with their winning the championship banner, and proving themselves the fastest bunch of them all.

DIVINE HEALER SATURDAY.

Rev. Christmas Will Spend a Few Days Here.

He will have his headquarters in the house adjoining the J. W. Bourdon residence and will be prepared to treat all that may come. Sunday afternoon he will speak at the opera house, at 2:30, which will be free to all.

It is expected that a large crowd will be here during the stay of the famous gentleman.

As many years of experience in banking convinces us that conservative methods are always the best—Best for the Bank and best for the people.

Security is the first thing to be considered when selecting a bank with which to do business. This applies to the depositor and borrower alike. And in this connection we ask you to remember that this is the oldest, largest and most liberally patronized bank in Red Lake Co.

MASSACRE CONTINUES

NEWS FROM INTERIOR OF RUSSIA SHOWS NO IMPROVEMENT IN THE SITUATION.

Pillage and Incendiarism Rampant in the Caucasus and Bessarabia, Jews Being Slaughtered and Their Homes Burned and Looted Without a Sign of Interference on the Part of the Troops.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 6.—The news from the interior shows that there has been little improvement in the situation. In some places disorders have recommenced with redoubled fury. The horrible story of massacre at Odessa is not fully known here. In the Caucasus the Tartars and Russians are cutting each other's throats and the Armenians are giving themselves up to pillage and incendiarism.

From Bachmut, Bessarabia, comes an entirely new revolting tale. A three days' attack on the Jews began Thursday with every indication of police organization. Jewish students were beaten, the Jewish stores in the markets were sacked during the day and during the night the plunder of residences commenced. Troops arrived on the scene, but the following day the work of pillage was resumed before the eyes of the soldiers and police. The prayers of the hunted Jews for mercy were unavailing. Toward noon the torch was applied to stores and houses. The police would not permit the Jews to fight the fire and the troops were withdrawn. Then the pillage began afresh. It was temporarily stopped Saturday morning through the efforts of the Russian peasants, but the police spread false reports which aroused the mob and there was a renewal of the work of plunder and massacre. The losses are said to be in the millions of dollars.

A telephone message from Moscow says the Jews are terror-stricken with fear of a massacre there. Many of them have abandoned their lodgings and are sleeping in the house of their friends.

APPEALS FOR CONFIDENCE.

Count Witte Asks Russians to Support Government.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 6.—The Official Messenger prints another strongly worded appeal for confidence. It bears Count Witte's earmarks, hints strongly that the empire is threatened with dismemberment unless the people rally to its support and draws attention to the different character of the representations with which the government is being besieged to quell the existing disorders in the country, some of them complaining of the zeal of the troops and others of their inaction, some asking for military protection and others for the entire removal of the soldiers.

"Although it is impossible in every case," the note says, "to diagnose the true cause of the conflicts it is clear that their origin generally is the hostility aroused among the different classes of the population. Those who are dissatisfied with the manifesto provoke the indignation of those who received it with gratitude, leading to attacks and counter-attacks, all of which could be avoided if the people only had confidence that the reforms set forth in the imperial manifesto will be executed. Disorders accomplish nothing and only delay the reforms, which are designed to give the people a representative assembly in which to settle their differences. The duty of every faithful subject of the emperor is to aid in the pacification of the country."

SIX THOUSAND CASUALTIES.

Number Killed and Wounded in Recent Riots at Odessa.

Odessa, Nov. 6.—The town is quiet. It is now estimated that the killed and wounded during the recent riots here number 6,000. The city hospital alone contains 2,000 wounded.

Out of the 6,000 casualties, those who were killed or who died of wounds aggregate 964, of which number 313 were taken to Jewish cemeteries and 651 to Christian cemeteries.

DEMANDS PARTIALLY GRANTED.

Russian Imperial Manifesto Relating to Finland.

Helsingfors, Finland, Nov. 6.—The imperial manifesto meeting most of the demands of the Finns has arrived here. The constitutionalists are satisfied and the socialists, who threatened to make a demonstration, have thus far been quiet.

TROOPS CHARGE MOB.

Number of Persons Killed and Many Wounded.

Tomsk, Siberia, Nov. 6.—The troops during the day were forced to charge with bayonets against a mob, which was pillaging Jewish houses. A number were killed and many others were wounded. The city is half sacked.

Doors of Prisons Opened.

Moscow, Nov. 7.—The doors of the prisons were opened during the day and a large number of political prisoners were released. Roughs are levying contributions on persons venturing on the streets, but though there have been rumors of pillage and attacks on students the city so far has been comparatively quiet.

PACKERS CLAIM IMMUNITY.

Indicted Beef Barons Spring Surprise on Prosecution.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Complete immunity from prosecution under the pending indictment returned by the federal grand jury several months ago is claimed by J. Ogden Armour and the other defendant packers and agents charged with being promoters of the so-called "beef trust" in an additional plea in bar filed by John S. Miller, the packers' representative.

The new plea, which came as a complete surprise to the government, sets up as facts that when James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, investigated the beef business he promised the packers that whatever testimony they gave without being under oath, or whatever documentary evidence they voluntarily produced, the defendants should have the same rights, indemnities and immunities as if they had testified under oath and compulsion.

The plea alleges that the testimony and evidence, it was understood, should not be used by the department of justice in any way as a basis for any prosecution or proceedings against the defendants.

Notwithstanding the promises of the government it is declared the testimony and evidence produced by the defendants were given to the department of justice and finally to the local district attorney and that this information has been used and is now being used in the prosecution of the packers. All these allegations the defendants proclaim themselves ready to verify.

DUE TO GAS EXPLOSION

FOUR PERSONS DEAD AND MORE THAN A DOZEN INJURED, THREE FATALLY.

Ishpeming, Mich., Nov. 6.—Four children are dead, three persons probably fatally hurt and a dozen other people are injured as the result of an explosion, which completely destroyed the Miners' National bank. The dead are:

Stephen Goodman, aged twelve; Loretta McGee, aged ten; Edward McGrath, aged twelve; Edward Kiser, aged fourteen.

James F. Mullen, an employe of the bank; Thomas Flannigan, aged seventy years, and Mrs. L. F. Small were fatally injured.

Two steamfitters had been engaged to make repairs to the heating plant and as they entered the building they detected the smell of gas. They thought little of the circumstance, however, and as they passed into the furnace room they struck a match to light the gas jet. A tremendous explosion followed. The two workmen were blown through a basement window and landed uninjured in an open boxcar standing on a nearby track. Another car was blown from the rails. The building was completely wrecked.

The four children killed were passing the building on their way home from church and were caught in the falling debris.

ACTION BY GRAND JURY.

Four Former Officials of Northwestern Life of Minneapolis Indicted.

Minneapolis, Nov. 6.—The grand jury during the day reported four indictments of men connected with the former management of the Northwestern National Life association, which has been reorganized under the direction of State Insurance Commissioner O'Brien. The men indicted are W. F. Bechtel, former president; W. A. Kerr, former attorney and director; Wallace Campbell and J. F. Force, who were officials under the regime before Bechtel secured control. The report adds that there was evidence before the jury showing that former State Insurance Commissioner J. A. O'Shaughnessy accepted a bribe of $5,000 for suppressing an unfavorable report and that George F. Getty was a party to the conversion of the company's funds. But the statute of limitations prevents their indictment. The jury expressly says that the present management is honest and efficient and is not to be blamed for the deeds of the ousted management. The charges against the four indicted are conversion of funds, bribery and fraud.

TO AID STRIKING PRINTERS.

Assessment Levied on Members of Federation of Labor.

Indianapolis, Nov. 6.—President James Lynch of the International Typographical union has received word that the American Federation of Labor has decided to levy on its members an assessment of 4 cents a week for four weeks. The money derived from this assessment of the members of the American Federation of Labor will be turned over to the International Typographical union to be applied to the defense fund. The total amount thus raised during the four weeks will amount to about $80,000.

CIGARETTE SMOKERS INDICTED.

Sixty True Bills Returned by Indiana Grand Jury.

La Porte, Ind., Nov. 6.—The grand jury of Marshall county has returned sixty indictments against cigarette smokers. Plymouth, the seat of Marshall county, is the home of Senator Parks, author of the anti-cigarette law, and he will prosecute the offenders indicted by the grand jury. It is stated that fully 100 additional indictments will be returned. Senator Parks says the crusade will be extended to every county in the state.

WOMAN'S AWFUL DEED

KILLS THREE STEPCHILDREN, SERIOUSLY WOUNDS ANOTHER AND SHOOTS HERSELF.

Tragedy Occurs at Minneapolis and Is Alleged to Have Followed a Quarrel Between Husband and Wife—Victims Asleep When the Slaughter Commenced, Death Being Instantaneous for Two.

Minneapolis, Nov. 4.—Three children dead, a fourth dangerously wounded and their stepmother shot is the record of a terrible tragedy at the home of James Brennan, a member of the salvage corps. The children were murdered by Mrs. Brennan, who then tried to kill herself. The tragedy occurred at 3 o'clock in the morning. A quarrel between Mrs. Brennan and her husband the previous evening caused the awful crime.

The victims of the tragedy are Alice, aged sixteen, shot through right temple, dead; Lizzie, fourteen, shot through right temple, dead; Arthur, seven, shot through base of brain, dead; Thomas, thirteen, shot through cheek, may live; Mrs. Brennan, shot through left breast, may recover.

Mrs. Brennan is the second wife of Brennan and the stepmother of all the children. According to neighbors Brennan and his wife quarreled frequently, but she never intimated that she would harm the children.

The children were all asleep in their beds when the terrible slaughter commenced.

Girls Killed While Asleep.

The two girls were shot through the head and evidently died instantly, as their beds were undisturbed. The boys, however, evidently awakened by the shooting of their sisters, doubtless made a fight for their lives. They were found unconscious in the hall on the second floor of the building with their night clothing torn to shreds.

The tragedy was discovered by members of the family that lived on the floor next to the Brennan family. Shortly before 3 o'clock they heard a noise, followed by several shots at short intervals. The head of the family ran upstairs to find members of the Brennan family lying dead and dying in pools of blood in different parts of the apartments.

The police were notified and Mrs. Brennan and two of the boys, who were still alive, were hurried to the city hospital. Arthur, the youngest boy, died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital.

The bodies of the murdered girls were taken to the county morgue.

APPEAL TO BALFOUR

WIVES AND WOMEN RELATIVES OF UNEMPLOYED INVOKE AID OF BRITISH PREMIER.

London, Nov. 6.—The desperate condition of the poor of London was brought to the notice of Premier Balfour during the day by an enormous crowd of wives and other women relatives of the unemployed, who did not hesitate to tell the premier that unless something is speedily done to lessen their sufferings there will be bloodshed.

"Don't forget that hungry men are desperate men," said one of the speakers, all of whom had the same tale to tell of husbands out of work and starving wives and children. The pinched faces and tattered clothing of the women, some of whom had babies in their arms, bore eloquent testimony of the truth of the complaints. Enormous crowds of women from all parts of London marched through the streets, headed by a deputation which Mr. Balfour received at the office of the local government board.

The "Marseillaise" was heard as the procession advanced, perhaps the first time it was ever heard under such circumstances in the streets of London.

Only thirty women were admitted to the presence of Mr. Balfour. The premier was very sympathetic. He acknowledged that the evil was very real, but he had little to suggest in the way of alleviation except an expression of hope that public charity would come to the aid of the unemployed.

At a mass meeting later the reply of Mr. Balfour was declared unworthy of the head of a great nation and his name was repeatedly hissed.

GALE ON LAKE ERIE.

Wind Reaches Velocity of Fifty-four Miles an Hour.

Cleveland, Nov. 6.—A storm of great violence is raging over Lake Erie. The gale reached a velocity of fifty-four miles an hour during the morning and a tremendous sea was kicked up. Passenger steamers from Detroit and Buffalo were late in arriving and reported very rough passages. Early in the day the lifesaving crew went out in a surfboat to a big steel steamer apparently in distress lying at anchor off Euclid beach. It was reported, however, that while the vessel was listed she was in no great danger. It is supposed that her captain believed it unsafe to attempt to enter the Cleveland harbor in the heavy sea.

DETAILS OF MASSACRE.

American Missionaries Victims of a Frenzied Mob.

Hongkong, Nov. 3.—Bishop Merle of the Catholic church has received a letter confirming the news of the massacre of American missionaries at Lianchow and giving the following particulars:

Dr. Machle requested the removal of a street theater near the hospital on account of the noise. This request incensed the Chinese, who, becoming violent, attacked the hospital. The mob then paraded the street, exhibiting the skeleton used in the instruction of the medical class and alleging that it was an example of the foreigners' inhumanity to the Chinese people.

Becoming frenzied the crowd burned the hospital, the girls' school and the residences of the missionaries.

Dr. Machle, Mrs. Machle, their ten-year-old daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Pearle, Dr. Chestnut and Miss Patterson took refuge in a cave. The mob pursued them and killed all except Dr. Machle and Miss Patterson, who escaped to Yamen. Dr. Machle was badly wounded.

CRIME OF A FANATIC.

Kills Wife, Baby and Cuts His Own Throat.

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 6.—Philander Burkholder, a farmer living near Stony Creek, killed his wife and six-weeks-old baby during the day and then cut his throat. He left a note saying that he and his wife had agreed that death was their only relief because of a confession she had made to him. It is said Burkholder was a religious fanatic.

STATEMENT BY CLARK

DEAD CASHIER OF ENTERPRISE BANK LEFT BRIEF MESSAGE FOR HIS WIFE.

Pittsburg, Nov. 2.—The following statement of T. Lee Clark, cashier of the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny, Pa., written a few hours before he committed suicide, was made public at night:

"Dearest Wife and Children:—In ten hours or less I will be in the other world. You have been a dear, good wife to me. Andrews has worked my ruin. Dear wife, keep all the insurance for yourself and babies. How hard it is to leave you all! I have made a desperate effort to keep things going until I could get the road financed, but it has been too slow. The examiner is here and I am ruined. Do forgive me; it is not my fault. I have been shamefully robbed. The bank will get everything but the life insurance."

Clark committed suicide on the morning of Oct. 18 and the above statement, written in pencil on one of the bank's letter heads, was found in the dead man's home by his fourteen-year-old daughter and turned over to his attorneys.

The survey is being made to a point near Cross River, on the north shore of Lake Superior, where Alger, Smith & Co. will get out logs this winter.

Governor Johnson has fixed Tuesday, Dec. 5, as the date of the execution of C. D. Crawford, the Elk River boxcar murderer. Crawford is now in custody at St. Cloud, but will be taken to Elk River for the hanging. Thus far no application has been filed with the state pardon board asking for a commutation of sentence from death to life imprisonment.

Nels Grenberg, a well known farmer of the town of Corliss, Otter Tail county, has confessed to the murder of Halvred Nyman, an old man who was making his home with him. Nyman owned a tract of land and, being an old man, had gone to live with Grenberg with the agreement that upon his death Grenberg was to have the land for taking care of him.

was white with apprehension and surprise.

But his wife could not explain; for through the open door she saw the room, and the sight killed her voice. Before her was no ordinary office, no office at all, but her own dearly loved, tenderly remembered kitchen at Lavendar Farm. The diamond-paned window had pink geraniums in it; the old oak chairs she had so often polished stood along the wall on one side; on the other was her dresser decked with her plates and cups and saucers.

"John," she gasped, as she stumbled into the room and almost fell into her accustomed seat in the corner of the wide, old-fashioned fireplace, "John—why—why—how—"

As her agitation increased, John regained his self-possession.

"Sarah, old woman," he said, "I wouldn't have told you for the world, and I can't think how you found me out, because you like living in fine style, and being rich as we are pleases you, I know, but I'm sick of it. I was tired of it very soon, this paying for dinners and parties for folk who don't care for us a bit, but only for what they get out of us—that young coxcomb, Hutchinson, and your dragon of a Mrs. Dagleish. I'm tired of keeping a pack of servants who eat their heads off and do nothing, but I knew you liked it, old wife, and so I didn't let you know."

"Oh, John, I wish it, too—I wish it, too," she cried. "I wish we were back at Lavender Farm."

"You wish it," his voice was full of amazement; "but I thought you liked being the fine lady."

"Oh, John, dear, don't you see? Can't you understand? I hate all this show and grandeur! I thought you liked it, and so I pretended I did, just to please you. But I'm tired of it all."

The old man laughed suddenly, a loud, hearty laugh, which would have shocked Mrs. Dagleish and drawn a reproving look from Mr. Hutchinson, but which rejoiced his wife's heart.

"We've been a couple of blind fools," he said. "We've not pleased each other, and we've not pleased ourselves, and we've simply spent our money on a lot of people who sneer at us behind our backs. We'll give Hutchinson and Mrs. Dagliesh the grand bounce; we'll give up the city house and go back to the farm. Jackson will be only too glad to let me have it again, and we'll just live in the way we both like. What do you say to that, Sarah?"

SHE TAPPED TIMIDLY.

"I should like it better than anything," she declared. "I'll have a good strong maid and see to the cooking myself, and you'll be able to see after the farm again; Jackson never understood it."

"We'll give all the money we don't need to charities," said John Platt, "and now, Sarah, I often make a cup of tea here of an afternoon. Will you make it to-day?"

Gladly she assented, and with a towel pinned over her stylish dress she hustled about and soon had supper ready, a supper worth eating, for John went out to buy delicacies for it.

"It's something like supper," he declared. "I hate those suppers we have up there"—he jerked his teaspoon with a disparaging gesture in the direction of his metropolitan residence—"with cups so tiny you're afraid of swallowing them along with the tea, and bits of bread and butter I could put in the corner of my eye."

His wife beamed upon him, and sipped her tea with contented ease while he talked of what they would do when they got back to the farm.

Suddenly the clock chimed seven and she started to her feet with an exclamation of dismay. Her new-found freedom was still strange. "John, hark to the time! What will Mrs. Dagleish say? We can never get back in time for dinner. She will be so angry and disagreeable, and so will Mr. Hutchinson."

But John had grown very bold.

"We aren't going back for dinner to-night," he said, cheerfully. "I know a nice little place near where we can have anything we like without a butler watching every mouthful. We'll have a good hearty meal, too; none of your mouthfuls of fish, and wine with no taste. What do you say to tripe and onions? It doesn't matter what anyone says or thinks. Mrs. Daglaish and Hutchinson aren't our keepers. To-morrow I'll pay them and the servants off, and put the house in the agents' hands, and then, very soon"—and he tossed his hat in the air and Sarah clapped her hands—"and then, hurrah for Lavender Farm and liberty!"—N. Did you vote for the chemical?

If the adage "the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world" is true, Red Lake Falls has an abundance of "rulers" at the present moment.

Quite a number of the newspapers of the state are booming J. F. Jacobson for governor says the Thief River News. That is probably all it will ever amount to. It would be a hard thing to secure the nomination for Jacobson, as every corporation in the state would be fighting him, but, if he once got the nomination, he would be elected by a large majority. Jacobson is strong with the people.

The proposition submitted to the voters Tuesday as to whether or not the city should purchase a chemical engine, seemed to be very unpopular, and was defeated about four to one. The opinion seemed to be that it was a needless expenditure, but those that have taken the pains to look into the matter know that many hundreds of dollars are saved every year by these same chemical engines. However, if the people don't want it the city can probably get along, but the time may come when we will wish we had three chemical engines.

We have always contended that the encroachment upon the merchant's business by catalogue houses was largely his own fault, and, from time to time, we have pointed out the remedy therefor, viz., to advertise in the newspapers the articles on sale with the prices at which such articles would be disposed of says the Princeton Union. As the result of a recent allusion to this subject by the Union a large number of papers throughout the state have taken it up along like lines, and we note by our exchanges that the suggestion is bearing fruit—that the merchants are advertising the prices of their commodities and are rapidly increasing their business thereby. They are fast realizing that they can, if they will, combat the catalogue houses more easily than they anticipated. They can down them altogether if they will but persevere.

The Crookston papers last week dished up a lot of dirt aimed at the Red Lake Falls high school foot ball players, and tried to create the impression that our team was composed of players who had graduated from the team and school. The articles were so ridiculous that they are not worth mentioning were it not from the fact that some of the neighboring towns might be led to believe what was said. Red Lake Falls has never played a player who was not eligable, and who was not certified to by the superintendent of our schools, and in this they have done something that but few schools in the valley practice. Neither have they ever refused to play a high school eleven, and have never been quitters in any sense of the word, which is something that the Crookston bunch cannot say about their own team. There was no excuse for the Crookston sheets to talk the way they did, as it certainly did not come from the football authorities at the Queen city.

Our Trip to Crookston.

As Viewed by

Supt., Faculty, Pupil, Foot Ball....

From first thot it may seem extravagant for a superintendent to dismiss his whole school for a day and go to visit a neighboring school. But when you come to know that on that same day at least ten superintendents visited the Minneapolis schools with their teachers, coming from at least four different states you will conclude that there is something good in the practice.

Yet when you stop to think of the many thousands of things that teachers have to do you will see at a glance that a day spent in any well organized school would suggest enough of good, enough of plan, enough of new and helpful methods to make such a day the most profitable day of the year. As I look back upon our visit to Crookston I can but feel that it was a day most profitably spent.

Crookston is a large town with a corps of thirty-six teachers. They have a live Superintendent who has no teaching to do but who can spend all of his time studying out plans and suggestions for his teachers and seeing that they are rightly applied. They have six buildings besides the High School building and in no room did I find as many as forty pupils. The rooms are comfortable and well lighted but severely plain. Their High School is well equipped but when we think of that we must remember that they have been accumulating material at least ten years longer than we have and that it takes time to get these things

Their Chemistry labratory is not so well equipped as ours is but their Physics labratory is much better equipped as far as pieces for the teachers' use in class is concerned but they have not so much apparatus for the individual pupil to use. They have a fine start towards a splendidly equipped biological labratory while we as yet have but little.

In the matter of reference books they are well supplied and that ought to secure better habits of industry and study on the part of their pupils.

While their schools are well equipped with apparatus and books they are much better equipped with excellent teachers. The Superintendent has but to suggest a line of work and most of his teachers appreciate his thot and apply it at once. Yet without any doubt the best part of Crookston's educational equipment is their Superintendent. Here they are certainly to be congratulated. Mr. McIntyre is a man with a large experience acquired in several states as is manifest from the methods in vogue in his class rooms. But of this more below.

One of the most helpful features and the most helpful one to the whole teaching force is the training department. Here we find about twenty prospective teachers who are taking a thoro review of the common branches under a special teacher. Their class work is all finished in the forenoon and in the afternoon they are sent to the different rooms to aid the various teachers. Before being sent they are carefully instructed by the training teacher as to what they shall do and how they shall do it. In the lower rooms they have charge of the seat work of the little ones and are responsible for correct work on the part of the pupils. This relieves the teacher of a large part of the discipline allowing her to spend all of her energy with her class. It also secures a better grade of preparation work thus insuring more harmonious results all along the line.

We found in vogue in the grades to some extent in the Highs, a system of teaching known as the group system. This system while purely in an expermental stage at Crookston and practically in Minnesota has been used in other parts of our United States. Prof. Alton, our state high school inspector, advocated it strongly last year and Superintendent McIntyre of the Crookston schools, generally recognized as one of the foremost educators of the state, has instituted it in their schools on trial. We were much impressed by its workings and its advantages but generally agreed that it could be carried too far.

The object of the system is to give each scholar more opportunity for individual recitation than can be given by one lone teacher controlling from forty to fifty pupils. The system is used generally in the teaching of reading, spelling and arithmetic and the greatest advantage is to be gained without doubt in the teaching of reading. Here the teacher first goes over the advance lesson taking the pronunciation of the new words, than the lesson for the day is read and also the lesson of the previous day. As each lesson constitutes but one page, this takes but about half of the recitation period. The other half is then spent in reading in groups, each group containing from 4 to 5 pupils. One scholar is the leader of the group and conducts the class much as the teacher would, having them read any of the work that has been gone over in class. He is responsible for perfect order and holds his position only so long as he maintains the interest of his group. Our teachers were much impressed with the way each little teacher maintained order. Some were seen to shake their pupils for laughing, others to ask them not to lean on the desks or against the walls for they stand during this work One little fellow in the second primary was quite indignant because one of his pupils insisted on not paying attention. Great tact of course must be used by the teacher in selecting these leaders. Each group know where they will recite and the same leader presides from day to day. The great advantage of this group reading is at once evident in that each pupil is required to read out loud more than four times as much as under the old system. We tried and used a similar plan in reading only in our schools last year and found it to work to an advantage but this group system is an improvement over what we chose to call the Chinese system. In spelling the work is carried on entirely by groups each pupil having an opportunity of spelling every word at least once and in the review more than once. In Arithmetic the group work constitutes only mental drill and fundamental processes with no work in practical problems, that being entirely carried on by the teacher. Here it is a great time saver in class and gives much individual practice which cannot otherwise be accomplished. In every case the teacher always had charge of the poorest groups. No group work was done in language, grammar or history but in certain lessons it could be worked without a doubt to an advantage. In the first primary practically no group work was done. It was used a very little in reading. In the high school it is not yet in working system but has been used to some extent in physics and algebra. It promises how ever to be as useful in high school subjects as in the grades and will without a doubt be instituted.

Some of our teachers have given it a trial this week and there is not one who has anything but words of praise for the system, its workings and its advantages.

Well you say what of it? What good did it do you? Much. First, I received many excellent suggestions which I could never have culled out of my books and educational papers, I saw their successful working and can the more easily apply them.

Second, my teachers saw the same things and were well pleased with them. This means that any prejudice they may have had, the greatest difficulty a Superintendent has to overcome, is removed. It also means that with few words I can tell them to do what it would otherwise have taken days for me to show them. And while our equipments will not allow us to put into use all of the suggestions we received still we will be able to apply many of them to the bettering of our work all along the line.

I visited the Crookston high school on Friday of last week.

As the Crookston high school is much larger than ours and it is ten or fifteen years older I was prepared to see something much better than our own school. After I entered the building what seemed strange to me was the order in the halls and room before school began. The halls were thronged with pupils laughing and talking, which I didn't expect to see in a school of that standing. In our school we are not allowed to stand a minute in the hall after taking off our wraps but pass immediately to the assembly room, where we are not allowed to assemble in groups to talk and have a good time and where we do not speak above a whisper. This is done so that when pupils come early in the morning to study the room is quiet and it is kept quiet up to ten minutes to nine. Then the ten minutes that are left we use to speak to one another about our lessons but this is done very quietly. This I think is a very good plan. In Crookston they commence at once with their work while we have ten minutes for singing, which we heartily enjoy. It braces us up and puts fresh life in us before we take up our studies. Two years are given there for Ancient and Modern history while here we take it in one. When I visited the history class I couldn't help but wish that our teachers would do as much of the reciting for us as she did for them The English classes are doing about the same work in the two schools. It was impossible to visit all the classes, but the outlook was meagre.

Many Persons Have Catarrh of Kidneys, Or Catarrh of Bladder and Don't Know It.

President Newhof and War Correspondent Richards Were Promptly Cured By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. C. B. Newhof, 10 Delamare street, Albany, N. Y., President Montefiore Club, writes:

"Since my advanced age I find that I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed irritated, and my physician said that it was catarrh caused by a protracted cold which would be difficult to overcome on account of my advanced years. I took Peruna, hardly daring to believe that I would be helped, but I found to my relief that I soon began to mend. The irritation gradually subsided and the urinary difficulties passed away. I have enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I enjoy my meals, sleep soundly, and am as well as I was twenty years ago. I give all praise to Peruna."—C. B. Newhof.

PRES. C. B. NEWHOF, Suffered From Catarrh of Bladder.

Suffered From Catarrh of Kidneys, Threatened With Nervous Collapse, Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Mr. F. B. Richards, 609 E Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., War Correspondent, writes: "Exactly six years ago I was ordered to Cuba as staff correspondent of the New York Sun. I was in charge of a Sun Dispatch boat through the Spanish American War. The effect of the tropical climate and the nervous strain showed plainly on my return to the states. Lassitude, depression to the verge of melancholia, and incessant kidney trouble made me practically an invalid. This undesirable condition continued, despite the best of treatment.

Finally a brother newspaper man, who like myself had served in the war, induced me to give a faithful trial to Peruna. I did so. In a short time the lassitude left me, my kidneys resumed a healty condition, and a complete cure was effected. I cannot too strongly recommend Peruna to those suffering with kidney trouble. To-day I am able to work as hard as at any time in my life, and the examiner for a leading insurance company pronounced me an "A risk."

In Poor Health Over Four Years. Pe-ru-na Only Remedy of Real Benefit.

Mr. John Nimmo, 215 Lippincott St., Toronto, Can., a prominent merchant of that city and also a member of the Masonic order, writes:

"I have been in poor health generally for over four years. When I caught a bad cold last winter it settled in the bladder and kidneys, causing serious trouble. I took two greatly advertised kidney remedies without getting the desired results. Peruna is the only remedy which was really of any benefit to me. I have not had a trace of kidney trouble nor a cold in my system."

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peruna does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any drugs of a narcotic nature.

Crookston Times: Art Stivers, while feeding one of the big Times presses this morning had the misfortune to get the index finger of his left hand caught in the machine and is shy a portion of the member as a result. The monster machine cut the finger off at the first joint and an amputation still further down had to be endured by Mr. Stivers in order to create a wound which would heal.

Mrs. Georgiana Marchand desires through the columns of The Gazette to extend her most heartfelt thanks to the true friends and neighbors whose kindly ministrations were so generously tendered during the final illness of her beloved daughter, Dora. Their assistance in this hour of dire distress is something that will never be forgotten.

LaBissoniere reports a good business all through, especially in his clothing department. He handles the famous Kuppenheimer and Xtra Good Young Men's Clothes. These boys clothes are the best in America and run up to size 38 in men's. So medium sized men can buy a suit at boy's suit prices He is showing beautiful suits at $8.00, $10.00 and $12.00. Economical as well as dressy buyers can surely get suited there.

The Gazette is shy on news this week but feels that this fault is justifiable. The job department of the office has been kept so swamped with work all week that it has been impossible to devote much time to the paper. However, we like to do job printing and promise to turn out all the good printing needed even if we have to turn night into day to get out the paper. Send in your orders, the more the merrier.

Messrs. N. M. Watson, Sam Hunt, F. A. Grady, Carl Krueger, Ernest Buse, Fred Richards, Ralph Healy, Hugo Ittner, T. G. Brunelle and Mrs. E. F. Marshall went down to Minneapolis Friday evening to take in the football game between Minnesota and Wisconsin. They all returned the first of the week well pleased with their trip, and give thrilling accounts of the great game, in which Wisconsin triumphed by a score of 16 to 12.

The Fertile high school foot ball team passed through here Saturday for Thief River where they played a game with that team the same afternoon, The Fertile boys were all real small and inexperienced, and against the heavy town team at Thief River were not in it, the game going against them by a score of 68 to 0. Thief River won the game all right but the honor is an empty one, as their team has been made to look like thirty cents several time already this year.

Will Ittner, the Red Lake Falls boy who plays tackle on the U. of M. football team, has come in for all kinds of praise at the hands of the writers in the dailies for the way he played the game in the Minnesota-Wisconsin contest. "Big Bill" is credited with being the best line man on the Minnesota eleven, and in the big game last Saturday was the only Minnesota forward that wasn't outplayed. Will's record at the U is one to which the Red Lake Falls people can point to with pride.

The season for hunting prairie chickens came to an end last week, and it will be against the law to hunt these birds until the first of September next year. Very few prairie chickens have been killed around here this year, and as a result there are now many more chickens in the country than there was a year ago this time. Old residents say that they never saw birds so thick for this time of the year and if the conditions are favorable for hatching out the young next summer, there will be more birds than ever before next fall.

Maxime Sanscartier, of Terrebonne, was brought before Judge Tarrant this afternoon to be examined as to his sanity, and was committed to the state insane hospital. The young man was a close friend of the man killed in Terrebonne last week, and the horrible manner in which his friend met his death has so worked upon him that his mind has given away. He has acted strangely all week and while not violent was unmistakably crazy. The case is a sad one, and it is hoped that with the good treatment he will receive at the insane hospital he will soon recover his health.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. H. Chase and son, left last evening for St. Louis, Missouri, where he has secured an excellent situation with one of the largest printing firms in the south, During their short stay here, Mr. and Mrs. Chase have made friends of all whom they have come in contact and they will be sorely missed from the social and musical cirles of the city. Ed was liked by every one of the business people, and it is to be regretted that some arrangement could not be made to keep him with us. Wherever they may go, Mr. and Mrs. Chase are assured of the sincere good wishes of the people of Red Lake Falls.

Thief River Falls Press: The engagement of Mr. Harry E. Ives the well-known editor of the St. Hilaire Spectator and Miss Catherine Pirath daughter of a prominent Red Lake Falls business man, has been announced, the wedding to occur sometime in the spring. Mr. Ives is one of the most widely known newspaper men in the state and is at present the president of the Northwestern Editorial Association. Miss Pirath is a teacher in the St. Hilaire schools and it is supposed that the wedding will not occur till the school closes in June. She is a most charming young lady and has been prominent in social circles of both the Falls and St. Hilaire.

The fire department held an interesting meeting last Saturday evening, and among other business transacted they closed the deal with the agent of the American-LaFrance Engine company, for the new running cart which was shipped here several weeks back. Thomas R. Johnstone, of Crookston, agent for this company, was here and gave a nice talk before the meeting, showering all kinds of praise on the local running team, band and football team. Mr. Johnstone said that everywhere he went he heard favorable comment on the "get there" qualities of Red Lake Falls, and said that the advertising we had received from our running team, band and foot ball team this summer was bound to bring results.

At the meeting of the band Tuesday evening, Ed. H. Chase, one of the valued members for the past several months, who was attending practice for the last time, was presented with a handsome leather suit case, as a slight token of the esteem in which the genial Ed. is held by the members of the organization. Red Lake Falls people all are sorry to lose friend Chase, but he will be missed more by the members of the band, who during his residence here have been in such close touch with him and found him such an all-around good fellow. Ed. will always find lots of friends wherever he goes, but he never will find warmer ones or those who are more interested in his success, than these same band boys.

Tuesday's Election.

Tuesday was election day in several of the prominent cities and the results were not particularly surprising. In New York city George B. McClellan, democrat, is elected by a small plurality, but W. R. Hearst announces that he will contest. In Philadelphia Mayor Weaver, democrat, is re-elected and entire "graft gang" is put to rout. Pennsylvania elects democratic state treasurer and minor officers. Gorman worsted in Maryland. Pattison, democrat, elected governor of Ohio. Mayor Tom Johnson re-elected in Cleveland. Republicans elect governor in Massachusetts. Republicans elect minor state officers in Nebraska.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Mrs. Jacob Nelson, of Albert Lea, Minn., says: "This winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and could not get rid of it; it was always bothering me in the morning till I had to do something for it. My neighbor advised me to try Kalo's Ruby Oil, and I did. I used it freely that evening. In the morning I got up and started to cough up all that stuff which was on my lungs. One bottle cured my cold entirely. I can say I never used anything as good before, and would never be without Kalo's Ruby Oil."

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At W. A. Schreiter's drug store, price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Dragging Down Pains

WINE OF Cardui
The Female Regulator
that wonderful, curative, vegetable extract, which exerts such a marvelous, strengthening influence, on all female organs. Cardui relieves pain and regulates the menses. It is a sure and permanent cure for all female complaints.
At all druggists and dealers in $1.00 bottles.
"I SUFFERED AWFUL PAIN in my womb and ovaries," writes Mrs. Naomi Bake, of Webster Grove, Mo., "also in my right and left sides, and my menses were very painful and irregular. Since taking Cardui I feel like a new woman and do not suffer as I did. It is the best medicine I ever took."

Called Down.

Some time ago in an old-fashioned negro revival which was held on the outskirts of the city of Atlanta the colored divine who was in charge of the meeting called upon the brethren for voluntary prayers. One old colored brother who felt moved by the spirit began to wax exceedingly warm in calling down the favor of heaven upon the assemblage, when another brother in the audience, whose curiosity got the better of his reverence, cried out in loud tones which completely drowned the prayer:

"Who dat prayin' ober dar?"

"Dat's Brudder Mose," some one responded.

"Hold on, Brudder Mose," shouted the interrupter. "You'se sed enuff. Let Brudder Jones pray. He's better 'quainted wid de Lord dan you is!"—Philadelphia Press.

Women on the Golf Links.

Golf is a grand old game, of course, but its widespread popularity in this country, its marvelous growth here in the last few years, is largely due to the interest that is taken in it by young women. If it were not for their presence in goodly numbers on the links no such public favor as golf has met with would have been recorded. It is a repetition of the old story of the opera season; the presence of pretty women in the boxes makes us all pretend to love music and crowds the Metropolitan. The young American girl who plays golf not only fills in the picture prettily, but plays a rattling good game—as is evidenced in the scores made in the women's metropolitan championship games on the Apawamis grounds, which were concluded in fine the other day.—N. Y. Herald.

Governments in United States.

There are at present just nine different forms of government practiced in the United States, to-wit:

1. Constitutional, state and territorial.
2. Special conditions for Alaska.
3. Special conditions for Indian territory.
4. A commission for the Philippines.
5. An experiment in Porto Rico.
6. Naval officers in charge of Guam.
7. Temporary government in Tutuila, Samoa, and other Pacific islands.
8. The territory of Hawaii.
9. The Panama canal zone.—Denver News.

Egg Experiments.

Agricultural experiment stations in several states have been trying to discover whether the flavor and color of eggs can be affected by the food given to the hens. Among the foods used were smoked herrings, oil of celery, oil of sassafras and onions. Nothing but the onions affected the taste of the eggs. White corn, however, produces eggs with light yolks, whereas yellow corn makes the yolks dark. The experimenters have decided that the color of the yolk depends on the coloring matter in the food, and has nothing to do with the richness of the eggs.

Holland's Paupers.

There are few able-bodied paupers in Holland. A tract of public land containing 5,000 acres is divided into six model farms, to one of which the person applying for public relief is sent. Here he is taught agriculture, and is subsequently permitted to rent a small farm for himself. Holland also has a forced-labor colony, to which vagrants are sent to do farm and other work, whether they like it or not.—London Spare Moments.

The Worst.

"Doctor," said the beautiful young woman who had become the wife of a rich old man, "tell me the worst. I will be brave and try to bear it."

Leading her gently from her suffering husband's bedside, the doctor answered:

"Nerve yourself, then, for a terrible shock. He's going to get well."—Tit-Bits.

Toasting Futile.

A man named Brown courted a lady unsuccessfully for many years and drank her health every day. On being observed to omit the custom, a gentleman said—"Come, Brown, your old toast!"

"Excuse me," the other replied, "as I can't make her Brown, I'll toast her no longer!"—Smith's Weekly.

Another One of Them.

"I've met several other people from your city," said the Bostonian, "and every one of them said: 'Where is it at?' "

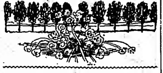
"Where is what at?" demanded the New Yorker.—Catholic Standard-Times.

Speaking of Ranges.

"That tenor," remarked young Muggins at the concert; "has a tremendous range."

"Speaking of ranges," rejoined Miss Nurich, "you just ought to see the one pa bought. It takes up the whole end of the kitchen."—Chicago Daily News.

HORTICULTURE



CHEAP FARM GREENHOUSE.

How One May Be Constructed with Hotbed Sash by the Farmer Himself.

My experience with a greenhouse began with one 70 by 70 feet, and slowly grew till it took in 1¾ acre; this was on my father's place, writes a correspondent of the Rural New Yorker. At first we heated with hot air through large tile, but they would choke with soot and often crack with the heat, and that let smoke enough out to injure the crops. Next he heated with hot water in four-inch soil pipe, then with two-inch gas pipe for hot water, and later, when the houses were made twice as long, we changed to steam, because it would take water too long to make the trip with the houses 300 feet long. It is hardly possible for a farmer to make a small greenhouse pay if his time is worth anything unless he takes his pay out in satisfaction, because the opening and closing of the ventilating sash and attending the fire take more time than most folks think, and the smaller the house is the greater is the cost per square foot of roof in taking care of it. I would call them an expensive luxury for most farmers.

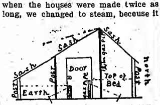


DIAGRAM OF THE GREENHOUSE.

Almost any man who has gumption enough to want a greenhouse could build one by using hotbed sash for the roof, supported by two rows of posts for the outside walls and two rows of gas pipe posts inside; they would cause less shade than wooden posts of equal strength, and short gas pipe posts can be used outside the boards along the aisle by staying the posts with a wire. Use one sash on the north slope and two on the south slope, and enough more by the side of these to make the house the desired length.

Hot water is by far the best heat for a small house, and a water heater such as were used in railway cars, ought to be large enough to do the business. The piping must be arranged so that there are no air pockets to check the circulation of the water. The average winter will take about 16 pounds of soft coal per square foot of roof. A hillside will do if it slopes south; then it would answer as a wind-break and not shade the roof. Cold, windy days take the most coal. By using regular hotbed sash for a roof they could be taken off, after danger of frost is past, and stored away or piled and covered and the beds used for garden during the summer. The diagram shows end view of house.

SOAPS AS INSECTICIDES.

They Are Effective If the Soap Is of First-Class Quality—Make Your Own Soap.

A communication from the New York experiment station relative to the quality of soaps for insecticides, says:

Whale oil, or fish oil, soaps are among the best of contact insecticides if they are of good quality, since they are inexpensive, easy to use, safe and effective. In practice, however, they have been found to give varying results, some lots of the solutions made from such soaps failing to kill many of the same kind of insects that other lots of the same apparent strength destroyed completely. The continued occurrence of such failures cast suspicion upon the soaps, and examinations at the experiment station, by the exact methods of the chemist, proved that they vary to a surprising extent. The best sample contained four times as much actual soap as the poorest one, and one sample of a certain brand was only half as good a soap as another sample of the same brand from a different package. So unreliable were these soaps that the best solution of the problem appeared to be for the users to make the soap at home, if feasible, and a very few trials showed the process of making to be very simple and inexpensive.

The soap is made by thorough mixing of easily obtained materials, without heating. To make 40 pounds of soap, containing 60 per cent. actual soap, requires six pounds of caustic soda, 22 pounds of fish oil and 1½ gallons of water. The soda is first dissolved in the water and the oil then added gradually with constant and vigorous stirring. This soap can be made at a cost of three cents a pound or less. Used at the rate of one pound to seven gallons of water, the solution will destroy plant lice, scales and other soft-bodied sucking insects without injury to foliage.

WORRIES OVER ROYAL SON

King of Spain Kept Track Of by His Mother When Visiting Abroad.

Pretty stories are told of the anxious mother of King Alfonso, concerning his visit to France. She was so afraid that he might wander astray in some inexplicable way in wicked Paris that she wrote a letter in her own hand to President Loubet, putting her son under his personal care.

She said that he was a father and know better than all the others how to watch over him. She was so afraid that he might hear and see things that might make him too wise in the wicked ways of the world. It was she herself who chose the programme and the subjects to be performed before her son on the gala nights given at the Opera and Comedie Francaise. Etiquette is strict in Spain and she wondered if everything would be all right in this independent republic of France.

Everything was all right, for the French have a cult for children, and the young king is still regarded as a boy, for whom all French mothers have a soft spot, and this made him all the more welcome, in that there is no woman, even in the laboring class, who does not know what an admirable mother he has and how anxious she is to have her "Bubi," as she calls him, return to her as worthy of being called her darling as before. It must be with heartbreaks that a queen like the queen of Spain delivers up her boy to the state, and to feel that he is more the son of his country than her own.

GERMAN GARDEN HOUSES.

Built with One Wall Omitted and Furnished in Comfortable Fashion.

"Why don't Americans have garden houses?" writes some an American woman from Germany. "A garden house isn't a 'summer house.' It isn't a rustic, open affair. It's a solid, well-built room with one wall omitted. There are windows in the other three walls, so that one hasn't a shut-in feeling, and it has a good solid floor that defies dampness. The floor of mine is made of closely cemented bricks.

"In the big comfortable house in which we have our rooms there are several other families. Each family has a part of the generous garden back of the house and each has a little garden house.

"The interior of the little house is fitted up with comfortable benches and chairs and a solid little center table for the afternoon coffee.

"I simply delight in my garden house and spend as much of my time in it as I can. A 'summer house' could in no sense fill its place for pleasure and usefulness, for the summer house does not offer protection against dampness intense heat or the wind and breezes.

"For a children's playroom nothing could be nicer. Asking a child to come into a garden house during a shower is not the trial to the child that asking it to come 'indoors' is.

"It is a pretty sight in the afternoon to see the family groups in the garden houses laughing and chatting over the five o'clock refreshment."

LONG SERVICE OF FARMERS

Laborers in England Who Have Held Places Fifty Years and More.

There are some remarkable records of long service in the annual prize list just issued by the Huntingdonshire Agricultural society, which makes monetary awards to the laborers who have been longest in the employ of their members on the same farm.

The list shows, says the London Standard, that there is one man still so employed in the county who has reached the age of 78 years. His name is Peter Sheridan, and he has been engaged on the estate of the dukes of Manchester at Kimbolton for 45 years. But he does not take a prize, as his length of service is exceeded in another case by ten years.

Another old servant, still at work, is 76; there are two 74 years old, one 69, one 68, and several over 60 among the competitors. The first prize goes to Thomas Allsop, who, now 65 years of age, has been on the farm of Mr. Harry Cranfield, of Buckden, for 55 years. The second prize taker is George Allen, 76 years of age, who has been 51 years with the Heathcotes, of Connington.

The third in honors is Philip Winterton, 68 years old, who has been with Messrs. Coleman and sons of Woodwalton, just half a century. His son, Edward, 39, takes a prize in the junior laborers' class, having been 31 years on the same farm as his father. There are other cases of laborers having commenced work at eight years of age.

Greatness of the Czar.

Among the people of Russia are many stereotyped phrases expressive of the greatness of the czar's power, and of the awe in which he is held. Others, however, fail to suggest that the "Little Father" is all-powerful. A few of the latter kind are as follows: "Even the czar's lungs cannot blow out the sun." "The crown does not protect the czar from headache." "The hand of the czar has only five fingers." "What the czar cannot accomplish time can do." "It is not more difficult for death to carry a fat czar than a lean peasant."

Raffle for Heirs.

One of the oddest wills was recently executed, by which the estate of W. H. Mainwaring, of Carlton, Victoria, was divided into six equal parcels. The six children of the testator drew from a box envelopes containing numbers corresponding to these portions, and each accepted without question that portion assigned by chance.

CLOSELY-PENNED FOWLS.

The Best Results Not Obtained from the Chickens Which Have to Be Confined.

I have found by large experience that it is not advisable to pen up fowls unless they have to be penned, writes an Indiana correspondent of a farm journal. Closely penned fowls are generally deprived of many of the things fowls should have to enable them to do their best work. Usually the green stuff in the yard is so small in quantity that it soon disappears altogether. I have a lady friend who was very anxious to keep hens. She had a house built for them, about ten by ten feet in size, and a yard about as wide as the house, and 30 feet long. She bought four beautiful White Rocks and a rooster. How pretty they looked in the yard, bright with green grass! If she had but been content with the little flock, she might have been keeping hens yet.

But alas! She thought if 80 eggs a month were such a help, 400 eggs a month would be far better, so she bought 20 more fowls of the same breed. That made a flock of 25. How the grass did disappear from that yard! By midsummer not a green thing was left there. When the fall rains began, even the roots of the grasses that had made up the texture of the sod had disappeared; having decayed in a few weeks after the tops were killed. The birds spattered around in a lake of mud. How they did look, covered with mud from foot to wing.

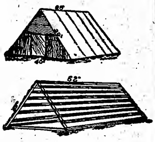
Their mistress no longer took her visitors out to see them. Her enthusiasm had died out, and she gave the fowls as little attention as possible. Another month, and they had disappeared. The lady said she had got tired of keeping chickens, "they are so dirty."

Now, if my friend had retained her little flock and at the same time retained that bit of green grass, she would not have become disgusted. Looks count for a great deal.

COOPS FOR HEN AND CHICK

An A-Coop, Boarded Tightly at the Back and Part of Front Is Best for Spring.

A handy coop and run for hen and chicks is shown in the cut. This is an A-coop, boarded tightly at the back and part of the front so as to afford protection in early spring. An A-shaped run the width and height of coop and of any length desired can be used to give the hen greater liberty.—Farm and Home.



HEN COOP AND RUN.

THE DEPTH OF FRAMES.

For Comb-Honey the Divisible Brood Chamber Hive Is Probably the Best.

While all are agreed as to the desirability of keeping bees on movable frames, there seems to be a great diversity of opinion regarding style and depth of same.

Movable frame hives may be divided into two classes as far as general principles go. One is known as the divisible brood chamber, and the other as the non-divisible, or single chamber hive. As all hives and fixtures about the apiary should be of one style and size, the beginner ought to weigh well this hive problem before marrying himself to any particular one. He will find that changing from one to another is an expensive proceeding. The style or depth best for any certain locality can be ascertained only by being on the spot and studying conditions.

Whether comb or extracted honey is to be produced also has a great deal to do with it. If extracted honey is to be produced, a frame as deep, or deeper than the "L" will most probably be best. If honeycomb is the object, the divisible brood-chamber hive would probably suit better. Consider these points well before proceeding.—Midland Farmer.

DURABLE HIVE STAND.

One Made Out of Drain Tiles Proves the Most Satisfactory—Easy to Make.

Stands are convenient to keep the hives off the ground. Four drain tiles set three or four inches in ground and leveled and packed well around with earth, will make one of the cheapest and best stands. They hold the hive up, provide no place for mice or moles and one can easily mow around them, says Farm and Home. Put a board up in front of an alighting board and the thing is complete. Bricks set on end in the ground would be nearly as good and cheaper.

To keep up the stamina of the flock it is considered a good policy to mate old males with pullets, and cockerels with old hens.

WEAR MUCH WIRE IN SKIRT

Yards of Steel and Whalebone and Armor Plate Used in Ladies' Apparel.

London.—Fashionable women will wear during the summer of 1905 something very closely akin to that monstrosity of bygone days—the crinoline.

So large, indeed, are the quantities of wire and steel used by fashionable dressmakers in the manufacture of the new spring skirts that there is some justification for the reported return of the dreaded crinoline.

Under the skirt is an elaborate framework of wire and whalebone, very suggestive of the crinoline. This produces the full and outstanding effect now aimed at by the leading French dressmakers.

"In Paris quantities of wire and steel are absorbed in the making of all skirts of thin material," said a well known court dressmaker to a reporter.

"For a full ten inches below the waist the skirt must fit like a glove, and this effect can only be obtained by the use of a whalebone encasement.

"Nine steels—about seven and one-half feet—in the upper part of a skirt is an ordinary allowance, but in the case of plaited skirts, every plait may require to be held in place by five whalebones, and in order to accentuate the straight line from the bust to the waist, which is a great feature of the new styles, a broad band of steel is inserted in the bodice.

"A single row of whalebone at the hem, about 18 feet, insures the skirt standing out, and above this are inserted several rows of wire, the quantity varying according to the texture of the material. In the case of a thin voile or crepe de chine dress from 108 to 150 feet would be necessary."

WEDS TWO IN SINGLE DAY

Good-Looking Youth Admits the Soft Impeachment, But Pleads Lack of Memory.

New York.—According to the judges of general sessions there has never been such a strange case of bigamy brought to their attention as that of John Steffier, who pleaded guilty before Judge Newberger of marrying two women on the same day.

Steffier is a good-looking young man. He told his attorney and the court that he had no recollection of contracting either marriage and could offer no explanation of his conduct.

Judge Newberger remanded him to the Tombs for sentence, and will make an investigation into his case. When Steffier pleaded guilty he said:

"I'm married all right to these two women, but I don't know why I did it. I must have been in a trance. I don't remember anything about it."

The indictment charges Steffier with marrying Estelle Deffely August 13 last. On the evening of the same day Steffier married Hannah Ackerman.

Both of Steffier's wives were in court and intermittently denounced Steffier as a "brute." The two women sat together in the rear of the courtroom where he was arraigned.

CLEVER PLOT TO BREAK JAIL

Convict, an Electrician, Puts Out All the Lights with a Switch—Recaptured.

Salem.—By means of an ingeniously contrived cut-off switch with which he controlled the lighting system of the prison Charles Williamson, a trusty convict, escaped from the penitentiary, but was recaptured before he succeeded in getting out of town.

Williamson is an electrician serving a five-year term for forgery. He tapped the main current wire in the pump-house and put in an improvised switch. When ready to leave before daylight, Williamson shut off the lights, tied a string to his switch lever, to which he attached a water bucket. He punctured the bottom of the bucket and dropped it into the water tank outside the building. The water slowly filled the bucket, which was weighted with lead, until it sank after a period of two hours and a half and turned on the lights again.

In the meantime Williamson scaled the penitentiary wall in a dark spot and escaped. Warden Curtis happened to be at the Southern Pacific depot, recognized the fellow as he was about to board the train for Portland and re-arrested him.

EX-MAYOR NOW A "NAVVY"

Former Executive of Des Moines Seeks Work on Streets from Officials He Had Appointed.

Des Moines, Ia.—That his family might continue to have a home to shelter them, James Brenton, ex-mayor of Des Moines, took pick and shovel and commenced work upon the public streets. Of the members of the board of public works, who had received their appointments at his hands, he asked the privilege of joining the street working gang, and the request was granted, at a salary of $2 per day.

Brenton's case has been peculiar. Uneducated, he went into politics, and was nominated and elected county superintendent of schools here. Later he was elected mayor. During his administration the mayor's office was a political storm center.

He served but one term, and went out of office with scarcely a dollar. Next he appeared as a bartender in a Des Moines saloon.

Perhaps It Was the Prayer.

An Ohio man wants a divorce because his wife kicked him while he was praying. Possibly he was praying that he might become a widower before it was too late.

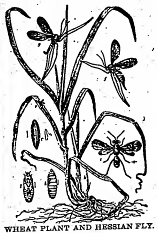
FARM AND GARDEN

PARASITES OF HESSIAN FLY

How the Insect Friends of the Farmer May Be Distinguished from the Enemy of the Wheat Field.

The importance of parasitic enemies of insects that prey upon our farm crops is very great and grave. In a recent bulletin from the Missouri experiment station Prof. J. M. Stedman calls attention to a number of parasites of the Hessian fly as follows:

"The great importance of the work of various parasitic insects in destroying the Hessian fly and preventing its undue increase can scarcely be overestimated. Undoubtedly these parasites kill practically every year from 50 to 90 per cent. of the Hessian flies before they reach maturity, and in some years a greater per cent. are thus destroyed. Still, notwithstanding this great reduction by parasitic insects and also by unfavorable climatic conditions, these insects frequently become unduly numerous and consequently destructive. It is not only because of the economic importance of these parasites of the Hessian fly, but also because of the fact that otherwise the cultivator would not as a rule be able to distinguish them from the Hessian fly itself, that we have thought best to give an illustration of the more common species of these parasites found in this state. A glance at the illustration shown will go much farther toward acquainting the average agriculturist with these insects, and of enabling him to recognize and separate them from the Hessian fly, than any amount of description would do; and hence we will not enter into description of each species.



WHEAT PLANT AND HESSIAN FLY.

a, egg; b, larva; c, puparium or "flaxseed;" d, pupa; e, adult female; f, adult female, enlarged; g, male, enlarged; h, "flaxseeds;" i, parasite of Hessian fly.

"It should be observed that the Hessian fly has but one pair of wings, the second pair being represented by a slender club-like rudiment; while in all the parasites there are two pairs of wings, the first pair, however, much larger than the second pair. In one species, Baetomus subapterus, the insect is frequently found without wings at all. Although the Hessian fly and its various parasites look alike to the casual observer, the above facts will enable one to note the difference, if followed with a little close observation and sharp eyes, especially if one be provided with a hand lens."

CUTTING POTATO FOR SEED

Rules Which Should Be Observed in Preparing the Pieces for Planting.

In cutting seed potatoes take the potato in the left hand with the stem end toward you. If it is large cut off a good-sized piece with two or three eyes. Revolve the potato to the right and keep cutting off about the same size pieces, finishing the potato by splitting the seed end. Cut potatoes as you want to use them and after they are cut never expose to the sun or air to dry out.

If you cannot use them immediately pour out on damp ground in the shade of trees or building and cover with a blanket. Seed the least bit dry, says Farm and Home, comes up slower, blights easily, and yields lighter, just in proportion as it is dried out. To cut seed use a kitchen knife ground down narrow and thin, so that the potato can be cut with very little force and not tire the hand.

FARM NOTES.

Scatter a little wheat where the quails can get it.

Sell the hay and straw through the medium of live stock, and save on the fertilizer bill.

Does the cold wind triumphantly whistle: "No windbreaks here!" If so, take the hint.

The farmer who uses a nail keg in the village store for his workshop on rainy days rarely has his tools in repair.

The farmer who speculates in stocks is pretty certain, sooner or later, to furnish stock for the village gossips to speculate on. Our folks will not do it.

There are classics in agriculture, as in other books. No farmer can afford to be without those works which bear directly on his farming.

Our Trip To Crookston.

Red Lake Falls shows that we no longer have any reason to fear mistreatment at the hands of Crookston as they played a good clean game and were as nice a lot of fellows as we ever played against. They played a good, hard game but were weak on defense. They have splendid material for a good foot-ball team but the team is not supported in the right way. We do not mean financially but by the people's lack of interest in them. But we do think that the people would take more interest in them if they went after the game in the right spirit and trained hard.

Training is something that most of the Crookston players do not know and without which no team can play or expect to play in any kind of championship form. From one in Crookston who knows and who is an earnest supporter of their team, we learned that a majority of the players smoke. What can a team expect to accomplish if all candidates for a team adhere to this habit while playing foot-ball. Every person who intends to play the game should have and show the moral courage to give up such habits, to keep regular sleeping hours to eat only plain food (that is, to cut out coffee, pastries, etc) and above all things, to turn out as regular to practice as if foot-ball was one of his studies. Our players have lived up to these requirements with a result that has been clearly shown. Crookston certainly had faverable conditions to work under and the chief one is the large number of boys they had to pick their team from. A team that has enough candidates so that rivalry is created for a position on the team and then have enough players left over to form a 2nd team, certainly should show better results. Here, the team was picked from a High School that contained 18 boys, creating no rivalry or positions and not enough players for a resemblance of a 2nd team.

But spirit is what counted here and what would have counted at Crookston if they had only possessed it. The team that shows it, shows up well in all other requirements for a "Championship Team."

O. H. MYRON DEAD.

Former State Senator Dies In California.

Although refused admittance to the room where her husband was dying and after his death denied possession of the body by her stepson, the widow of O. H. Myron, former state senator, who resided at Ada, was the chief mourner at the funeral, which was held at Los Angeles yesterday,

It was expected that a sensational scene would follow the meeting of Nordelle Myron, the stepson, and the ill treated widow at the bier of the ex-senator, but nothing of a sensational nature occurred.

In the presence of the dead husband and father all feelings of resentment and anger were forgotten and the stepmother and son met on common ground.

Mrs. Myron declares that a will bequeathing her the greater portion of her husband's fortune, amounting to upwards of $40,000, has been stolen. She has instituted proceedings, through attorneys, to protect her interests.

Senator Myron died at the Good Samaritan hospital, Los Angeles, last Friday. On Saturday a will was filed for probate which left Mrs. Myron merely the household furniture, while the residue of the estate goes to the children by the first wife. This will, Mrs. Myron declares, is an old one, and a bitter contest is now on for the possession of the estate.

Myron was one of the political leaders of the state during his residence at Ada, and was so close in touch with the situation that he wagered $500 that Knute Nelson would be elected United States Senator before he had been mentioned as a candidate. He won his bet.

It was also through him that Sylvester Peterson received his appointment as Register of the Crookston land office. The plum was offered to Myron and he turned it over to Peterson. He was an indefatable worker in politics, and was also very shrewd.

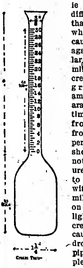
CREAM TEST BOTTLE.

New Design Which Will Make the Testing of the Cream More Accurate.

The increased interest in cream testing during the past two years has brought out several new cream-test bottles, says Prof. F. W. Woll, of the Wisconsin station. This has been largely caused by the extensive use of farm separators and the furnishing of cream instead of milk to the creameries. The testing of cream as a means of determining the amount of butter fat sent to a creamery by its patrons is a much more difficult process than the testing of whole milk, because the percentages of fat being larger than in milk, the errors of cream testing are greater; the amount of fat separated is often six times as great from cream as from milk. Experiments have shown that it is not safe to measure the cream into the test bottle with a pipette, as milk is measured, on account of the light fat of the cream, and because it does not drain from the pipette so completely as milk. These two facts make it impossible for a 17.6 c. m. milk pipette, which delivers 18 grams of milk, to measure out the weight of cream into test bottles, in order to determine accurately the percentages of fat in different samples of cream. The last legislature passed a law making weighing of cream samples obligatory in this state, wherever payments of cream are made on basis of the fat content of the cream.



Manufacturers have been placing cream-test bottles on the market for a number of years. They are made of the same length as the milk-test bottles, and while the bulbs of the two bottles are about the same size, the neck of the cream bottle is much larger in diameter. This gives an opportunity for testing as much as 30 per cent. fat in the cream-test bottles when 18 grams of cream is used. For some unknown reason the manufacturers have been gradually increasing the diameter of the neck, thus contracting the length of the scale on the cream-test bottle so that in some cases the entire graduation, from 0 to 30 per cent. occupies a space of only two inches in length. This brings the lines of the scale very closely together, so that the graduations which represent one-half per cent. of fat are not much farther apart than the width of an ordinary lead pencil mark. With such test bottles, it is almost impossible to read a test accurately to much less than one per cent. fat.

Realizing the difficulty thus introduced, a cream-test bottle made of the dimensions shown in the diagram has been suggested by Farrington. This bottle is of the same length as a milk-test bottle, but in order to give it a longer neck than cream-test bottles usually have, the capacity of the bulb has been reduced to 45 c. c. up to the zero mark of the scale, instead of 55 c. c., which is the capacity of the bulb of the old cream-test bottles. This size of bottle is amply large for mixing the cream and acid before whirling the test bottles in the centrifuge. The necks of many cream-test bottles on the market are only about three inches long, while those of the new cream bottle are at least four inches long. The graduations of the neck on this bottle are so far apart that it is easy to read one-fourth per cent. fat. The scale representing one per cent. on the new cream-test bottle is as long as that of two per cent. in the old bottle.—P. C.

The Sick Cow.

The sick cow should not be permitted to remain with the other cows, for in many cases the disease with which a cow is sick is a contagious one, but this is not always discernible at the time the cow is first taken sick. Milk from a sick cow should not be used, even for the feeding of farm animals. Give the animal the benefit of free air and moderate sunshine and deprive her of food for awhile, unless it be some sickness whose character is known. Often the sickness is merely the result of too high feeding. If the ailment is a very serious one it will pay better to call a veterinarian than to risk not doing the proper thing for the relief of the animal.—Farmers' Review.

The Main Thing.

No matter how skilled we may be in breeding and making nicks, crosses and cut-crosses, the main thing with the cow is her feed, and unless she and her offspring are fed enough and well, the granddaughter will be a scrub and dear at most any price.

Breed for Winter Calves.

If you will breed part of your cows to come fresh in the winter you will find it profitable. A farmer who makes really good butter, can sell it for 35 and 40 cents all winter to private customers.

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

RED LAKE FALLS GAZETTE.

Vol. 23. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, NOVEMBER 16, 1905. No 10

Mayor Duffy's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

The past year has been one of great prosperity. The nation is at peace with the world. Throughout the entire country there is an awakening of the people and a quickening of the public conscience, which is making for better citizenship and better government. In our own state we have abundant cause for rejoicing and general thanksgiving. Never have our fields and mines been so bountiful in their products, and in all that tends to material wealth our people have been enriched in greater degree than ever before.

Labor in all departments of human endeavor has been generously rewarded, and its efforts have been crowned with deserved success.

For all these bounties I would earnestly recommend that on Thanksgiving Day, November 30th, our people abstain from their usual avocations and, meeting in their regular places of worship, join in general thanksgiving to the Divine Author of all our blessings and invoke the continuance of His favor.

A Good Record.

The statement of the condition of the Merchants State Bank, published elsewhere in today's Gazette, shows that this popular financial institution has had a very substantial increase in business during the past several months, their total deposits being $112,401 at this time—a gain of about $25,000 since their May statement. The progress made by this bank is a flattering tribute to the excellent business ability of its cashier, John A. Duffy, whose untiring efforts have brought the institution up among the first ranks of the banks in this part of the valley.

LANDS ARE IN DEMAND

68,000 Acres Sold During A Three Weeks Campaign.—Price Averaged About $6 Per Acre.

State Auditor Iverson returned to St. Paul Monday, from a three week's tour of the northern part of the state, during which time he held sixteen sales of state lands in as many different counties.

The amount of land sold approximates 68,000 acres, and $55,000 was realized for the State school university and state institutions funds. More than $80,000 was paid in cash as first payments. The prices paid averaged close to $6 per acre. Mr. Iverson is very well satisfied with the sales. He was assisted by C. H. Warner state immigration agent. He found a number of buyers at each sale from outside of the state indicating that the advertising the state has been doing attracted additional homeseekers. These buyers exercised a good effect on values. Many buyers took only forty or eighty acres to add to their farms or to start for themselves on a small scale.

The weather was unfavorable during the first two weeks and kept many away but during the last week they were well attended and there was not room in the courtrooms at Detroit, Wadena and Long Prairie for the crowds that wanted to attend. Mr. Iverson says.

"We noticed great activity in land matters in the northern part of the state. Many tracts are being developed, cleared of timber and brush, and many buildings are being put up. In fact the northern part of the state is going to show a wonderful advance during the next few years. Cheese factories and dairies are being established. Good roads are being built. Substantial schoolhouses are to be seen everywhere. The villages all have the appearance of thrift and prosperity which is merely a reflection of the farm communities surrounding them.

Eight other sales will be held next April at which large quantities of land will be offered in St. Louis, Carlton, Aitkin, Crow Wing, Cass, Hubbard, Beltrami and Itasca counties.

FLOUR MILL AT ST. HILAIRE.

New Concern Said To Be Slated For Up River Town.

Crookston Times: Joel Winkjer of this city has returned from St. Hilaire his old home where he spent the first part of the week on official duties and reports the farmers and citizens of that place as greatly interested in a flour milling proposition which may be pushed forward and result in the erection at St. Hilaire of a seventy-five barrel flour mill.

The proposition as now being considered is more for the benefit of the farmers and people of St. Hilaire and vicinity than for a wholesale business. Flour and feed will be ground in the mill if built for the farmers at so much per sack or on shares. St. Hilaire business men are reported by Mr. Winkjer as being behind the deal.

Fancy Cookery for Christmas Gifts.

What would Christmas be without the traditional dinner with the good old-fashioned plum pudding and the numerous other seasonable dainties? But something new in this line is the practice, coming into favor, of including various forms of cookery among one's Christmas gifts. In the December Delineator there is a suggestive chapter in "The Making of a Housewife," by Isabel Gordon Curtis, giving many useful hints to this purpose. "Suggestions for a Child's Christmas Party," "Various Plum Puddings and Harmonious Sauces," and "Quaint Little Cakes for Holiday Occasions" prove to be useful, as well as something new to add to one's menus, and "Home-Made Holiday Beverages" and "Table Decorations for Children's Christmas Parties" close this very valuable department of the magazine.

Chas. Fellman, one of St. Hilaire's popular citizens, has spent most of the week here in charge of the grand jury, officiating as deputy sheriff. Charley is a good fellow and has enjoyed his stay here in great shape.

CERNOUSEK IS INDICTED

Grand Jury Returns Count Against Former Police of Thief River Falls. —Trial to be Held Next Week.

Late yesterday the grand jury returned an indictment against Frank Cernousek, of Thief River Falls, who while arresting a fellow at the up river town last year was compelled to use his revolver, the shot striking him in the head, death resulting within a few hours. The coroner's jury cleared Cernousek of the blame, but the brother of the dead man, Donaldson by name, was not satisfied and with witnesses appeared and laid the case before the grand jury with the result that a count was returned against Cernousek.

The charge will be manslaughter in the first degree, and he will be tried at the term of court next week.

ASK FOR HAMILTON

INSURANCE INVESTIGATORS DEMAND LAWYER'S RETURN FROM EUROPE.

President McCall Informs Committee That He Will Personally Reimburse the New York Life the Sum of $235,000 Paid to Hamilton on His Personal Receipts if the Latter Fails to Do So by Dec. 31.

New York, Nov. 14.—John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance company, was called before the Armstrong committee of insurance investigation during the day and peremptorily ordered by the committee to demand the return from Europe to this country of Andrew Hamilton, the lawyer who has had charge of legislative matters for the New York Life. Mr. McCall was further ordered to demand an accounting from Hamilton of the moneys expended by him and of the balance which he owes the New York Life. Mr. McCall denied that it was the policy of his company to have Mr. Hamilton remain abroad until after this investigation had been concluded and said that on the contrary he would very much like to have Mr. Hamilton return.

Mr. McCall, replying to Mr. Hughes, counsel for the committee, said he had called the attention of the board of trustees of the company to his testimony before the committee relative to Hamilton and gave Mr. Hughes a copy of his statement which said that if Hamilton did not return to the New York Life the sum of $235,000 by Dec. 31 he would himself pay it to the company. Mr. McCall said Mr. Hamilton was either in Paris or Nauheim.

Interesting Line of Inquiry.

Another interesting line of examination was opened just before the adjournment for the day when John McGuinness, an employe of the Equitable Life, was called. He produced letter books and memoranda which Mr. Hughes read and was in the midst of the reading when adjournment was taken. These were instructions from former Comptroller Thomas D. Jordan of the Equitable Life to A. C. Fields relative to the killing or assisting the passage of every bill introduced into the legislature that would affect or help the interests of the insurance company or any of its officers.

Other witnesses were John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life, and Vice President Fiske, who were interrogated along the line of agents' salaries, legal expenses of the company, real estate holdings and the methods of acquiring properties and the fact was brought out that the fire insurance firm that places all the risks on the properties of the Metropolitan is composed of W. D. Edmister and Silas B. Dutcher, the latter a director of the Metropolitan Life.

REQUEST IS REFUSED

STATE TROOPS WILL NOT BE ORDERED TO GUARD NEW YORK CITY BALLOT BOXES.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Governor Higgins has received the request of the committee of the Municipal Ownership league that state armories in Greater New York should be used for the storage of ballot boxes and ballots used at the election in New York city and that state troops should be detailed to guard them.

Governor Higgins has informed the league that the request for the use of the armories must come through Major General Charles F. Rook, commanding the national guard, upon whose recommendation, he says, he would grant the use of the armories.

The governor declines, however, to order out troops to protect the ballots, taking the ground that he will assume no responsibility for the ballots, leaving their protection and disposition to the ordinary course of law and the orders of the courts.

CRIMINAL ACTION IMMINENT.

Parties Responsible for Bank Failure to Be Prosecuted.

Pittsburg, Nov. 11.—Attorney John Marron, representing the depositors of the defunct Enterprise National bank of Allegheny, said that criminal action will be taken against certain people connected with the bank's failure within a few days.

He declined, however, to state against whom the proceedings will be taken. He said that much of the seeming mystery surrounding the failure had been cleared up.

CUNLIFFE SENTENCED.

Man Who Stole $101,000 Gets Only Six Years.

Pittsburg, Nov. 13.—Edward G. Cunliffe, the Adams Express robber, was sentenced to serve six years in the Western penitentiary by Judge MacFarland. Cunliffe was sentenced on two charges of larceny, aggregating $101,000.

Boiler Explosion Kills Two.

Dubuque, Ia., Nov. 14.—A boiler explosion in a flour mill at Guttenberg killed Joel Baumgartner, owner, and Benjamin Walter, engineer, and wrecked the building.

SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT BEATEN.

Large Majority Against Measure in Maryland.

Baltimore, Nov. 9.—Late returns dissipate much of the doubt as to the result of the election in this city and state. With a few precincts of the usual Democratic cities yet to hear from the defeat of the suffrage amendment to the constitution by 28,000 to 29,000 is conceded. Atkinson, Democrat, is conceded the state comptrollership and his majority will probably run over 6,000. That the lower house of the state legislature will be Democratic is conceded by Republican sources of information. It will probably be made up of 53 Democrats, 3 Independent Democrats and 8 Republicans. The state senate stands 18 Democrats and 8 Republicans. The Democrats will therefore elect the state treasurer and the board of public works will be Democratic.

BY PLURALITY OF 23,000.

Republicans Elect Governor of Massachusetts.

Boston, Nov. 8.—A revision of the vote in Tuesday's election in Massachusetts fails to materially alter the result. The revised figures are:

Governor—Guild, Republican, 197,512; Bartlett, Democrat, 174,396; Guild's plurality, 23,116.

Lieutenant Governor—Draper, Republican, 182,197; Whitney, Democrat, 180,201; Draper's plurality, 1,996.

GET BUT ONE OFFICE

DEMOCRATS ELECT GOVERNOR OF OHIO, BUT OTHER OFFICIALS ARE REPUBLICAN.

Columbus, O., Nov. 10.—It is believed that the official count alone will determine which party has elected the minor state officials. Returns at Republican and Democratic headquarters only adds to the confusion. Both sides continue to claim the election of the minor state officials. Incomplete but corrected returns received by the Dispatch seem to indicate that the Republican state ticket is elected and that Pattison, Democratic candidate for governor, has a plurality of about 43,000.

The Democrats still claim both house and senate. The Republicans say the senate will be Republican 19 to 18 and the house Republican 61 to 60. In a number of counties contests will undoubtedly be made.

GREAT VICTORY FOR REFORM.

City Party Ticket Has Large Plurality at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—The political revolution in this city and state was the greatest that has occurred in Pennsylvania in nearly a generation. There have been previous upheavals, but this is the first time in years that every office for which there was any semblance of a contest has been lost to the regular Republicans. It is also the first time in a quarter of a century that the regular Republicans have been defeated for control of the state treasury.

The plurality of William H. Berry, who was nominated by the Democratic, Independent party, Lincoln party and Prohibitionists for state treasurer, will be nearly 100,000 and may go above those figures. J. Lee Plummer, the Republican candidate, ran far behind his ticket in nearly every county in the state. The remainder of the Republican ticket was elected by the usual Republican pluralities. President Roosevelt's plurality last year was more than half a million.

MORMONS DEFEATED.

American Party Elects Entire City Ticket at Salt Lake.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 8.—The American party, founded for the express purpose of overthrowing the influence of the Mormon church in municipal affairs, gained a complete victory in the city election. Ezra Thompson was elected mayor by a plurality of 925 over Richard P. Morris, who was a candidate for re-election. The entire city ticket of the Americans is elected by about the same vote. The Americans will have control of the council, having elected six councilmen to act with the two Gentile holdovers.

REPUBLICAN LANDSLIDE.

Plurality In Nebraska May Reach Twenty-five Thousand.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 9.—The election in Nebraska has the appearance of a Republican landslide on the head of the ticket. The plurality for Letton for supreme judge will not be less than—18,000 and may exceed 25,000. An average Republican gain of six and a half votes to the precinct is shown. Both the Republican candidates for regents of the university are elected, but their plurality is considerably less than that for judge.

M'CLELLAN'S CLOSE CALL.

Defeats Hearst for Mayor of New York by 3,485.

New York, Nov. 8.—The city of New York, complete but unofficial, gives McClellan 3,485 plurality over Hearst. The total vote was McClellan 228,651, Hearst 225,166, Ivins 137,049. District Attorney Jerome, Independent, was reelected by a plurality of over 11,000.

Republicans Sweep Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—The Republicans swept Chicago, electing every candidate on their ticket. Only judges of the superior and circuit courts and trustees of the sanitary district were voted for.

NIP REVOLT IN BUD

RUSSIA ANTICIPATES TROUBLE IN POLAND AND DECLARES MARTIAL LAW.

Feared That Granting of Demands Would Mark the Beginning of the Dismemberment of the Empire and the St. Petersburg Government Is Determined to Put Down the Movement Immediately.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 11.—The declaration of martial law throughout Poland is evidence of the determination of the government to try to nip in the bud the movement to regain the autonomy which the kingdom of Poland possesses under the constitution which was suppressed after the revolution of 1863. The ease with which the Finns, striking at the opportune movement, compelled the government to make a complete surrender encouraged the Poles to attempt a similar stroke and the government has received advices which leaves no doubt that a broad conspiracy was organized to attain this end. The leaders of the movement propose to adopt the tactics followed in Finland.

The government will resist to the utmost. Count Witte himself believes that if the government is forced at this juncture to grant autonomy to Poland it might mark the beginning of the dismemberment of the empire. The hope of the government is that the Poles are striking too late, as the railroads throughout Russia have resumed operations and the transportation of troops is possible. Nevertheless the movement will be in a quandary should the passive resistance in Poland change to an armed uprising, as it is a question whether the government is strong enough to attempt to suppress it by force. To carry on a civil war in Poland now would expose the government to attacks in the rear from the revolutionary elements of the people.

TWO COMPANIES HOLD OUT.

Mutiny at Cronstadt Not Quelled Completely.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 11.—According to information received by the Slovo the mutiny at Cronstadt is not yet completely quelled, the Fourth and Seventh equipages still holding out in their barracks and keeping the troops which surround the building at bay by means of machine guns mounted at the windows. The commander of the forces at Cronstadt, it is added, hesitates to order the troops to storm the building, believing he can reduce the mutineers to submission by starvation.

In communications held with the mutineers the latter refuse to surrender unless they are guaranteed immunity from punishment under the naval regulations, by which every fifth man is subject to be shot after trial by a courtmartial, which is now said to be in session and engaged in sentencing the captured leaders of the revolt to execution.

FUEL SUPPLY CUT OFF.

Attempt to Compel Warsaw Strikers to Resume Work.

Warsaw, Nov. 11.—The governor general has ordered the military to take possession of all the stores of coal, with the object of depriving the population of fuel and compelling the strikers to resume work.

that the government would not abolish martial law until the disturbances cease in Russian Poland.

Three policemen and four detectives were shot and killed in various parts of this city during the night.

BIG THIEF CAPTURED.

Man Arrested on Small Charge Confesses to Stealing $100,000.

New York, Nov. 11.—Harold Prescott, a painter who was arrested on suspicion of being implicated in a small robbery, broke down in jail and confessed to having stolen over $100,000 from various homes in the past two years. He is a painter by trade and gained entrance to the houses by securing employment in them. He was later sentenced to five years at Sing Sing.

IOWA MINERS IDLE.

Six Hundred on Strike in Oskaloosa District.

Des Moines, Nov. 11.—More than 600 miners are idle in the Hocking coal district near Oskaloosa and not a bushel of coal is being mined where the output was nearly 2,000 tons per day. Trouble arose over operators' charges for hauling miners to and from the mines over the Iowa Central railway. The miners objected to the charges.

GENERAL STRIKE ORDERED.

French Government Naval Employes to Quit Work.

Paris, Nov. 13.—The union of the government employes of the arsenals and dockyards at Toulon, Brest and other naval headquarters has ordered a general strike. This threatens to seriously interrupt the naval construction program. Military forces are being concentrated to preserve order at the ports.

Crude Oil Prices Reduced.

Pittsburg, Nov. 11.—The Standard Oil company has reduced the price of all grades of crude oil except raglan. The higher grades were reduced 3 cents and the lower grades 2 cents.

The indictments, which ara identical, charga that Borges and Owen secured more than $25,000 by fraud from Charles W. Abbott, Edwin O. Childs, John M. Landera and Warren P. Published weekly, Thursday evening, and entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

When the average reformer is analyzed he will be found to contain a large percentage of office itch.—Fargo Call. And the first symptons are quite often brought out by a "rash" break.

Miss Emma Goldberg, a young lady, aged 16 years, was one of contracting parties named in a marriage license issued Tuesday at Crookston. This is just another evidence of the reform movement which has been stared in the race suicide question.

A paper from the southern part of the state remarks that harvesting is still in progress in the Red River Valley. Well, we should say so, the "Harvest Days Are Never O'er" here and you can reap the fruits of your labors all the year around.

The county seat fight in Clearwater county is again brought to the front by an application for a temporary injunction to restrain the county commissioners from making any improvements to the court house building presented the county by the village of Bagley.

Secretary Hitchcock has restored the 1,102,720 acres of land to settlement in the Bismark land district which was temporarily withdrawn from any other disposal in connection with the Bismark project North Dakota. These lands, however, shall not be subject to entry, filing or selection under the public land laws until ninety days after notice by publication, as the commissioner of the general land office may prescribe.

Kenyon College has presented another act in the hazing outrage which was perpetrated upon Stuart Pierson, with the prospects of more to follow, while the faculty of the college are doing all in their power to prevent the exposure of the criminals for fear that the bringing of the murderers to justice would injure the reputation of the institution. Had Pierson, in an endeavor to preserve his own life, caused the death of one of his tormentors, he would have been promptly indicted by the grand jury add made to suffer the penalty for taking the life of a fellowman, as is set forth by the laws of his country. However, hazing is the joke skeleton of all large educational institutions of our land, and the fact that Pierson could not withstand the strenuous stunt of having a locomotive pass over his body was evidence of physical weakness and cowardice. Murder has been done, and if that deed is still a crime in the land the people demand that the perpretrators be brought to justice with them the officials who endeavor to cover up such deeds under the viel of hazing.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

In memory of that time honored custom establisned by our forefathers, Gov. Johnson has issued his proclamation setting aside Thursday, November 30, as a day of special Thanksgiving. In calling upon his people to commererate the day the Governor says:

"The past year has been one of great prosperity. The nation is at peace with the world. Throughout the entire country there is an awakening of the people and a quickening of the public conscience, which is making far better citizenship and better government. In our own state we have abundant cause for rejoicing and general thanksgiving. Never have our fields and mines been so bountiful in their products, and in all that tends to material wealth our people have been enriched in greater degree than ever before.

"Labor in all departments of human endeavor has been generously rewarded, and its efforts have been crowned with deserved success.

"For all these bounties I would earnestly reccomend that on Thanksgiving day our people abstain from their usual avocations and meeting in their regular places of worship, join in general thanksgiving to the Divine Anthor of all our blessings and invoke the continuance of His favor."

Never since the incumbency of President Johnson has our president "swung around the circle" and visited the remotest portions of the republic as has President Roosevelt since he became the chief executive of the nation," says the Cass Lake Times, "and never since the days of the lamented Lincoln has a president of these United States earned and received the undivided love and confidence of the masses of the people he rules. It is true, that the president has enemies, and many of our law makers are not in sympathy with him in his desires; the great corporations and the gilded trusts are not his friends, though fearing to openly oppose him and his open and fearless policies for betterment of economic conditions. The politicians do not love him, though most of them fear the 'Big Stick' but the possibility of an unfavorable vote when a change of place is threatened. When President Roosevelt entered upon the duties of his office it would not have been practical for him to have openly shown himself in many of the regions of the great domain, but four years of 'strenuous life' has convinced the masses that his desire is for good government, a government of, by and for the people and so long as he shows such rare faculties and such unswerving determination to rule for the benefit of all, the people who cast the votes of the republic, with out regard to pary, will support him. And Theodore Roosevelt will not deceive or mislead them.

The Tri-State Grain and Stock Growers' association will hold the annual convention in Fargo, Jan. 16, 17, 18 and 19. 1906. Secretary Johnson has received official notice from all railroads entering the city and making connections within certain limits, to the effect that a rate of one fare for the round trip will be given for that occasion. The territory embraced by the special rates includes all of North Dakota and most of South Dakota and more than half of Minnesota. The Soo grants special rates from Glenwood, Minn. west and north. The N. P. grants special rates from Brainerd and Little Falls, Minn., west to the Montana line, the G. N. from Sauk Center and Willmar, Minn., west to the Montana line, and the Milwaukee from Montevideo, Minn., west including North and South Dakota. These are the same rates granted in former years and are considered very liberal, as they bring from 1,200 to 1,500 farmers into the city and hundreds of others also take advantage of the low fare.

Your Business Respectfully Solicited.

ST. HILAIRE

[From the Spectator.]

K. O. Gigsted made a business trip to Red Lake Falls last Monday evening.

A. M. Edstrom came in from Hazel and went down to Red Lake Falls on business last Monday,

Mrs. John J. Soll received the sad news by wire last Thursday that a sister had died at Clerkfield, Minn.

P. G. Otterness came up from Goodhue county last Saturday and spent a couple of days here looking after his business interests.

Lewis Adams visited with his brother Herman Adams a couple of days the first of this week. He expects to leave for the west in a few weeks.

Albert Brink, a son of O. W. Brink, had the misfortune last Saturday to fall, while driving cattle, into the county ditch and dislocate his elbow. Dr. Blomborgh set the injured member and he is doing as well as could be expected.

Joel G. Winkjar, the dairy and food inspector, was here last Monday to attend the stockholders' meeting of the creamery. Mr. Winkjar can't help being around when there is anything doing at the creamery of which he did so much to make a success.

Jens Nelson, Chas. Fallman and J. J. Soll went out to the reservation last Thursday and will spend several days hunting deer.

The south bound freight last Wednesday had a badly burned caboose which had caught fire at Thief River Falls in some way unknown.

Prof. Onstad informs us that although he has resigned at Red Lake Falls, he has decided for the present, at least, to continue as instructor of the band here. Prof. Onstad is a musician of ability and has excellent success as an instructor and the band boys are fortunate in retaining him as their teacher and leader.

Julius Pleth, of Plummer, last week purchased of Alphonse Lacombe, of St. Hilaire, his farm in section 31-152-41, also the SE¼ 19-153-42, east of Rooksbury township, known as the Freeman farm, and the Evan Hanson quarter (SE¼ 33) same township and range, and not satisfied with that he also bought at the sale of school lands held in Red Lake Falls six quarter-sections in River Falls and Garnes townships. It is very evident that Mr. Pleth is still very much in the land business and has unlimited faith in Red Lake county lands. Mr. Pleth has done much good for this county and in him St. Hilaire lost a good citizen and business man.

There are no signs of a let-up down at the saw mill and Manager Evans claims they will run the mill as long as they can get logs into the mill. On Monday afternoon the piston rod that runs the carriage was broken but it was fixed Monday night and work was resumed Tuesday morning. The weather seems to be getting better every day and it looks now as if the mill would run all of next week at least.

The band boys were greeted by a full house at Imperial hall last Wednesday evening when they gave their concert and rag ball social. The selections rendered by the band were well received and the violin solo by Prof. Onstad being particularly appreciated. The rag balls sold well and the boys cleared in the neighborhood of twenty dollars. All agree that it was a decided success and the boys should give another in the near futher.

Mrs. Henrietta A. S. Marsh, 769 W. 18th St., Los Angeles, Cal., President Woman's Benevolent Ass'n, writes:

"I suffered with la grippe for seven weeks, and nothing I could do or take helped me until I tried Peruna.

"I felt at once that I had at last secured the right medicine and I kept steadily improving. Within three weeks I was fully restored, and I am glad that I gave that truly great remedy a trial. I will never be without it again."

In a letter dated August 31, 1904, Mrs. Marsh says: "I have never yet heard the efficacy of Peruna questioned. We still use it. I traveled through Kentucky and Tennessee three years ago, where I found Peruna doing its good work. Much of it is being used here also."—Henrietta A. S. Marsh.

Have you noticed that calendars differ as to the date of Thanksgiving Day this year? Some of them designate Nov. 23, while others claim the 30 as turkey day. The trouble arises from the fact that this year November happens to have five Thursdays which is unusual. Some say it is usual for the president to proclaim the last Thursday, but others, however, think the day designated is the Thursday after the fourth Wednesday, which in the present instance would bring the holiday on the 23. However, Gov. Johnson, has settled the matter so far as the state of Minnesota is concerned by designating Thursday Nov. 30th as the day for giving thanks.

The meeting was most successful and those present felt well repaid for the time occupied in attending the two day's meeting. The next meeting of the Association will be held at Red Lake Falls in January.

A western editor has come to the conclusion that the people who desire "puffs" in his paper must pay the following prices: "For telling the public that a man is a successful citizen when everybody knows he is as lazy as a government mule, $2.75; referring to a deceased citizen as one who is mourned by the entire community, when he knew he will only be missed by the poker circles, $1.08; referring to some gallivanting female as an estimable lady whom it is a pleasure to meet when every business man in town would rather see the devil coming, horns, hoofs and all, than to see her coming towards them, $3.10; calling an ordinary pulpit pounder an eminent divine, 60c; sending a tough sinner to heaven with poetry, $5.00.

Thief River Press: Residents of the city were startled Tuesday night, or rather, early Wednesday morning, by the fierce ringing of the fire bell, and a majority of the firemen and citizens turned out to fight the flames. The fire was reported in the southwestern portion of the town, and the lurid sky in that direction guided everyone to the scene. It proved to be the caboose of the northbound Great Northern freight. Conductor Keeley, who had charge of the train at the time, says that the fire was occasioned by the explosion of a lamp. The caboose was burned to the trucks; none of the contents being saved as the fire when discovered was too far advanced to permit of anyone's entering the car. Several of the train crew lost clothing and conductor Keeley lost about ten dollars in cash which he had left in the caboose.

Creamery men throughout the state will be interested in a proposition that milk be purchased on grade similar to the manner in which wheat is bought. It is suggested that less be paid for milk that is dirty, and this will be an incentive to farmers to keep the liquid free from taint or odors. There is merit in the idea advanced. The creameries at present pay for milk on the basis of the amount of butter fat it contains, according to test. The price received for butter depends upon its quality. Butter that is made from milk that is dirty or tainted by odors cannot be sold for nearly so much per pound as butter from milk that is free from dirt and odors. The age of the milk delivered also shows in the quality of the milk delivered. Minnesota creameries are now producing the finest butter in the world, and are limited only by the deficient quality of milk delivered, possibly by only one or two patrons of the creamery. The present system offers no incentive to keep cows and barns clean or take extraordinary care against odors in keeping the milk, as he is paid solely on the basis of butter fat the milk contains.

LOOKING FOR LOANS.

All Loans Promised By State Board Have Been Paid.

The state has now paid all the loans it has promised to make to school districts, municipalities, counties and townships. In some of the cases the borrowers do not want the money right away, bnt the state has the money ready with which to pay them when they want it.

When the state investment board met Oct. 14 it approved loans for $55,000, althongh at that time there were already several approved loans waiting. This brought the amonnt of the promised loans up to $205,000 above the amonnt then available. The investment board approved the loans npon an estimate that there would be abont $300,000 turned into the permanent school fund from the sales of land and timber. The actual returns have gone above expectations, and now there is money awaiting the reqnests for loans.

The 25 per cent which must be paid in cash at the state timber sales brought $109,000 into the fund, and the other stumpage sales brought in enongh more to make $174,000 from this sonrce. The state mineral sales brought in about $77,000, the 15 per cent cash payment on the state land sales held during the last three weeks brought in abont $80,000. Some collections on former sales also have swelled the fund.

Since the first of this month $106,000 has been paid ont on loans approved by the board. This leaves $53,000 more to be paid, and there is money in the fund to pay the loans as soon as the counties or towns send in their bonds. Many of them do not need the money at once, and to save paying interest do not draw the money nntil they need it. The whole amount paid ont since the first of Angust is $410,000. Since the last meeting of the board applications for $84,000 of loans have come in, but it is probable that there will be money enough to pay them as soon as it is wanted. The nnpaid portion of the state land and timber sales held during the last few weeks amonnts to nearly $800,000, and there are also considerable amounts unpaid on former sales.

Liked Their Treatment.

The Fertile Journal in commenting on the Thief River-Fertile football game says:

The Fertile high school foot ball eleven, accompanied by their coach, Rev. Strom; Prof. Hegland and several of the teachers, went to Thief River Falls last Saturday with the purpose in view of playing the high school eleven of that place but instead ran up against a team of giants composed of a few of the school boys and the remainder saw mill men. Our boys were outweighed from 20 to 50 pounds a man and of course stood no show against their opponents, who played a slugging game from start to finish. They made 68 points to Fertile's 0, but they ought to have still done better than that, considering the size and weight of our boys. Our boys went to Thief River Falls with the intention of playing the high school team, but the superintendent of the Thief River Falls schools said he had nothing to do with the team and would not vouch for any of the players and it was made optional with Fertile whether she would play the team put up against her or go home without their expense money. It was a mighty small trick on the part of the Thief River Falls gang and they are welcome to all the glory they can get out of their so called victory.

Facts Worth Knowing for the Farmer and Stockman.

Last fall we called our readers attention to the great disparity between the price of hides and that of cattle. As the difference is even greater this year, we again call our readers attention to the subject.

By looking over the market reports of the various wholesale slaughtering centers, we observe that the value of common cattle called grass fed cows is $2 to $2.75 per hundred pounds, an average of about 2¼ cents per pound, which will net the shipper after freight is paid about 2 cents per pound. Extra corn fed steers are valued at $5 to $6; dressed veal calf $3.75 to $6.25, according to quality and condition. Now compare these prices with the prices of their hides and skins. We observe in the late circular issued by the Northwestern Hide & Fur Co., Minneapolis, Minn. that ordinary cow hides (termed green hides) meaning raw hides as they come off the animal and marketed either in a green or frozen condition, are bringing 11¼ cents per pound for 1 lb; 10¼ cents for 2 lb; all pass as 1 lb. if not cut with holes or ill shaped, or otherwise damaged. Veal calf skins bring 13 cents; veal kip, 12 cents. Green salt cured hides or calf skins bring 1 cent per pound more. As these are net cash prices and as the freight will range from 25 cents to 75 cents per hundred pounds according to distance from 100 to 300 miles (the average would be about ½ cent per pound), the average raw cow hide would net the shipper 9¾ cents to 11¾ cents per pound according to quality. Veal calf skins give a net profit of 12½ cent; veal kip, 11½ cents; other skins in proportion, or about five times the price per pound that cattle on foot will bring at home or by shipping.

It is very evident that at present extreme high prices of hides and skins, the highest the world ever saw, and the price of cattle about as low as it ever was, that it would be far better to kill common cattle and eat or sell the beef at home, and ship the hides and tallow to market, as the hide and tallow will bring about half as much as the entire animal would.

While there is some difficulty about shipping live stock, there is none in shipping hides. All there is to do is to address a tag and tie it to the hide and send it by freight. Of course it is likely that with the advent of cold freezing weather, hides will be some lower owing to the greatly increased receipts; but if they decline 1 cent per pound they will still be over four times as high as cattle.

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the ills attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. THE OLD ORCHARD.

How It May Be Treated So as to Restore It to a Profitable Basis.

As an orchard, it had always been a failure. The trees had come from the refuse of an abandoned nursery. Ninety-nine men in a hundred would not have taken the trees as a gift and the one remaining man took them because they were cheap.

For 30 years a part of the trees stood and grew. The others died, most of them early. Occasionally they produced apples, but did not take this as the serious part of their existence. The chief purpose was to encumber the ground, making it less valuable for other purposes and of no account as an orchard.

In course of time the farm had a change of owners. The new man had an idea. The orchard was not profitable, but it had never been fairly treated. Good trees could not be made from poor stock, but there was a possibility of bringing about a better condition than then existed.

The soil was a light, gravelly loam, not a good place for an apple. Moreover, the land had been exhausted by continual cropping for many years. This, with poor stock in the beginning, had resulted in stunted, half-starved trees.

The first step was to plow the ground in the spring and sow to rye. When it had grown large enough to afford pasture, hogs were turned in, who wallowed down the green straw and gathered some lard into themselves. The next year the ground was again plowed and sown, and the hogs called in for the harvest. Four times was this repeated, to the great satisfaction of the animals and, as it proved, to the benefit of the trees.

It was by that time evident that a change had taken place. The trees grew as they had never grown before. There was fruit in abundance, too. The orchard came up smiling with its burden on "off" years when it was good to have apples. It bore every year and was the most profitable part of the farm.

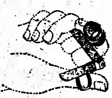
A part of the original orchard was fenced off and received such treatment as trees usually receive in a cultivated field given up to the ordinary farm crops. After six or seven years they did not look as though they could have been set at the same time with their more thrifty neighbors.

If potash and phosphoric acid had been applied the results should have been still better, remarks the Ohio Farmer. As it was, the ground received a supply of much needed humus and such other fertility as come from pasturing. Results as good or better might be obtained by many from orchards now considered unprofitable.

FRUIT SCISSORS.

New Invention Which Would Simplify the Task of the Fruit Gatherers.

George Towers, Canyon City, Col., has patented a fruit scissors, comprising two blades pivoted together with sleeves to engage the thumb and fingers, and readily snap the fruit stems.



FRUIT SCISSORS.

Sod-Bound Trees.

Sod bound trees are not very common, but they are to be met with. When a tree has made a good growth and has spread out its top to cover its feet there is little danger of its becoming sod bound, for the branches of the tree catch most of the sunshine and the grass growth below is meager. The sod bound condition comes when the tree is either very young or so old that the leaves are thin and few. The young tree that is set in grass ground and has never obtained a very good hold of the ground is the one most likely to become sod bound, which means that the roots of the grass have taken possession of the soil and are taking most of the plant food and moisture. Such a tree can be relieved only by digging out the grass and giving its roots the entire use of the ground.—Farmers' Review.

Sheep in the Orchard.

If the trees are protected by some means, sheep are as useful for picking up fallen fruit as pigs are, perhaps more so. They are on hand when an apple falls, while the hogs may be asleep in the shade. The apple ought to be devoured promptly before the worm has had time to crawl out. It is nearly ready to do so before the apple falls, and does not lose much time afterwards. This will suggest the importance of prompt action if the codling moth is to be kept down. Give the animals a chance at the little fruit that falls early, and so dispose of the greater part of the insect crop. By these means the number of the moths can be greatly reduced, but the fight must be kept up every year.—Ohio Farmer.

Peach Tree Borer.

Any signs of the peach tree borer present? Perhaps you have not thought of him lately. Well, if you haven't, now would be a good time to get busy and investigate. He may be at work upon some valuable tree that does not show any visible suffering as yet, but if the destroyer is not removed the signs will develop very prominently ere long.—Midland Farmer.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. DIFFICULT TO GRADE

THE MULE IS A DIFFICULT PRODUCT TO CLASSIFY.

Missouri Stock Dealer Gives Some Points of Interest Regarding the Hybrid Output.

Kansas City, Mo.—"The classification of Missouri's great product, the mule, is the hardest of all live stock," says John Grant, of the firm of Walcott, Beers & Grant, at the stock yards.

"To most people the animal is simply a mule, with a strong inclination to emphasize his presence with a kick. To most buyers he is a good or bad, large or small, smooth or rough, will probably bring a certain price on the market or will not be wanted at all. While among dealers who supply the different demands he is classified according to weight, bone, size, color, age, mouth, teeth, broken or unbroken, length and breadth, and also in regard to the locality of the buyer.

"In the first place, green, unbroken mules are never wanted. Once in awhile we receive a few and generally have to sell them at a sacrifice. The principal classes of mules known to the market are: Cotton mules, lumber mules, railroad mules, sugar mules, farm mules, levee mules; city mules and miners. Miners are classed as surface and pit mules.

"Cotton mules are the commonest kind in regard to numbers. They range from 13 to 16 hands, and from 4 to 7 years old are the best ages. Their build makes little difference so long as they are smooth. In price they range from $50 to $165. Lumber mules are the largest, heavy boned, rugged grades, 15.3 to 16.2 hands or better. They are used in the big lumber camps for logging, and must have the weight for good heavy pulling. In price this class ranges up to $250.

"Similar to the lumber mule is the railroader. Some lighter, but on the good heavy order, and from $15 to $20 cheaper. They are used in grading, hauling and all the work that is known in the construction of railroads. Sugar mules belong to the fancy class. They must be smooth, built rangy, small head and neck, small bones. In height from 15 to 16 hands, and in price from $165 to $210. Farm mules vary in size, but are formed from the rejected ones of the foregoing classes. Their prices range $10 to $25 lower.

"The miners are the hardest class to supply. They must be either dark bay or black in color. White and sorrel mules are never used. When the mines have long shafts, in the Pennsylvania coal regions especially, they say a white mule resembles a ghost and frightens the other mules beyond control. The pitters must be long in body, heavy boned and have good weight. They range from 12 to 15.2 hands and bring from $135 to $200, while for any other trade they would bring $50 less. Surface mules are used on the long hauls on top of ground. They are heavy, but taller, and have not such large bones.

"Levee mules, as the word implies, are used near steamboats and docks for the heavy work. They are generally single workers and must be of the rugged class. Their looks matter little so long as they are sound and fit for hard work. A city mule includes the small, light grades, such as you see on delivery and transfer wagons. The high prices in the last year have reduced the number greatly.

"The government buys all classes of mules, but that is done according to contract and prices hold a wide range. They never buy a low-priced animal and they are rigid in their examinations."

ALL ONE PIECE OF WOOD.

Remarkable Feature of the Washington Exhibit at the Portland Exposition.

Portland, Ore.—A cross section cut from a fir tree 13 feet in diameter forms the floor of an office of tree furniture which has attracted a great deal of attention in the Washington state building at the Lewis and Clark exposition. The big tree from which the 13-foot section was cut grew in Snohomish county, Washington.

The cross section is about a foot thick with the upper surface polished, so that it makes an excellent floor. On it are several other cross sections of smaller trees, which do service as chairs. They are of cedar. Some of the stumps thus utilized are cut off and polished to form stools, while others have been so carved as to make a comfortable chair with a back.

The oddest feature of this exhibit is a typewriter desk made of a single fir log standing on end. The log forms a cylinder about four feet high and three feet thick, with a polished top. One side has been cut away underneath, so that there is plenty of room for the stenographer's knees.

In another part of the Snohomish section a log six feet in diameter has been used to make a seat. The log has been carved so that a post a foot in diameter is left in the center to form a back, and the effect is similar to that produced when a seat is built around a tree.

Club of Deaf Persons.

One of the most curious clubs on record has recently been formed by society ladies in Berlin. The principal condition for membership is that the applicant must be deaf. The club has over 100 members, who meet regularly once a week in handsomely furnished rooms in the Wilhelm Strasse, where they converse by means of ear trumpets and the sign language and drink tea.

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

INSTITUTE IN SESSION

Small Atteadaace At The Morning Session Bnt Goodly Nnmber Present Ia The Afternoon.

A corps of speakers, demonstrators, etc., nrrived here this morning and held n session of the state farmers' institute at the Metropnlitan opera house during the day.

The work commenced about eleven o'clock, and while the mnrning attendance was small those that were present took great interest in the work.

A better attendnuce was noticeable at the opening of the session this afternoon, but the Gazette goes to press too early to give any particulars of the work done.

These institutes are an excellent thing for any community, and it is to be regretted that there were not 500 farmers in the hall today to listen to the many valuable suggestions made.

Country School Progressing.

At the meeting of the school officers of District 81, in Terrebonne, this week, it was voted to hold a two rnom semi-graded school hereafter and will be made to carry out the new idea immediately. This move is a very good one and will entitle the district tn $225 stnte aid next year. This is the district that recently built the cement block school house, and a basket social was held there the other evening that netted $28.45 for a new hell. District 81 is showing a commendable spirit aad are setting an example that could be followed profitably hy other schools in the county.

GETS OFF EASY.

Bullock, of Thief River Falls, Pays For Only Five Dncks.

Attorney W. B. Douglass, of Minneapolis, was in Warren last week where he was engaged in the trial of the Bullock duck shooting case. Bullock, as told in the Gazette some time ago, was caught up in Thief River for having more ducks in his possession than the law allowed. The court had partially selected a jury fnr the trial when Mr. Bullock decided to plead guilty and was fined fifty dollars and the costs in the snit. Bullock entered his plea on the hasis of five ducks in excess and he was charged ten dollars apiece and costs. The sentiment in the north country is strongly against the slaughter of game contrary to the law and the wardens are pushing themselves into the hunting regions to see that the law is strictly adhered to.

SHOT HIS BROTHER.

Small Boy With Unloaded Gnn Does More Damage.

Plummer Pioneer: Bennie, the 11-year-old son of Sever Maaren, was accidentally shot in the abdomen by a bullet from a 22-calibre revolver in the hands of his hrother, aged 14, on Tuesday afternoon. It seems that the boys were playing around the table after dinner the older one having the revolver in his hand, of course, he didn't know it was loaded, and he playfully pulled the trigger. The weapon was discharged and the bullet striking a plate, glanced off and pierced the little fellows abdomen.

Dr. Gamhell was summoned from Thief River Falls aud arrived early Wednesday morning. He made a careful examination and located the hullet, but as there was no evidence of perforation of the intestines he decided that it was best uot to operate for the removal of the bnllet. He dressed the wound carefnlly and the little fellow is resting easy nnd seems not to be very much inconvenienced by the leaded pill which he took so unexpectedly.

In answer Col. R. A. Wilkinson stated that there was no intention to tear up the tracks either at present or in the future and that the present train service would be continned indefinately. As the railroad and warehouse commission has already rnled that the present train service was adequate for the present needs of Wylie and the surroundiug country there was nothing else to contend for and action was dropped the attitude of the Great Northern being satisfactory to the petitioners. Asst. Attorney Geueral Royal A. Stone, of St. Paul, and County Attorney Germo represeuted the petitioners for the injunctiou and Col. Wilkinson appeared for the railroad company.

THREE CRIMINAL CASES

Busy Week For Distriot Court Commences Monday—Calendar Will Be Cleaned Up Before Adjournment.

The adjonrned term of the Red Lake connty district court will convene here Monday, and all of the remaining cases on the calendar will be taken np and disposed of.

Three criminal cases, on indictments returned by the grand jnry, will likely come up for trial during the week and with the other hnsiness hefore it the conrt mill will he griding all of the week.

Frank Cernonsek, a former policeman at Thief River Falls. will be tried for manslanghter, which will he the first case of this nature to come before the court in this county for several years. Cernonsek shot and killed a man named Danielson who was resisting arrest, but sentiment seems to be in his favor, nnd most people nt Thief River Falls think it was doue in self defense. The case will he stubbornly fonght, as the state has a nnmber of good witnesses.

Wm. Farley, a Crookstou peddler, was indicted last week for indecent assanlt, and his trial will also come off during the conrt term next week. Mr. Farley is confident that he cau clear himself when his case comes up, while the prosecution announces a strong case against him.

Casper Weiner, of Thief River Falls, has retaiued Attorney Mabey of that city to fight his side of the case pending against him. The friends of Mr. Weiner are confident that he can clear himself of the charge of violating the game laws, while the strength of the state's case is not known.

The civil calendar contains many cases not yet acted upon, and altogether it means a bnsy week.

Hard Job For Rev. Knox.

Thief River News: Rev. Knox, of Red Lake Falls, will hold a number of revival meetings in the town of Rollis commencing on the evening of December 5. The doctrine of brotherly love has not heen a popnlar one in that town, bnt we trust the genial Knox will make it so.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At W. A. Schreiter's drug store, price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at W. A. Schreiter's drug store; price 50c.

PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

Julius Pleth made a couple of business trips to Red Lake Falls the first days of the week.

Olaf Leen left on Wednesday for Lake Park where he will spend ten days or so visiting with friends.

Buttermaker Lauritzon went to Red Lake Falls Monday to take his place on the grand jury at the term of court in session there this week.

H. C. Selden, of the Selden Lumber Company, visited here Sunday and Monday while on one of his regular tours of inspection of his lumber yards in Northern Minnesota.

Martin Olson died last Friday morning at the Deaconess hospital in Grand Forks after a long and painful illness. The funeral occurred Sunday at Grand Forks. Deceased was a nephew of Mrs. E. K. Gjernes, of Garnes.

Ralph Green and Oscar Lindberg were in on Tuesday from their homes east of here. Mr. Green marketed some grain from his fine farm in Equality and hauled home a load of lumber for Mr. Lindberg to build on his reservation claim.

Hon. L. C. Simons was out yesterday from Red Lake Falls to look over the business done at the First State Bank here.

M. Hammer was down from Thief River Falls yesterday to look after threshing operations on his farm northwest of Plummer. He was very unfortunate with his grain this year and hardly got enough to pay for threshing.

Mrs. Chas. W. Latts and children went to Crookston last Saturday and remained until Thursday visiting with her parents. On her return she was accompanied by her cousin, Miss Emily U. Clark, of Seattle, Wash., who will remain for an extended visit. They drove from Red Lake Falls and when close to Plummer the buggy broke in two the team running away with and demolishing the front part. The body of the rig with its load remained stationary and no one was hurt.

Threshing operations have been pretty general throughout this portion of the country during the past couple of weeks and in some cases the yield found has been very large, though the quality is not the best. Wheat grades about No. 3 on the average, while flax and oats are of better quality. The banner yield reported so far is that of K. G. Whalen, of Equality, who, on one field of oats, had a yield of seventy two and one half bushels per acre.

A grand Thanksgiving ball will be given in Reed's hall in Plummer on Wednesday evening, the 29th inst. The music will be furnished by Fraund's orchestra from Red Lake Falls. Arrangements are being made to take care of a big crowd and lunch will be served at midnight. Every effort will be made to make this the biggest and best dance of the season and a general invitation is extended to all.

ST. HILAIRE

[From the Spectator.]

Miss Selina Hoff was at Thief River Falls last Wednesday visiting with friends.

The passenger train will arrive one hour and ten minutes later, commencing next Monday.

S. M. Sivertson, of the Red Lake Falls Milling Co., was a business visitor here Wednesday.

Mrs. W. A. Arthur came in from the reservation claim on Thursday, where she had been spending a week.

Hon. L. C. Simons was up from Red Lake Falls last Wednesday to attend the Merchant's State Bank annual meeting.

Miss Henriette Hennemuth, one of the Red Lake Falls teachers, was here last Monday visiting with Miss Catherine Pireth.

Miss Blanche and Chet Gebott left on Monday for their old home at Ludington, Michigan, where they will make an extended visit.

Jens Nelson, Chas. Fellman and J. S. Soll returned on Monday from their hunting trip with one deer which fell to the gun of Chas. Fellman.

Charley Fellman was out hunting the other day looking for big game and he found it, in a big moose. The moose was only a few rods away and Charley had a gun which he must have taken for a dice box. Anyway the moose got away and Charley has been busy ever since telling that it was not the buck fever that bothered him.

The boys down at the saw mill have commenced to think that they are on a winter's job as there are no signs of quitting. The logs are now coming into the mill in fine condition, free from ice, and a large amount of lumber is being manufactured. The demand for lumber still continues to be big and the management will keep the mill at work as long as the weather will permit. The latest the mill ever run was last fall, Nov. 21st, and it looks now as if this record would be broken.

DEATH LIST IS LARGE

HUNDRED AND TWENTY-EIGHT LIVES LOST BY SINKING OF BRITISH STEAMER.

Vessel Goes Ashore Off the Coast of France During a Severe Snow Storm, the Boilers Exploding When the Vessel Struck, Giving Those on Board No Opportunity to Save Their Lives.

London, Nov. 21.—One hundred and twenty-eight persons lost their lives in the wreck of the London and Southwestern Railway company's steamer Hilda on the northern coast of France Saturday night according to an official estimate just given out by the officers of the company. This death roll includes twenty-one saloon passengers, eighty French onion sellers, and twenty-seven of the crew.

VESSEL BROKEN IN TWO.

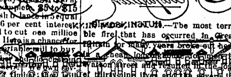
Hilda's Boilers Exploded When Vessel Struck the Rocks.

Paris, Nov. 20.—Special reports received here of the wreck of the steamer Hilda, which left Southampton Friday night for St. Malo, France, and was totally wrecked on Les Portes reef outside the Jardin lighthouse with the loss of over 100 lives, give a graphic description of the disaster.

Owing to the rough sea, together with a thick snow storm, the captain of the Hilda probably took the buoy light on the rocks for the St. Malo lighthouse. He gave signals which were not seen by harbor employes, and then the steamer proceeded slowly towards the light. When the Hilda struck the rocks the steamer's boilers exploded and she was cut in two, giving the passengers no time to save their lives. Seven bodies wearing lifebelts were stranded on the village of St. Cast. The coast near St. Malo is covered with wreckage and some cattle. Two-thirds of the Hilda's passengers were French farmers returning to France with heavy sums in gold from the sale of their yearly harvest of onions and potatoes. The others were English families who were going to spend the winter at Dinard. The wreck lies on the beach three miles off St. Malo, showing only her main mast and forecastle.

FATAL GLASGOW FIRE

THIRTY-NINE PERSONS PERISH IN A BLAZE IN A CHEAP LODGING HOUSE.



Glasgow, Nov. 19.—The most terrible fire that has occurred in Great Britain for many years broke out here in a cheap lodging house on [illegible] Watson street and resulted in the loss of thirty-nine lives and the severe [illegible] of [illegible] others.

The flames were [illegible] early in the morning on the [illegible] floor of the building, which was occupied by 330 men. An alarm was raised and the firemen responded quickly, but flames and smoke were then issuing from most of the windows of the fourth floor.

A procession of almost naked men rushed out of the entrance to the building and against their frantic efforts to escape the firemen had actually to fight for admission.

The dead men were mostly workmen in the prime of life. They presented a horrible spectacle, their blackened faces bearing evidence of terrible struggles to escape.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER TURBIN [illegible] NOVA SCOTIA.

[illegible] Harbor, N. [illegible] N. [illegible].—The [illegible] steamer Turbin, with her captain and crew of [illegible] men, is thought to have foundered in a terrible [illegible] last Friday. The coasting steamer Edna B., which [illegible] day from Mud Island, brought news that on Friday about 5 p. m. a large steamer supposed to be the Turbin struck Black Rock ledge off the south coast of the province, backed off in a few minutes and then disappeared in the raging sea. Persons on the island who saw the steamer strike on the ledge were a considerable distance away, and owing to the tremendous sea running it was impossible to launch a boat.

Former Governor Odell Repudiates Hyde's Testimony.

New York, Nov. 17.—Former Governor Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., and United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew as witnesses before the Armstrong legislative insurance investigating committee during the day denied parts of the testimony of James Hazen Hyde in which their names were used. Mr. Odell, in the course of his testimony, called Mr. Hyde's statements "base calumny" and when he was asked whether he directly or indirectly had made threats to have the charter of the Mercantile Trust company revoked his face flushed and, striking the arm of the witness chair with his fist, he exclaimed: "There is no truth in that statement, so help me God."

Mr. Odell said he had never solicited political contributions, but possibly some moneys might have come to him through the national committee or Senator Thomas C. Platt, as the latter had always gathered together the funds in New York state except in the last year.

Senator Depew was examined with regard to his syndicate participation and his duties as counsel to the Equitable society. Regarding the ambassadorship to Paris, Senator Depew said Mr. Hyde came to him and solicited his influence to secure appointment. Senator Depew brought the matter to the attention of the president, although he told Mr. Hyde that he was too young and the president said it was utterly impossible to make such an appointment.

The Brazell Coal company has been sinking the new shaft and Boss Barnes [illegible] and his six men descended. They were building a concrete water ring, or ditch, fifty feet down the shaft in order to catch dripping water.

BY LARGE MAJORITY

BOARD OF CONSULTING ENGINEERS FAVORS SEA LEVEL CANAL AT PANAMA.

Recommendation Is Accepted It Means Extra Cost for Construction and More Time in Building, but Future Generations Will Reap the Benefit by Securing a Shorter Route Across the Isthmus.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The board of consulting engineers of the isthmian canal commission has declared itself by a large majority in favor of a sea level canal.

The conclusion was reached after a long and careful study of the project. Since the beginning of September the board had studied the plans for a sea level and a lock canal with great care. A trip to the isthmus was made to enable the members to form a better idea of the physical difficulties which had to be considered.

The members of the board are men of the greatest reputation in their line of work. France, Germany and Holland had sent their most eminent specialist at the request of the American government.

From the beginning it was evident that a majority of the members was in favor of a sea level canal. Their point of view was that, even if it cost more than a lock canal and would take longer in the building, it would ultimately be of greater use as it will enable ships to [illegible]

[illegible] opinion as we saw our way to do it."

No official statement will be given out before the report of the commission reaches President Roosevelt, which will be about January.

TORPEDO BOAT SUNK

DISASTER OCCURS DURING GERMAN NAVAL MANEUVERS IN KIEL BAY.

Kiel, Nov. 18.—Torpedo boat "S 126" collided during the night near Buelk with the small cruiser Undine. The torpedo boat sunk and one officer and thirty-two seamen are missing.

The disaster occurred during the maneuvers in Kiel bay. A torpedo boat division was making a regulation attack upon the Undine, which had blinded her lights. Later she suddenly used her searchlight, which confused the helmsman of the "S 126." The torpedo boat got under the bow and was struck amidships, causing the boiler of the "S 126" to explode. The suddenness of the catastrophe explains the great number of victims. It is believed that all the missing members of the crew were killed or drowned. Several officers were rescued. A number of tugs and small cruisers [illegible] have gone to the scene of the disaster, where the Undine is still anchored.

The accident occurred in the midst of a driving snow storm and the night was very dark. The torpedo boat sank in four minutes.

REPORTS EXAGGERATED.

Russia's False Emperor Has Very Few Followers.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18.—Dispatches received here from Penza give only a confused account of the agrarian disorders in that province where a false emperor is said to have appeared.

The reports from Penza mention the existence of a false emperor, but give only scant details of the number of his followers, which evidently was largely overestimated. An order has been issued placing that province as well as the province of Saratov under the authority of General Sakharoff.

Carnegie Pays $1,000 for a Meal.

Pittsburg, Nov. 18.—Fred Fleck, an old locomotive engineer of the Pennsylvania road, says he has received a letter from Andrew Carnegie enclosing a check for $1,000 as pay for a luncheon [illegible] years ago when, while riding [illegible] the engine, Mr. Carnegie, it appears, was ravenously hungry, and gladly dined on the contents of Fleck's dinnerpail.

DEATH LIST IS LARGE

HUNDRED AND TWENTY-EIGHT LIVES LOST BY SINKING OF BRITISH STEAMER.

Vessel Goes Ashore Off the Coast of France During a Severe Snow Storm, the Boilers Exploding When the Vessel Struck, Giving Those on Board No Opportunity to Save Their Lives.

London, Nov. 21.—One hundred and twenty-eight persons lost their lives in the wreck of the London and Southwestern Railway company's steamer Hilda off the northern coast of France Saturday night, according to an official estimate just given out by the officers of the company. This death roll includes twenty-one saloon passengers, eighty French onion sellers, and twenty-seven of the crew.

VESSEL BROKEN IN TWO.

Hilda's Boilers Exploded When Vessel Struck the Rocks.

Paris, Nov. 20.—Special reports received here of the wreck of the steamer Hilda, which left Southampton Friday night for St. Malo, France, and was totally wrecked on Les Portes reef, outside the Jardin lighthouse, with the loss of over 100 lives, give a graphic description of the disaster. Owing to the rough sea, together with a thick snow storm, the captain of the Hilda probably took the buoy light on the rocks for the St. Malo lighthouse. He gave signals which were not seen by harbor employes and then the steamer proceeded slowly towards the light. When the Hilda struck the rocks the steamer's boilers exploded and she was cut in two, giving the passengers no time to save their lives. Seven bodies wearing lifebelts were stranded off the village of St. Cast. The coast near St. Malo is covered with wreckage and some cattle. Two-thirds of the Hilda's passengers were French farmers returning to France with heavy sums in gold from the sale of their yearly harvest of onions and potatoes. The others were English families who were going to spend the winter at Dinard. The wreck lies on the beach three miles off St. Malo, showing only her main mast and forecastle.

FATAL GLASGOW FIRE

THIRTY-NINE PERSONS PERISH IN A BLAZE IN A CHEAP LODGING HOUSE.

Glasgow, Nov. 20.—The most terrible fire that has occurred in Great Britain for many years broke out here in a cheap lodging house for men in Watson street and resulted in the loss of thirty-nine lives and the severe injury of [illegible] others.

The flames were noticed early in the morning on the fourth floor of the building, which was occupied by 330 men. An alarm was raised and the firemen responded quickly, but flames and smoke were then issuing from most of the windows of the fourth floor.

A procession of almost naked men rushed out of the entrance to the building and against their frantic efforts to escape the firemen had actually to fight for admission.

The dead men were mostly workmen in the prime of life. They presented a horrible spectacle, their blackened faces bearing evidence of terrible struggles to escape.

[illegible] Harbor, N. [illegible].—The Norwegian steamer Turbin, with her captain and crew of [illegible] men, is thought to have foundered in a terrible [illegible] off [illegible] Nova Scotia last Friday. The coasting steamer Edna B., which arrived here during the day from Mud Island, brought news that on Friday about 5 p. m. a large steamer supposed to be the Turbin struck Black Rock ledge off the south coast of the province, backed off in a few minutes and then disappeared in the raging sea. Persons on the island who saw the steamer strike on the ledge were a considerable distance away, and owing to the tremendous sea running it was impossible to launch a boat.

Former Governor Odell Repudiates Hyde's Testimony.

New York, Nov. 17.—Former Governor Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., and United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew as witnesses before the Armstrong legislative insurance investigation committee during the day denied parts of the testimony of James Hazen Hyde in which their names were used. Mr. Odell, in the course of his testimony, called Mr. Hyde's statements "base calumny" and when he was asked whether he directly or indirectly had made threats to have the charter of the Mercantile Trust company revoked his face flushed and, striking the arm of the witness chair with his fist, he exclaimed: "There is no truth in that statement, so help me God."

Mr. Odell said he had never solicited political contributions, but possibly some moneys might have come to him through the national committee or Senator Thomas C. Platt, as the latter had always gathered together the funds in New York state except in the last year.

Senator Depew was examined with regard to his syndicate participation and his duties as counsel to the Equitable society. Regarding the ambassadorship to Paris, Senator Depew said Mr. Hyde came to him and solicited his influence to secure appointment. Senator Depew brought the matter to the attention of the president, although he told Mr. Hyde that he was too young and the president said it was utterly impossible to make such an appointment.

The Braznell Coal company has been sinking the new shaft and Boss Haornegut and his six men descended. They were building a concrete water ring, or ditch fifty feet down the shaft in order to catch dripping water.

BY LARGE MAJORITY

BOARD OF CONSULTING ENGINEERS FAVORS SEA LEVEL CANAL AT PANAMA.

Recommendation Is Accepted It Means Extra Cost for Construction and More Time In Building but Future Generations Will Reap the Benefit by Securing a Shorter Route Across the Isthmus.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The board of consulting engineers of the isthmian canal commission has declared itself by a large majority in favor of a sea level canal.

The conclusion was reached after a long and careful study of the project. Since the beginning of September the board had studied the plans for a sea level and a lock canal with great care. A trip to the isthmus was made to enable the members to form a better idea of the physical difficulties which had to be considered.

The members of the board are men of the greatest reputation in their line of work. France, Germany and Holland had sent their most eminent specialist at the request of the American government.

From the beginning it was evident that a majority of the members was in favor of a sea level canal. Their point of view was that, even if it cost more than a lock canal and would take longer in the building, it would ultimately be of greater use as it will enable ships to

Make a Much Shorter Trip

Than if they were obliged to go through three or four locks. On the other hand there was a minority which wanted to see the canal built in as short a time as possible and with the least cost, declaring that a few hours longer for the trip through the isthmus made little or no difference. One of the members gave this explanation for his way of voting:

"[illegible] may be [illegible] not see the sea level canal finished in our life time, as it will take considerably longer than ten years. But then we have the satisfaction of knowing that for all the generations to follow we have made the shortest and most practical way of communication between the Pacific and the Atlantic and as long as we had to decide on that question for all eternity we do not think that a few years more or less makes a very important difference. That is the way our party thought about it and whatever may be said in favor of it or against it we have after the most careful study given an opinion as we saw our way to do it."

No official statement will be given out before the report of the commission reaches President Roosevelt, which will be about January.

TORPEDO BOAT SUNK

DISASTER OCCURS DURING GERMAN NAVAL MANEUVERS IN KIEL BAY.

Kiel, Nov. 18.—Torpedo boat "S 126" collided during the night near Buelk with the small cruiser Undine. The torpedo boat sunk and one officer and thirty-two seamen are missing.

The disaster occurred during the maneuvers in Kiel bay. A torpedo boat division was making a regulation attack upon the Undine, which had blinded her lights. Later she suddenly used her searchlight, which confused the helmsman of the "S 126" and the torpedo boat got under the Undine's bow and was struck amidships, causing the boiler of the "S 126" to explode. The suddenness of the catastrophe explains the great number of victims. It is believed that all the missing members of the crew were killed or drowned. Several under officers were rescued. A number of tugs and small cruisers and [illegible] have gone to the scene of the disaster, where the Undine is still anchored.

The accident occurred in the midst of a driving snow storm and the night was very dark. The torpedo boat sank in four minutes.

REPORTS EXAGGERATED

Russia's False Emperor Has Very Few Followers.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18.—Dispatches received here from Penza give only a confused account of the agrarian disorders in that province, where a false emperor is said to have appeared. The reports from Penza mention the existence of a false emperor, but give only scant details of the number of his followers, which evidently was largely overestimated. An order has been issued placing that province as well as the province of Saratoff under the authority of General Sakharoff.

Signs of the coming election year are already apparent. The ever-industrious office seeker is already taking notice of the babies while on their daily parades.

With the sun beating down on your back as warm as in the middle of August—who isn't glad that he's a resident of Minnesota, and best of all the Red River Valley.

"Minnesota has six living ex-governors," says Miss News and Comment in the Duluth News-Tribune. And it might also be added that there are several "also rans".

Charles B. Cheney, the "Minnesota Politics" man of the Minneapolis Journal is contributing some interesting articles on next year's political battle. Cheney by getting in training early hopes to be so hard ened that a smashing "umbrella" attack wont feaze him by the time the fight gets interesting.

The Red River Valley is again in the lime-light. This time it is because the farmers of this greatest wheat section have been plowing up to date, while the farther south sections have dug up their fur coats and snow shovels. There may be better parts of the great old country than this same great Red River Valley, but if there are they have never yet been discovered.

Early convention talk is already going the rounds. The argument advanced is that the republican nominee ought to have plenty of time for a campaign to get the people acquainted with him. Governor Johnson is before the people all the time and so has an advantage. The argument is all right provided the republican nominee is the kind that will bear close acquaintance, says the "Minnesota Politics" man in the Journal.

A prominent Representative of this part of the state is starting a boom for ex-Attorney General Wallace B. Douglass for candidate for candidate for governor on the Republican ticket next year, and it said that offers of friendship and support are being fired at Mr. Douglass very rapidly from all parts of the state. It is sure that there is no cleaner man in the Republican party, or one who could fill the position with greater ability, and should Mr. Douglass decide to get into the game he would undoubtedly find strong backing.

"Vocal or instrumental music as a therapentic agent has been found by Dr. F. S. Kennedy to be a valuable aid in cases of melancholia, insomnia, hysteria, family affliction, business reverses, delirium, pain and mental or physical fatigue. A German physician has also successfully used music to lessen the distress and after-effects from anesthetics," remarks an exchange. We have all listened to music that had a tendency to drive one to all the above afflictions before now, and if it is true that it will also cure them it serves a double purpose in life, and literally catches us a comin' and a-goin'.

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT.

Every dollar possible for permanent improvement and a penny for repairs. Until this becomes the underlying principle of our road laws we can expect to endure poor country roads, says the Alexandria Post News. The system which encourages extensive repairs is entirely wrong. It has bred the poorest roads that can be found anywhere in the civilized world. Hennepin and Ramsey counties have taken a step in advance of the rest of the state. At the last session of the legislature, through the influence of the gond roads association, a law was passed reducing the amount available for repair work to the lowest sum possible and appropriating the bulk of the money for permanent roads. The result is already felt in Ramsey county. Without exceeding the usual annual expenditure, the county commissioners have built several miles of macadam road, using but a small sum for repairs. The merchants in that section of the city, in which the permanent roads have been constructed, find that the business has been materially benefited. Prior to this time, the county had expended annually some thirty thousand dollars for expensive repairs, which lasted but one season. Ramsey county has heen fortunate in having a few men like County Commissioner Matt Jensen to preach the gospel of good roads. If the law could be made applicable to the smaller counties, the country districts will have taken a long step towards a needed reform.

Another movement which promises reform is that of national aid for good roads, as provided in the Brownlow-Latimer bill. Every country on earth that has good roads secured them by recognizing road building as a legitimate function of the government. The old system of working out the poll tax is doomed.

The seizure by the game authorities of a pet fawn owned by a settler in the north woods, caused the St. Paul Dispatch man to remark thusly: "We think we should take that fawn into town along with the cat and the baby, and defy the game authorities to shoot one of the three, or us." These appear to be the sentiments of nearly all who have taken note of the incident, and its too bad that the owner of the fawn didn't have backbone enough to stand fight. There are unjust crimes committed in the name of the "game commission" every day in the year, and all would be too glad to see this officious bunch of office grabbers run against a snag occasionally.

The Jackson Pilot last week made a little remark about those republican newspapers which were so sure before the votes were counted last year that R. C. Dunn would be elected. We also recall that the editor of the Pilot, like the editors of the Fairmont Sentinel and the Red Lake Courier, could not say enough nice things about Dunn in the early days of the campaign when he was contesting the nomination with Judge L. W. Collins, but never had a word of kindness or courtesy to say of him afterwards says the Lakefield Standard. When all is said and done, it is better when we have anything to say in behalf of a man, that we mean it or leave it unsaid.

Grand Forks will have a new daily—The Times—which will be launched on the uncertain journalistic sea about the first of January. Editor Winship's Herald has not just suited the ideas of North Dakota's big bunch of "machine politicians" and it will be their aim to try and offset the Herald's influence with the new organ. Sam Small, formerly of the Devils Lake Inter-Ocean, will be managing editor of the new sheet, and its backers will include a long list of the best known Republicans of the Flickertail state. Some $40,000 will be invested in the new plant, and the people of North Dakota will not worry over the lack of something doing in the newspaper line when the paper gets into the running.

In these days of discussion over the most sought accomplishments of a wife for the up-to-date young man, the following bright thoughts from the pen of the versatile Mary McFadden, of the Duluth Tribune, are worthy of more than passing consideration, and as usual Miss Mary is surely right: "After you get married young lady" says a wise exchange, "it is just as well to remember that cooking is a finer art than thumping a piano." And while you are remembering, young lady, don't forget that if you neglect to make use of your accomplishments and social graces for the purpose of attending too faithfully to the art of cooking, your husband, well fed and in the mood to be entertained, may seek the society of others not too tired to play the piano and sing to him."

Parenteau Gets Ditch Contract.

Last Friday County Auditor Fulton, of Norman county, let the contract for digging the Winchester drainage ditch No. 10. The successful bidder was Louis Parenteau, of Terrebonne, and the bid was $3,179. The contract calls for the completion of the work by Dec. 1 1906, but Parenteau intends to start on the western end of the ditch this fall if the weather remains favorable. A crew which recently finished a job in Clay county will be put on this job. The ditch is about 5 miles long. It is estimated by the engineer that the ditch would cost $3,375.75. Under the law this estimate could not be exceeded by 30 per cent by the bidders. It was exceeded about 10 per cent.

Delightful Gathering of County Teachers.

By Charles Moller.

The members of the Teachers Protective Association held their first meeting this year at Thief River Falls, on November 3 and 4. The meeting was well attended and proved a success although no definite program had been arranged. Miss Helen Dow, teacher of language, and Miss Harriet Rumball, teacher of reading, both of the State Normal at Moorhead were present and much of the success may be attributed to the help rendered by them.

Upon order of Superintendent J. H. Hay, the schools of Thief River Falls were closed and all the city teachers attended. Mr. Hay takes great interest in this work and will be of much help to this organization.

The afternoon of Friday was devoted to language under the leadership of Miss Dow, who introduced the subject with an elaborate discourse, explaining a list of suggestive exercises in preparation of oral and written language work. A copy of this list was given to each teacher. It is but stating a mere fact to say that great benefit was derived from this discourse.

A number of teachers also brought language work which had been prepared in their schools. These were taken up and commented upon by Miss Dow.

Friday evening Miss Rumball entertained a large, appreciative audience in Evenson hall by reading three selected numbers—Purple Eyes, The Petteson Twins and Scenes from Othello, in which four characters were introduced. Miss Rumball is a lady of great ability in this line and held the audience from start to finish. Music was furnished by Mrs. Wright and Misses Adler, Brady and Remstad.

The forenoon of Saturday was given to writing. The subject was introduced by Mr. Hay. Later in the forenoon he gave a talk to the teachers. It was full of advice and seemed to be in line with what teachers think and feel but seldom express.

The subject of Ventilation was taken up briefly by Supt. McAnulty. He illustrated what he had to say with a sample of ventilation which he is having placed in the country schools.

A short business session was held Saturday afternoon. The teachers showed their feelings by the following resolution:

That Whereas, The Almighty has seen fit to remove from our midst our esteemed friend and member, Dora Marchand,—be it hereby resolved

That We, the members of the T. P. A., have by her untimely death, lost a noble co-worker and faithful member.

That we tender to her bereaved relatives the heartfelt sympathy and condolence of the T. P. A.

And be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be published in the Red Lake Courier and Red Lake Falls Gazette.—Committee.

The following were present besides the faculty of the Thief River Falls schools:

Supt. H. T. McAnulty, Annesy Crompe, Eugenia Perrault, Florence Columbus, Emma Lonson, Grace Meehan, Clara Richard, Mary McGinn, Katie McAnulty, Marius Rolland, Carl Schusser, Rose Helm, Lerraine Longtin, W. J. Harlow, Walter Johnson, Annie Fullman, Gusta Satre, Caroline Netteland, Louis Roy, Anna Conelly, Otto Olson, Theo. Roy, Clara Berg, Edith Quist, Clara Cyr, M. Clare Allison, Frank Shanahan, Charles Moller.

The next meeting will be held in Red Lake Falls, on the last Friday in January. The committee have a program nearly prepared which will he published later.

Andrew Brosvick, recently given an honorable discharge from the United States navy service, was robbed of $285 in a Minneapolis lodginghouse.

Mrs. Anne Schwertz, sixty-five years old, committed suicide in St. Paul by swallowing two ounces of carbolic acid. Mrs. Schwartz had been in ill health for some time and had been despondent.

Representative McCleary has secured the establishment of a federal meat inspection station at Mankato. The station will be in charge of an inspector from the bureau of animal industry.

Six boys, from fourteen to seventeen years of age, who have been rounded up by the Minneapolis police, have confessed to a long series of gas meter robberies and other acts of petty thievery.

The indications are that Selby hill, St. Paul, will be tunneled at a probable cost of $250,000 by the St. Paul street railway company. At present the cars are piloted up and down the steep hill by a "dummy."

While trying to separate two fighting dogs by beating them with the butt of a loaded gun the firearm was discharged and William J. Schultz, a butcher of Winona, was fatally wounded, dying an hour later.

Some one overcome by thirst crawled under the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul depot at Lyle, drilled a hole through a sixty-gallon barrel of whisky, put in a faucet and got away with about seven gallons.

Gustavs Knaehle, Jr., of Minneapolis, aged twenty-two years, despondent because his young wife had left him and feeling that his life was not worth living without her, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid.

John Hollstein of Two Harbors, proprietor of a pool and billiard hall there, committed suicide in the Lake county jail by hanging himself by his suspenders to the cell grating. He was locked up for drunkenness.

W. J. Gears, orderly at the Minneapolis city hospital, has been discharged for carrying a note from Mrs. James Brennan, accused of killing her three stepchildren, to Tommy Brennan, a fourth child, who was wounded.

Samuel Jacobson, who passed forged checks upon saloonkeepers at Mankato, has been sentenced to Stillwater for three years and four months. George Munro, his pal, goes to the reformatory at St. Cloud because of his youth.

Six men of Minneapolis, including an ex-mayor and a present state official, appeared before the women suffragists' state convention at the Unitarian church, Minneapolis, and argued in behalf of giving the ballot to the fair sex.

Two masked and heavily armed men entered the confectionery store of P. Schmitz at Minneapolis shortly after 10 o'clock at night and at the point of a revolver made the proprietor hand over all the cash in his possession, about $37.

Drainage work in Northern Minnesota is progressing at a satisfactory rate and is resulting in untold improvement in the condition of the widespread swamp districts of the northern counties, according to Governor Johnson and Secretary of State Hanson, who returned from the north Thursday night.

George E. Robinson, who was found dead in his bed Friday morning at his home near Robbinsdale, had been a resident of Minneapolis since 1866, was at one time county attorney of Hennepin county, at another president of the county bar association and was the oldest practicing attorney in Minneapolis.

Dr. Jacob F. Force, former vice president and director of the Northwestern National Life Insurance company, indicted on the charge of grand larceny in the first degree, has returned to Minneapolis from California and has pleaded not guilty to the charge. Bail was fixed at $5,000 and promptly furnished.

Mrs. James Brennan of Minneapolis, who is accused of the killing of three of her stepchildren and who was wounded at the same time herself, has been subjected to a surgical operation at the Minneapolis city hospital and the bullet was extracted from her body. She was then transferred from the hospital to the county jail.

Leon Rofidol, a bartender at the Coath Liquor company's saloon at Brainerd, has been taken into custody by Sheriff Erickson. He is believed to have some connection with the fracas in which T. O. Merrill, an old soldier and former resident of Anoka, was injured and who afterwards was found dead in a cell in the city jail.

Steps are to be taken by the Minnesota State Drainage league for the reclaiming of the 11,000,000 acres of state and federal lands in the northern part of the state. A. G. Barnard, president of the drainage league, is now in Washington, where he will petition congress for an appropriation for the drainage of the swamp lands.

The Y. M. C. A. of Duluth has completed a successful campaign to raise $150,000 for a new building. The subscriptions have overrun so that the total is about $180,000. It is said that more money is in sight if it shall be required, and the association is to have one of the best buildings owned by a similar association in the Northwest.

CONSERVATIVES CUT LOOSE.

Will Support Government in Effort to Restore Peace.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18.—The sudden awakening of the conservative and liberal elements to the imperative necessity for resisting to the utmost the attempt of the radicals and socialists, who are conducting the present strike, to obtain the upper hand has galvanized the leaders into action and has started a healthy movement in favor of entirely cutting loose from the radical wing. A number of leaders of the various groups have gone to Moscow to urge the zemstvo congress assembling there to unite all the forces which desire to prevent anarchy in condemning the political strike and to join in supporting the government in its efforts to restore tranquillity and introduce the new regime.

The government is able to take a firmer stand because of this reaction in public opinion. Count Witte believed that such a reaction must come, but he wisely waited until public sentiment showed a disposition to support the government before initiating energetic measures.

The break in the ranks of the strikers in Poland and the refusal of many organizations in the interior, especially those of the railroad men at Moscow, to strike on account of Poland and the fierce dissensions which have broken out among the workmen's leaders at St. Petersburg seems to doom the strike movement to failure and temporarily, at least, must inflict a defeat on the social democrats.

The object to be united action on social and moral questions and to give spiritual counsel and promote fellowship.

An executive committee to deal with the business of the council in the intervals between meetings.

Thirty denominations are to be in the federation at the outset and provision is made for the admission of others.

CAN'T KEEP PET.

Woe of a Homesteader's Family in the North Woods.

F. J. Morris, a Bear river valley homesteader, in St. Louis county, last spring found a little doe fawn, scarcely able to walk, staggering into his farm inclosure. Mrs. Morris took the waif in and by feeding it with warm milk from a bottle soon gave it strength. It soon showed no disposition to return to the woods to live in the wild stage, and it became a great pet of the children. Intending to remove with his family to Hibbing to spend the winter, and desiring to take the fawn along, Morris addressed State Game Warden Samuel F. Fullerton for permission. Mr. Fullerton replied that he could not grant permission to keep a deer in captivity. Morris now does not know what to do with his pet. If he leaves it behind it is almost sure to be killed by hunters before the year is out; if he takes it to town he is liable to arrest for violation of the state game laws, and he has not the heart to kill the little animal which voluntarily put its life in his hands.

Submits To An Operation.

A. G. Groshong went down to Crookston Saturday evening, where he entered St. Vincent's hospital to submit to an operation on the arm that has given him so much trouble of late. Several months back Mr. Groshong accidently scratched his arm quite severely on a piece of bone, and while nothing was thought of the injury at the time, it refused to heal and kept growing worse until it became necessary to consult a physician. A light form of blood poisoning had set in, and while this was apparently checked the sore did not heal, and instead of getting better has grown constantly worse, with the result that it was decided to have an operation performed. Dr. Wilkinson drove down to Crookston Sunday and assisted by Dr. Pleth of that city successfully operated on the member and Mr. Groshong is remaining there until all danger from further trouble is past. The operation was quite delicate, but the physicians are confident that they have removed the cause of the trouble and that Mr. Groshong will soon recover his lost strength. His many friends here will earnestly hope that such is the case.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the vile attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

COURT IS IN ACTION

Adjourned Term Of District Court For Red Lake County Finishing Up Work This Week.

The adjourned term of the District Court for Red Lake county is in session at the court house this week, but up to the hour of going to press (5 p. m. Wednesday) not much of the work has been disposed of.

In the case of Bancharel vs. Bachand, the judge on motion of attorney for the defendant ordered judgment entered in favor of plaintiff.

The case of the state of Minnesota vs. Frank Cernousek was taken up Wednesday morning and at this time the state has about closed its case. The defense will likely occupy most of the evening and it is thought that the case will go to the jury before midnight.

The replevin case of Seiff vs. Linnihan et al is set for trial immediately following the Cernonsek trial.

The cases of the State vs. Caspar Weiner and Wm. Farley will be up for trial tomorrow in all probability, and the judge hopes to get all of the work cleaned up so as to be at Crookston Monday when the Polk county court term sets.

The Gazette will give a full account of the cases tried in next week's paper.

Foresters Will Elect.

The Catholic Order of Foresters will hold their annual election of officers at their meeting on Friday evening, December 8, and a large attendance is looked for at that time.

St. Mary's Church.

The forty hours Adoration will be held at St. Mary's church December 10, 11 and 12. Several visiting priests will be present to add to the solemnity of the celebration. Two sermons will be delivered daily on subjects of vital interest to every one.

The forty hours Adoration is one of the most cherished devotions in the Catholic church because in it we give public expression of our faith in the Real Presence of Jesus Christ in the most holy Sacrement of the Altar. Besides this devotion has been enriched by many blessings and indulgences. A more detailed announcement will follow next week.—FR. ANSGAR.

HOMESTEAD TRAGEDY

Settler Living Ten Miles East Of Thief River Falls Blows Off His Head Last Friday.

Coroner Joseph Belair received a telephone message Saturday morning that a man had killed himself at his claim home ten miles east of Thief River Falls, and Joe left for there at once, when in company with County Attorney Germo and Dr. Geo. Tupper he drove to the scene of the tragedy. Here he found Peter Martinson, a man about 30 years old, lying in a room stone dead, the whole top of his head having been blown off with a shot gun in his own hands.

An inquest was at once held on the remains, the coroner's jury finding as follows:

"That said Peter Martinson came to his death by reason of a gun-shot wound, which gun shot wound the said Peter Martinson inflicted upon himself at his home in Clover Leaf township Red Lake county, on the 24th day of November, 1905, by means of a weapon commonly known as a double-barreled shot gun."

The details of the affair are rather mixed, but it seems that Mrs. Martinson came to her nearest neighbor living a mile and a half from the scene of the shooting about 3 p. m. Friday afternoon, and told them that Martinson had killed their little six-year old niece who was living with them and then turned the gun on himself. The neighbors went hurriedly to the scene and found Martinson dead and the little girl quite badly hurt, and at once notified the authorities. Martinson and his wife had had trouble several times before, and it appears that when he came home Friday afternoon some trouble arose, when he went after his wife and the six-year old girl with a club, beating them both quite badly and then went into another room and grabbing a shot gun turned it upon himself. As soon as she could get out Mrs. Martinson notified the neighbors with the result that things were found as stated above.

Mrs. Martinson sued for a divorce about two years ago on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment, but the action was dropped and they moved from St. Hilaire to the reservation last fall.

The little girl was quite badly hurt, but is recovering.

A REAL OLD BLIZZARD

Northwest In The Embrace Of [redacted] uine Old Fashioned For A Couple Of Day

The northwest part of Minnesota enjoyed their first real touch of winter weather this week, when a genuine old fashioned, unqualified, Minnesota blizzard swept down upon us Monday, and during all that day and night and all of Tuesday continued in unabatable fury.

A constant fall of light snow accompanied by a very heavy northeast wind reminded some of us of the real old storms of boyhood days, and not in several years has this section of Minnesota been visited by as fierce a blizzard. Everywhere you can look the "beautiful" is piled up several feet high, and when the storm finally subsided the populace proceeded to dig them selves out of their snow covered homes and business places.

While the storm was very severe it was not accompanied by cold weather, and will result in practically no damage other than the suspension of a greater share of traffic for a few days. The snow of last week caused the farmers to get their cattle safely housed for the winter, and the storm of this week will not effect conditions in any way.

Passenger trains run regular through this part of the state, but farther west the storm is reported to have been much worse, and all railroad operations were suspended.

The abundance of snow will make fine sleighing when the roads are broken through, and from some standpoints the storm was probably a good thing, as it will make the roads in excellent shape for the farmers to do hauling that they have been unable to get done up to this time on account of the condition of the highways.

Wheat Spilled At Erskine.

In making a flying switch on the Soo road at Erskine three cars loaded with wheat were wrecked and the grain spilled in the ditch. The cause of the mix-up is not known. It is quite probable that it was caused by a defective switch or possibly in turning it before the cars had passed over entirely. At any rate, the chickens at Erskine are getting fat as a result and mostly at the Great Northern's expense, as it was a Great Northern crew that was doing the switching.

IN SUIT CASE MURDER.

Two of the Defendants Plead Guilty as Charged.

Boston, Nov. 27.—Louis W. Crawford and William E. Howard, alias Hunt, pleaded guilty during the day to charges of being accessories after the fact to the death of Susanna Geary, the victim of the Winthrop suit case tragedy. They will be sentenced later. Dr. Percy D. McLeod, who had pleaded not guilty to a charge of being accessory to the crime, was placed on trial. A jury was quickly obtained.

TOOK OUT SECURITIES

TREASURER OF NEW YORK LIFE REMOVED STOCKS FROM THE COMPANY'S VAULTS.

New York, Nov. 28.—One of the most interesting features of the life insurance investigation developed only a few moments before adjourning for the day of the Armstrong committee when Theodore F. Banta, cashier of the New York Life Insurance company, testified that about the beginning of 1901, Edmund D. Randolph, treasurer of the company, opened the vaults of the company, removed New York city stock valued at $700,000 and put a check on the Central National bank for $700,000 in its place. Mr. Banta said he helped to open the vaults at the order of Mr. Randolph and that he supposed Mr. Randolph acted for the finance committee. The stock was kept out for a few days and was then returned and the check withdrawn. The transaction was not recorded on the books of the company so far as Mr. Banta knew. The effect of the operation would be that anyone having that stock would have $700,000 worth of taxable property at the end of the year. Mr. Banta did not know who received the stock.

Mr. Randolph is expected to be one of the witnesses before the committee this week.

MAY REACH ENORMOUS TOTAL.

Peculations of Assay Office Cashier at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 25.—Late developments in the arrest of George Edward Adams, cashier in the United States assay office here, for embezzlement indicates that instead of stealing $35,000 in gold dust, to which he has confessed, his peculations may amount close to $100,000 and that instead of covering a period of six months they will run further back than 1903. Adams' bondsmen have withdrawn from the $30,000 bond given Thursday night and Adams was remanded to jail to await his preliminary hearing.

Several Alaska men have already informed the federal officials that they have been defrauded by some one in the assay office. One man declares that out of $6,000 in gold dust deposited there only $5,200 was returned to him.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at W. A. Schreiter's drug store; price 50c,

NEARLY A SCORE DEAD

EXPRESS TRAIN CRASHES INTO REAR OF PASSENGER TRAIN NEAR LINCOLN, MASS.

At Least Sixteen Persons Killed Outright, Burned to Death ar Suffocated and Twenty-five Sustain Serious Injuries—Inability to See Signals Because of Bad Weather Responsible for the Disaster.

Lincoln, Mass., Nov. 27.—Sixteen persons lost their lives in the rearend collision at Baker Bridge station on the main line of the Fitchburg division of the Boston and Maine railroad during the night. Twenty-five persons were more or less seriously injured and others sustained cuts and bruises.

Those who were witnesses of the collision say the local train, which consisted of four cars, three of them passenger coaches, had just pulled out of Baker Bridge depot, a small flag station about a mile and a half west of Lincoln station. Just west of the flag station is a highway bridge over the railroad. The train had entered a deep cut after passing under the bridge and the rear car had just cleared the structure when the heavy Montreal express, consisting of nine cars and two locomotives, crashed into the rear. The impact was terrific and probably a majority of those killed met death almost instantly. The forward locomotive telescoped the rear car and passed part of the way through the coach immediately ahead. The second car of the local train was also badly damaged, but the first car and locomotive escaped.

The leading engine of the express was practically destroyed in the collision and the work was completed when fire, which immediately broke out among the wreckage, consumed all the woodwork of the two rear cars, which remained on the roadbed, and incinerated a number of the victims. The fireman of the leading locomotive, Charles E. Barnard, was burned to death in his cab, but Engineer Conners managed to escape in some strange manner.

The second locomotive of the express was badly damaged. The engineer and fireman of this engine escaped injury and no person in the coaches of the Montreal train was injured. All the cars remained on the rails.

Helpless Victims Cremated.

Many of the passengers of this train assisted in the work of rescue. The glare of the burning wreck lighted the awful scene and above the hiss of escaping steam and the crackling of the flames arose the shrieks and groans of the victims and the excited cries of the rescuers. Several passengers in the rear car of the local train were caught in the ruins of the locomotive and coach and the flames prevented help from reaching them.

Calls for assistance and medical aid were sent to Boston, Concord and other places. The fire department of Lincoln arrived within half an hour, but the men were unable to make much impression on the burning pile. They succeeded, however, in saving portions of the third car.

When the accident occurred the local train was said to have been a few minutes late and, knowing that the express was close behind, it is claimed that the rear brakeman, Donor Gauthier, who was killed, set out red lights indicating danger. When the express train was at Lincoln station, about a mile and a half east of the scene of the wreck, the Montreal train was running at its usual rate of speed, estimated at all the way from thirty-five to fifty miles an hour. It is said that a signal calling for caution was set against the express at Lincoln station. The theory of railroad men is that smoke from the engine of the local train as it passed under the Baker highway bridge obscured the red lights in the rear. From the bridge all the way back to Lincoln station the track is straight. The night was dark and at times during the evening a mist hung over the tracks. Whatever the reason the first engineer of the Montreal train, whose duty it was to scan the signals, failed to observe any warnings.

SAILORS LAND AT MYTILENE.

Seize the Customs and Telegraph Offices There.

London, Nov. 28.—The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch from Mytilene:

"Eight warships of the combined fleet arrived here at 8 o'clock a. m. Admiral Ritter von Jedina, accompanied by the Austrian consul, proceeded to government house at 10:30 o'clock and handed an ultimatum to the governor. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon 800 sailors landed and seized the customs and telegraph offices. Everything is quiet."

NINE MEN KILLED.

Several Others Injured by an Explosion at Emporium, Pa.

Emporium, Pa., Nov. 28.—An explosion in the mixing house and in one of the packinghouses at the Keystone powder works during the day destroyed the entire works, killed nine men and injured several others. The dead are: James Joyce, John Butler, James Campbell, John Hamilton, Thomas Welch, James Murphy, Frank Harrington, John Bossie and William Sprung. Joseph Gainey had his leg and hip broken, being probably fatally injured.

KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Mrs. Francis Burton Harrison of New York City.

New York, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Francis Burton Harrison, wife of the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of New York at the last election, was killed in an automobile accident in Long Island City. Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Scott of San Francisco, who were with Mrs. Harrison, received internal injuries. Charles B. Crocker of New Haven, Conn., was also injured.

Mrs. Harrison was a daughter of Charles F. Crocker of San Francisco. The accident was due to a break in the steering gear while the automobile was traveling at rapid speed. The chauffeur could not control the machine, which, after a zigzagging course from side to side of the street, made a sharp turn, which upset it on the pavement. Mrs. Harrison was pinned under the heavy car, while the other members of the party were thrown clear of the machine. Mrs. Harrison lived until taken from under the machine and carried to a hospital.

Mrs. Harrison was one of three children who divided the fortune of between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 left by her father.

WAITING FOR TROOPS

RUSSIAN ADMIRAL SAYS WHEN THEY ARRIVE HE WILL ATTACK MUTINEERS.

Odessa, Nov. 28.—Governor General Kaulbars has received the following dispatch from Vice Admiral Chouknin, commanding the Black sea fleet:

"The mutineers left the Kniaz Potemkine during the day and the vessel is now in my hands. The sailors, together with the soldiers of the Brest regiment who mutinied, have shut themselves in the Lazareff barracks with some guns. When fresh troops arrive I shall attack, though I fear the artillerymen may join the mutineers.

"A very serious state of affairs prevails. Several officers have been killed."

According to the private dispatches from Sebastopol, Vice Admiral Chouknin has frustrated the design of the mutineers to seize the Black sea fleet and sail for Odessa by ordering all the gunlocks to be broken.

GIVEN ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME.

New King and Queen of Norway Enter Christiania.

Christiania, Nov. 25.—The state entry of King Haakon VII. and Queen Maud into Christiania took place during the afternoon. The new sovereigns were welcomed with every demonstration of good will. The weather was snowy and foggy, but the enthusiasm of the crowds was not dampened. The municipality and foreign ministers welcomed their majesties in a splendid pavilion erected at the quayside, after which the king and queen, with Crown Prince Olaf between them, drove to the castle through lavishly decorated streets thronged by cheering crowds. The royal entry was to have taken place during the morning, but owing to the fog the Danish royal yacht Dannebrog, which brought the royal party, was delayed. The escorting warships did not venture beyond Droebak for the same reason.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The supreme court of the United States has affirmed the decision of the United States district court of Vermont in the case of Mrs. Mary Mabel Rogers, who is under sentence of death in Vermont for the murder of her husband. The court held, in effect, that it was without jurisdiction in all the points raised.

CONVICTS IN MUTINY

TWO OFFICIALS AND ONE PRISONER KILLED IN BATTLE AT JEFFERSON CITY, MO.

Authorities Inclined to Believe That a General Uprising Had Been Planned, but Failed for Some Unknown Reason—Feared That a Large Number of Convicts Are Armed and That More Trouble May Follow.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 25.—A desperate attempt to escape from the state penitentiary was made by four convicts, resulting in a terrific battle with weapons and nitroglycerin at the prison gate, a running fight through the streets of Jefferson City and the final capture of the four convicts, two of whom were shot and one of whom died from his wounds. Two prison officers were shot dead and a third wounded. The dead are: John Clay, gatekeeper; E. Allison, officer of the commissary department; Hiram Blake, convict. The wounded are: R. E. Lee, deputy warden, seriously; Harry Vaughn, convict, St. Louis, slightly.

The prison authorities are inclined to believe that the mutiny had been arranged for a much larger scale and that it was to have been a general uprising, but for some reason the plans did not fully carry out. This leads to general uneasiness within the prison, as it is feared that a large number of the convicts are secretly armed with weapons and explosives and more trouble may follow when the present excitement has died down. It is known that for a long time the prison officers have feared an outbreak, although the reason for this fear could not be centered upon any definite occurrence or attributed to any set of prisoners.

FAMILY WIPED OUT

IOWA FARMER ACCUSED OF MURDERING HIS WIFE AND FIVE CHILDREN.

Oelwein, Ia., Nov. 25.—William McWilliams, a well-to-do farmer, has been arrested on a charge of murdering his family, consisting of Mrs. McWilliams and five children, ranging from one and one-half to eighteen years in age. The bodies of Mrs. McWilliams and her five children were found lying on the floor of the farm home kitchen.

Apparently Mrs. McWilliams was killed while preparing dinner, as food was found partly cooked on the stove. A dairyman who called at the farm for milk found that she was killed with a hammer, which crushed her skull. She was also hacked with a knife.

It is thought that after the woman was murdered the children were called into the house one by one from work on the farm and killed in a similar manner.

The baby when found wore a hood and mittens and had in its hand a piece of buttered bread. One blow of the hammer had sufficed for it. The child was found in its mother's arms.

A daughter of sixteen, it seems, struggled for life, her hands being lacerated, apparently by clutching the blade of a knife.

SCHANDEIN WILL SUSTAINED.

Mrs. Jacob Heyl of Milwaukee Secures the Bulk of the Property.

Milwaukee, Nov. 27.—Judge Carpenter, in a lengthy decision, has sustained the will of Mrs. Lizette Schandein and admitted the instrument to probate. The will makes Mrs. Jacob Heyl the chief beneficiary of the $7,000,000 estate and Mrs. Ella Frank and Emil Schandein, two other children, were cut off with a small allowance. The contestants, Mrs. Frank and Emil Schandein, sought to break the will, alleging undue influence on the part of Jacob Heyl.

He will be taken to Joliet penitentiary at once.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly, Thursday evening, entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

The Bemidji Pioneer claims that it cost Mayor-elect Carter and his supporters $10,000 to win in the recent city election in that city. The Pioneer seems to be sore over it, too—probably because it wasn't in on the divy of the funds.

Says the Thief River Falls News: "Halvor Steenerson is emphatic in stating that he does not desire to be governor, but would like to be returned to congress. There is no great objection upon the part of the voters of the Ninth district to letting Halvor have his own way. He is certainly making an able representative in congress, and stands upon the side of the people on all questions."

The election of a state senator from this district will be one of the interesting features of the campaign next year. The situation is somewhat different than formerly there being four counties in the district instead of three. Indications are that there will be one or more candidates from each county. It is said that Harry Ives of St. Hilaire will seek the nomination on the republican ticket, says the Norman County Herald.

The tame fawn episode told of in last week's Gazette has caused a round of comment by the press of the state, and in no case is the action of the game authorities upheld. The Thief River Press copies the story about the fawn, and remarks: "The above taken from the columns of the Pioneer Press, is simply more evidence of the ridiculousness and absolute unfairness of the state game laws. If the kind-hearted farmer's wife had killed the helpless fawn in open season, the law would have sanctioned her course, but to show pity and kindness to a helpless dumb animal, would be to violate Sam Fullerton's laws. A little more of this block-headed, water-brained legislation will make the better part of our laws complete farces."

One of the state papers has the following to say, and it would be pretty hard to improve upon the opinion expressed or the manner of expression: "There is a rumor of a fight on the confirmation of the appointment of Pablic Printer Stilling bebause he does not belong to the Typographical union. If that is the only objection, the appointment should be confirmed, as it undoubtedly will be. To say that a man must not be appointed to a public position because he does or does not belong to some labor organization—or secret society or church—would be most dangerous. Some kind friend should send some of these kickers a copy of the declartion of Independance and the constitution the Tnited States."

Commissioner Slater of the Pure Food Commission says: "This department is powerless to stop the outside mail order houses from shipping in illegal goods, but we are going to ask the aid of the local newspapers to show up the true character of the goods shipped in by mail order houses and give the results publicity through our regular bulletins. We appreciate the assistance which the papers have already lent to the work of this department, and believe their reward is sure to come throug the local merchants. Retail grocers and others interested in the pure food law enforcement are continually decrying the encroachments of the mail order houses and the question is a serious one. The best medium through which to combat the tactics of these big catalog houses is the home newspaper and time will demonstrate this to be a fact."

As winter approaches we always find a number of farmers disposing of their property and leaving Minnesota for a land of "sunshine and flowers," says the Princeton Union. There many of them find that sunshine and flowers compensate them but poorly for the sacrifice they have made. The agricultural conditions are altogether different, their crops are scanty because they do not understand the soil—they are not "to the manor born." Climate influences impair their health and their neighbors prove vastly different to the good sympathetic souls they were wont to associate with at the old home. They soon become surfeited with the sunshine—they long for a snowstorm now and then. They tire of flowers and sigh for cabbage and potato plants. They finally become disgusted, sell out for a pittance, return to Minnesota and rent a farm or work for someone else. If you have a farm in Minnesota hold on to it—don't dispose of it and purchase "climate" in a country you know nothing about.

Guess Its The Gall.

Crookston Times: The Thief River Press is having a fit because there is some talk of the Soo striking south Crookston with its line heading for Carrington, North Dakota, and uses up a lot of good ink in endeavoring to prove that the people here do not want the Soo and that the Soo does not want to come here. The Press is fearful that the Soo officials will get next to the fact that to reach the head of the Red River Valley it is necessary to get into touch with Crookston. What might be termed the rest of the Valley's vitals are scattered about in various places. It is not definately settled yet whether Thief River Falls is the liver, kidneys, gizzard or the gall. Crookston is the heart of the Red River Valley now and always will be, and wishes good luck to the rest of the "parts."

ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY.

"Jimmie" Crapps a Thief River Character In Durance Vile.

Thief River News: A man known about the city as "Jimmie" Crapps was arrested Tuesday evening for holding up Charles Gilbertson, a carpenter living in Porter's addition, and relieving him of some over $20 in cash.

The affair happened about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening. Gilbertson was walking between the Oyster Bay restaurant and Andy Erickson's saloon. He had the money in his hands counting it when Crapps snatched it from him and run. Gilbertson identified the man who took the money as Crapps and he was arrested about a half an hour later, but did not have the money upon his person at that time.

Crapps has made his home at a resort across the track for the past two or three months and is said to have made his living by stealing from working men who were around saloons nights. He has been seen attempting to rob people before several times and the police have been endeavoring to secure some evidence against him to convict him for some time, but as the people he stole from were usually in a drunken stupor, no evidence could ever be secured. Now, however, they have a clear case against him and County Attorney Germo has been sent for to come up and prosecute. The trial will quite likely be this afternoon.

County Attorney Germo went up Friday and at the hearing the fellow was bound over to the grand jury, being brought here Saturday to remain in jail until the spring term of court.

SUFFERED FOR YEARS WITH A COMPLICATION OF FEMALE DISEASES.

Robust Women Who Owe Their Restored Health and Usefulness to Pe-ru-na.

Read the Letters of Grateful Women Cured by Dr. S. B. Hartman's Free Advice.

Thousands of Testimonials Received Every Year.

An Ideal Medicine.

MISS LOUISE MATHER, 13 Church St., Burlington, Vt., Vice-President Bureau of Exchange, writes:

"Your medicine is an ideal woman's medicine and by far the best I have known to restore lost health and strength.

"I suffered for several years. My back ached, I had bearing down pains, and frequent headaches.

"I would often wake from sleep in such pain that I would suffer for hours before my eyes would close again. I dreaded the long nights as well as the weary days.

"I consulted two physicians, hoping to get relief. Finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me, a friend advised me to try Peruna.

"I am certainly glad that I followed her advice, for Peruna was the only medicine for me. Every ache and pain disappeared in four months and I am in perfect health now.

"My earnest advice to suffering women is to try Peruna, for I feel sure they will not be disappointed in it."—Louise Mather.

Enjoying Splendid Health.

Mrs. L. E. Tyler, Santa Monica, Cal., Secretary Santa Monica Musical Society, writes:

"I was troubled for over three years with systemic catarrh, complicated by female weakness and inflammation.

"This induced frequent headaches, nervousness, hysteria and sleeplessness, which nothing could relieve until I tried Peruna.

"I began to feel better after I had taken the first bottleful and improved from week to week until at the end of about eleven weeks I was entirely well.

"I am pleased to say that I have enjoyed splendid health now for nearly a year. I have a fine appetite, enjoy sound sleep and do not suffer from any more headaches or other pains."—L. E. Tyler.

Completely Regained Her Health.

Miss Edith Reams, 726 North Main St., Dayton, O., writes:

"I suffered for some time with both lung and female troubles.

"I had been under the treatment of a good physician for about nine months without obtaining any relief, when Peruna was recommended to me. After taking twelve bottles of this medicine I have completely regained my health.

"I am pleased to recommend Peruna to any one suffering from the above ailments."—Edith Reams.

America is the Land of Nervous Women.

The majority of women are nervous because they suffer from some form of female disease.

The greatest obstacle in the way of recovery is that they do not understand that catarrh is the main source of their illness.

Women who are in doubt as to their ailments should write to Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O. Give him a full description of your symptoms, previous treatment and age.

He will promptly reply with full directions for treatment, free of charge.

The oldest daughter of the Gazette editor has been quite sick all week, and while some better at present is still quite weak. She appears to be recovering nicely, however, and unless complications arise she will soon be well again.

C. L. Hausen went down to Crookston last Friday evening to take in the meeting of the Red River Valley Encampment of Odd Fellows. The meeting was largely attended and was immensely enjoyed by all the three linkers present.

Attorney C. M. Stanton, of Thief River Falls, spent Tuesday and yesterday in the city in attendance at the session of the District court. Mr. Stanton is one of the attorneys for Cernousek, who was tried for manslaughter yesterday.

Prof. Onstad, formerly leader of the famous Red Lake Falls Band has located at Thief River Falls and will start a band there. The plan they will adopt of supporting the organization will be along the lines of the successful plan used here. The new band will get into active work soon, and as Thief River has considerable material Prof. Onstad will likely bring out a first-class organization within a couple of years.

Plummer Pioneer: Andrew Johnson, chairman, of the Emardville board of supervisors, was around Tuesday with a petition praying the county board to either build a new bridge or repair the present one across the Clearwater river three miles south of Plummer. The petition was liberally signed and should be favorably acted on by the county board as the old bridge is in rather poor condition.

The Gazette is issued a day earlier this week on account of press day falling on Thanksgiving Day, and as a result the news columns are not exceptionally well filled up. However, the prospect of laboring on a full stomach of turkey and cranberry sauce was not very alluring, and sooner than spoil a good dinner by laboring afterwards, The Gazette force cut out a lot of work in the hopes of not getting blamed by the public.

Plummer has organized a band with seventeen members and will engage the services of an instructor and get down to work as soon as possible. Red Lake county will certainly have no scarcity of bands within a year or two. The Red Lake Falls band, known as crack organization of the valley, is ably seconded by the present St. Hilaire band, and with new orgaizations both at Plummer and Thief River, Red Lake county people won't get lonesome for good music at least.

The late Ezra G. Valentine carried a large amount of insurance. On an endowment policy of $10,000 with which was coupled an extra mortuary allotment, his heirs received $21,000 in cash. Another policy gives his two children an income of $500 each for every year so long as they live, with the further provision that in case of death within twenty years, the income will be continued to the heirs of the deceased, until full twenty payments have been made.

The famous "Gold Seal" flour made by our mill does not need much advertising, as its excellent quality is the best kind of advertisement. No better flour can be had at any price, and a trial sack will convince you that you haven't used the best until you used "Gold Seal." Ask your grocer and if he hasn't got it, 'phone the Northern Minnesota Milling company, and we will see that it is delivered promptly. Also all kinds of mill feed always on hand.

One of the most peculiar actions taken against the Great Northern is that began by Hans Grone of Kirtsonville to secure damages for hogs and horses that he alleges were killed by stagnant water. He continues that the Great Northern built such grades as to shut off the flow of water and force it to back up and over his land. The water from long standing became stagnant and his horses and hogs drank the water and died. He alleges that the railroad company is responsible for the death of the horses. Since very lately two more horses have died, he will commence action for damages for their value.

Crookston Times: Messrs. Smidsang, Hanson, Prior, Eckstein and Bergen, of Wylie, who attended the hearing on the Wylie injunction suit against the Great Northern yesterday drove home last evening. All of the gentlemen are prominent Wylie business men and took a deep interest in the proceedings aired in court yesterday. They expressed themselves to a Times reporter as entirely satisfied with the arrangement made with the company to continue service to Wylie and returned home feeling quite good over the outcome of the affair. They came here expecting to have to fight the matter through the courts and were well pleased over the atitude of the Great Northern toward their little city.

How About You?

Some editor with more poetry than salvation in his soul, and with a fondness for being one of the boys, gets off the following: "Sing a song of swell heads, a fellow full of gin, coming home at 4 a. m. his wife won't let him in. His feet are full of tanglefoot, his head is full of wheels, the keyhole runs around the knob, he a funny feeling feels. He puts his feet upon the porch, his head upon the ground, all the time within his 'mug' the wheels are going 'round. He thinks that he is sober—that everyone is tight, and that he's in his bedroom instead of out all night. He thinks the moon's a dollar and will buy a dozen drinks, and various other thoughts he thinks, and thinks and thinks and drinks and thinks. But when his wife she cometh, (and with a hickory slat), he gives a shout and yelleth, 'Now, Mary Ann quit that.' "

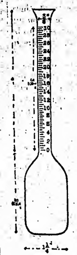
CREAM TEST BOTTLE

New Design Which Will Make the Testing of the Cream More Accurate.

The increased interest in cream testing during the past two years has brought out several new cream-test bottles, says Prof. F. W. Woll, of the Wisconsin station. This has been largely caused by the extensive use of farm separators and the furnishing of cream instead of milk to the creameries. The testing of cream as a means of determining the amount of butter fat sent to a creamery by its patrons is a much more difficult process than the testing of whole milk, because the percentage of fat being larger than in milk, the errors of cream testing are greater; the amount of fat separated is often six times as great from cream as from milk. Experiments have shown that it is not safe to measure the cream into the test bottle with a pipette, as milk is measured, on account of the light fat of the cream, and because it does not drain from the pipette so completely as milk. These two facts make it impossible for a 17.6 c. m. milk pipette, which delivers 18 grams of milk, to measure out this weight of cream into test bottles, in order to determine accurately the percentage of fat in different samples of cream. The last legislature passed a law making weighing of cream samples obligatory in this state, wherever payments of cream are made on basis of the fat content of the cream.



Cream Test

Manufacturers have been placing cream-test bottles on the market for a number of years. They are made of the same length as the milk-test bottles, and while the bulbs of the two bottles are about the same size, the neck of the cream bottle is much larger in diameter. This gives an opportunity for testing as much as 30 per cent. fat in the cream-test bottles when 18 grams of cream is used. For some unknown reason the manufacturers have been gradually increasing the diameter of the neck, thus contracting the length of the scale on the cream-test bottles so that in some cases the entire graduation, from 0 to 30 per cent. occupies a space of only two inches in length. This brings the lines of the scale very closely together, so that the graduations which represent one-half per cent. of fat are not much farther apart than the width of an ordinary lead pencil mark. With such test bottles, it is almost impossible to read a test accurately to much less than one per cent. fat.

Realizing the difficulty thus introduced, a cream-test bottle made of the dimensions shown in the diagram has been suggested by Farrington. This bottle is of the same length as a milk-test bottle, but in order to give it a longer neck than cream-test bottles usually have, the capacity of the bulb has been reduced to 45 c. c. up to the zero mark of the scale, instead of 55 c. c., which is the capacity of the bulb of the old cream-test bottles. This size of bottle is amply large for mixing the cream and acid before whirling the test bottles in the centrifuge. The necks of many cream-test bottles on the market are only about three inches long, while those of the new cream bottle are at least four inches long. The graduations of the neck on this bottle are so far apart that it is easy to read one-fourth per cent. fat. The scale representing one per cent. on the new cream-test bottle is as long as that of two per cent. in the old bottles.—P. C.

The Sick Cow.

The sick cow should not be permitted to remain with the other cows, for in many cases the disease with which a cow is sick is a contagious one, but this is not always discernible at the time the cow is first taken sick. Milk from a sick cow should not be used, even for the feeding of farm animals. Give the animal the benefit of free air and moderate sunshine and deprive her of food for awhile, unless it be some sickness whose character is known. Often the sickness is merely the result of too high feeding. If the ailment is a very serious one it will pay better to call a veterinarian than to risk not doing the proper thing for the relief of the animal.—Farmers' Review.

The Main Thing.

No matter how skilled we may be in breeding and making nicks, crosses and cut-crosses, the main thing with the cow is her feed, and unless she and her offspring are fed enough and well, the granddaughter will be a scrub and dear at most any price.

Breed for Winter Calves.

If you will breed part of your cows to come fresh in the winter you will find it profitable. A farmer who makes really good butter, can sell it for 35 and 40 cents all winter to private customers.

IN BEHALF OF SETTLERS

Congressman Steenerson Gets Ruling From Interior Department That Means Much.

The U. S. Land office at Crookston has received a decision from the secretary of the interior today, affecting the settlers on the Red Lake lands northeast of Red Lake Falls, Minn. A number of these settlers failed to pay their second installment within the required time, some being only a day or two too late. Under the strict interpretation of the law the local officers were obliged to refuse the tender of these installments and report was made to the department of their action.

The act of congress states plainly that the lands on which default in the payment of installments has been made, "Shall be forfeited and re-offered again to the highest bidder." But the same act also states, that the power is given to the Secretary of the Interior to regulate the sale and disposal" of these lands.

Mr. Steenerson besides being a good congressman, is also an eminent lawyer and it is right here where his legal ability came to the rescue of these settlers. He took up the matter at once with the commissioner of the General Land Office and the secretary of the Interior, and he succeeded to convince these gentlemen that the secretary had the power under the act to grant the desired relief to the people. They are now allowed to make the required payments, obtain their receipts and keep the land provided they have otherwise complied with the law.

It will be well understood that the decision of the Secretary of the Interior affects hundreds of acres of land in the reservation. There were several of the settlers in this instance, each one of whom could not afford to lose claim that they had filed on and perhaps had greatly improved. Not only, however, does this decision affect these settlers but it remains as a precedent for the protection of those who unavoidably delayed are forced under strict interpretation of the law to lose the title to land to which in all justice and right they are certainly entitled.

It will be also well understood that the decision of the Secretary at the citation of Mr. Steenerson is a decided move for the benefit of the homesteader on the government lands. It displays the good will and interest of the government that all things in the homestead red tape be handled nevertheless with an eye out for the safe-guarding of the interests of the real, bona fide settler.

LOTS OF WOLVES.

They Are Getting Very Numerous And Bold.

Thief River News: Settlers on the eleven towns report that wolves are decidedly numerous out there this fall and that they are becoming bolder every day. They seem to be unusually large and are hunting in packs more or less.

John Reme, who lives on a claim nine miles east of here on the south side of the river, was in the city yesterday and reports that a number of them gave him a lively chase Tuesday night. After supper he started for the home of a neighbor living a distance of about half of a mile and on the road he heard a number of wolves howling, but paid little attention to this as their howles can be heard every night. When a short distance from his destination he was surprised upon turning around to see several very large wolves only about a rod behind him. As he had no gun or nothing to protect himself he lost no time in reaching the home of his neighbor which was quite close. The wolves followed him to the very door of the house and had he been further away from the dwelling they would undoubtedly have attacked him.

A GARDEN SPOT.

John Eastman Thinks Reservation Is Booming.

Thief River News: The writer recently made a trip over a portion of the eleven towns opened for settlement a year ago last June, and it is surprising the amount of improvements the settlers have made in a year's time.

Most of those who purchased the high-priced land near to this city have built some fine residences and barns—some of the houses must have cost as high as $3,000 or $4,000—but they have not done as much in the way of improving and cultivating their lands as have others who live a greater distance. Those living farther away from town have done an immense amount of breaking and in a number of instances where the settlers had prairie farms the whole 160 acres of land, with the exception of a few acres upon which the house and barn is situated, has been broken up. A large number of teams were met on the road hauling grain, not to town, but to the homes of the settlers, where it will be cleaned this winter and used for seed next spring. If the conditions are anyways favorable, their will be a large amount of grain raised in that section next year, and many of the homesteaders will be able to much more than pay for their land out of the crop they will raise. The way the new settlers are going at the work in their new homes indicates that in a short time this will be the garden spot of Red Lake county.

THE OLD ORCHARD.

How It May Be Treated So as to Restore It to a Profitable Basis.

As an orchard, it had always been a failure. The trees had come from the refuse of an abandoned nursery. Ninety-nine men in a hundred would not have taken the trees as a gift and the one remaining man took them because they were cheap.

For 30 years a part of the trees stood and grew. The others died, most of them early. Occasionally they produced apples, but did not take this as the serious part of their existence. The chief purpose was to encumber the ground, making it less valuable for other purposes and of no account as an orchard.

In course of time the farm had a change of owners. The new man had an idea. The orchard was not profitable, but it had never been fairly treated. Good trees could not be made from poor stock, but there was a possibility of bringing about a better condition than then existed.

The soil was a light, gravelly loam, not a good place for an apple. Moreover, the laid had been exhausted by continual cropping for many years. This, with poor stock in the beginning, had resulted in stunted, half-starved trees.

The first step was to plow the ground in the spring and sow to rye. When it had grown large enough to afford pasture, hogs were turned in, who wallowed down the green straw and gathered some lard into themselves. The next year the ground was again plowed and sown, and the hogs called in for the harvest. Four times was this repeated, to the great satisfaction of the animals and, as it proved, to the benefit of the trees.

It was by that time evident that a change had taken place. The trees grew as they had never grown before. There was fruit in abundance, too. The orchard come up smiling with its burden on "off" years when it was good to have apples. It bore every year and was the most profitable part of the farm.

A part of the original orchard was fenced off and received such treatment as trees usually receive in a cultivated field given up to the ordinary farm crops. After six or seven years they did not look as though they could have been set at the same time with their more thrifty neighbors.

If potash and phosphoric acid had been applied the results should have been still better, remarks the Ohio Farmer. As it was, the ground received a supply of much needed humus and such other fertility as come from pasturing. Results as good or better might be obtained by many from orchards now considered unprofitable.

FRUIT SCISSORS.

New Invention Which Would Simplify the Task of the Fruit Gatherers.

George Towers, Canyon City, Col., has patented a fruit scissors, comprising two blades pivoted together with sleeves to engage the thumb and fingers, and readily snap the fruit stems.

FRUIT SCISSORS.

Sod-Bound Trees.

Sod bound trees are not very common, but they are to be met with. When a tree has made a good growth and has spread out its top to cover its feet there is little danger of its becoming sod bound, for the branches of the tree catch most of the sunshine and the grass growth below is meager. The sod bound condition comes when the tree is either very young or so old that the leaves are thin and few. The young tree that is set in grass ground and has never obtained a very good hold of the ground is the one most likely to become sod bound, which means that the roots of the grass have taken possession of the soil and are taking most of the plant food and moisture. Such a tree can be relieved only by digging out the grass and giving its roots the entire use of the ground.—Farmers' Review.

Sheep in the Orchard.

If the trees are protected by some means, sheep are as useful for picking up fallen fruit as pigs are, perhaps more so. They are on hand when an apple falls, while the hogs may be asleep in the shade. The apple ought to be devoured promptly before the worm has had time to crawl out. It is nearly ready to do so before the apple falls, and does not lost much time afterwards. This will suggest the importance of prompt action if the codling moth is to be kept down. Give the animals a chance at the little fruit that falls early, and so dispose of the greater part of the insect crop. By these means the number of the moths can be greatly reduced, but the fight must be kept up every year.—Ohio Farmer.

Peach Tree Borer.

Any signs of the peach tree borer present? Perhaps you have not thought of him lately. Well, if you haven't, now would be a good time to get busy and investigate. He may be at work upon some valuable tree that does not show any visible suffering as yet, but if the destroyer is not removed the signs will develop very prominently ere long.—Midland Farmer.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

First State Bank's Annual Meeting Will See Changes.

The notice calling attention to the annual meeting of the First State Bank of Red Lake Falls is published elsewhere in today's Gazette, January 9 being set as the day for the meeting.

It is expected that this meeting will be one of the most important in the history of the institution, from the fact that James l. Wyer, who has been president of the institution since its foundation, no longer holds an interest there, and a new man will be elected to fill his place.

Cashier Theo. Garceau now controls the largest share of the stock of the First State, but it is not likely that he will want the presidency, but will be re-elected as cashier. C. L. Hansen who recently became interested there, will be chosen as assistant cashier, which will leave the active management of the bank the same as it is at present.

It has not been given out who is to be the new president, but the people are confident that the First State's ever-progressive policies will be continued regardless of who is chosen.

Several new directors will also be elected at the January meeting.

A Comparison

between the modern overland trip to California and that of fifty years ago, reflects credit upon the great railroad builders. One of the greatest improvements is the establishment of through tourist car service via the Northwestern Line, providing the maximum comfort at the minimum expense. Firemen Choose New Men.

The regular monthly meeting of the local fire department was held last Saturday evening, and besides the usual routine of business some other matters were disposed of. George Hennings was elected secretary of the firemen's relief association to succeed Ralph E. Wyer who has left the city, and Harry B. Healy was chosen a member of the board of trustees to succeed Sam Allard, who has also left. The firemen are already planning on their campaign of training for the big tournament at Warren next summer, and the new year promises to bring forth much of interest to the organization.

The local camp of Modern Woodmen of America held their annual election of officers last evening, the following being chosen:

The Woodmen expect to have a large number of new candidates for his goatship during the winter, and are also planning on some splendid social events.

K. P.'s Elect New Officers.

The annual election of officers of the local lodge of Knights of Pythias occured at the meeting Monday evening of this week, the following being chosen:

C. C.—James B. Armstrong.

M. A.—Ernest Buse.
I. G.—Arthur Zalser.

CERNOUSEK GOES FREE

Jury In Manslaughter Case Deliberates But Short Time And Returns Favorable Verdict.

The famous Cernousek manslaughter case was tried at the term of District Court held here last week, and nearly all of two days was consumed in taking the evidence, the plea of the attorneys being finished shortly after dinner Thursday when the jury retired and after about an hours deliberation returned a verdict of not guilty.

The people of the county are familiar with the facts in the case, and know the charge against Cernousek so it is unnecessary to go into a detail account of the shooting.

In the trial the state's witnesses were examined first, and considerable evidence that looked bad for Cernousek was introduced. When the witnesses for the defense were called however, it could plainly be seen what the result would be, and Cernousek and his witnesses put up a straightforward and convincing line of evidence that the shooting was purely in self defense and committed by an officer in the discharge of his duties.

County Attorney Germo was prosecuting attorney, while Attorneys Stanton, of Thief River, and Boughton, of this city, conducted the defense. The case was brilliantly conducted on both sides, and especially was the plea of Attorney Stanton very eloquent and convincing.

The general public appears well satisfied with the result of the trial.

COURT TERM FINISHED

Civil and Criminal Cases Cleared Up and Court Adjourns Until Next Spring.

The fall term of District Court for Red Lake county came to a close last Friday evening, when the jury was discharged and the judge left for his home at Crookston. The calendar was cleared up with the exception of some of the cases put over the term, and nothing more will be doing in the court line until spring.

The Gazette gave a resume of the cases tried up to Wednesday of last week, and from that time on there was but little done, outside of the trying of the two criminal cases.

The result of the Cernousek trial is announced elsewhere, and the case of the state against Wm. Farley for indecent assault resulted in a verdict of not guilty, the jury only being out a few hours. Messrs. O'Brien, of Crookston and Boughton, of this city, represented Farley, while County Attorney Germo represented the state.

The case of the State vs. Casper Weiner, of Thief River Falls, accused of having a moose head in his possession which was illegally procured, was dismissed by motion of the County Attorney on the grounds that the complaining witness was out of the county and could not be subpoenead.

In the case of Sieff vs. Linnihan, et. al., the jury returned a verdict for Sieff in the sum of $200 as demanded in the complaint. This case arose over the attachment by Felix Fournet, of Crookston, of some cattle supposed to belong to P. K. Olson but claimed by Sieff, and at the first trial the jury disagreed.

The case of Findeisen vs. Linnihan was decided in favor of the defendant. The action was to recover a balance remaining unpaid on a mortgage foreclosure sale, which had been attached in the Sheriff's hands by other parties, and was quite complicated.

Several court cases were tried but no decisions were rendered.

Notice of Election.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First State Bank of Red Lake Falls, Minn., for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year, will take place in its banking rooms on Tuesday, January 9th 1906, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m.

DIDN'T LIKE JAIL LIFE

"Jimmy" Crapps Tires of Existence Behind The Bars And Takes His Get-Away Sunday Evening.

"Jimmy" Crapps, a fellow sent down from Thief River last week accused of burglary, and turned over to Sheriff Linnihan for safe keeping until the grand jury sets next spring, didn't appear to like the accommodations of the county bastile, and Sunday afternoon while the sheriff was at St. Paul, Crapps broke the lock of his cell door and got into the corridor. Here he was held for a while, the outside door refusing to be broken, but Jimmy spied the fire escape and with the help of a heavy iron poker broke off the locks and soon got safely outside.

He immediately hiked out for Thief River Falls on foot, intending to stay there until Monday and take the Soo out of the county before the sheriff got back from St. Paul.

His plans went wide of the mark, however, as Dan got home early Monday and immediately phoned to Jack Kievel at Thief River Falls to see if Crapps could be found. He was located at his usual hold-out up there and brought back here Monday evening and it is a safe bet that he will stay this time until he is taken to his future home at Stillwater.

It will likely go hard with him now, as besides the charge of robbery the more serious one of jail-breaking confronts him.

New Land Office Ruling.

In a circular letter to the local land offices, the general office at Washington advises that all applications for second entries under the acts of June 5, 1905, and April 28, 1904, be transmitted there for consideration. The former act provides that any person who may have lost or forfeited his entry from any cause is entitled to the benefits of the homestead laws as though no former entry had been made, while the latter limits and benefits to those who shall show by corroborated affidavit that he was unable to perfect the entry on account of some unavoidable complication of business or personal affairs or honest mistake as to the character of the land and that he made bona fide effort to comply with the law and did not relinquish his entry or abandon his claim for a consideration. The circular directs that such entries be no longer allowed to go on record, but should be referred as stated.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible exemple of the vila attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

INTENSELY ALARMED

PEOPLE OF ST. PETERSBURG REPORTED TO BE ALMOST IN A STATE OF PANIC.

Communication by Wire With Outside World Has Ceased and Strike of Operators May Spread to Railroad Employes—Mutiny of Troops in Baltic Provinces Renders the Situation There Exceedingly Grave.

St. Petersburg, via Berlin, Dec. 4.—Intense alarm prevails here. Communication with the outer world by telegraph ceased Saturday morning when the Finnish operators joined their Russian comrades.

The embassies, legations and banks are hastily organizing courier services to both the Finnish and German frontiers.

The population is almost in a state of panic, fearing that the railroads will stop running and that the inhabitants therefore will have no mode of flight in the event of the cataclysm which they seem to fear is imminent.

Stories of the spread of disaffection in the guard regiments are in everybody's mouth and the revolutionaries continue to boast that the troops will no longer fire on the people.

Saturday morning newsboys were openly hawking fly sheets in the streets containing an account of an alleged revolt at Tsarskoe Selo and crying out "the emperor's palace guard has mutinied."

Foundation of the Stories.

According to reliable information the only foundation for these stories is the arrest of the soldiers of the guard at Tsarskoe Selo Thursday. Nevertheless, in their excited state the people give ready credence to all rumors and this adds to the general alarm.

The air is also filled with stories of the alleged revolution at the palace Friday in which Grand Duke Boris is said to have attempted the life of the emperor. These stories likewise are untrue, but they prove that a revolution in the palace is considered possible at any time.

This situation has greatly increased the dangers of a financial crash. The people, even the commercial interests, are withdrawing their money from the banks, converting it into gold, hoarding it or demanding foreign exchange which the state bank is issuing upon the foreign balances of the government. Exchange on London Friday rose to 9.50, over a rouble above the normal.

The Associated Press has just learned from a high authority that the situation in the Baltic provinces has grown exceedingly grave and that the troops at Reval and neighborhood are in open mutiny. This was the real cause of the extraordinary cabinet meeting which was held at Tsarskoe Selo Friday night.

SEVENTY MEN KILLED

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS ENGAGE REBELLIOUS TROOPS ON THE STREETS OF KIEFF.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—A dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Kieff, via Podwoloczyska, says:

One company of a pontoon battalion mutinied during the day and, fully armed, marched through the streets trying to persuade other troops to join it. Only an engineer corps did so. The mutineers, then 2,000 strong, continued their march. Two hundred Cossacks were sent to prevent their advance, but General Drake, in order to prevent bloodshed, subsequently withdrew the Cossacks and permitted the mutineers to pass. General Drake made repeated and kindly efforts to persuade the mutineers to abandon their foolhardy course. A part of them had complied when Governor General Suchomlimoff telephoned and ordered that energetic measures be taken against the mutineers and that the latter be fired on at the first opportunity. The mutineers halted before the barracks of an Azoff regiment, which was called on to join the march. During the demonstration at the barracks several mutineers fired, wounding an officer and two or three soldiers. The troops then fired upon the mutineers, who returned the fire and fled after several more volleys from the troops. The casualties on both sides were about 70 dead and 300 wounded. Two hundred mutineers surrendered.

TREPOFF MAY BE RECALLED.

Force to Be Used to Terminate Russian Strike.

Paris, Dec. 4.—A dispatch to the Temps from St. Petersburg, dated Sunday, Dec. 3, via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, says:

The strike of the post and telegraph employes is general, the government remaining unyielding before the demands of the strikers. This situation may be prolonged for several days, but it is doubtful if it will terminate peacefully. Again the word "dictator" is circulated, as during the early days of November. General Trepoff is said to be ready to return to the scene and restore order by a system of arrests and fusillades.

DR. M'LEOD ACQUITTED.

Physician Accused of Connection With Suit Case Murder.

Boston, Dec. 2.—A verdict of not guilty was reported in the superior court during the day by the jury in the case of Dr. Percy D. McLeod, charged with being an accessory after the fact to the illegal operation which resulted in the death of Susanna A. Geary, the victim of the suit case tragedy, and with concealing the crime. The prisoner was discharged.

William E. Hunt and Louis W Crawford, who pleaded guilty several days ago to the charge of being accessories after the fact to the illegal operation, then were brought into court Each was sentenced by Judge Stevens to not less than six years nor more than seven years in state prison.

When the verdict was announced in Dr. McLeod's case there was a pronounced stir throughout the court room, accompanied by suppressed applause, which the judge immediately suppressed. The clerk of the court then told McLeod that he was free.

Former Officials Indicted.

Philadelphia, Dec. 2.—Former Director of Public Safety A. L. English, former City Architect Philip H. Johnson, James D. Finley, a former city employe, and John W. Henderson and H. Baton, members of a contracting firm, were indicted by the grand jury on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the city in connection with the construction of a small police hospital.

BIG CROWD PRESENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTY-NINTH CONGRESS OPENS AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, Dec. 5.—The assembling of the Fifty-ninth congress for their first session was marked by no unusual incidents, but it attracted to the capitol crowds of spectators who took a lively interest in the proceedings. The day was perfect. The sun shone brightly and the air was keen. Society was out in force and filled the reserved galleries, while visitors unable to find seats roamed the corridors to catch glimpses of public men.

In the senate the proceedings were brief, but most of the spectators seemed to find quite as much to interest them in observing the senators who remained on the floor after adjournment as they could have experienced had the session continued longer.

The preliminary steps to organize were taken by the house. Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois was re-elected speaker, the members of the house took the oath of office; the officers and floor employes of the body were reelected; the rules of the last congress were adopted; and members went through the formality of drawing for seats, all of which was enlivened by the presence of the crowds in the galleries, the animation of the reunion of veteran members and the interest of new ones.

KILLED FILIPINO POLICEMAN.

American Army Officer Held on Murder Charge.

Cebu, P. I., Dec. 4.—Lieutenant Charles Pendleton of the United States constabulary ordered four native soldiers into the vehicle in which he was driving. A native policeman stopped him and ordered him to light the lamps on the vehicle, when Pendleton shot him dead. He then continued on his way, but returned later and obtained the body, which he delivered to the police, claiming that he had found the man dead on the road. The soldiers accompanying him confirmed his story until Monday, when they broke down. Pendleton had been drinking.

Pendleton's family lives at Atlanta, Ga. He was formerly a sergeant in the Seventy-first regiment of New York. He has been held for murder.

BURTON SENTENCED TO JAIL.

Kansas Senator Will Appeal Case to Supreme Court.

St. Louis, Nov. 30.—United States Senator Joseph Ralph Burton of Kansas has been sentenced in the United States circuit court to serve six months in the iron county jail, Ironton, Mo., and to pay a fine of $2,500 as the penalty for conviction on the indictment charging that he had acted in the capacity of a paid attorney in behalf of the Rialto Grain and Securities company of St. Louis before the postoffice department to prevent the issuance of a fraud order. He was released on bond in the sum of $5,000, with R. C. Kerens as surety, pending an appeal to the supreme court. Execution of sentence was stayed pending appeal.

EIGHT WEEKS SECURING JURY.

Trial of Chicago Man Charged With Killing Nonunionist.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—After eight weeks and the examination of nearly 5,000 veniremen a jury was secured during the day to try Charles Gilhooley, who is charged with causing the death of a nonunion workman during a strike. Gilhooley, it is said, was the hired "slugger" of the Carriage Workers' union and beat a number of nonunion men. There was trouble in securing the jury because of the reluctance of many of the veniremen to serve and hundreds of them have declared themselves prejudiced against labor unions to such an extent that they could not give Gilhooley a fair trial.

EIGTHEEN MEN DEAD

DISASTROUS EXPLOSION OCCURS IN COAL MINE NO. 1 AT DIAMONDVILLE, WYO.

Every Miner at Work at the Time of the Disaster Meets Instant Death and Had the Full Shift Been on Duty the Loss of Life Would Have Been Appalling—"Blow" Shot the Cause of the Accident.

Salt Lake City, Dec. 2.—An explosion in mine No. 1 at Diamondville, Wyo., caused the death of eighteen men, all who were in the mine when the explosion occurred. Nearly all of these were English miners who came to the Wyoming mines direct from England. Had the full night shift been at work in the mine the loss of life probably would have been appalling. A "blow" shot was the cause of the disaster.

The small shift of eighteen men was working 4,000 feet down in the mine, knocking down coal to be taken out by the day shift Presumably the men were close together in a bunch when the "blow" shot of giant powder exploded.

At the mine offices it is said that the workings are not materially damaged and that the mine will be shipping its usual output within four or five days.

OCCUPY ISLAND OF LEMNOS.

Forces of the International Fleet Land in European Turkey.

London, Dec. 5.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: "The International fleet has occupied the Island of Lemnos, in European Turkey. The Austrian foreign office expects that the porte will immediately acquiesce in the demands of the powers."

NINETEEN ON BOARD

STEAMER IRA H. OWEN GIVEN UP FOR LOST IN RECENT STORM ON GREAT LAKES.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—The owners of the steel steamer Ira H. Owen have given up all hope of that vessel ever reaching port. She carried a crew of nineteen men and it is believed that all have been lost.

The Owen was last seen on Tuesday about forty miles off Outer Island while the storm was at its height on Lake Superior.

When sighted last Tuesday off Outer island of the Apostle group by the steamer H. B. Nye the Owen was blowing distress signals and seemed to be in a bad way.

The next tidings of the Owen were brought into Ashland, Wis., by Captain M. K. Chamberlain of the steamer Sir William Siemens. Captain Chamberlain reported that Thursday, when twelve miles east of Michigan island, he ran into a mass of wreckage, consisting of stanchions, the top of a cabin and other debris. Floating in the midst of the wreckage were a number of life preservers marked "S. S. Ira H. Owen."

The wreck of the Owen brings the loss of vessels in the recent storm to nearly a dozen and the total loss of life to more than thirty.

CRAWFORD EXECUTED

CONVICTED MURDERER OF HEINE LUNDEEN HANGED AT ELK RIVER, MINN.

Elk River, Minn., Dec. 5.—C. D. Crawford, murderer of Heine Lundeen, sentenced to die for his crime, was hanged here at 1:48 o'clock a. m.

Sheriff Ward of Elk River collapsed and was unable to pull the drop. Sheriff Bernick of St. Cloud then pulled the trap and Crawford was killed by the fall.

There were present about thirty persons, but no one was there to represent Crawford, not even his attorney. This, it is claimed by some, was a flagrant violation of law.

The crime for which Crawford was hanged was committed on Nov. 20, 1904, in a boxcar between Elk River and Big Lake.

NINE ROASTED ALIVE.

Crew of Houseboat Dumped into Roaring Furnace While Asleep.

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 2.—A "pullboat" on Middle river burned during the day, nine men losing their lives.

Sidney Wheat, the negro steward, was the only survivor of ten men who lived in the craft. Wheat escaped death by being awake owing to illness. The crackling of burning timbers warning him in time he made his escape just as the huge structure of the boat collapsed. Stewart & Butt of Mobile, who own the craft, say there had been no steam on the craft for three days and they were at a loss to account for the burning of the vessel.

According to Wheat's story the nine men were dumped into a roaring furnace while some of them were asleep and roasted alive.

In the first editorial squib in the Thief River Press, issued the day after Thanksgiving, Sam Clark says "We want water." Can it be possible that Sammy was out with the boys Thanksgiving night?

John Eastman, of the Thief River News, evidenced daily newspaper spirit in his write-up and map of the shooting affair on the reservation last week. John is setting a pace in the newspaper line that keeps the rest of us guessing all the time.

The Red River Valley Dairymen's Association will hold their annual meeting at Crookston, Dec. 9th. Among the notable speakers on the program are W. W. P. McConnel, Dairy Commissioner Slater, O. C. Gregg and Col R. A. Wilkinson. The Horticultural and Poultry Associations will meet the day before and the day following the Dairymen respectively.

S. A. Thompson, of Duluth, sends The Gazette a series of souvenir cards of Duluth, which are to say the least interesting. The cards picture several different scenes in and about the Zenith city, and to conform with the many newspaper reports going about, big black bears are every where in evidence. The cards are O. K. and Mr. Thompson has undoubtedly made a hit.

An exchange tells a story about the business men's club of Philadelphia debating over which of the national conventions, the Democratic or Republican, they would rather entertain in their city in 1908. They finally decided that it was a better paying venture to secure the Republican meeting. as the Republicans took as many drinks as the Democrats, and only took them half as big.

The St. Cloud Times arrainged Alvah Eastman in caustic terms last week, alleging that the Journal-Press has systematically belittled the evangelistic movement that is in progress in St. Cloud, and contsasts the attitude of the Journal-Press with the herty support given the evangelists by she press of Minneapolis and St. Paul. It may be that Eastman does not believe the necessity exists in St. Cloud for evangelical work, but the opinion exists pretty generally that a brigade of revivalists could work to good advantage among the politicians of that vicinity alone.

But one short month remains before the advent of a new year—and to Minnesota an important one. Appearances indicate that the election excitement of 1906 will commence early and keep things moving until the result is determined, and the prospective candidates and their backers are grooming themselves for an early entrance into the race. The governorship contest in the North Star State next year will undoubtedly be a spectacular one, and with the interesting side issues in the different counties the ambitious politician and general public will surely have reason to sit up and take notice.

Graft extends even to the Farmers Institute. Last Saturday while the institute was in progress in Thief River Falls, there was a grafter on every corner, offering inducements in the shape of pocket-books, whips, cook-books, etc., as premiums with some newspaper says the Press. The inducement is great and many of the unsuspecting farmers are roped in. They take these papers. for a three months trial, or such a matter, and the paper keeps right on a coming. In two or three years a bill for several dollars subscription has piled up and this is when the farmer wakes up to the fact that he has been taking a paper that is of no interest to him and now he has to pay for it. Then he wakes up to the fact that he has been buncoed,

An innocent life ushered in—the weary spirit of a man ushered out—and the cold, ugly walls of the jail become at once the natal chamber and the morgue. Such is the story told by the Brainerd Dispatch. Mrs. Florence Wise, who recently separated from her husband, was arrested for cruelly beating her little two and a half-year old girl. A few hours after being commited to the jail she gave birth to a child. What an awful start in life for an innocent human being. And while a life was taking its place in the great cold world in another cell, the spirit of an old man, and one who had served his country on the battlefield, was taking its weary leave of this earth. T. D. Merrill, an old soldier whose home was in Todd county, was passing through Brainerd on his way from his home to the pineries. He became intoxicated and was found dead in his cell the next morning. He had an altercation with a bartender, and was struck on the head by the latter. The bartender was held to the grand jury by the coroner's jury.

A reservation man taking a walk through the woods and brush of his own land with a view of fencing it in next spring, found two dead deer, undoubtedly killed by hunters before the snow fell.

The freight service over this branch of the G. N. has been somewhat irregular since Tuesday. To let the Wylie people know they are still on the map the passenger made a run down there Friday evening.

In former years there was a grand rush to leave town the day the saw mill shut down in the fall, but it was different this year. Nearly all the men who have worked in the mill this year are now residents of the village and very few left here last Saturday.

Thursday morning Martin E. Hoff and Miss Clara Lund took the train to Thief River Falls and surprised their friends by getting married and returning on the evening train. The marriage service was read by I. T. Aastad at the parsonage, roses and carnations were the decorations. A wedding supper was served at the groom's home to invited relatives. The young couple are well and favorably known to the people of the village, having lived here since childhood. They start housekeeping next week in the Johnson residence on North Broadway. The Spectator joins with the many friends and well wishers of the happy couple in a long and prosperous voyage over the sea of life.

SISTERS OF CHARITY
RELY ON PE-RU-NA TO FIGHT
CATARRH, COUGHS, COLDS, GRIP.

SISTERS OF CHARITY

All Over United States Use Pe-ru-na for Catarrh.

From a Catholic institution in Ohio comes the following recommend from the Sister Superior:

"Some years ago a friend of our institution recommended to us Dr. Hartman's Peruna as an excellent remedy for the influenza of which we then had several cases which threatened to be of a serious character.

"We began to use it and experienced such wonderful results that since then Peruna has become our favorite medicine for influenza, catarrh, cold, cough and bronchitis."

SISTER SUPERIOR.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters all over the United States. A recommend recently received from a Catholic institution in Detroit, Mich., reads as follows:

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 8, 1901.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Dear Sir---"The young girl who used the Peruna was suffering from laryngitis, and loss of voice. The result of the treatment was most satisfactory. She found great relief, and after further use of the medicine we hope to be able to say she is entirely cured."

This young girl was under the care of the Sisters of charity and used Peruna for catarrh of the throat, with good results as the above letter testifies.

Another recommend from a Catholic institution in one of the Central States written by the Sister Superior reads as follows:

"A number of years ago our attention was called to Dr. Hartman's Peruna, and since then we have used it with wonderful results for grip, coughs, colds and catarrhal diseases of the head and stomach.

"For grip and winter catarrh especially it has been of great service to the inmates of this institution."

SISTER SUPERIOR.

A prominent Mother Superior says:

"I can testify from experience to the efficiency of Peruna as one of the very best medicines, and it gives me pleasure to add my praise to that of thousands who have used it.

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, all remedies proving valueless for relief. Last spring I went to Colorado hoping to be benefited by a change of climate and while there a friend advised me to try Peruna. After using two bottles I found myself very much improved. The remains of my old disease being now so slight, I consider myself cured, yet for a while I intend to continue the use of Peruna.

"I am now treating another patient with your medicine. She has been sick with malaria and troubled with leucorrhœa. I have no doubt that a cure will be speedily effected."

MOTHER SUPERIOR.

These are samples of letters received by Dr. Hartman from the various orders of Catholic Sisters throughout the United States.

The names and addresses to these letters have been withheld from respect to the Sisters, but will be furnished upon request.

In every country of the civilized world the Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of those with whom they come in contact, but they minister to their bodily needs. They are as skilled as trained nurses in their treatment of diseases and are looked upon as messengers of good cheer by countless patient sufferers.

One-half of the diseases which afflict mankind are due to some catarrhal derangement of the mucous membrane lining some organ or passage of the body. A remedy that would act immediately upon the congested mucous membrane, restoring it to its normal state, would consequently cure all these diseases. Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, whether it be in the head, throat, lungs, stomach, kidneys or pelvic organs. A remedy that will cure it in one location will cure it in all locations.

The Sisters Find Pe-ru-na a Never Failing Safeguard.

Peruna is such a remedy. The Sisters of Charity know this. When catarrhal diseases make their appearance they are not disconcerted, but know exactly what remedy to use. These wise and prudent Sisters have found Peruna a never-failing safeguard. They realize that when a disease is of a catarrhal nature, Peruna is the remedy. Dyspepsia and female weakness are considered by many to be entirely different diseases. That dyspepsia is catarrh of the stomach and female weakness is due to catarrh of the pelvic organs the Sisters are fully aware, consequently Peruna is their remedy in both these very common and annoying diseases.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

He was a widower and leaves eight children, three of them quite small, to mourn his loss.

The present week's weather has been considerable of an improvement over that of last, and while general appearances indicate winter in all her glory, nevertheless the thermometer has not registered very low and the traveler has not been greatly inconvenienced. A party of Red Lake Falls people consisting of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Sivertson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Germo and Mrs. E. F. Marshall went up to Thief River Falls Monday morning to take in the big blow-out of the Masonic lodge of that place held that evening. The Masons have recently completed their new hall there and the affair was in honor of the event. The celebrated Dode-Fiske orchestra was present, and the blow-out and banquet proved one of the most highly enjoyable social affairs of the north country.

The dance and supper in honor of the high school foot-ball team at the K. of P. hall last Friday evening was a delightfully enjoyable social affair and besides proving highly entertaining to those that were present, netted sufficient revenue to square up the outstanding indebtedness of the team. Over thirty couples were present and after several hours spent in tripping the light fantastic they sat down to a delightful spread, where toasting, story telling and joshing was indulged while the good things were devoured. The party broke up a little after midnight and all felt well repaid for attending.

Mail carrier Sorenson, on the Lambert-Red Lake Falls star route, had a decidedly strenuous time getting to town last Wednesday, and says that he will remember his experience as long as he lives. He left Lambert early that day, and was on the road constantly until about 6 o'clock that evening, when he reached this city. Mr. Sorenson says he never saw the snow piled so high as it was in many places along the road, and more than once during the trip he was swamped completely and had hard work getting his horses out of the snow. He found some drifts at least 20 feet high and in getting through them he encountered all kinds of difficulty. He remained here over night and returned to Lambert Thursday, the roads having been broken sufficiently to make passage comparatively easy.

Sam Is Single, Too.

Sam Clark in Thief River Press: "B. L. Bean writes the Press from Truax, N. Dak., enclosing a dollar for a renewal of his subscription and adds, "give my votes to the best looking girl in Thief River." The editor is somewhat at a loss to know just where to apply those votes and we are willing to entertain suggestions from anyone who is willing to take a stand in the matter. The fact of the matter is, the Thief River girls are all so good looking that there is little danger of the votes being mis-placed. It's only a question of taste."

Huge Task.

It was a huge task, to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. F. Colliar, of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone, I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach. Guaranteed by W. A. The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Lewis, Miller and Cabot waived preliminary hearing and each gave bond of $2,000, Lewis giving an additional bond for $1,000 because he alone was indicted on two counts.

SEED CONTEST.

Red Lake County Will Participate In New Scheme.

Superintendent McAnulty, of the Red Lake county schools takes a deep interest in the state good seed contest which was started some time ago and for which $3,000 in cash prizes has been secured, and the work in Red Lake county during the coming season will be interesting.

The state seed contest which was originated by Prof. D. D. Mayne of the school of agriculture, and which the state experiment station is backing, has found many friends among the prominent men of the state.

The plan is to have a seed contest among the pupils of the rural schools throughout the state. The farm school authorities have prepared a bulletin on "Elementary Agriculture," which will be distributed among the students of the rural schools. Each county is to have a local contest first, the winners of the local contest to be eligible to the state contest, which will be held under the auspices of the state plant breeders' association. Prof. Mayne has secured $3,000 in prize money. It is expected that big prizes will be offered for the county contests also.

Gov. Johnson, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture W. M. Hays, Superintendent of Public Instruction J. W. Olson and most of the county superintendents have been heard from, and all are in favor of the contest. The following is what the state superintendent has to say of the contest:

"The plan proposed, of having seed-grain contests for the boys and girls of our country schools, I most heartily favor. It will doubtless prove valuable in improving the quality of seed and methods of cultivation throughout the state, but even more valuable in the education of the youth toward our farms, in creating a love for the scientific study of agriculture, connecting the theoretical work of the school with the practical in life. The success of this movement will depend very largely upon the intelligence, energy and enthusiasm of our county superintendents and rural school teachers, to whose co-operation it is commended.

HICKS ON DECEMBER.

Predicts Many Storms During Holiday Month.

Hicks, the weather prophet of St. Louis, predictions for the weather of the month of December will be of great interest to the people of the northwest.

He predicts that the first storm period central on the 4th and 5th will be attended with falling barometer, rising temperature and storms of rain, sleet and snow progressing from west to east across the country. Northwesterly gales and change to colder will follow.

The second storm period will set in about the 9th, bringing a rise of temperature, falling barometer, cloudiness and marked storms of winter rain and wind. As these storms advance eastwardly they will turn to general snow storms and blizzards. The last stage will be attended and followed by a very high barometer and severe cold wave. The third storm period is central on the 15th, 16th and 17th. A sudden change to quite warm, followed by winter lightning and thunder, would be natural at this time. The rising temperature will be followed by rains and these in turn will end in snow and severe and sudden revulsion to high barometer, high northerly gales and a cold wave.

The fourth storm period will be central on the 22nd, extending from the 20th to 25th. Beyond reasonable doubt, this will prove one of the most general and severe storm periods of the month. A warm spell with rains from the 22nd to 25th will culminate not far from Christmas day in heavy rains and wind turning to snow and blizzards, winding up with fierce northerly gales and a sweeping cold wave.

The fifth and last period of the month is central on the 27th, 28th and 29th. Generally unsettled weather and desultory storminess during this period will be followed by cold, clearing weather as the month and year go out.

BEAUTIFUL CEREMONIES

Forty Hours' Adoration Ceremonies At St Mary's Attracts Large Numbers Of Townspeople.

The forty hours' adoration services held at St. Mary's church Sunday, Monday and Tuesday were brought to a solemn and beautiful close Tuesday evening, at which time the Rev. Father Charles, of Moorhead, delivered one of the finest sermons ever listened to in Red Lake Falls.

The services during the three days were all well attended, and assisted by four visiting priests Father Ansgaar conducted these beautiful rites of the church in an able and conscientious manner.

The priests assisting were Father Isidore, of St. John's University, Father Charles, of Moorhead, and Father Adolph, of Thief River Falls, and during the services of the three days of worship, each deliver a sermon.

The ceremonies Sunday and Tuesday were especially impressive, and the church was crowded at all the services.

TUBERS ARE SCARCE.

Many Families Without This Daily Grub Necessity.

Potatoes have been decidedly scarce on the local market this week, and since Monday there has not been a tuber on sale at any of the stores about town.

While it was known that the potato crop was short in this neighborhood this year no one figured that the supply would play out this early. Those that know claim that the potatoes are being held for a high price, and that the market will be flooded when the price gets around the dollar mark. If this is the case, a serious difficulty is apt to be encountered by those who have potatoes, as arrangements are being made to ship in a sufficient quantity to last until the crop next year. If this is done, when the potatoes in the neighborhood are thrown on the market the price is bound to go down, and it would seem that the present price of 60 to 70 cents per bushel should be inducement enough to bring forth the entire available supply, leaving no chance of having to give them away later in the season.

G. N. IS GRADING.

Getting Over The Swamps In Roseau While Ground Is Frozen.

The work of grading on the new extension of the Great Northern from Greenbush to Roseau is being carried on steadily these days, the contractors finding it easy to cross the swamps while they are frozen up.

It is thought that the line will be built into Roseau before spring and as soon as possible thereafter the new line will be pushed on to the boundary at Warroad.

When the work is finished the new line will be an important link in the Great Northern's large chain of railroads.

SELL FINE GOODS.

Red Lake Falls Merchants Carry Large and Choice Stocks.

Did it ever occur to you that the stocks of goods handled in Red Lake Falls by our enterprising merchants are larger and finer in every way than stocks carried in cities of twice the size? Well, it is a fact. Take in any line of merchandise, and the assortments carried in this city are always complete and varied. The prices also compare favorably with those of other cities, and many of our merchants advertise that they will sell goods in the same quantities, of better quality, for less money than the supply houses can.

In doing your Christmas shopping, don't wait until the last minute and then complain because you can't get what you want. Attend to it right away while the stocks are unbroken, and you will be much better pleased with the results. The merchants will also profit by this, as they will avoid the crush of the last few days, and have better opportunity to serve their patrons.

And above all things else, spend your holiday money at home, where you will get a chance to see it again some other day.

Settled Out of Court.

The conflict over the will of the late O. H. Myran of Ada, the former state senator from this district, who died Nov. 3 at Los Angeles, has been settled out of court.

The children had produced a will which left their stepmother nothing but the household furniture, and she filed a contest, claiming that a later will in her favor was being suppressed. Attorneys representing both sides, however, met the other day in Los Angeles and agreed on the terms of a settlement which is satisfactory to all the heirs, and the contest will be dismissed.

FIGHT OVER SAW MILL

Marcus Johnson and City Council Will Contest For The Ownership of Old Saw Mill Property.

An injunction was issued this week preventing the tearing down of the old mill of the Red Lake Falls Lumber company, and at the next session of the District Court the ownership of the property will have to be determined.

Several weeks ago Marcus Johnson of this city purchased from F. B. Newton the old mill and intended to tear it down and use the lumber for some improvements at the Red Lake Falls Milling company's plant. The city authorities, however, caused an injunction preventing the tearing down of the mill to be issued and the court will be called to decide whose claim is valid.

The cause of the controversy dates back several years to the time the city agreed to deed to Newton the tract of land the mill stands on provided Newton carried out certain terms of the agreement. Newton built the mill on the ground, but the deeds to the land were never turned over to him, the city contending that he had failed to fulfill his part of the contract, and they now claim the building from the fact that it is built on city property.

F. A. Grady represents Mr. Johnson in the action and City Attorney Boughton will conduct the city's side of the case.

LEAVES THE COUNTY.

Wife of Homesteader Who Was Found Dead Pulls Out.

Thief River News: There is absolutely nothing new in the Martinson mystery, and so far as the public is concerned it can continue to speculate as to whether Peter Martinson killed himself, was shot by accident or murdered.

Mrs. Martinson and her six year old niece, Edna Johnson, whom many people positively believe could inform the public regarding the truth of the whole tragedy, departed last Thursday evening over the Soo line for Minneapolis, and before they left they did not take anyone into their confidence. There is much talk to the effect that the authorities of Red Lake county were very derelict in their duties in allowing them to depart without first subjecting them to a severe examination in an endeavor to learn the truth of the affair. Be that as it may, they are now gone, but it is thought that they can easily be located and the authorities have announced an intention of endeavoring to secure more light upon the matter.

County Attorney Germo came up from Red Lake Falls the first of the week with the intention of interviewing Mrs. Martinson and Edna and was much surprised to find that they had left town. To the News he stated that the account of the affair which appeared in this paper last week was, in so far as he was able to learn, correct, and he is as much at sea regarding the true state of affairs that surrounded the death of Peter Martinson as is the public.

There are a large number of stories in circulation, all of which are derogatory to Mrs. Martinson as to her character, her incompatibility of temper and other things regarding her past life. These stories appear to be mostly rumors, and while they may be manufactured ones, yet there is a possibility that some of them are true.

About every one who has in any way followed the case or had any conversation with Mrs. Martinson since the horrible affair, believes that she is not telling the truth. Some believe that she hectored her husband in such a manner upon the day of the tragedy that he became violent and inflicted the wounds upon Mrs. Martinson and Edna, afterwards in a fit of despondency taking the gun and blowing his own head off, and that Mrs. Martinson, feeling ashamed and believing herself to be to blame for the affair, is now trying to shield herself by saying she knows nothing about the affair. Others believe various things—that it was an accident, a case of murder or that a fourth party was mixed up in the affair.

Before going to Minneapolis, Mrs. Martinson made application in the probate court to have her late husband's estate probated. As she is the only heir, she will secure possession of all the property he had at the time of his death.

FRANCE MAINTAINS POSITION.

Venezuelan Situation Daily Growing Worse.

Washington, Dec. 11.—France has refused to withdraw her note to Venezuela protesting against President Castro's treatment of M. Taigny, the French diplomatic representative. M. Jusserand, the French ambassador, had a long conference with Secretary Root during the day regarding the Venezuelan situation, which, it can be announced on high authority, is daily growing worse. France, it is understood, would have taken steps to protect her own interests in Venezuela before this had it not been for the unwillingness of the French government to make any move which would hinder or embarrass the settlement of the American troubles with Venezuela.

EDWARD ATKINSON IS DEAD.

Well Known Social and Political Economist Expires Suddenly.

Boston, Dec. 12.—Edward Atkinson, the well known social and political economist of this city, died suddenly during the day after an attack of acute indigestion, affecting the heart. He was seventy-eight years of age.

For forty years Mr. Atkinson had been looked upon as an authority on economic questions and in this connection had been called upon to perform many important public duties, among them being an appointment by President Cleveland in 1887 as special commissioner on the status of bimetallism in Europe.

WORST SEASON ON LAKES.

Over Two Hundred Lives Lost During Present Year.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—According to figures compiled by the Lake Marine News bureau the death list on the Great Lakes during the past season was 215, the heaviest loss on record.

During the season of 1904 only forty-nine lives were lost on the Great Lakes, this being the smallest loss on record.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

RUSSIAN WORKMEN PROMPT TO REPLY TO GOVERNMENT'S LATEST MOVE.

Plan General Strike Throughout the Empire in Retaliation for Arrest and Imprisonment of Labor Council—Absolute Anarchy Prevails in Livonia, Many Workmen Being Slain by Troops Using Machine Guns.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 10, via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, Dec. 11.—There is every indication this morning that the government's challenge will be accepted and that within forty-eight hours a general strike throughout Russia will be ordered. A terrible storm has been raised by the arrest of M. Krustaloff, president of the executive committee of the workmen's council, which was followed during the night by the imprisonment of the members of the workmen's council and a number of socialistic leaders.

"The reaction has come," were the words on every lip and in the liberal extremist camp there was only one opinion, namely, that it must be resisted to the bitter end. At all the meetings last night, some of which lasted until morning, the opinion was unanimous that the government had forced the hands of the proletariat and that the supreme weapon, a general strike, must be invoked.

Railroad Employes Declare Strike.

The employes of the Riga-Orel railroad have declared a strike on account of the declaration of martial law in Livonia and have sent an appeal to the other roads to join. Last night the railroad men of the Baltic lines decided to follow the example of the Riga-Orel men.

The situation in Livonia is frightful. Absolute anarchy prevails.

A messenger who arrived here this morning declared that the streets of Riga were flowing with blood. After a meeting the railroad men of Riga were mowed down by the fire of machine guns and artillery.

The railroad men of St. Petersburg, at a meeting, resolved that inasmuch "as the reaction is gaining force and the government is seeking to retract what was won by the first Pan-Russian strike," the railroad men stand ready to obey the signal for a general strike, but advise their fellow workers to await the word from the central committee at Moscow, as a failure must not be risked.

SAKHAROFF IS SLAIN

FORMER RUSSIAN MINISTER OF WAR SHOT AND KILLED BY WOMAN REVOLUTIONIST.

London, Dec. 7.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, in a dispatch dated Dec. 5, sent by way of Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, says:

"Lieutenant General Sakharoff, former minister of war, was assassinated today.

"The government had deputed General Sakharoff to visit the province of Saratoff for the purpose of quelling the agrarian riots there.

"A woman belonging to the so-called 'flying columns' of the revolutionary movement called at the house of the governor of Saratoff at noon today and asked to see General Sakharoff.

"She fired three revolver shots at the general, killing him on the spot.

"The tidings reached St. Petersburg tonight. Count Witte charged Lieutenant General Rudiger, minister of war, with the task of breaking the news to Madame Sakharoff.

"The event has created a profound impression in St. Petersburg, owing to fears that the revolutionists here will follow the example thus set.

"The spectre of a military dictatorship, which has been looming on the horizon, is slowly gaining consistency and sharpness of outline.

"Father Gopon has gone to Paris under very mysterious conditions, which I am not at liberty to unfold."

FORCED LOAN ORDERED.

Desperate Expediency to Save Russia From Bankruptcy.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 10, via Eydtkuhnen, Dec. 11.—The government seems to have succeeded in tiding the treasury over the present crisis, although the method by which this was accomplished shows to what straits the government has been reduced. The emperor has approved a ukase authorizing the State bank to discount $50,000,000 in exchequer bills, which is permitted by the regulations of the bank, but it savors of the character of a forced loan. This method has not been resorted to since the days of the Russo-Turkish war.

Revolt in Baltic Provinces.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 12.—Riga is completely cut off from St. Petersburg. The scanty news reaching St. Petersburg is all to one effect. The last advices received from the Baltic provinces reported the desecration of churches, the murder of landowners and the pillaging of property. The revolutionaries are growing in audacity.

TEN PERSONS KILLED

OVERLAND LIMITED ON THE UNION PACIFIC WRECKED NEAR ROCK SPRINGS, WYO.

Train Collides Headon With an Extra Freight, Demolishing Both Locomotives and Several Coaches—Engineer of the Freight Responsible for the Disaster by Misunderstanding or Misreading Orders.

Omaha, Dec. 7.—Ten persons were killed and eleven train employes and eight passengers injured in a wreck of Overland limited passenger train No. 2 on the Union Pacific five miles west of Rock Springs, Wyo. The limited was run into headon by a freight train and both engines were demolished and the dynamo car, mail car and dining car on the limited were burned. Several of the bodies of the dead were incinerated.

The dead were all train employes who lived in the West. The injuries to the passengers were slight.

An extra freight train was given an order before it left Rock Springs to meet four eastbound passenger trains, of which the Overland limited was the last one, at Ah Say, a siding five miles west of Rock Springs. The freight took the siding at Ah Say and waited until three of these trains had passed east and then pulled out. When a mile and a half west of Ah Say the freight met the Overland limited and crashed into it, headon.

Both engines were demolished and the three first cars of the Overland limited immediately caught fire and were entirely destroyed.

Engineer Brink of the freight train, who, it is stated officially, was responsible for overrunning his orders, was one of the killed. Several trains had been badly delayed at Granger, with the result that the four passenger trains were running close to each other. The freight had received positive orders to meet all four of these trains at Ah Say and the officials say that the orders were either misunderstood or misread.

OREGON SENATOR DIES

JOHN H. MITCHELL EXPIRES AS A RESULT OF HAVING HIS TEETH EXTRACTED.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 9.—United States Senator John H. Mitchell died at the Good Samaritan hospital in this city at 11:40 a. m., death resulting from complications which followed the removal of four teeth at a dental office the previous morning. A hemorrhage of unusual severity followed the removal of the teeth and despite the application of the most powerful styptics known to dental science the flow of blood could not be stayed. Physicians were summoned to the dental office, but the combined scientific knowledge of the dentists and physicians could not stop the flow of blood. The senator's condition soon became alarming and it was determined to remove him to the hospital. When the senator reached the hospital he was in a very weakened condition and it became apparent that unless the flow of blood was soon stopped life would pass out.

For hours the physicians worked over the senator and once stopped the flow of blood, but only temporarily. It began again and a spell of vomiting added to the patient's weakness and he lapsed into a state of unconsciousness from which he never recovered, passing away at 11:40 o'clock.

Senator Mitchell was seventy years of age and his health had been poor for several years past. His conviction in connection with land frauds in June last caused great mental strain and humiliation and rapidly sapped his vitality.

MODIFICATIONS ACCEPTED.

Powers Agree to Some of Turkey's Proposals.

Constantinople, Dec. 8.—The ambassadors of the six powers, at a conference just held, have accepted some of the modifications proposed by the porte to the original scheme for the financial control of Macedonia and an amended agreement has been forwarded to their respective governments for ratification. This is expected promptly, when the incident will be closed.

The modifications accepted apparently in no way affect the efficacy of the scheme, but are a sop given to the sultan's self-esteem and his claims for recognition of his sovereign rights by the inclusion of an Ottoman representative in the financial commission and an agreement that the commission's decisions shall be submitted to the sultan for formal imperial sanction.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year.

Things must be quiet at Thief River Falls. Only three criminals have been sent down from there in the last week.

Poor Sam Clarke has been having all kinds of trouble and last week had to take off his high collar and get into the mechanical end to keep the paper from being several days late. For the past several weeks Sam has encountered obstacle after obstacle, but he is apparently happy and keeps the Press interesting through it all.

When you pick up the Sunday edition of that always splendid Duluth News-Tribune you cannot help but realize that the Tribune is truly one of the greatest newspapers in the west today. Sunday's edition consisted of six complete sections and every one of them was full of meat for the reader. The old Trib, deserves the success it is meeting with.

From present indications State Auditor Samuel G. Iverson will be a candidate to succeed himself at the next state convention says the Roseau Region. The long experience he has had in the auditor's office, together with his admirable conduct thruout and the great interest he has always taken in behalf of the state, will make it hard for any other man however good, to secure the nomination over [illegible] Iverson [illegible], that the republicans of Minnesota will wish to retain the services of so capable and hard-working an official.

The Great John Wanamaker says "If there is one enterprise on earth that a "quitter" should [illegible]ly alone it is advertising. To make a success of advertising, one must be prepared to stick to it like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. He should know before he begins it that he must spend money. Somebody must tell him, also, that he cannot reap results commensurate with his expenditures early in the game. Advertising doesn't jerk, it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day and year by year until it exerts an irresistible power."

Talk about the impartiality of the government, consider the way the people of the smaller towns are treated in the matter of mail delivery says the Belle Plane Herald. The city man and farmer have their mail brought direct to their doors; nor have they to pay box rent or any expense whatever. The man in the small town has to walk to the post-office, a mile away perhaps, and then pay two dollars a year for the privilege of affording the postmaster an opportunity to put his mail in a separate box. The government needs the money to meet the expenses of city and rural free delivery.

An exchange very correctly says that too many parents rely on the law to correct and watch over their children. They want an ordinance to send the child home at night, to prevent him from playing truant and divers other things of greater or less note. If the parent would enforce a little more of the old law and apply judicious doses of the oil of birch and hazel much good might result. Another thing to remember. Don't take the part of a child against the teacher without investigating the trouble. Ninety-nine times out of one hundred the child is wrong and your support strengthens him in his wrong doing.

The Warroad Plaindealer devotes several columns of its editorial page every week to booming Frank Eddy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Frank has not yet said he would be a candidate, but the Plaindealer apparently takes it for granted that he will and believes in getting behind the throne early in the game. Eddy is a whirlwind of a campaigner and should he take the notion to go out after the nomination he would likely land it easily enough. As to his ability to beat Johnson when the time comes to vote, there appears to be considerable difference of opinion, although all acknowledge Frank's vote-getting abilities.

The Wadena Pioneer-Journal has purchased the plant and good will of the Wadena Tribune, and hereafter that city will have but the one paper. Both Messrs. Eastman and Verity, the proprietors or the two papers, are exceptionally good newspaper men and Wadena's papers have always been right up to snuff. They have long realized, however, that the revenue derived was not sufficient to compensate them for the capital and energy invested, and the result was as stated above. Mr. Verity, who has conducted the Tribune, expects to locate in the daily field somewhere in the state. The plan of one paper for the average country town is being tried quite extensively and in every instance works like a charm, the public getting better returns for the money expended.

HAPPY AND HIS GOOSE.

A Thanksgiving Story.

Happy had a goose. Strange as it may seem, it is nevertheless true, and thereby hangs a tale of harsh words and harsher thoughts. Attending a goose raffle on the North Side early Thanksgiving week Happy was fortunate in the throw of the dice, winning a handsome goose for Thanksgiving dinner, which he left with the butcher to dress, and visions of baked goose, oyster dressing and apple sauce floated constantly before his eyes during the days that intervened between then and the day he was to give thanks for his exceptional good luck. All went well until "Tom and Jerry" morning, when answering a hasty telephone summons Happy was informed that the goose had not arrived home for its last roasting. Proceeding hurriedly to the butcher Happy asked for his goose so as to get it home that he may yet enjoy his planned feast, when he was informed that the goose had been delivered to another party who carried an order signed by Happy stating that he wanted the goose as he had traded it for a turkey. The butcher denied all knowledge of any joke having been perpetrated, and Happy's persistent demands brought not forth the goose, so as a final resort to protect his dinner he purchased a turkey and hurried it home. Meanwhile the goose was being basted and stuffed ready for baking in a well known oven, and that evening round a festive board made merry by toasting and story-telling Happy's goose went the way of its ancestors, while Happy consoled himself with plain turkey. The toast-master of the occasion felt that Happy should at least be allowed to view the remains of his once cherished gooselet, and wrapping all the bones carefully took them to Happy with a wish for more luck in the goose raffles of the future. The tale is told, but to describe Happy's anguish will have to be left to abler artists than your humble servant, and today Happy is still swearing vengence when he finds out who betrayed him.

MONEY FOR INDIANS.

Congressman Steenerson Secures Payment of $100,000.

Congressman Steenerson has secured an order for the Indian office providing for the payment of $100,000 to the Red Lake Indians under the act of 1904 (known as the Steenerson act) opening to settlement a a portion of the Red Lake Indian reservation. It was provided that the money derived from the sale of the lands shall be paid to the Indians. The first payment of not to exceed $300,000 was to be paid within ninety days after the sale of the land and the balance was to be paid in fifteen annual installments in the month of October of the year following that in which the first payment was made. Under the act a payment was due in October, 1905, which would be the second payment, but the payment has not been made. There is at present to the credit of the Indians $19[illegible]000, not including $51,889, which was withdrawn from the 1904 payment, and if the secretary of the interior continues to withhold the money belonging to the minor children, which he claims he can do under the act, the payment to the Indians will amount to approximately $100,000.

The older Indians objected strenuously to the action of the secretary of the interior in withholding from them the payments due their minor children. The secretary maintained that the meaning of the Steenerson bill was to have the allotment for the exclusive benefit of the young Indians and in order to carry that idea out, he believes it his duty to keep the money in trust until such time as the Indians had reached their majority and could legally handle what money was coming to them. With this end in view he retained in the public treasury the moneys due the youngsters of the tribe, and the old men of the clans seeing their allotments curtailed [illegible] objections.

Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States.

Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States, is an orator born. In an article in The Outlook for July, 1899, by George Kennan, who heard Quesada speak at the Esteban Theater, Mantanzas, Cuba, he said: "I have seen many audiences under the spell of eloquent speech and in the grip of strong emotional excitement; but I have rarely witnessed [illegible] ada's eulogy upon the dead patriot, Marti." In a letter to The Peruna Medicine Company, written from Washington, D. C., Senor Quesada says:

"Peruna I can recommend as a very good medicine. It is an excellent strengthening tonic, and it is also an efficacious cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."—Gonzalo De Quesada.

Congressman J. H. Bankhead, of Alabama, one of the most influential members of the House of Representatives, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., gives his endorsement to the great catarrh remedy, Peruna, in the following words:

"Your Peruna is one of the best medicines I ever tried, and no family should be without your remarkable remedy. As a tonic and catarrh cure I know of nothing better."—J. H. Bankhead.

There is but a single medicine which is a radical specific for catarrh. It is Peruna, which has stood a half century test and cured thousands of cases.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Wednesday, Dec. 6.

House—Day devoted to the bill appropriating $16,500,000 for canal work. Both Republicans and Democrats indulged in criticism of the incompleteness of the statement of expenditures furnished by the canal commission.

Senate—Several hundred bills and resolutions introduced and referred to committees.

Thursday, Dec. 7.

House—An appropriation of $11,000,000 voted toward the construction of the Panama canal. The amount was a compromise between the $16,500,000 carried in the bill under consideration and an estimate of something over $6,000,000 recommended by Mr. Williams, the Democratic leader to carry out the work until the middle of January.

Senate—Resolution of Senator Tillman adopted, calling on the secretary of the treasury for information as to whether reports of examiners show whether or not national banks make contributions to political campaigns.

Monday, Dec. 11.

House—Speaker Cannon announced membership of committees for the Fifty-ninth congress. Interesting tilt occurred between Mr. Williams, the Democratic leader, and several minority members who were dissatisfied with their committee assignments.

Senate—Spirited debates on railroad rate legislation and the Panama canal occupied greater part of the session. Adjournment taken without mention of the late Senator Mitchell of Oregon and for the first time the death of a senator was permitted to pass unnoticed.

MRS. ROGERS HANGED

VERMONT WOMAN CONVICTED OF MURDERING HER HUSBAND FINALLY EXECUTED.

Windsor, Vt., Dec. 9.—Without a tremor and without a word, Mrs. Mary Mabel Rogers marched to her death on the gallows at the state prison here and paid the penalty of murdering her husband, Marcus Rogers, at Bennington on Aug. 13, 1902. To all appearances Mrs. Rogers was the calmest person in the chamber of death. She faced her end with the same stoical indifference that had marked her demeanor ever since her arrest, more than three years ago.

The execution took place after the woman had been twice reprieved on account of appeals made in her case by her counsel and after the United States supreme court refused to take action in the case.

Only a comparatively few persons witnessed the hanging, the number being restricted to those permitted to attend by the laws of Vermont.

NOVEL METHOD PROPOSED.

Bill Seeking Federal Control of Insurance.

Washington, Dec. 11.—A novel method seeking federal control over insurance is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Fred Landis of Indiana. The bill cites that congress has exclusive jurisdiction over the District of Columbia, the territories and the insular possessions of the United States, in consequence of which authority is given the department of commerce and labor to require full statements from all insurance companies doing business within such jurisdiction. He states that publicity is the one thing required and that no insurance company can afford to quit business in any of the territory named to avoid government supervision, therefore all companies will be included.

Blame
No One But Yourself if You Don't Get Well When Sick.

All we can do is give advice.
Of course that's easy.
But our advice is really worth a little more to you than most people's, for we offer to give you the first bottle of our medicine free, if it fails to help you.
We could not afford to do this unless our medicine was good. Such an offer, on the wrong kind of medicine, would put a merchant prince in the poor house.
Dr. Miles' Nervine, however, as years of experience have proved, is a medicine that cures the sick.
Those whom it cannot benefit—less than one in ten thousand—we prefer to refund their money.
All we ask of you is to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for your complaint. If you suffer from sleeplessness, nervous exhaustion, dizziness, headache, muscular twitchings, melancholy, loss of memory, weak stomach, poor blood, bilious troubles, epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, etc., we will guarantee to benefit you or refund your money.
You are the doctor.
"My son Bert, when in his 17th year, became subject to attacks of epilepsy, so serious that we were compelled to take him out of school. After several physicians had failed to relieve him, we gave Dr. Miles' Nervine a trial. Ten months treatment with Nervine and Liver Pills restored our boy to perfect health."—MR. JOHN S. Dame Rumor has it that Miss Nellie Reed, the evangelistic singer, who was here a year ago with Miss Anna Smith, has been smitten by one of Cupid's darts and is engaged. The date of the wedding has not yet been announced but it is understood that some time during the winter a prominent young Minneapolis business man will lead Miss Reed to Hymen's altar. The many friends of Miss Reed in the city will be interested in the bit of news.

A man who eats apples this year must have one of two things—good credit with the grocer or a large bank account. The New York crop is only 20 per cent of the usual crop, on account of blight and its being the off year for bearing. Blight reduced the Michigan crop to practically nothing and Missouri is going to do a little better with about a quarter of an apple crop. With the little red fruit soaring around the five dollar mark it makes them come high.

Roadmaster Regan tells The Gazette that the cuts in and about Red Lake Falls have ceased to cause any worry, and that the job of keeping the track in shape will be comparatively easy from now on. The freeze-up has stopped all sliding and as long as it remains cold there will be no trouble; The railroad men look for some work in the spring, however, and it is quite probable that the entire grades and cuts will be supported by piling as soon as the work can be done in the spring.

Right of way Agent Clay is busy securing right of way east of Roseau and hopes to have it all secured between there and Warroad in a few weeks. Engineers E. B. Howes and C. E. McDonald, for the Great Northern, will make Roseau their headquarters for the winter and superintend the work of grading the swamps east, which work will be done during the winter. In the spring it is expected the steel to Roseau will be laid and trains running by early summer. This is the latest statement by the company. Roseau hopes it will become an assured fact.

ON THE ALL-WESTERN.

"Bad Bill" Ittner, of This City, Is Chosen for Left Tackle.

O'Loughlin, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Journal, and recognized as one of the ablest judges of sports in the west, gives his selections for an all-western football eleven in Sunday's Journal, and at the position of left tackle appears William Ittner, of Red Lake Falls, whose splendid gridiron work as a member of the Minnesota eleven has won for him so much praise from western writers this year.

In giving his reason for the selection of Ittner, the Journal man says:

Minnesota and Wisconsin furnish the tackles for this team. Ittner and Bertke get places with but little hesitation. The only man who can bring any claim to consideration with this pair is Curtis of Michigan, and I regard Ittner as his superior in every way. Curtis lost his chance to show his top-notch effort by his disqualification in the Eckersall roughing incident, but I believe Ittner to be his superior.

Ittner came to Minnesota last year with a good record in up-state high school play at Red Lake Falls behind him. He is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 212 pounds. He can hold his own with any man in the Minnesota team at sprinting down the field and is one of the cleanest players that ever donned the jerseys He does not feel his strength and it is perhaps just as well that he does not, altho he is not the sort of a man who would misuse it. His feat of going over for the first Minnesota touchdown in the Wisconsin game and the caliber of the men he brushed aside in that supreme effort of a slow setting and starting formation, stamps him at once as one of the greatest offensive tackles in the west.

He is a deceptive player in that his great height and bulk give him the appearance of slowness, when the opposite is the truth. He is powerful and in the open work has shown that he can tackle with good effect. Ittner is just as good on defense as offense and working with Marshall and Vita shows a splendid record for Minnesota's left wing in 1905. He is a stronger man than either Curtis or Bertke and a summary of the ground gained by the trio this year would show, I believe, that Ittner had carried the pigskin two yards to the others' one. He has not taken out five minutes of time this year and altho suffering a minor injury to one of his shoulders, which gave him a painful jolt, he played great football. Ittner, to those who have seen him work, outclasses all other western tackles in rather easy style.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES

Churches of the City Will Observe Christmas Day By Regular and Special Services.

The churches of Red Lake Falls will all have services on Christmas day, at some of the places of worship the services will be special and very impressive.

St. Mary's popular pastor, Rev. Father Ansgar announces the following program for that day: High mass at 5 o'clock a. m., low mass immediately following and high mass again at 10:30. Some beautiful special music is being prepared for that day and the services at St. Mary's will draw a full quota of worshipers. The mass at 5 a. m. will be especially beautiful and impressive.

At St. Joseph's church the regular services will be held with low mass at 8:30 and high mass at 10:30. St. Joseph's congregatiod are ever good attendants and the Christmas services will see a large crowd out.

At the Presbyterian church Rev. Knox will preach at 11 o'clock in the morning. In the evening the young people will have a Christmas tree and program at 7:30, and great preparation is being made.

The seeker after spiritual guidance will find Red Lake Falls a good place to spend the greatest of all holidays, and it is a seasonable time to help the churches in their cause of doing good to all mankind.

HAS A KICK COMING

Congressman Halvor Steenerson Objects To New System Put In Operation By Postoffice Department.

Congressman Halvor Steenerson of the Ninth district is just now doing some tall hustling down at Washington to try and prevent the carrying out of a new ruling of the postoffice department in regard to the postmasterships of the different offices of his district, and that there will be a pretty scrap before these are settled is a foregone conclusion.

The new policy is called the "merit system" and provides for the retention of all postmasters who have given satisfactory and meritorious services, and changes will be made only in cases of insufficiency or for good and sufficient reasons. Naturally several of the Congressmen have taken serious objections to the new ruling, and Congressman Steenerson is fighting the matter with the postmaster generl and his assistants. It is said that the whole Minnesota congressional delegation will unite in trying to break the new order of things.

The last act of Congressman Eddy, of the old Seventh district, was to reccomend a whole list of postoffice appointments, and in nearly every case they were sustained, so that thus far in the game Congressman Steenerson has had but little chance to show his appreciation of the work done in his behalf throughout the district.

He feels naturally that inasmuch as his predecessors have always had the power of appointment that he is entitled to the same privilege and his efforts to have the thing fixed to suit him will be watched with interest.

THE HOLIDAY CONCERT

Local Band Organization Prepares Varied Program For Presentation During Holiday Week.

The local band organization is busy putting the finishing touches on the program for the December concert which will be given at the opera house Friday evening of next week, December 29.

The program contains the usual band numbers, all of them good, and several specialties, among them being a violin solo by Prof. Miller, a selection by the famous string quartette and a song by the high school chorus, which is being trained by Prof. H. R. Tonning. This will be the first public appearance of the chorus and it is safe to say that the new feature will be something immense.

The concert will commence promptly at 8:30 o'clock, and the management would be pleased if everyone would make it a point to be in their seats for the opening march.

The following is the program:

NEW BUILDING READY.

Move Will Be Made During Holiday Vacation.

The handsome new Washington school building on the North Side is practically ready for occupancy, and during the holiday vacation the seats, furniture, etc., will be moved from the old opera house, which has done duty as a school for a few months, into the new and commodius building that has arisen in the place of the old landmark destroyed by fire early in the year.

The new shool house is sufficiently large to accommodate the pupils of that part of the city for all time to come, and is one of the finest school houses in the northern part of the state.

Built of handsome brick with artistic stone finish and containing many distinct poins of pleasing architecture, the exterior presents a handsome appearance, and the elegance of appointment and construction are continued on the interior as well.

The rooms are all handsomely finished and the pupils will have reasons to take great delight in attending school when they get into the handsome new home.

To The Public.

For the support that the people of Red Lake Falls have given us during the past season, to Sam Hunt for the efficient management of our team, and to the young ladies for the banquet they gave us, we wish to extend our thanks and appreciation.—MEMBERS OF THE HIGH SCHOOL FOOT BALL TEAM.

A Happy Home Their Tomb

Peter Martell and Family of This City Meet Death in Fire That Destroys Their Home.

BUILDING WAS A SINGLE STORY STRUCTURE

And the Mystery as to How it Happened or What Caused The Fire Will Ever Remain Unexplained.

A happy home levelled by the dreadful fire fiend and the lives of a family of five human beings snuffed out within a few brief minutes is an incident that is bound to cause a feeling of terror in the strongest breast, but when happening right in the heart of our own city, with help so near at hand—but powerless to avert the catastrophe, there is little wonder that the fire at the Martell home Saturday morning of last week brought with it such a shock to the people generally that its effects will be far reaching and long remembered.

The exact details of the terrible calamity will never be known in this life, so that all causes and results of the affair are but mere surmises, and the following is one of the ideas entertained.

About 3 o'clock Saturday morning, Mrs. Ole Mikkelson, whose home is but a few feet from the ill-fated Martell house, was awakened by what seemed to be a jar and the sound of breaking glass. Sitting up in bed she noticed a bright glare near at hand and rushing to the window was horrified to see the Martell home enveloped in flames. Hardly had Mrs. Mikkelson reached her door when Peter Martell, the father, was seen to come tearing from the house and rush to the barn where he secured a ladder and running back to the rear of the burning building placed it against the house directly to the window caseing of the up-stairs. Martell was in his under clothing, and while running both to and from the barn was heard calling to his wife and babes who were sleeping upstairs. Tearing up the ladder Martell smashed in the window and after calling a time or two with no response disappeared into the sea of

GOVERNMENT DEFIED

REVOLUTIONARIES ISSUE A BITTERLY WORDED MANIFESTO TO RUSSIAN PEOPLE.

Proletariat Everywhere Ordered to Refuse to Pay Taxes; to Insist on Payment of Wages In Gold and to Withdraw All Deposits From the Savings Banks—Terrible Arraignment of the Bureaucracy In the Document.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 15, via Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, Dec. 16.—The proletariat organizations, through the "invisible government," threw a bomb shell into the camp of the official government during the night by issuing a manifesto, following the form of a regular imperial document, declaring the bankruptcy of the treasury, ordering the proletariat army everywhere to refuse to pay taxes of any description, to insist on the payment of wages in gold or silver and to withdraw all their deposits from the savings banks in gold.

The manifesto is a terrible indictment of the manner in which the bureaucracy has brought the country to financial ruin, asserting that the government has squandered not only the country's income but the proceeds of the foreign loans on railroads, the army and the fleet, leaving the people without schools or roads, yet, it is declared, there is no money to feed the soldiers and everywhere there are insurrections of the beggared and starved troops and sailors.

The manifesto even charges the government with using the deposits in the government savings banks to speculate on the bourse and with covering up its chronic deficits in the

by the proceeds of the foreign loans, which are at last exhausted. The rich, it is further declared, have already taken warning and are converting their property into securities and gold and are sending them abroad. The only salvation for the country, according to the manifesto, is the overthrow of the autocracy by a constituent assembly and the "sooner the government falls the better. Therefore the last source of the existence of the old regime—its financial revenue—must be stopped."

The document is signed by the members of the workmen's council, the committee of the Pan-Russian union and the central committees of the Social Democrats, Social Revolutionists and Socialists of Poland.

This great step of the revolutionaries, which throws down the gauge of battle to the government, was prepared with such secrecy that the authorities were taken off their guard and did not even attempt to prevent its publication in the newspapers. The revolutionary leaders expect it will be followed by reprisals and arrests, but all this has been foreseen. The leaders laid their plans deeply before issuing the manifesto. New committees [illegible] have been [illegible] to the third and fourth degree. If one set of committees is put behind the bars another will take its place and carry on the work.

TROOPS ON DEFENSIVE

SOLDIERS OF THE CZAR UNABLE TO MAKE HEADWAY AGAINST THE INSURGENTS.

Mitau, Province of Courland, Dec. 18.—The troops in order to avoid annihilation at the hands of the insurgents have been forced to abandon the country districts and to concentrate at Riga, Mitau and Libau, where they actually are standing on the defensive, unable to make headway against the insurgents. Several detachments have been defeated. The garrison of Takuna (Tuckum?), consisting of a squadron of dragoons and a company of infantry, not being able to depart in time, was set upon at night and lost its commander, Lieutenant Colonel Mueller and thirty men. The insurgents, evading the sentinels patrolling the town, laid wire entanglements in front of the houses in which the wearied soldiers were quartered. They then set fire to the houses and the troops rushing out were shot down from the roofs or cut up in the narrow streets.

The soldiers retreated in confusion, leaving their dead. The latter were horribly mutilated by the insurgents, who gouged out their eyes and cut off their ears and hands.

The insurgents, who form great bands, have a regular military organization and are well armed with military rifles and bayonets.

SERIOUS STREET FIGHTING.

Three Hundred Persons Killed at Mitau, Russia.

Berlin, Dec. 18.—A dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Koenigsberg, Prussia, says:

During the street fighting at Mitau, the capital of Courland, 300 persons were killed.

At Leonowarden, in Southern Livonia, the revolutionists liberated all the prisoners and shot Assistant District Governor Peterson and M. Maximovitch, his secretary, and threw their bodies into the river.

JOHANN HOCH TO HANG

SUPREME COURT OF ILLINOIS AFFIRMS SENTENCE IMPOSED ON WIFE MURDERER.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—The supreme court of the state has affirmed the verdict of the lower court which condemned Johann Hoch to death for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Marie Weicker-Hoch, and the date of his execution has been set for Feb. 23.

The first news of the action of the court was received here by a telephone message from Assistant State's Attorney Barnett, who is in Springfield. He communicated the information to State's Attorney Healy. A messenger was sent to Hoch with the news and found him in the visitor's cage, talking with the last of his many wives, Mrs. Fischer-Hoch, the sister of the woman for whose murder he was sentenced to death.

When he received the news Hoch became greatly excited and would not believe that the report was true, but after he was satisfied that it was correct he grew calm.

SECURED ONLY $40.

Northern Pacific Train Robbers Make Very Poor Haul.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 18.—It is learned that the two highwaymen who held up the North Coast limited Saturday night succeeded in getting $40 from the express car. The safes had less money in them than on any previous trip, but if the robbers had awaited until the next train it is said they would have made a considerably larger haul.

Such good clues have been obtained of the two robbers by the Northern Pacific and other detectives that hopes are entertained that both will be captured. It is the general opinion in police circles that the work was not that of experienced men.

According to the Pullman conductor, J. R. Upson, the express messenger was in the diner when the holdup occurred. Upson says that the messenger told him he did not believe there was more than $300 in the safes.

To Take Away German Residents.

The steamship Prinz Heinrich will leave here Wednesday for Riga with a like intention.

TREASURER OF NEW YORK LIFE REMOVED STOCKS FROM THE COMPANY'S VAULTS.

New York, Dec. 22.—One of the most interesting features of the life insurance investigation developed only a few moments before adjourning for the day of the Armstrong committee when Theodore F. Banta, cashier of the New York Life Insurance company, testified that about the beginning of 1901, Edmund D. Randolph, treasurer of the company, opened the vaults of the company, removed New York city stock valued at $700,000 and put a check on the Central National bank for $700,000 in its place. Mr. Banta said he helped to open the vaults at the order of Mr. Randolph and that he supposed Mr. Randolph acted for the finance committee. The stock was kept out for a few days and was then returned and the check withdrawn. The transaction was not recorded on the books of the company so far as Mr. Banta knew. The effect of the operation would be that anyone having that stock would have $700,000 worth of taxable property at the end of the year. Mr. Banta did not know who received the stock.

Mr. Randolph is expected to be one of the witnesses before the committee this week.

GO OUT OF BUSINESS

TWO CHICAGO BANKS AND ONE TRUST COMPANY FORCED TO LIQUIDATE.

Insolvent Institutions All Controlled by John R. Walsh and Their Assets Consist Largely of Stock In His Various Enterprises—Clearinghouse Banks Come to the Rescue and Guarantee Payment of Depositors.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Three of the largest financial institutions in the West, the Chicago National bank, the Home Savings bank and the Equitable Trust company, all of them controlled by John R. Walsh of this city and in great measure owned by him, suspended operations during the day. Their affairs will be liquidated as rapidly as possible and they will go out of business.

Mr. Walsh, who was the president of the Chicago National bank and the Equitable Trust company, and all the other officers of the Chicago National bank have resigned. National Bank Examiner C. H. Bosworth has succeeded Mr. Walsh at the head of the Chicago National bank and the places of the directors have been filled by men appointed by the Chicago Clearinghouse. Back of the new management stand the allied banks of Chicago, who have pledged their resources that every depositor shall be paid to the last cent and that not any customer of the three institutions shall lose anything by the suspension. Had not this action been taken by the banks of the city, a disastrous panic might have followed in this city and throughout the country. As it was the only effect upon the financial world in this city was the decline on the local stock exchange of 2½ in the price of National Biscuit common stock, which has employed the Equitable Trust as transfer agents and had besides dealings with the Chicago National bank, but it is not affected by the failure in the slightest degree. The closing of the two banks had the effect also of shutting off all demand on the local exchange of bank stock, none of them being purchased.

Cause of the Collapse.

The immediate cause of the collapse of the institutions controlled by Mr. Walsh is said to be the large amount of money which they have loaned to various private enterprises of his—notably the Southern Indiana railway and the Bedford Quarries company of Indiana. Mr. Walsh claims that if he could have had more time and been left untrammeled in his operations he could have saved his banks and made enormous profits for himself and his associates. He bases this statement on his own estimate of the value of the bonds of the Southern Indiana Railway company.

The comptroller, the state auditor and the members of the Chicago Clearhouse committee place the value of the bonds at one-half of the valuation of Mr. Walsh and it was their refusal to accept his valuation that caused the suspension of the banks.

The liabilities of the three institutions are estimated in the aggregate at $26,000,000. Against this amount the banks and the trust company have resources that are on a conservative estimate worth $16,000,000. The bonds of the Southern Indiana railway company are estimated by Mr. Walsh as being worth $16,000,000. They are considered by the comptroller, state auditor and the Clearinghouse committee to be worth a little more than half that sum. Their value is a matter to be determined in the future and the presidents of the local banks admit that if the estimate of Mr. Walsh is found to be correct, the two banks and the trust company will not only pay all of their debts but leave a surplus besides. The directors of the two banks and Mr. Walsh, who has turned over all of his private property as well as that standing in the name of Mrs. Walsh, have pledged real estate and securities valued at $5,000,000, and estimating the railroad bonds at $8,000,000 more, making a total of $29,000,000 assets, against $26,000,000 liabilities.

PFISTER CASE DISMISSED.

Court Decides Prominent Milwaukeean Not Guilty of Larceny.

Milwaukee, Dec. 16.—Judge Brazee, in the municipal court, has decided that Charles F. Pfister was not guilty of larceny as bailee as charged in the indictment returned on Aug. 4 last by the grand jury. The decision was on a motion to dismiss the defendant after the state had rested its case. The motion to discharge was argued at length for a day and a half.

The charge against Mr. Pfister was that of larceny as bailee of $14,000 belonging to the Wisconsin Rendering company. He acted as stakeholder in an effort by that company to obtain a garbage contract in Milwaukee, $25,000 being placed in his hands. It was charged that he did not account for $14,000 of this.

VOTED FORTY-THREE TIMES.

Cleveland Election Officials Indicted by Grand Jury.

Cleveland, Dec. 16.—The grand jury has returned a joint indictment against Percy A. Secor, clerk of elections in Precinct A of the Twentieth ward, and Michael Ryan, judge of elections in the same precinct. The men are charged with voting forty-three times each at the recent Republican primary election.

Plummer Man Honored.

Plummer Pioneer: The Red River Valley Dairymens Convention held at Crookston last week was the largest and best of its kind ever held in the Red River Valley. It was largely attended and all present evinced a lively interest in the proceedings. Wm. Lauritzon, the Plummer buttermaker, read an able article on "The best way to handle Hand Separator Cream."

At the business session, Mr. Lauritzon was elected vice president of the Association. This is an honor both to Mr. Lauritzon and to Plummer and shows that Mr. Lauritzon's reputation as a buttermaker is not confined to his own locality. It is his able work for the Plummer creamery that has lead up to his being so honored by the Red River Valley Association.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly, Thursday evening. Entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

The Thief River Press will appear in holiday attire this week. Sam has a habit of doing something nice all the time.

Christmas numbers have already commenced coming in. The first two to put in an appearance were the Hawley Herald and Wheelock's Weekly. Both contained elegantly ornamented title pages and were well filled with advertising matter and good meat for the readers.

Superintendent of Schools H. T. McAnulty of this county is down for a talk on "The School as a Mutual Ground" before the meeting of county superintendents during the session of the Minnesota Educational association at St. Paul next week.

The board of commissioners of Polk county are dissatisfied with the rates made by the Murphy light trust at that place and unless they can get a substantial reduction in the rate will put in an electric light plant in the Polk county court house. Polk county has a bunch of officers that have things to suit or take the bull by the horns and make them suit, and their work should be warmly approved by the general public.

Many of the prominent newspapers of the state are advocating the selection of a candidate for the republican nomination for governor who will unite the warring elements and bring harmony and victory next year says the St. Hilaire Spectator. Then again there are some who had Johnson leanings last year that don't appear to want harmony but would rather fight the old fight over and re-elect Johnson.

Owing to the fact that there are fifty three vacancies in the naval academy to be filled by Senators and 193 to be filled by the house the northwest statesmen will have an appointment to tender to meritorious families in their state. Senators Clapp and Nelson will each have one to fill and Mr. Steenerson will have one position for which to find a place. That there will be an overwhelming call for this position goes without saying. The well known office rush does not direct itself against the President alone.

The forty-third annual convention of Minnesota teachers will be held in St. Paul on Dec. 27-29. A one fare round trip good for all persons who pay one dollar to join the association has been secured. An unusually strong program has been announced, including addresses by Governor Johnson, Dr. Gunsaulus, the great Chicago preacher, Miss Jane Addams the leader in American settlement work, President Northrop and many others. Twenty section meetings will furnish help and inspiration to teachers in every field of work. Every teacher ought to go.

The farmers meeting at St. Hilaire last Saturday, an account of which is given elsewhere in today's paper, carries with it a problem for solving all difficulties that arise—that of cooperation. Wherever you find a prosperous, contected set of farmers you will also find that upon all plans for the advancement of the community they stand shoulder to shoulder, and it is to be regretted that more communities in the county do not follow the example set by the energetic class of tillers of the soil that live adjacent to St. Hilaire. Today St. Hilaire has probably the only creamery in several counties that is running full blast, and were it not for the interest taken by the farmers this would be an impossibility. A close study of co-operation for advancement reveals the fact that the practice makes the perfect communities whether it be among the farmers or business men.

Anoka Union: A shoe house went up the spout in Anoka recently and it's no wonder. The business was carried on without advertising, save only its location and what its show windows afforded. The columns of the newspapers were not used, and now the business is in the hands of a trustee, who since taking charge, has invested quite liberally in printer's ink. To do and to get business today, money must be spent in advertising, in some manner, and the best authorities claim that newspaper advertising always brings the greatest results. Had this shoe house advertised I'm thinking it would have been doing business today as the line is not over-represented here. A business man, who thinks in this age of sharp competition he can command patronage without advertising, is greatly mistaken. He's behind the times, and failure is mighty apt to follow.

NOT A FAIR DEAL.

The new ruling of the postoffice department anent the retention of all postoffice incumbents on the "merit system" has already caused a storm of protest and the fact that in a great many of the cities of the northwest the affair has a local bearing makes it all the more interesting.

Had the new idea advanced, which brings the postmastership practically under the civil service head, been put in practice a great many years ago there is but little question but that the plan must have worked out to the betterment of the extensive government system, but when we consider that the policy of "to the victor belongs the spoils" has been the predominant one especially in postoffice affairs for the past decade, the new ruling coming just at this time savors strongly of an attempt at political power exercised by those in charge of affairs as against the wishes of the people.

Admitting at the outset that ninety per cent of the postmasters of our district are perfectly competent and could continue to serve the people faithfully and efficiently for years to come, the argument is still good that there are in every city others equally as competent and where as in our own district the fight over the congressional nomination was so hotly contested it is no more than justly fair to confer the honors on those who won them in the free-for-all fight.

The new "merit system", however, is the ideal plan of conducting this branch as well as others of government affairs, but it would appear that justice could be accorded to all alike by setting a date in the future for the beginning of the new policy and adhering to it strictly thereafter. In that way the congressional candidates would know what they were to go against and no promises would be made that could not be carried out to the letter.

Make the new order general and set a date reasonably far ahead to give sufficient notice and the merit system is to be desired, but to attempt to spring it on the public without a chance for the ayes and nays savors too strongly of the political axe being ground down to a fine point without the consent of the grindees.

WILL BUILD MILL.

Enterprising Farmers Near St. Hilaire Plan New Enterprise.

A meeting of the farmers tributary to St. Hilaire was held at that place last Saturday, the object of the meeting being to get an expression of sentiment in regard to the erection of a 60 to 75 barrel flouring mill and elevator.

C. H. Martz was elected chairman and N. A. Nelson secretary of the meeting, and the general sentiment was largely in favor of immediately commencing the work of soliciting funds and getting in shape to start the work early in the spring.

Canvassers for the towns of River Falls, Rocksbury, Sanders, Black River, Bray, Polk Center, Wyandotte, Gervais, Numedahl, North Smiley, and Red Lake Falls were appointed to solicit in behalf of the enterprise and report later.

A ways and means committee of nine was appointed and another meeting will be held Feb. 6, when definate action will be taken.

Mrs. Fred Schmidt Passes Away After Lingering Illness.

Mrs. Mary Schmidt, wife of Fred Schmidt, living just north of the city, died at her home Saturday night after a lingering illnes, having been an invalid for over a year past.

Deceased leaves a husband and four children to mourn her, and was one of the early settlers of this part of the county, Mr. Schmidt having taken his now handssme place as a homestead a great many years ago.

HER PHYSICIANS DESPAIRED.
ADVISED CHANGE OF CLIMATE.

Pe-ru-na, Used as a Last Resort, Cured Her of a Severe Attack of Catarrh of the Lungs.

MRS. IDA CALDWELL.

The Sensational Cure of Mrs. Caldwell Is the Talk of Her Acquaintances.

Mrs. Ida Caldwell, 506 Pearl street, Sioux City, Ia., Vice-President Order of Washington, writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the respiratory organs off and on for the last three years until I thought it was chronic. My chest and lungs were irritated and I had to use the greatest care not to expose myself to chilly air or dampness as it increased my troubles.

"My physician advised me to try a change of climate, but I was unable to leave my family. Reading of the wonderful cures performed by Peruna, I bought a bottle.

"It was with the greatest satisfaction that I found it the one medicine among them all which cured me. I was relieved within three days and after two months and a half the irritation was gone, my lungs perfectly healed and my health restored."—Ida Caldwell.

Thousands of women owe their lives to Peruna. Hundreds of thousands owe their health to Peruna. Hundreds of thousands are praising Peruna in every state of the Union.

We have many thousands of letters from grateful women, with permission to use them in public print, which can never be used for want of space.

Catarrh would not be such a curse in this country if the people thoroughly understand its nature. It must be treated at once to prevent it from making inroads upon vital organs.

If you suffer from catarrh, buy Peruna to-day, for a day gained on the enemy, catarrh, means a day nearer recovery.

We have on file many thousand testimonials like the one given here. We can only give our readers a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements we are receiving. No other physician in the world has received such a volume of enthusiastic letters of thanks as Dr. Hartman for Peruna.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. BLOWN INTO SHREDS

FIVE MEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION AT POWDER WORKS NEAR MARQUETTE, MICH.

Marquette, Mich., Dec. 16.—Five men were killed by an explosion at the Dupont company's dynamite works here. About 1,400 pounds of nitroglycerin exploded in the mixinghouse of the company's factory, which is three miles distant from Marquette. The explosion badly damaged the plant and caused much excitement in Marquette. The dead are all workmen employed by the Dupont company. The men were blown into shreds. Of the thirty buildings in the plant few escaped damage and some were badly wrecked. The mixinghouse was utterly destroyed. In Marquette windows all over town were smashed and in the business district much plate glass was splintered.

Inspector-at-large J. T. Jones, of the state game and fish commission, spent Tuesday evening in the city. Mr. Jones has made his headquarters at Thief River Falls for several months past, but expects to move his base of operations to this city about the first of the year. He will fit up a suite of office rooms over the Merchants State Bank.

John Lacrosse, of Louisville, appeared before Justice Lewis Tuesday and swore out a warrant for Frank and Benson Terreau for stealing 75 bushels of flax from his granary in that town. A change of venue was taken to Justice Toupin's court where the case will be tried.

The famous "Gold Seal" flour made by our mill does not need much advertising, as its excellent quality is the best kind of advertisement. No better flour can be had at any price, and a trial sack will convince you that you haven't used the best until you used "Gold Seal." Ask your grocer and if he hasn't got it, 'phone the Northern Minnesota Milling company, and we will see that it is deliverep promptly. Also all kinds of mill feed always on hand.

Joe Lachance has been figuring some on going to the southern part of the state or to Washington to spend the winter, but says that if the weather continues as nice here as it has been so far that he will stay in Red Lake Falls. The present winter has been a fine one so far, and if the weather man can be induced to dish up the same quality of weather during the next few months the blessings of the populace will be tendered him.

Elsewhere in The Gazette will be found an advertisement for Paul's hotel in this city. Mr. Paul has added extensive improvements to his place during the summer and now has a strictly up-to-date hostlery. Among other improvements a large furnace has been placed in the basement, and the entire building is now hot-air heated and has many accommodations for the public. A free bus is run constantly and with the well-known reputation for a first-class place the Paul house is making a strong bid for a share of the trade.

City Attorney Chas. E. Boughton was at St. Hilaire on business yesterday. Mr. Bougnton went down to Crookston Monday evening and before Judge Watts secured a judgment in favor of Halvor Johnson, who was defendant in a suit over the title of a farm near St. Hilaire. The suit was brought by the heirs of John Johnson claiming that said John Johnson had proved up on the place and therefore owned it. Halvor Johnson bought the tax title to the place and cleared his title to it, and Mr. Boughton succeeded in demonstrating to the court that the case should be decided in favor of his client.

The annual meeting of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company is advertised to be held at St. Hilaire on Monday, the 8th day of January. The Bray Mutual is one of the most successful co-operative insurance societies in the state, and their record of the past season has been phenomenal. They have only been called upon to pay one loss, and this was paid from the reserve fund which let the policy holders off without a single assessment. A number of the farmers of Red Lake Falls township carry insurance in this society, and it is probable that more will join next year.

The Gazette editor was a business caller at Thief River Falls Monday and while there was very pleasantly entertained by Bros. Eastman and Clark. We were shown the postoffice which is now located in its new home, and were much impressed with the elegent set of fixtures that Postmaster Richardson has recently installed for the benefit of the patrons. They are exceptionally elaborate, and the patrons of the Thief River office find it a pleasure to call for their mail in the handsome new home. We were also shown through the new First State Bank home, and while friend Dobner has not moved yet it can truly be said that he will have occasion to swell up when he gets in the new quarters. The bank is commodious and the fixtures and entire interior finish are better than are usually found in a town many times larger than Thief River Falls. Mr. Dobner started out with the intention of getting something nice, and that he carried out his fondest anticipations is easily apparent. Thief River has enjoyed a good building boom this summer, and while we were dissappointed in not being run down by an electric car or given a ride on the elevated, nevertheless our visit to the north neighbor was immensely enjoyed.

JIM SUTOR RESIGNS

Old Member of Board of County Commissioners Steps Down and Out of Public Service.

Chairman Ole J. Johnson of the board of county commissioners of Red Lake county was a caller here last Thursday and filed with Auditor Ford the resignation of James Sutor, of the first commisssoner district who has left the county.

The naming of Mr. Sutor,s successor will be in the hands of the chairmen of the several towns represented in the district, who are as follows: Polk Center, Frank Shirrick; Black River, Felix Adderson; Bray, C. P. Swanson; Numedal, August Lindberg; Louisville, F. P. Greniere.

Notices have been sent to the different chairmen and it is likely that they will meet shortly to chosoe the new commissioner.

Mr. Sutor was a competent member of the board and will be missed by his colleagues.

STOLE A PLENTY.

Store At Thief River Falls Looted Sunday Night.

The store of S. Swenson at Thief River Falls was entered Sunday night, and the burglars did not appear to want the money drawer or safe, but went after the dry goods, groceries, etc., and took a large wagon load of goods out of the stock. It is thought that they backed up their wagon to the back door and after loading it to the gun-wale lit out with the property. The officers had a slight clew to work on and will probably apprehend the culprits who did the clever job.

Bray Mutual Prosperous.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Secretary C. P. Swanson of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company, was in town last Monday making arrangements for the annual meeting of that company which will occur January 8. Mr. Swanson informs us that the figures are not yet at hand but that the company has had another prosperous year. A large number of new members have been secured and but one loss reported which was paid out of the surplus fund so that no assessment was made this year.

RE-OPEN FAMOUS CASE

Supreme Court Reverses The Findings of the Lower Tribunal In the Famous Shevlin Case.

Last Friday afternoon in the rooms of Judge Jaggard in the supreme court in St. Paul the sensational suit of Edwin Shevlin against his brother Thomas Shevlin, the Minneapolis millionaire lumberman was acted on and as a result the findings of the lower court in favor of Thomas Shevlin were reversed and the case will have to be tried again.

The decision was made so on the grounds that undue influence was exercised over the transfer of stock in the Crookston Lumber Company owned by Edwin Shevlin to his brother Thomas Shevlin. The litigation of the two brothers, which has aired so much of the family troubles of the Shevlins grew out of the transfer of 200 shares of stock in the Crookston Lumber Company to Thomas Shevlin in 1903 for a consideration of $70,000, $20,000 of which was cash.

Edwin C. Shevlin then and for some years before was incapacitated by over indulgence in drink, and this his brother it is claimed took advantage of in forcing him to sell. Both had married sisters, and Thomas Shevlins forced purchase os the stock, it was said, was in defiance of his brother's wife's wishes that the transaction be deferred until her husband was in better shape to know what he was doing.

The younger Shevlin after disposing of his stock to his brother went East and according to the testimony woke up one morning in a sanitarium only to realize that he had been as he alleged swindled. Edwin aided by his wife then began suit for the cancellation of the contract between his brother and himself and a new accounting of the business claiming that instead of $70,000 his holdings were worth anywhere from $112,000 to $286,000. The suit tried in the Hennepin district court was unusually sensational in that it brought to light a number of the Shevlin family failings.

Edwin Shevlin was shown to have suffered a fracture of the skull when quite young which temporarily affected his reason. Later he became addicted to the drink habit. Thomas Shevlin it was shown was at all times the master band and this fact the brother claimed led Thomas to take advantage of his unsound condition.

A Commendable Spirit.

St. Hilaire Spectator: There is a spirit of co-operation among the farmers of this part of the county which has always brought results in the past and will, we think, do much more in the future. Today the farmers will meet at the village hall to discuss whether or not they will build a flour mill the coming year. The Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company, the St. Hilaire creamery and the Farmers' Threshing Machine company have already shown what co-operation can do if properly managed. Big things look small if the proper spirit and sufficient number of persons are interested. We wish them success.

Good Advertising Medium.

A prominent business man of this city remarked yesterday that anyone who doubted the pulling qualities of Gazette advertising would have easily been given a shock if they had been in his place of business since last Thursday. A good sized ad was inserted calling attention to several lines of Christmas goods that had never been carried by his store before, and the demand for these goods has been constant since that time, nearly every buyer remarking that they noticed by The Gazette that these articles could be had there. The Gazette enjoys the happy distinction of being a weekly visitor into nearly every home in the south half of Red Lake county, and the advertisers never fail to get returns for the money invested.

fire before him, undoubtedly in the hopes of rescuing his loved ones caught in that terrible place.

While all this was happening Mrs. Mikkelson's son had hastened to a neighbor and turned in the alarm and the clang of the fire bell soon brought the fire department and people from their beds to hurry forth to the scene of the conflagration.

Willing hands were soon on the scene, but the building was then totally wrapped in flames and any effort to attempt to enter the building in search of the unfortunate victims would have been folly. Water was soon at hand and the fire got under control, but not until the house was naught but a pile of smoking ruins. As soon as the ruins could be cooled down sufficiently, the firemen at once begun the search for the bodies of the family. The body of the mother was first found, lying but a few feet from the back door. Near her were the two little boys, and farther into the building near the center the remains of the father. The little girl's body was found in one corner under where her bed stood, and it is the supposition that she was the only one that was not out of her bed.

The location of the bodies advances the theory that the father had succeeded in getting them all near the back window upstairs (which was nearly over the door near which they were found in the ruins) and had gone for the little girl when he was either over-come by the smoke or the floor gave way precipitating the family into the terrible fire below them. Many therories of course are advanced as to this, some thinking that the father slept downstairs and was not awakened until the fire had nearly eaten the floor above him away, and his weight caused it to fall as soon as he entered through the window, while others think that the floor held him in his heroic work of trying to save his family and that he was overcome by the terrible heat and gases and lay unconscious with his dear ones until the final fall.

The bodies were all terribly mutilated by the fire, only those of the father and one little boy being at all recognizable. None of them had any clothing on other than their night clothes, and the ravages of the flames on the nude bodies was indeed terrible. The little girl was the most horribly mutilated, and her body had to be gathered up in parts before it could be placed in the blanket. The bodies were rolled in blankets and taken to the Woodman hall and the relatives of the family at once notified. Martell's father lives at Gentilly and three brothers also live in this neighborhood and they came in early the next day, and remained until the funeral.

The funeral was held from St. Joseph's church Monday morning at 9 o'clock and the church never held a larger audience or one with more genuine feelings of sorrow than that which was present to pay the last respects to an esteemed family of our city. The remains were all interred in a general grave at Gentilly, and the sight of the large platform containing all that was left of what but a few hours before was a happy family in the best of health was one that will never be forgotten by the onlookers. The funeral was in charge of the Red Lake Falls camp of Modern Woodmen of America, of which Mr. Martell was an enthusiastic member. Many beautiful floral tributes from the lodge and from the Royal Neighbors and other friends covered the caskets.

The origin of the fire that wiped out in so short a time a happy family of five will never be known, but it is supposed to have occured from an over-heated air-tight stove that probably exploded. The house was a very small structure being only about 18 x 12, one story high, the upper part being used as a bed room and having no partition. The family had been down town that evening doing some trading and Mr. Martell was busy at the shop until about ten o'clock, and the supposition is that they built a good fire when they arrived home and shut the stove down tight, with the result that the accumalation of gases exploded and threw the burning fire all about the lower part, converting it into a living furnace in but a few moments. As stated before, these are only conjectures and as there are many theories presented that look possible the public can accept the one that they think is correct.

Whatever was the cause, the affair was the most terrible in the history of the north country, and that a family of five should be sacrificed in a diminutive building of that sort will ever remain an unexplained mystery.

Peter Martell, the father, has been a resident of Red Lake Falls a number of years, conducting a blacksmith and machine business, and was a man well liked by his fellowmen. Industrious and upright he provided a comfortable living for his little family, and few men spent more time at home or appeared to be more attached to his loved ones than did Mr. Martell. His wife was the daughter of Z. Perrault, formerly of Lake Pleasant township, but now of North Yakima, Washington, and was a cousin of Theo. LaBissoniere, Mrs. L. P. Berthou and a relative of several other townspeople. Three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Martell, Dan, 12 years old, Edward, 10 and Annie, 8, and all of them met death in the terrible fire that swept away their little home.

Much more could be said about it all, but Mr. Martell showed his quality as a man, a father and a hero when he rushed into what was sure death to try and save his loved ones, and his name will ever be mentioned as a hero in the fullest sense of the word.

To the relatives of the family the sympathy of the community is extended in the greatest capacity, and it is sincerely hoped that the little family sleeping side by side in the cold earth today are happy together in that greater home on the other shore.

LOGGERS TIED UP.

Mild Weather Interferes With Lumbering Operations.

Crookston Times: "Loggers of Northern Minnesota are practically tied up for the lack of cold weather," said Special Agent Layman of this city yesterday. "The mild weather has made logging roads and even tote roads impassible and nothing can be done in the camps operating on low wet ground in the line of skidding or hauling. Where the logging is upon high dry ground the work of cutting and skidding is going ahead with fair progress, but where the land is the least bit moist or boggy, even skidding is impossible and the work is at a standstill. Even the tote roads to the camps are in such shape that they cannot be used."

Mr. Layman drove over a large area of country out east during his recent trip and came in actual contact with the conditions existing. The loggers generally are saying things about the weather and are praying for a cold snap. If the mild days continue much longer there will be little to brag about in the sum total of the timber cut during the season. This is the best time of the year for the work and but a small percentage of the logs contracted for will be got out unless the conditions are changed wonderfully during the next few weeks and the spring is an exceedingly late one.

PRETTY XMAS SERVICES

The Churches of Red Lake Falls Do Their Part Toward Observing The Great Day.

Christmas passed off quietly in Red Lake Falls, the business places being generally closed and the people enjoying a holiday in every sense of the word.

The services at the churches all claimed a large quota of visitors, and the morning was devoted largely to church going by a good share of the people.

At St. Mary's three masses were said, one at 5 o'clock in the morning, the second immediately following and high mass again at 10:30. The church was very beautifully decorated and the services were all largely attended.

At St. Joseph's low mass was held at 8 o'clock with another low mass immediately following, and the beautiful high mass at 10:30. Special music was provided and the services were all well attended.

No services were held at the Presbyterian church Christmas day, but the evening before a Christmas tree and program was given by the young people of the congregation which was largely attended.

The day was a beautiful one, and after partaking of their big Christmas feasts the people took advantage of the fine afternoon to get out and enjoy the beautiful sunshine and balmy breezes.

Hay Was Profitable.

Andrew Soderberg of Rocksbury, near St. Hilaire tells the biggest hay story of the year. He says that he cut 26 tons the first crop and 36 tons the second crop from a ten acre field of red clover this year making over 6 tons of clover to an acre. The field was sown to timothy and clover but the timothy was all crowded out. This will clearly prove that the past season although the wettest in years, was not too wet for tame hay where the land was properly drained.

A BIG JUDICIAL DITCH

Engineer Ralph Finishing Work of Surveying New Polk and Red Lake County Waterway.

State Ditch Engineer Ralph and his crews of civil engineers are at Erskine finishing up the work on Judicial ditch number 5. The ditch will be one of the longest in the state being with its two branches as laid out forty miles from start to finish. The ditch has its beginning as planned in the township of Garden Polk county and runs northerly into Red Lake county traversing a territory which needs drainage very badly.

The Terrebonne ditch which is its final outlet empties into a coulee and later finds its way to Badger creek and the river. The work of laying out the big waterway will keep Mr. Ralph and his crew busy until after the first of the year and it is then expected that the work on the state topographical survey will be resumed.

People living along Badger creek are somewhat disposed to protest against the new ditch on the grounds that it will flood their land during the spring freshets with its immense volume of water, but it is thought that they will not offer serious objection when the proper explanation is put before them.

MILL CASE IS SETTLED

Marcus Jchnson and Red Lake Falls City Get Together Over Saw Mill Proposition.

The fight over the possession of the old saw mill property in this city was amicably adjusted the first of the week, when Marens Johnson, who claimed the right to the mill by purchase from F. B. Newton, and the officers of the city got together and settled the matter between themselves, Mr. Johnson paying the city a satisfactory price for the mill and securing the right to remove the old lumber from the grounds.

The settlement of the controversy cuts out what promised to be a pretty legal fight, as Mr. Johnson intended to carry the matter through to the end and the city was just as determined to win their point. The fact that it meant a big expense and a long drawn out fight gave both parties excellent excuse to make overtures and the result was the settlement of the difficulties out of court.

Opinion differs as to the merits of the case, some contending that Mr. Johnson could go ahead and take the property without buying it from the city, while others claim that it belonged to the municipality from the fact that it was built on city property. The point of law was a fine one, and the adjustment of the difficult without resorting to the courts for aid was a happy conclusion.

The land occupied by the mill, about 30 acres, still remains the property of the city.

LOGGERS TIED UP.

Mild Weather Interferes With Lumbering Operations.

Crookston Times: "Loggers of Northern Minnesota are practically tied up for the lack of cold weather," said Special Agent Layman of this city yesterday. "The mild weather has made logging roads and even tote roads impassible and nothing can be done in the camps operating on low wet ground in the line of skidding or hauling. Where the logging is upon high dry ground the work of cutting and skidding is going ahead with fair progress, but where the land is the least bit moist or boggy, even skidding is impossible and the work is at a standstill. Even the tote roads to the camps are in such shape that they cannot be used."

Mr. Layman drove over a large area of country out east during his recent trip and came in actual contact with the conditions existing. The loggers generally are saying things about the weather and are praying for a cold snap. If the mild days continue much longer there will be little to brag about in the sum total of the timber cut during the season. This is the best time of the year for the work and but a small percentage of the logs contracted for will be got out unless the conditions are changed wonderfully during the next few weeks and the spring is an exceedingly late one.

THREAT MADE GOOD

GENERAL STRIKE IN RUSSIA IS TRANSFORMED INTO ARMED REBELLION.

Fierce Fighting Occurs at Moscow, More Than Five Hundred Persons Being Killed or Wounded—Leaders of the Workmen's Organizations Plan to Produce an Uprising in St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 25.—With Moscow's baptism of blood, the revolutionaries made good their threat to transform the strike into armed rebellion and the next forty-eight hours should determine whether they can marshal sufficient strength to plunge the country into an actual state of civil war and seriously threaten the immediate downfall of the government.

The government professes confidence that the whole attempt will fail owing to the woeful insufficiency of arms in possession of the proletariat and by reason of the loyalty of the army as a whole; but its calculations might again be rudely upset. A few arsenals might be seized to furnish arms or the open support of a few regiments might start a landslide in the army. Certainly the shrewdest of the revolutionary leaders fully appreciate that the issue must be decided by the attitude of the army, which is yet to cast the die.

Thus far reports from Moscow do not clear up the vital point as to whether any of the troops there actually refused to obey commands, although there are persistent rumors that they did. Revolutionary leaders here claim to have confirmation of a report that a grenadier brigade and some Cossacks mutinied and are now locked up in their barracks. While the military succeeded everywhere in driving the insurgents from their barricades in Moscow Saturday night, the defeat evidently was not a decisive one, as barricades were again thrown up in dozens of places Sunday morning and fighting was renewed before 11 o'clock.

Orders Issued for an Uprising.

It is said that orders have been issued for an uprising here, but the government's measures seemingly render this impossible. No meetings, public or private, are allowed, which makes an assembly of more than five persons in a private lodging illegal. The prisons and jails are filled with leaders of the revolutionaries and agitators. Two caches of arms have been seized and an entire organization consisting of 300 "crujina," as the student militia is called, has been captured.

Rumors were purposely circulated that a conflict would be inaugurated at a demonstration of workmen in the Nevsky Prospect Sunday afternoon, but they proved to be unfounded. The city, in fact, was unnaturally calm on the surface, and a stranger dropping down the Nevsky Prospect in the afternoon would have seen no evidence of ferment. It was a bright, crisp winter day and smart sleighs and equippages of the aristocracy with their occupants in sables and other rich furs were out in force. Only the sullen faces of the crowds of strikers on the sidewalks and heavy horses and foot patrols on every block looked ominous.

If the plans of the revolutionaries to produce an uprising in St. Petersburg fail, as it is believed they will, an attempt certainly will be made to terrorize the government by guerrilla warfare in which bombs will play the chief role. The government having embarked in a war against the "reds" it is difficult to see how it can draw back one step.

FIGHTING AT MOSCOW

MORE THAN FIVE HUNDRED PERSONS KILLED OR WOUNDED DURING BATTLE.

Moscow, Dec. 25.—Artillery, rifle and revolver firing continued throughout the day, but the noise of the battle has now somewhat abated. The guns have been bombarding one barricade after another, the cannonade being followed by charges from the dragoons, who set fire to the debris. The area of the fighting during the day was more extended and included Trabnols square, Sadovia, Karetnaia and many other streets.

The revolutionaries apparently have not in the least lost heart, notwithstanding Saturday's heavy casualties. It is now known that 500 is a moderate estimate of the losses and many more persons fell Sunday.

The revolutionaries had few successes. They surprised a force of gendarmes in Karetnaia street Sunday, killing or wounding twenty of them. Since then artillery has been firing uninterruptedly in that section of the city.

In many cases dragoons fired into private houses where they suspected revolutionaries had taken refuge.

In nearly every district large numbers of innocent persons were accidentally killed or wounded.

Late Sunday afternoon it was reported that firing was proceeding in the outskirts of the city and that there were heavy losses on both sides.

During the day bombs were thrown in the streets.

LIBERAL POLICY OUTLINED.

British Premier Opposed to Coolie Labor in South Africa.

London, Dec. 22.—The announcement of Premier Campbell-Bannerman in his speech in Albert hall at the opening of the electoral campaign that the government has given instructions for the stoppage of importations of Chinese coolies to South Africa caused the Kaffir market to open weak. The Conservative papers refer to the step as being "the most serious taken by a responsible government since the attempt to impose the stamp duty on the American colonies."

The premier's reference to Indian affairs, in which he said, "We shall make ourselves a party to no step involving an invasion of the sacred principle of the subordination of the military to civil authority," is taken by many military men to imply either the recall or the resignation of General Lord Kitchener, the commander-in-chief in India, who successfully appealed to the late government in his disputes with the late viceroy, Lord Curzon of Kedleston.

While the premier had little to say on the Irish question the Conservatives will take his announcement that "those domestic affairs which concern the Irish people alone and not us should be in their hands" as a reiteration of the policy of home rule and this will be the battle cry of the Unionists in the impending campaign.

ATTORNEY CONVICTED

ABRAHAM H. HUMMEL IS FOUND GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY IN DIVORCE CASE.

New York, Dec. 21.—Abraham H. Hummel, the lawyer, during the day was convicted of conspiracy in connection with the Dodge-Morse divorce case. He was sentenced within a few minutes after the jury's verdict had been pronounced to one year's imprisonment and a fine of $500, which is the maximum penalty for the misdemeanor of which he was adjudged guilty. A motion of his lawyers for an arrest of judgment for twenty-four hours was denied and Hummel was taken to the Tombs preparatory to going to the penitentiary. He prepared to spend the night at the Tombs, but was released from the Tombs at 10 o'clock at night under $10,000 bail on a writ of reasonable doubt secured from Judge Woodward of the supreme court in Brooklyn.

FITZSIMMONS BEATEN.

Loses in Fight With Philadelphia Jack O'Brien.

San Francisco, Dec. 21.—Robert Fitzsimmons collapsed at the close of the thirteenth round of his fight with Jack O'Brien. He had fought hard, but nature could not longer stand the strain and after the gong had sounded for the close of the thirteenth round, he walked to his corner and sat in his chair. Then his head fell over on his breast, his whole body collapsed and the fighting wonder of the age was "all in." Referee Graney saw his condition and awarded the fight to O'Brien. While punched in the face and badly cut up and several times in jeopardy, Fitzsimmons always managed to come to and resume the fight. Just at the close of the thirteenth round he landed a left on O'Brien's stomach, but the Philadelphian came back with a similar blow and followed it with a left to the jaw. The gong rang for the close of the round and Fitzsimmons walked to his corner and collapsed.

MINISTER TO NORWAY.

Assistant Secretary Peirce First American Representative.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Herbert H. D. Peirce, third assistant secretary of state, has been selected by the president as the first American minister to Norway.

Charles Denby, chief clerk of the department, has been determined upon as successor to Mr. Peirce in the state department. This announcement was made officially at the department.

Official announcement was made that David Thompson, former minister to Brazil, has been chosen as ambassador to Mexico.

CAUSES WILD ALARM.

Destructive Fire in Crowded Tenement District of New York City.

New York, Dec. 26.—Hundreds of tenement house babies and their toy laden Christmas trees were carried into the street before daylight during a fire which threatened to obliterate several blocks of the city in the vicinity of Fifty-eighth street and Eleventh avenue. A six-story factory building was completely destroyed with a loss of $100,000.

The fire caused a panic among the residents of the crowded tenements, but nobody was hurt.

THREE PERSONS KILLED.

Their Carriage Struck and Demolished by an Engine.

Alma, Kan., Dec. 25.—Chris Anderson, his son Morton and his mother-in-law, Mrs. L. J. Woodward of Altavista, Kan., were killed here during the day while crossing the railway tracks, their carriage being struck and demolished by an engine.

Prominent Attorney Killed.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 26.—As the result of the promiscuous firing of their revolvers by a party of negroes noisily celebrating Christmas, Frank Poston, one of the most prominent attorneys of this city, was shot and killed.

HELD VOID BY COURT

BROOKLYN JUDGE KNOCKS OUT NEW ASSESSMENTS OF THE ROYAL ARCANUM.

Denies Right of the Supreme Council to Increase the Rates or in Any Way Change the Assessments of a Member From What They Were When the Member Was Admitted Into the Order.

New York, Dec. 23.—Justice Gaynor, in the supreme court in Brooklyn, handed down a decision in the case of James L. Mock, formerly secretary of Berkeley council 1954, Royal Arcanum of Brooklyn, and others against the supreme council of the order, denying the right of the supreme council to raise the rates or in any way change the assessments of a member from what they were when the member was admitted into the order. Justice Gaynor said:

"The amendments complained of in the assessments are void for the reason that they cannot change the contracts of the members of the organization."

The hearing in this action took two days and among the witnesses were William O. Robson, secretary of the supreme council. Mr. Robson said that the Royal Arcanum had now in force about $575,000,000 in insurance certificates and that under the law of Massachusetts the order had the right to increase the assessment or raise the rates under proper procedure.

ATTACKS ROOSEVELT

EX-GOVERNOR ODELL OF NEW YORK BITTERLY ASSAILS CHIEF EXECUTIVE.

New York, Dec. 21.—Former Governor B. B. Odell, chairman of the Republican state committee, made a statement during the day in which he charged President Roosevelt and Governor Higgins with a deliberate attempt to wreck the Republican party of this state for their own personal ambitions. He declared that if disaster ensued they, not he, will be responsible.

DUE TO JAP VICTORY.

Long Struggle for Open Door in Manchuria Terminates Successfully.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Important details of the treaty between China and Japan, signed at Peking during the day, have reached the state department by cable. China consents to lease to Japan the Liaotung peninsula, at the southern extremity of which is Port Arthur and Dalny. This territory formerly was held by Russia under lease from China. China concedes to Japan the control of the railway on the peninsula northward as far as Changchin. This is one of the spurs which connects with the Russian Siberian railway system and the point named probably will mark the division between Russian and Japanese control.

Most important of all of the provisions of the treaty is an article whereby China agrees to open to the world's commerce and trade sixteen principal ports and cities in Manchuria, including Harbin, the modern Russian capital of the province and its most important railroad center, thus marking, in the opinion of the state department officials, the final success of the long struggle by the United States for the open door.

BEEF TRUST TRIAL.

Jury Selected and Special Plea Will Be Determined Jan. 9.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—The twenty-one persons and corporations indicted on charges of conspiracy in restraint of trade in the meat business will go to trial Jan. 9, 1906, on their ten special pleas for immunity.

The jury, which was finally accepted after eighty-one veniremen had been questioned, consists of five farmers, three real estate dealers, two carpenters, one stock raiser and one printer.

The verdict of this jury will decide only whether the packers are to be tried later on the main charges in the case or go free altogether on their claim that they are entitled to immunity from prosecution if, as they assert, they furnished evidence against themselves during the Garfield investigation and which evidence, it is declared by the defendants, was used against them to bring the indictments.

MATTERS AGAIN COMPLICATED.

Castro Refuses to Deal With French Charge at Caracas.

Paris, Dec. 23.—The officials here say that President Castro's failure to resume diplomatic relations with M. Taigny, the French charge at Caracas, may complicate matters and postpone a settlement of the question in dispute. France asked for the withdrawal of Venezuela's offensive note declining to deal with M. Taigny. Therefore the withdrawal of the note and the continued declination to deal with M. Taigny are considered as renewing the old controversy. The officials say M. Taigny will not be withdrawn.

THREAT MADE GOOD

GENERAL STRIKE IN RUSSIA IS TRANSFORMED INTO ARMED REBELLION.

Fierce Fighting Occurs at Moscow, More Than Five Hundred Persons Being Killed or Wounded—Leaders of the Workmen's Organizations Plan to Produce an Uprising in St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 25.—With Moscow's baptism of blood, the revolutionaries made good their threat to transform the strike into armed rebellion and the next forty-eight hours should determine whether they can marshal sufficient strength to plunge the country into an actual state of civil war and seriously threaten the immediate downfall of the government.

The government professes confidence that the whole attempt will fail owing to the woeful insufficiency of arms in possession of the proletariat and by reason of the loyalty of the army as a whole; but its calculations might again be rudely upset. A few arsenals might be seized to furnish arms or the open support of a few regiments might start a landslide in the army. Certainly the shrewdest of the revolutionary leaders fully appreciate that the issue must be decided by the attitude of the army, which is yet to cast the die.

Thus far reports from Moscow do not clear up the vital point as to whether any of the troops there actually refused to obey commands, although there are persistent rumors that they did. Revolutionary leaders here claim to have confirmation of a report that a grenadier brigade and some Cossacks mutinied and are now locked up in their barracks. While the military succeeded everywhere in driving the insurgents from their barricades in Moscow Saturday night, the defeat evidently was not a decisive one, as barricades were again thrown up in dozens of places Sunday morning and fighting was renewed before 11 o'clock.

Orders Issued for an Uprising.

It is said that orders have been issued for an uprising here, but the government's measures seemingly render this impossible. No meetings, public or private, are allowed, which makes an assembly of more than five persons in a private lodging illegal. The prisons and jails are filled with leaders of the revolutionaries and agitators. Two caches of arms have been seized and an entire organization consisting of 300 "crujlaa," as the student militia is called, has been captured.

Rumors were purposely circulated that a conflict would be inaugurated at a demonstration of workmen in the Nevsky Prospect Sunday afternoon, but they proved to be unfounded. The city, in fact, was unnaturally calm on the surface, and a stranger dropping down the Nevsky Prospect in the afternoon would have seen no evidence of ferment. It was a bright, crisp winter day and smart sleighs and equippages of the aristocracy with their occupants in sables and other rich furs were out in force. Only the sullen faces of the crowds of strikers on the sidewalks and heavy horses and foot patrols on every block looked ominous.

If the plans of the revolutionaries to produce an uprising in St. Petersburg fail, as it is believed they will, an attempt certainly will be made to terrorize the government by guerrilla warfare in which bombs will play the chief role. The government having embarked in a war against the "reds" it is difficult to see how it can draw back one step.

FIGHTING AT MOSCOW

MORE THAN FIVE HUNDRED PERSONS KILLED OR WOUNDED DURING BATTLE.

Moscow, Dec. 25.—Artillery, rifle and revolver firing continued throughout the day, but the noise of the battle has now somewhat abated. The guns have been bombarding one barricade after another, the cannonade being followed by charges from the dragoons, who set fire to the debris. The area of the fighting during the day was more extended and included Trabnols square, Sadovia, Karetnaia and many other streets.

The revolutionaries apparently have not in the least lost heart, notwithstanding Saturday's heavy casualties. It is now known that 500 is a moderate estimate of the losses and many more persons fell Sunday.

The revolutionaries had few successes. They surprised a force of gendarmes in Karetnaia street Sunday, killing or wounding twenty of them. Since then artillery has been firing uninterruptedly in that section of the city.

In many cases dragoons fired into private houses where they suspected revolutionaries had taken refuge.

In nearly every district large numbers of innocent persons were accidentally killed or wounded.

Late Sunday afternoon it was reported that firing was proceeding in the outskirts of the city and that there were heavy losses on both sides.

During the day bombs were thrown in the streets.

LIBERAL POLICY OUTLINED.

British Premier Opposed to Coolie Labor in South Africa.

London, Dec. 22.—The announcement of Premier Campbell-Bannerman in his speech in Albert hall at the opening of the electoral campaign that the government has given instructions for the stoppage of importations of Chinese coolies to South Africa caused the Kaffir market to open weak. The Conservative papers refer to the step as being "the most serious taken by a responsible government since the attempt to impose the stamp duty on the American colonies."

The premier's reference to Indian affairs, in which he said, "We shall make ourselves a party to no step involving an invasion of the sacred principle of the subordination of the military to civil authority," is taken by many military men to imply either the recall or the resignation of General Lord Kitchener, the commander-in-chief in India, who successfully appealed to the late government in his disputes with the late viceroy, Lord Curzon of Kedleston.

While the premier had little to say on the Irish question the Conservatives will take his announcement that "those domestic affairs which concern the Irish people alone and not us should be in their hands" as a reiteration of the policy of home rule and this will be the battle cry of the Unionists in the impending campaign.

ATTORNEY CONVICTED

ABRAHAM H. HUMMEL IS FOUND GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY IN DIVORCE CASE.

New York, Dec. 21.—Abraham H. Hummel, the lawyer, during the day was convicted of conspiracy in connection with the Dodge-Morse divorce case. He was sentenced within a few minutes after the jury's verdict had been pronounced to one year's imprisonment and a fine of $500, which is the maximum penalty for the misdemeanor of which he was adjudged guilty. A motion of his lawyers for an arrest of judgment for twenty-four hours was denied and Hummel was taken to the Tombs preparatory to going to the penitentiary. He prepared to spend the night at the Tombs, but was released from the Tombs at 10 o'clock at night under $10,000 bail on a writ of reasonable doubt secured from Judge Woodward of the supreme court in Brooklyn.

FITZSIMMONS BEATEN.

Loses in Fight With Philadelphia Jack O'Brien.

San Francisco, Dec. 21.—Robert Fitzsimmons collapsed at the close of the thirteenth round of his fight with Jack O'Brien. He had fought hard, but nature could not longer stand the strain and after the gong had sounded for the close of the thirteenth round, he walked to his corner and sat in his chair. Then his head fell over on his breast, his whole body collapsed and the fighting wonder of the age was "all in." Referee Graney saw his condition and awarded the fight to O'Brien. While punched in the face and badly cut up and several times in jeopardy, Fitzsimmons always managed to come to and resume the fight. Just at the close of the thirteenth round he landed a left on O'Brien's stomach, but the Philadelphian came back with a similar blow and followed it with a left to the jaw. The gong rang for the close of the round and Fitzsimmons walked to his corner and collapsed.

MINISTER TO NORWAY.

Assistant Secretary Peirce First American Representative.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Herbert H. D. Peirce, third assistant secretary of state, has been selected by the president as the first American minister to Norway.

Charles Denby, chief clerk of the department, has been determined upon as successor to Mr. Peirce in the state department. This announcement was made officially at the department.

Official announcement was made that David Thompson, former minister to Brazil, has been chosen as ambassador to Mexico.

CAUSES WILD ALARM.

Destructive Fire in Crowded Tenement District of New York City.

New York, Dec. 26.—Hundreds of tenement house babies and their toy laden Christmas trees were carried into the street before daylight during a fire which threatened to obliterate several blocks of the city in the vicinity of Fifty-eighth street and Eleventh avenue. A six-story factory building was completely destroyed with a loss of $100,000.

The fire caused a panic among the residents of the crowded tenements, but nobody was hurt.

THREE PERSONS KILLED.

Their Carriage Struck and Demolished by an Engine.

Alma, Kan., Dec. 25.—Chris Anderson, his son Morton and his mother-in-law, Mrs. L. J. Woodward of Altavista, Kan., were killed here during the day while crossing the railway tracks, their carriage being struck and demolished by an engine.

Prominent Attorney Killed.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 26.—As the result of the promiscuous firing of their revolvers by a party of negroes noisily celebrating Christmas, Frank Poston, one of the most prominent attorneys of this city, was shot and killed.

HELD VOID BY COURT

BROOKLYN JUDGE KNOCKS OUT NEW ASSESSMENTS OF THE ROYAL ARCANUM.

Denies Right of the Supreme Council to Increase the Rates or in Any Way Change the Assessments of a Member From What They Were When the Member Was Admitted Into the Order.

New York, Dec. 23.—Justice Gaynor, in the supreme court in Brooklyn, handed down a decision in the case of James L. Mock, formerly secretary of Berkeley council 1954, Royal Arcanum of Brooklyn, and others against the supreme council of the order, denying the right of the supreme council to raise the rates or in any way change the assessments of a member from what they were when the member was admitted into the order. Justice Gaynor said:

"The amendments complained of in the assessments are void for the reason that they cannot change the contracts of the members of the organization."

The hearing in this action took two days and among the witnesses were William O. Robson, secretary of the supreme council. Mr. Robson said that the Royal Arcanum had now in force about $575,000,000 in insurance certificates and that under the law of Massachusetts the order had the right to increase the assessment or raise the rates under proper procedure.

ATTACKS ROOSEVELT

EX-GOVERNOR ODELL OF NEW YORK BITTERLY ASSAILS CHIEF EXECUTIVE.

New York, Dec. 21.—Former Governor B. B. Odell, chairman of the Republican state committee, made a statement during the day in which he charged President Roosevelt and Governor Higgins with a deliberate attempt to wreck the Republican party of this state for their own personal ambitions. He declared that if disaster ensued they, not he, will be responsible.

DUE TO JAP VICTORY.

Long Struggle for Open Door in Manchuria Terminates Successfully.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Important details of the treaty between China and Japan, signed at Peking during the day, have reached the state department by cable. China consents to lease to Japan the Liaotung peninsula, at the southern extremity of which is Port Arthur and Dalny. This territory formerly was held by Russia under lease from China. China concedes to Japan the control of the railway on the peninsula northward as far as Changchin. This is one of the spurs which connects with the Russian Siberian railway system and the point named probably will mark the division between Russian and Japanese control.

Most important of all of the provisions of the treaty is an article whereby China agrees to open to the world's commerce and trade sixteen principal ports and cities in Manchuria, including Harbin, the modern Russian capital of the province and its most important railroad center, thus marking, in the opinion of the state department officials, the final success of the long struggle by the United States for the open door.

BEEF TRUST TRIAL.

Jury Selected and Special Plea Will Be Determined Jan. 9.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—The twenty-one persons and corporations indicted on charges of conspiracy in restraint of trade in the meat business will go to trial Jan. 9, 1906, on their ten special pleas for immunity.

The jury, which was finally accepted after eighty-one veniremen had been questioned, consists of five farmers, three real estate dealers, two carpenters, one stock raiser and one printer.

The verdict of this jury will decide only whether the packers are to be tried later on the main charges in the case or go free altogether on their claim that they are entitled to immunity from prosecution if, as they assert, they furnished evidence against themselves during the Garfield investigation and which evidence, it is declared by the defendants, was used against them to bring the indictments.

MATTERS AGAIN COMPLICATED.

Castro Refuses to Deal With French Charge at Caracas.

Paris, Dec. 23.—The officials here say that President Castro's failure to resume diplomatic relations with M. Taigny, the French charge at Caracas, may complicate matters and postpone a settlement of the question in dispute. France asked for the withdrawal of Venezuela's offensive note declining to deal with M. Taigny. Therefore the withdrawal of the note and the continued declination to deal with M. Taigny are considered as renewing the old controversy. The officials say M. Taigny will not be withdrawn.

BATTLE IN RAILWAY COACH.

Two Men Killed and a Third Mortally Wounded.

Mount Carmel, Ill., Dec. 23.—Two men were killed and a third was probably fatally injured on the Southern Railway when two men in custody for larceny tried to escape by killing a constable.

When the smoke had cleared away Constable James Kingston and Isaac Marshall, one of the prisoners, were dead, and Edward Marshall, the other prisoner, was probably fatally wounded.

The Marshall brothers were arrested at Sims, Ill., on a charge of stealing chickens. They were taken to Wayne City for a preliminary hearing and were held for trial. Constable Kingston started for Fairfield with the prisoners.

The men in the smoking car were thrown into excitement when one of the Marshall brothers drew a revolver and shot Constable Kingston dead.

Several men in the car drew revolvers and attacked the prisoners. When both the prisoners had fallen to the floor the fight ceased.

Edward Marshall was taken to Fairfield and placed in jail with a strong guard to prevent a possible lynching.

SHOT BY HIGHWAYMEN.

Minneapolis Saloonman Brutally Murdered and Robbed.

Minneapolis, Dec. 25.—Charles O. Bader, proprietor of the Falls hotel, was brutally murdered by two men who entered his hotel with the purpose of robbing it. They have not yet been captured.

Mr. Bader and four other men were in the barroom when the two robbers entered. The men had blue handkerchiefs tied over their faces so that nothing but their eyes and foreheads were visible. Bader was shot without a moment's hesitation and the others were lined up until the booty was secured.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly, Thursday evening, and entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

With its usual spirit of doing something out of the ordinary, Sam Clarke's Thief River Press came to hand last week with a pretty colored cover, containing a wish for a Merry Xmas and three pages of holiday advertising. The Press is always in the running.

The Bemidji Pioneer has been sold to Albert Kaiser, of Bagley, for $17,500 who will take charge immediately. An experienced newspaper man from the Twin cities will have charge of the business end of the sheet under the new management. R. W. Hitchcock, the retiring editor, is one of the best newspaper hustlers in the north country and while his plans for the future are not announced it is to be hoped that he will again enter the field in this part of the state.

The Hendrun Review finds another prominent Minnesotaian eligible for the governorship, and says: "Before the newspapers of northern Minnesota get through "mentioning" eligibles fnr the governorship they should start a boom for Judge Grindeland. Perhaps he may be the one so much talked of "who will cume out when the proper time arrives—someone not yet mentioned, etc." Anyway, he is a good runner, politically, has the qualifications for a first-class governor and was not prominently identified with either the Dunn or Collins factions."

The press of Northern Minnesota is speaking in no uncertain tones against the maintaining of a lobby in the interests of drainage at Washington. Congressman Steenerson and Senator Clapp are pledged to do their utmost in behalf of the movement, and the establishment of a lobby would be a reflection on their ability or disposition to do good work in the matter says the Middle River Pioneer. The lobby method savors to much of the big insurance, packing and railroad companies, and is not approved by the people at large. Let us keep up an incessant campaign in behalf of drainage, but set down hard on the lobby proposition.

The drainage convention to be held in Grand Forks Jan. 10 and 11 promises to be a greater success than at first anticipated but the complete program cannot yet be announced. However, it is daily growing more interesting, as many prominent men have announced their intention to be present. The division of irrigation and drainage, department of agriculture, will assist. James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway, has written that be expects to be present, and as be is one of the pioneer advocates of drainage, will bave many interesting things to say. Hon. J. L. Cashel will give the results of his investigation from an economical standpoint. A. L. Fellows, state engineer for North Dakota, and Geo. A. Ralph, engineer Minnesota state drainage commission, will also be present and many other men prominent in this work, whose names will be announced later.

RECORD HARD TO BEAT.

The Crookston Times recently stated that the conditions in the Red River Valley were satisfactory frum the standpoint of the farmer. Everyone is aware of the fact that there were portions of the valley that suffered during the past year from excessive rains when the grain was ready for the harvest. The average farmer of the Red River Valley however is "getting along" and is in a position to weather adverse conditions. This statement is made advisedly and there are facts that cannot be disputed to back it up. One prominent concern in Crookston, which pays considerable attention to farm loans, this year had $1,000,000 in round figures invested in that class of securities. The interest payments fell due from Oct. 1st to Nov. 1st and on the last named date there was but $2000 delinquent. In other words out of about $80,000 due in interest every dollar had been paid promptly on time with the exception of $2000. If the United States were searcbed from ocean to ocean end from the Gulf of Mexico to tbe Canadian boundary, and just as much farther into King Edward's domain as the searcber desired to go, it would be a safe wager that a better record could not be found, and it is very doubtful if a record as good could be discovered. In scores of instances the grain did not pay tbe interest, as it was not harvested, but tbe cows and the cbickens and the pigs did pay it. This is about as good evidence as could be furnisbed that the farmers are headed in the right direction. It is also proof of the fact that no section of the country bas greater recuperative powers than this same Red River Valley of the North. If there ere any better records trot tbem out, end tbe contest is open to the world.

"Bad Bill" Ittner Lauded By Collier's Weekly.

E. C. Patterson, Collier's football expert, makes his selections for the all-western foot-ball eleven in the last issne of that magazine, and "Bad Bill" Ittner of this city finds a place on his team.

Mr. Patterson is one of the greatest foot ball experts in the country and saw all the big games of both the east and west, and his selection of Ittner is gratifying to the friends of this popular young Red Lake Falls boy.

The guard position gave Mr. Patterson his greatest difficulty, as he was perplexed in deciding who should have the credit of being paired with Schultz of Michigan. Evidently the wolverine was, in Mr. Patterson's opinion, the superior of any other western guard, as the man selected to fill the other guard position was Tackle Ittner of Minnesota.

With Curtis of Michigan and Bertke of Wisconsin overshadowing all the other tackles. Ittner was crowded ont of that position, bnt in the writer's judgment was too great a player to be left off any eleven named as the premier aggregation that could be picked from western gridirons. As regards the choice of another guard, Mr. Patterson says:

"The choice of gnard position is extremely difficult. Shulte of Michigan and Ittner of Minnesota are selected. Ittner has played tackle positions for Minnesota; he is not as strong as Bertke or Curtis, but he is a player of too big caliber to be left off any selection, and is therefore switched from tackle to guard on account of his natnral ability and speed as a defensive player and his remarkable work in offensive play. He weighed 216 pounds and has been one of Minnesota's mainstays as a line-plnnger and gronndgainer."

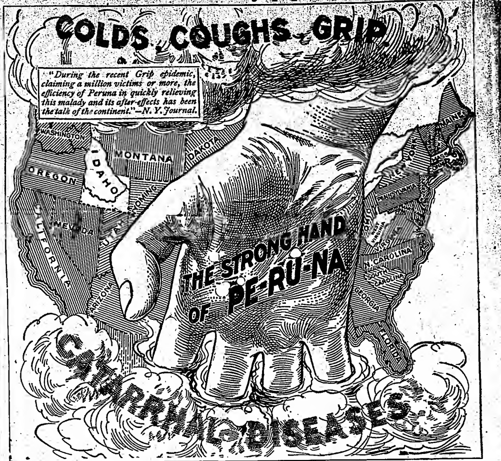
The Hand That Wards Off Coughs, Colds, Grip And Restores Nervous, Dyspeptic Catarrh Wrecks.



"During the recent Grip epidemic, claiming a million victims or more, the efficiency of Peruna in quickly relieving this malady and its after-effects has been the talk of the continent."—N. Y. Journal.

LIKE A DEMON grip has crossed our country, leaving behind scores of physical wrecks.

Victims of catarrh of the head, catarrh of the throat, catarrh of the lungs, catarrh of the stomach, catarrh of the kidneys, catarrh of the pelvic organs, are to be counted by hundreds of thousands.

Grip is epidemic catarrh, and sows the seed of chronic catarrh within the system.

This is so true that few grip sufferers are able to make a complete recovery until they have used Peruna.

Never in the history of medicine has a remedy received such unqualified and universal eulogies as Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Cured of Obstinate La Grippe.

Henry Distin, the inventor and maker of band instruments for the Henry Distin Mfg. Co., at Williamsport, Pa., is probably the most active old man in Philadelphia to-day. He writes from 1441 S. 9th street, Philadelphia, Pa.:

"I write to inform you that I had a bad attack of la grippe last December which lasted more than three months, and which left me with catarrh, and several of my friends advised me to try your wonderful medicine, Peruna.

"I began with a bottle the first week in March and it certainly did me a great deal of good.

"I was so well satisfied that I purchased another bottle, and followed your directions which you furnish with every bottle, and I am glad to say that it has cured me. I shall certainly recommend the Peruna to all my friends."—Henry Distin.

Congressman Powers of Vermont Uses Pe-ru-na in His Family.

Hon. H. Henry Powers, writes from Morrisville, Vt.:

"Peruna I have used in my family with success. I can recommend it as an excellent family remedy, and very good for coughs, colds and catarrhal affections."—H. Henry Powers.

Pe-ru-na For Catarrhal Nervousness and Stomach Troubles.

Hon. W. J. Purman, ex-member of Congress from Florida, writes from 1422 Q street, N. W., Washington, D. C.:

"From representations to me, and from my own experience, I feel justified in recommending your Peruna to any and all persons suffering with catarrhal nervousness or stomach troubles."—W. J. Purman.

L. C. Simons and family went down to Granite Falls last Thursday evening for a holiday visit with Mrs. Simons' parents. The Judge went from there to the Twin cities and Glencoe for a brief visit, arriving home this morning.

The home of Ed. L. Healy in this city was quarantined last Friday for scarlet fever, Leland, the second son, having a mild attack of the disease. He is now up and around, however, and the quarantine will likely be raised within a few days.

Announcement is made here of the approaching marriage of Miss Nellie Curran to Mr. James Wilson, both of Thief River Falls, which will occur January 6. Miss Curran is well known here and will receive the congratulations of a host of friends.

Grand Rapids Independent: Miss Bertha LaFreniere, teacher of Wabana school, arrived in the city yesterday. Miss LaFreniere, in company with Mrs. A. L. LaFreniere, left this morning for Red Lake Falls on a visit to friends and relatives.

"Bad Bill" Ittner, the famous left tackle of the Minnesota 'varsity eleven arrived home last Saturday to spend his Christmas vacation with his mother and many Red Lake Falls friends. Billy looks fine and says that he is enjoying his work at Minnesota's greatest institution of learning.

Miss Dollie Matthies is reported as being quite sick at her home in this city, She returned last Saturday from North Dakota, where she has been teaching school, and was taken sick shortly after arrival home. The young lady's many friends will trust that she may shortly regain her accustomed health.

School closed Friday afternoon for the two week's holiday vacation and the teachers of the various grades left Saturday for their homes to spend their play spell. Miss Hanson went to Fertile, Miss Allen to St. Paul, Miss Norby and Miss Trudo to Detroit, Miss Foote to East Grand Forks and Miss Coughlin to St. Cloud.

The adjusting agents for the Traders' and St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance companies were here last week to adjust the Martel fire loss. From the fact that no administrator had yet been appointed for the estate nothing was done, and Local Agent Duffy will settle the matter with the administrator as soon as he is appointed.

A. G. Groshong went down to Crookston last evening to again enter the hospital and receive treatment for his injured arm. Mr. Groshong had been getting along fine until the first part of the week when the sore arm began to swell and pain him terribly and he decided that it was best to go to the hospital and remain until permanently cured.

Nels Benoit came over from Grand Forks Saturday evening and will spend the balance of the winter with the home folks here. Nels has just been released from a five weeks' hospital siege, having been operated on for appendicitis, and the confinement has left him so weak that he will not be able to take up his work again this winter.

Crookston Times: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Theillon, of Drayton, North Dakota, who have been the guests of Mrs. Theillon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Martin during the past few days, departed this morning for Red Lake Falls. They will enjoy a pleasant stay there as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. LaBissoniere and will later in the week return to their home.

The Red Lake Falls people will join in hoping that their visit may far exceed all anticipation for pleasure.

The famous "Gold Seal" flour made by our mill does not need much advertising, as its excellent quality is the best kind of advertisement. No better flour can be had at any price and a trial sack will convince you that you haven't used the best until you used "Gold Seal." Ask your grocer and if he hasn't got it, 'phone the Northern Minnesota Milling company, and we will see that it is delivered promptly. Also all kinds of mill feed always on hand.

Joseph Morin, formerly a resident of Red Lake Falls, but now of Culbertson, Montana, has spent the past week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Morin, and many friends in this city. Joe left here some five years ago and located in Montana, where he now owns a large ranch and has enjoyed a full measure of prosperity. This is his first visit here since he left, and he says that many splendid improvements are noticeable in the old town. He expects to leave next week for his home in Montana.

Master Alfonso Veigel entertained a party of twenty-two little friends at his home last Friday, in honor of his birthday. The following were present: Donald Marshall, Edward Hunt, Lester Garceau, Gustav Zaiser, Louis Kaufer, Geo. Gibeau, Leo Kaufer, Frank Helm, Erin LaBissoniere, Audrey Reichert, Marie O'Brien, Cecile O'Brien, Lottie Zaiser, Vera Zeh, Marie Kaus, Myrtle Zaiser, Irene Schusser, Alberta Groshong, Marie Garceau. Harry B. Healy met with quite a serious accident while out coasting on his skis Christmas day and as a result has been confined to his bed all week. He coasted down a long hill and at the bottom encountered an abrupt bank, with the result that he was thrown heavily to the ground, striking on his hip and injuring his back quite badly. He was brought up town in a sled, and an examination by Dr. Watson showed that no bones were broken, although his back and side were badly wrenched. He is resting easily and with no complications arising will be able to get out within a few days.

The death of J. M. Gove, a well-known travelling man of St. Cloud at Bottineau last week has disclosed the fact that he was a bigamist and the scandal has caused a sensation. Wife No. 2, with whom he has been living at St. Cloud, never knew she had been deceived until the news was broken to her today. On examining effects it was found that Gove had a wife at Rochell, Ill. She was communicated with and claimed the body. It then became necessary to notify wife No. 2. She produced a marriage certificate, but there appears to be no doubt that Gove had not been divorced from his first wife, though he had not lived with her for some time.

The venerable Joseph Ducharme of Badger was a caller at The Gazette office last week, and during the course of conversation said that there had been considerable discussion of late as to who was the oldest settler in this part of Red Lake county, and that he was entitled to the distinction of being the oldest settler that located a claim here and stayed right on it ever since, Mr. Ducharme took a claim near Badger creek twenty-eight years ago and has lived there constantly since that time, improving the place until it is now one of the handsomest in Red Lake county. He says that others were here before him, but that none of them stayed, so that his claim to being the oldest settler is backed by facts.

DIFFICULT TO GRADE

THE MULE IS A DIFFICULT PRODUCT TO CLASSIFY.

Missouri Stock Dealer Gives Some Points of Interest Regarding the Hybrid Output.

Kansas City, Mo.—"The classification of Missouri's great product, the mule, is the hardest of all live stock," says John Grant, of the firm of Walcott, Beers & Grant, at the stock yards.

"To most people the animal is simply a mule, with a strong inclination to emphasize his presence with a kick. To most buyers he is a good or bad, large or small, smooth or rough, will probably bring a certain price on the market or will not be wanted at all. While among dealers who supply the different demands he is classified according to weight, bone, size, color, age, mouth, teeth, broken or unbroken, length and breadth, and also in regard to the locality of the buyer.

"In the first place, green, unbroken mules are never wanted. Once in awhile we receive a few and generally have to sell them at a sacrifice. The principal classes of mules known to the market are: Cotton mules, lumber mules, railroad mules, sugar mules, farm mules, levee mules, city mules and miners. Miners are classed as surface and pit mules.

"Cotton mules are the commonest kind in regard to numbers. They range from 13 to 16 hands, and from 4 to 7 years old are the best ages. Their build makes little difference so long as they are smooth. In price they range from $50 to $165. Lumber mules are the largest, heavy boned, rugged grades, 15.3 to 16.2 hands or better. They are used in the big lumber camps for logging, and must have the weight for good heavy pulling. In price this class ranges up to $250.

"Similar to the lumber mule is the railroader. Some lighter, but on the good heavy order, and from $15 to $20 cheaper. They are used in grading, hauling and all the work that is known in the construction of railroads. Sugar mules belong to the fancy class. They must be smooth, built rangy, small head and neck, small bones. In height from 15 to 16 hands, and in price from $165 to $210. Farm mules vary in size, but are formed from the rejected ones of the foregoing classes. Their prices range $10 to $25 lower.

"The miners are the hardest class to supply. They must be either dark bay or black in color. White and sorrel mules are never used. When the mines have long shafts, in the Pennsylvania coal regions especially, they say a white mule resembles a ghost and frightens the other mules beyond control. The pitters must be long in body, heavy boned and have good weight. They range from 12 to 15.2 hands and bring from $135 to $200, while for any other trade they would bring $50 less. Surface mules are used on the long hauls on top of ground. They are heavy, but taller, and have not such large bones.

"Levee mules, as the word implies, are used near steamboats and docks for the heavy work. They are generally single workers and must be of the rugged class. Their looks matter little so long as they are sound and fit for hard work. A city mule includes the small, light grades, such as you see on delivery and transfer wagons. The high prices in the last year have reduced the number greatly.

"The government buys all classes of mules, but that is done according to contract and prices hold a wide range. They never buy a low-priced animal and they are rigid in their examinations."

ALL ONE PIECE OF WOOD.

Remarkable Feature of the Washington Exhibit at the Portland Exposition.

Portland, Ore.—A cross section cut from a fir tree 13 feet in diameter forms the floor of an office of tree furniture which has attracted a great deal of attention in the Washington state building at the Lewis and Clark exposition. The big tree from which the 13-foot section was cut grew in Snohomish county, Washington.

The cross section is about a foot thick, with the upper surface polished, so that it makes an excellent floor. On it are several other cross sections of smaller trees, which do service as chairs. They are of cedar. Some of the stumps thus utilized are cut off and polished to form stools, while others have been so carved as to make a comfortable chair with a back.

The oddest feature of this exhibit is a typewriter desk made of a single fir log standing on end. The log forms a cylinder about four feet high and three feet thick, with a polished top. One side has been cut away underneath, so that there is plenty of room for the stenographer's knees.

In another part of the Snohomish section a log six feet in diameter has been used to make a seat. The log has been carved so that a post a foot in diameter is left in the center to form a back, and the effect is similar to that produced when a seat is built around a tree.

Club of Deaf Persons.

One of the most curious clubs on record has recently been formed by society ladies in Berlin. The principal condition for membership is that the applicant must be deaf. The club has over 100 members, who meet regularly once a week in handsomely furnished rooms in the Wilhelm Strasse, where they converse by means of ear trumpets and the sign language and drink tea.

MY TEXAS.

Oh, if ever in your travels it is your good luck to go
Where midwinter blasts are tempered into winds that softly blow,
And the mocking bird is singing, swinging high and swinging low,
That's the land I'm always loving, lov-
ing so!

Where each fresh recurring season brings new blossoms in its train,
Where the sunshine is like nectar and
there's glory in the rain,
Where pink roses shed their petals while the bushes bloom again,
That's the land I'm always loving, lov-
ing so!

Where blue violets are hiding 'neath the leaves the year around,
And each prospect is like music and the air is sweet with sound,
And forgetmenots are snuggling, wee blue stars against the ground,
That's the land I'm always loving, lov-
ing so!

Oh, you cannot help but know it! Its each voice will bid you stay!
You will know it by the sweetness of its every night and day!
You will know it by its memory when you have gone away!
That's the land I'm always loving, lov-
ing so!

On Their Honeymoon

Funny Things Seen by a Capitol Guide

NEVER noticed such a big lot of doves as there are around here this year," was the observation of a capitol guide the other day.

"Doves?" inquired the man to whom the remark was made, involuntarily gazing up into the cornices to see if any of the white birds were visible.

"Yes, doves," repeated the guide. "Cooers, hand-claspers, ear-whisperers, eye-searchers, dark-corner hunters."

"Oh, you mean newly married people."

"Well, what did you think I meant?" said the guide. "I haven't seen anything like so many of them in all the 20 years I've been prowling around this building.

"I took a finely feathered pair of them around the building the other day. They were New York people, too, and you'd naturally have thought that living in that cold-blooded town would have put enough frappe in them to enable them to be chilly and haughty and self-contained when in the sight and hearing of a whole lot of other folks.

"But they weren't chilly and haughty with each other by the whole size of these grounds. They didn't mind the Little Brighteyes me, either. You'd have thought that I was the star pupil in a deaf, dumb and blind asylum if you had been around and seen and heard them. It was the most touching and tender case of love's middle-aged dream that ever I came into contact with.

"'Lucille, dream of my life,' said he, 'if you persist in standing in that cruel draft your little boy will go stark, staring mad! Of what possible value would your poor little bubbsy wubbsy's life be to him if his 'ittle-bittle Lucille were to get pneumonia and be carried away up to the stars by the whitest angel that ever,' and so on—you can fill out the rest yourself, but that was the general line of escaping steam that the old boy let out.

"'Never 'oo mind, Oodzy-Woohzy,' she replied. 'Baby's not going to 'eave ner teeny-weeny Bubbsy-boy,' and so on, until, say, I'd have given $98 to 've been alone in the woods for about a minute, so that I could bust loose and howl like a wild man of Borneo.

"They're not all cooers, though. I showed the scrappiest young couple around the other day that I ever nudged alongside of. There wasn't a coo in either of them, and yet I could tell by their make-up that they hadn't been married more than three days. You know the way they're rigged: Man with fearfully brand-new suit, hat, shoes, gloves and cane, and that wriggly, uncomfortable look that some fellows wear when all of their togs are right off the hook; and the girl, too, with everything new, from hat to spats, and looking as if she'd appreciate about ten minutes of a house-wrapper and slippers a whole lot.

"Well, this pair certainly carried the brittle chip on their shoulders. They seemed to be just a-hunting trouble with each other, and I came near spraining my neck looking dreamily up into the air while their scraps were in progress.

"It looked to me as if they'd got married on a bet or to get even with each other for something.

"'Let's go up to the dome,' suggested the girl.

"'Not much,' said the man. 'I'm too strong.'

"'Well, I'll go up alone, then,' said she, batting her eyes wickedly.

"'Not to-day you won't,' said he, with 'mean man' sticking out all over the way he said it.

"'Oh, I don't know,' said the girl, dreamily. 'Not that I haven't been up before a few times.'

"'Oh, you have, have you?' chopped the man. 'You never told me that, did you? Who with, I'd like to know?'

"'You don't know, do you?' said she, with one of those slow smiles some women use to work a man into state's prison with.

"Well, then they had it out some more, I'm a-telling you. I went off into a corner and pretended to be watching a spider weaving a web while the battle was on. Then I heard a gurgle or two and it was all right—for a while.

"About three minutes later I started them for the sub-basement to show them the machinery. The man made a little stumble on the dark steps, and he said 'd—!'

"'Do you know whom you are with, pray?' inquired the girl, stopping stock still.

"'Er—unfortunately, yes,' he replied, and I began to hunt around for another spider to take an interest in for a spell.

"'Oh, well, come along,' said the bride, after a pause. 'It is impossible for me not to reflect, however, that the last time I was here I was not compelled to listen to such language from—'

"'Look a-here,' broke in the groom, 'I want to know, and I want to know right now, who the confounded, blithering, Miss-Nancy idiot was that you traipsed around here with,' and so on, and I was reduced to the necessity of twirling the pedals of a bicycle that was tethered in the corridor for the five minutes or so that this mix-up lasted. I am wondering yet whether that pair hailed from a state where 'incompatibility of temperament' is a loophole for a breakaway in the high court of part-them-asunder.

"A few weeks ago I had a pair of British goo-gooers around who provided me with an exceedingly queer pain.

"They were making a tour of the world. I couldn't exactly figure how long they had been married, but they certainly were as affectionate a sketch team as ever I showed around. This sort of puzzled me, too, for I had always heard so much about the reserve of English people.

"But with these two it was 'Agnes, me own,' and 'Algernon, me love,' from cellar to garret.

"Of course I walked about ten feet ahead of them to let them have room, but all the same they gave me that empty feeling.

"But I didn't start to tell you how much they loved each other, but how they disliked the United States. Neither of them could tolerate this country at all, and they gave everything at the capitol the joyous ha-ha from the minute they set foot in it.

"Now, I stood this patiently for quite a long while, but all the time I could feel the Indiana-American creeping through my system like a mountain cascade.

"They looked at the pictures on the walls.

"'How stoopid,' they said in unison.

"They looked at statuary.

"'What a Brummagem lot!' said they in one voice.

"It was the same all over the building. The whole works, from one wing to the other, got the laugh from them, till the spirit of '76 began to rattle around in me so hard that I could just barely hang on to myself.

IN DARK CORNERS.

"Finally, I got them around to the picture of the battle of Lake Erie, over on the senate side.

"'What a frightful daub!' they exclaimed together. 'What is it supposed to represent, gee-ide?'

"Well, say, this made me too hot to handle.

"'That,' said I, 'is considered an admirable work of art. It is also regarded as an accurate representation of the battle of Lake Erie. That battle, as you will of course recall, took place between the American and British fleets during the war of 1812 between Great Britain and the United States. And if any fleet on salt or fresh water was ever ker-soaked, smothered, jolted, hammered, torn in two, ripped up the back, hamstrung, keel-hauled, butchered to make a Roman holiday, and knocked into eighteen hundred and twelve different kinds of junk and kindling wood, it was the lime-juicer British fleet on that occasion, when Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry put it on and all over them!'

"Well, y'ought to 've seen their faces. I had never had a chance to twist the British lion's tail at such close range before, and under such justifiable circumstances, and just then it would have been all one to me had I been addressing the prince of Wales.

"'Fellow,' said the male Briton, indignantly, and he tossed me a two-bit piece. I let it lay where it fell, and walked off with a tip of the hat.

"I don't read the London Times, but I'll bet a can of tomatoes that that Britisher wrote to the London Times about the incident, and described the lack of proper subservience on the part of American gee-idee."—Washington Star.

AFRICAN HOSPITALITY.

Considered the Duty of Every Citizen to Entertain Strangers Without Compensation.

Hospitality may be considered as one of the characteristics of not only the Veis, but of the whole African race. It is considered the duty of every citizen to entertain strangers without the smallest compensation, writes the author of "Africa's Appeal to Christendom," in Century. Places of rest stand always open, and when these are found occupied by strangers, a man goes and tells his wife, who will send her servants with water for the strangers to wash their feet; for, as they wear no shoes, they naturally need such accommodation. Afterward rooms and cloth wrappers are given them, food is brought from all quarters, or they are invited to eat with the people. They continue to be so provided for, even if they stay months. Their garments are also washed and returned to them. On leaving, they generally make a small gift to the wife of the host, though not more than two or three cola nuts or two or three English pennies.

TOWN TO RUN PAPER

WEBSTER CITY, IOWA, TO PUBLISH A DAILY.

Fight Over Gas Franchise the Cause of the New Departure in Municipal Ownership—Alderman to Edit Sheet.

Webster City's (Ia.) penchant for municipal ownership is to take a new form—that of a city-owned daily newspaper. This departure in municipal enterprise probably has not a counterpart in the United States. The paper is to be known as the Daily Graphic-Herald, and will be issued from the present office of the Weekly Graphic-Herald, the only democratic paper in Hamilton county.

Webster City began her career as a municipal ownership city many years ago. She first acquired possession of her waterworks. Next came the electric light and power plant. Then came the city heating plant, and now this latest venture. With the single exception of her heating plant, all the municipal ventures of the city have proved to be paying investments, and have materially lowered taxes. The aim, however, always has been to furnish the product of a plant to the consumer as near cost as could be done, and leave a fair reserve margin.

The venture of the city into the field of journalism has been on the hottest kind of a red-hot gas campaign. M. E. Springer, representing the Practical Gas and Construction company, of Chicago, is asking that the people vote him a franchise to erect and maintain a gas plant in the city. Mr. Springer last year asked the same thing. He was beaten because a company of local capitalists banded together and offered the city $4,000 and a certain per cent. of the gross receipts of the plant for the franchise. The latter company received the franchise, although at the same time the citizens also expressed themselves as in favor of a municipal gas plant to compete with the private corporation. Mayor F. A. Edwards was a member of the private company, and the attorney general of the state declared the franchise to be illegal for the reason that no contract or franchise can be granted a city official under the Iowa statutes.

This decision having knocked out the local private company, Mr. Springer has returned to the city again to ask the citizens to vote him a franchise. There are now two dailies there, but neither is strenuous enough in its promulgation of the municipal ownership idea, so the council proposes to launch a strictly municipal ownership daily. Alderman J. D. Riete, of the First ward, the "father of the council," is slated to be the editor-in-chief, and will have several assistant editors in the person of other councilmen.

The decision of the council to launch a daily came as a general surprise, as no one there dreamed that the city would enter the journalistic field. The members of the council, however, evidently believe, that if they can run electric light and power works, heating plants and water plants, they can likewise run a daily newspaper.

BOY PLEADS OPHTHALMIA.

Nineteen-Year-Old Boy Seeks Divorce from His Bride—Over Three Times His Age.

Fred H. Brenner, of Cleveland, who was 19 when he married Marguerite Brenner, 62, has filed an amended divorce petition. In her answer and cross petition Mrs. Brenner alleged that her boy husband had deserted her, taking with him all her money.

In his latest pleading Brenner says: "During the years of his infancy he was not accorded the privilege of a college of matrimony, and unfortunately his tutelage in that branch of speculation under the parental roof was sadly neglected. And when defendant crossed his path he was an infant under the age of 21 years and susceptible to the follies of inexperienced youth, and when at said time she poured into his ears the impassioned protestations of love and affection, conned from the purchasable stereotyped stories of love that guarantee complete directions for success in the hymeneal art, he was stricken with opthalmia and Cupid's arrow had penetrated the seat of his affections."

After two weeks his eyes were opened and he left.

MUST BE BUILT STRONGER

Naval Inspectors Declare Speed of Torpedo Boats Will Be Sacrificed for Heavier Construction.

The result of the recent thorough examination of the naval torpedo-boats is unsatisfactory, only one of the little craft having a record of escaping breakdowns.

The faults developed pertain mostly to the machinery, and, while not serious, collectively they are understood to have influenced the naval inspection board to recommend a heavier inspection of machinery, even at the cost of a loss of speed.

The experts have decided that it is better to have a 25-knot boat which can be depended upon to make that speed at all times and in all weather than a 30-knot boat liable to breakdowns at any time, and so weak that she cannot keep the sea in bad weather.

Always Something Doing.

"Torrential rains" have succeeded the recent fierce blizzards in Manchuria. The Philadelphia Inquirer asks if such a country is worth fighting for.

GETS A CUP.

Cheesemaker Clement Wins More Laurels.

Cheesemaker H. Clement of the Terrebonne cheese factory has again found a place among the best cheesemakers of the state, and was recently awarded a cash prize and a loving cup for the second highest score in the state dairy and food department contest. Mr. Clement scored 96.10 points and the winner of the first place only scored 96.20, showing that Terrebonne's popular manufacturer is just as good as the best. The news of his success is always pleasing to the people of Red Lake county.

Thorkelson Has Gold Mine.

St. Hilaire Spectator: The Los Angeles Sunday Times of Dec. 17th which we have just received contains quite a lengthy account of the locating of a rich gold mine by J. E. Edwards and T. J. Thorkelson. The find was made in what is called the "Johnnie" district is a twelve foot vein, samples of which have assayed over four hundred dollars to the ton. The company is being organized to work the mine. The many friends of Mr. Thorkelson here will be glad to know of his good fortune.

ACCEPTS NEW SCHOOL.

School Board Holds Brief Business Meeting.

The school board held a brief business session Saturday evening, at which time the committee appointed to inspect the new school building reported favorably and the building was accepted by the board.

Architect Strassberger was over from Crookston that day and went over the building thoroughly reporting it as first-class in all respects, and the board cleaned up the matter by accepting it.

A few bills were allowed and some other matters attended to.

Too Many Crooks.

Thief River Ptess: It seems that some of the light-fingered brigade have struck Thief River Falls, or else there is an organized gang of thieves in our midst. They have not only broken into stores and box cars but have even entered rooms at different hotels and relieved the guests of their valuables. It is high time that this wholesale stealing is stopped. The town should be rid of all questionable characters who have no visible means of support. We understand that there are several questionable characters in town who are acting as advance agents for members of the demimonde, and the sooner our town is rid of such characters the safer our property will be.

New Forester Officers.

The Catholic Order of Foresters elected officers at their meeting last Friday evening, who will serve during 1906. The following gentlemen were chosen:

C. R.—W. A. Schreiter.
V. C. R.—J. Hance.
P. C. R.—A. P. Touplin.
R. S.—Joseph Fortier.
F. S.—J. P. Barren.
Treas.—Oliver Caron.
Trustees—T. A. Cronque, L. A. Kaufer and Eus Normandeau.

The Lady Forresters elected their officers for the new year at their meeting last Thursday evening as follows.

C. R.—Mrs. J. P. Barren.
V. C. R.—Mrs. Theo. Lallissouiere.
R. S.—Mrs. J. R. Fortier.
F. S.—Mrs. W. T. Spillane.
Treas.—Mrs. Ed. Bray.
Delegate to convention—Mrs. W. T. Spillane.

After the work was over the members spent an hour in social session and partook of impromptu refreshments. A most delightful evening was spent by all who attended.

Good Time at Social.

A basket social was held at the school house in District 88, northeast of town Tuesday evening of this week, which turned out to be one of the most enjoyable affairs in the history of that district. A large number of people was present and the bidding on the pretty baskets that carried with them fair partners for the evening was quite spirited. The handsome sum of $38.82 was netted as a result of the sale of baskets. Miss Bridgetta Connaughty, the teacher, and Directors Seiger, Gotheir and Starken are all receiving praise for the part they took in the success of the affair.

Bank Buys Bonds.

The Merchants' State Bank of this city last week negotiated for the purchase of the $17,000 issue of bonds floated by the township of Terrebonne and was given the issue at 5 per cent. The bank also took up a $450 issue of school bonds for Dist. 34 on the reservation. It speaks well for a community when the home financial institutions can float bonds without calling on outside capital, and both the town of Terrebonne and the bank are to be congratulated.

Notice of Election.

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the First State Bank of Red Lake Falls, Minn., for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year, will take place in its banking rooms on Tuesday, January 9th 1906, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer for worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.
